(c) If a bond is necessary under §§ 201.50 and 201.51, it must be furnished. Where an assignment does not create separate leases the assignee, if the assignment so provides and the surety consents, may become a joint principal on the bond with the assignor. Any assignment which does not convey the assignor's record title in all the lands in the lease must also be accompanied by consent of his surety to remain bound under the bond of record for the lease interest retained by said assignor. If any overriding royalty or payments out of production are created which are not shown in the instrument or agreement, a statement must be submitted describing them. If payments out of production are reserved, a statement should be submitted stating the details as to the amount, method of payment, and other pertinent terms. Assignments of record title interests must be filed in triplicate. A single copy of any additional information relating to citizenship and qualifications of corporations will be sufficient. A single executed copy of all other instruments of transfer or of an operating agreement is sufficient.

(d) In order for the heirs or devisees of a deceased holder of a lease, or any interest therein, to be recognized by the Department as the lawful successor to such lease or interest, evidence of their status as such heirs or devisees must be furnished in the form of a certified copy of an appropriate order or decree of the court having jurisdiction of the distribution of the estate or, if no court action is necessary, the statements of two disinterested parties having knowledge of the facts or a certified copy of the will, and, in all cases, the statements of the heirs or devisees that they are the persons named as successors to the estate with evidence of their qualifications as provided in § 201.22. In the event such heirs or devisees are unable to qualify to hold the lease or interest they will nevertheless be recognized as the lawful successors of the deceased for a period of not to exceed 2 years from the date of death of their predecessor in interest.

§ 201.62 Separate assignments required for transfer of record title to leases. A separate instrument of assignment must be filed for each lease when transfers involve record titles. When transfers to the same person, association, or corporation, involving more than one lease are filed at the same time for approval, one request for approval and one showing as to the qualifications of the assignee will be sufficient.

§ 201.63 Effect of assignment of particular tract. (a) When an assignment is made of all of the record title to a portion of the acreage in a lease, the assigned and retained portions become segregated into separate and distinct leases. The assignee becomes a lessee of the Government as to the segregated tract and is bound by the terms of the lease as though he had obtained the lease from the United States in his own name, and the assignment after its approval will be the basis of a new record.

(b) In the case of assignments of oil and gas leases, the segregated leases shall continue in full force and effect for the original 5-year term of the original lease but for not less than two years after the date of discovery of oil or gas in paying quantities upon any other segregated portion of the lands originally subject to such lease. Where an assignment is made of a part of an oil and gas lease which is in its extended term because of production, the segregated lease of any undeveloped lands shall continue in full force and effect for two years and so long thereafter as oil or gas is produced in paying quantities.

TERMINATION OF LEASES

§ 201.80 Relinquishment of leases or parts of leases. A lease or any officially platted subdivision thereof may be surrendered by the record title holder by filing a written relinquishment, in triplicate, with the Director's office. A relinquishment shall take effect on the date it is filed subject to the continued obligation of the lessee and his surety to make payment of all accrued rentals and royalties and to abandon all wells on the land to be relinquished to the satisfaction of the oil and gas supervisor.

§ 201.81 Cancellation of leases. Any nonproducing lease may be cancelled by the Secretary of the Interior whenever the lessee fails to comply with any provision of the act or lease or applicable regulations in force and effect on the date of the issuance of the lease, if such failure to comply continues for 30 days after mailing of notice by registered letter to the lease owner at his record post office address. Producing leases may be cancelled for such failure only by judicial proceedings in the manner prescribed in section 5 (b) (2) of the act. Any lease, whether producing or not, will be cancelled by the Secretary of the Interior upon proof that it was obtained by fraud or misrepresentation, and after notice and opportunity to be heard has been afforded to the lessee.

SUSPENSION OF OPERATIONS AND PRODUCTION; ROYALTY AND RENTAL RELIEF

§ 201.90 Suspension of operations and production; royalty and rental relief. (a) In addition to the provisions of section 12 (c) and (d) of the act, in the event that the Director of the Geological Survey in the interest of conservation directs the suspension of both operations and production with respect to any lease pursuant to the applicable provisions of the operating and conservation regulations for the outer Continental Shelf, no payment of rental or royalty will be required during the period of suspension; and the term of the lease will be extended by a period equivalent to the period of suspension. In the event that the Director of the Geological Survey assents, at the request of a lessee, to a suspension of both operations and production under a lease or directs or assents to a suspension of operations only or production only, the term of the lease will not be deemed to expire so long as the suspension remains in effect but the lessee will not be relieved of his obligation to pay rental, minimum royalty, or royalty, as the case may be, during the term of suspension. In the event a lessee holds a lease which contains only a well or wells capable of producing gas in paying quantities but which gas cannot be produced because of the lack of transportation facilities, the Director of the Geological Survey shall, upon application, grant producing relief subject to the conditions of this paragraph for a maximum period not to exceed five years commencing with the lease year beginning on or after the date of discovery. Any further suspension will be granted only pursuant to the other provisions of this paragraph.

(b) In order to increase the ultimate recovery of minerals and in the interest of conservation, the Director of the Geological Survey, whenever he determines it necessary to promote development or finds that a lease cannot be successfully operated under the terms provided therein, may reduce the rental, minimum royalty, or royalty on the entire leasehold, or on any deposit, tract, or portion thereof segregated for royalty purposes. An application for any of the above benefits shall be filed in triplicate with the Director of the Geological Survey. It must contain the serial number of the lease; the name of the record title holder; a description of the area included in the lease; the number, location, and status of each well that has been drilled; a tabulated statement for each month, covering a period of not less than six months prior to the date of filing the application, of the aggregate amount of minerals subject to royalty computed in accordance with the operating and conservation regulations for the outer Continental Shelf. Every application must also contain a detailed statement of expenses and costs of operating the entire lease and of the income from the sale of any leased products, and all facts tending to show whether the wells or workings can be successfully operated upon the rental or royalty fixed in the lease. Where the application is for a reduction of royalty, full information shall be furnished as to whether royalties or payments out of production are paid to others than the United States, the amounts so paid, and efforts made to reduce them. The applicant must also file agreements of the holders of the lease and of royalty holders to a permanent reduction of all other royalties from the leasehold to an aggregate not in excess of one-half the Government royalties.

MINERAL LEASES AFFECTED BY SECTION 6 OF OUTER CONTINENTAL SHELF LANDS ACT

§ 201.110 Effect of regulations on provisions of lease. (a) As contemplated by section 6 (b) of the act, the preceding regulations in this part so far as they are applicable and the following regulations will supersede the provisions of any lease which is determined to meet the requirements of section 6 (a) of the act, to the extent that they cover the same subject matter, with the following exceptions: The provisions of a lease with respect to the area covered by the lease, the minerals covered by the lease, the rentals payable under the lease, the royalties payable under the lease (subject to the provisions of sections 6 (a) (8) and 6 (a) (9) of the act), and the term of the lease (subject to the provisions of section 6 (a) (10) of the act and, as to sulphur, subject to the provisions of section 6 (b) (2) of the act) shall continue in effect and, in the event of any conflict or inconsistency, shall take precedence over those regulations.[3]

(b) A lease that meets the requirements of section 6 (a) of the act shall also be subject to the operating and conservation regulations applicable to the outer Continental Shelf,[3] as well as the regulations relating to geophysical and geological exploratory operations and to pipeline rights-of-way in the outer Continental Shelf, to the extent that those regulations are not contrary to or inconsistent with the provisions of the lease relating to the area covered, the minerals covered, the rentals payable, the royalties payable, and the term of the lease.

§ 201.111 Leases of other minerals. The existence of a lease that meets the requirements of section 6 (a) of the act will not preclude the issuance of other leases of the same area for deposits of other minerals: Provided, That no lease of minerals other than those covered by the lease shall authorize or permit the lessee thereunder unreasonably to interfere with or endanger operations under the existing lease: And provided further, That no sulphur leases will be granted by the United States on any area while such area is included in a lease covering sulphur under section 6 (b) of the act.

§ 201.112 Bonds. (a) Prior to February 7, 1954, or within such further period or periods as may be fixed from time to time by the Director, the lessee under a lease meeting the requirements of section 6 (a) of the act must furnish a bond as provided in § 201.50.

§ 201.113 Wells. (a) After due notice in writing, the lessee shall drill and produce such wells as the Secretary may reasonably require in order that the leased area or any part thereof may be properly and timely developed and produced in accordance with good operating practice.

(b) At the election of the lessee, the lessee may drill and produce other wells in conformity with any system of well spacing or production allotments affecting the area, field, or pool in which the leased area or any part thereof is situated, which is authorized or sanctioned by applicable law or by the Secretary.

§ 201.114 Contracts for disposal of products. The lessee under any oil and gas lease shall file with the oil and gas supervisor of the Geological Survey, not later than 30 days after the effective date thereof, any contract or evidence of other arrangement for the sale or disposal of lease products. Nothing in any such contract or other arrangements shall be construed as modifying any of the provisions of the lease or of the regulations applicable to the lease.

§ 201.115 Inspection. The lessee shall keep open at all reasonable times for the inspection of any duly authorized officer of the Department of the Interior, the leased area and all wells, improvements, machinery and fixtures thereon and all books, accounts, maps and records relative to operations and surveys or investigations on or with regard to the leased area or under the lease.

§ 201.116 Diligence; compliance with regulations and orders. The lessee shall exercise reasonable diligence in drilling and producing the wells herein provided for; shall carry on all operations in accordance with approved methods and practices as provided in the operating and conservation regulations for the outer Continental Shelf, having due regard for the prevention of waste of oil or gas or damage to deposits or formations containing oil, gas, or water or to coal measures or other mineral deposits, for conservation of gas energy, for the preservation and conservation of the property for future productive operations, and for the health and safety of workmen and employees; shall plug properly and effectively all wells drilled in accordance with the provisions of the lease before abandoning the same; shall remove all structures when no longer required for operations under the lease to sufficient depth beneath the surface of the waters to prevent them from being a hazard to navigation; and shall carry out at expense of the lessee all lawful and reasonable orders of the lessor relative to the matters in this section. On failure of the lessee so to do the lessor shall have the right to enter on the property and to accomplish the purpose of such orders at the lessee's cost: Provided, That the lessee shall not be held responsible for delays or casualties occasioned by causes beyond the lessee's control.

§ 201.117 Wages, freedom of purchase. The lessee shall accord all workmen and employees directly engaged in any of the operations under the lease complete freedom of purchase, and shall pay all wages due such workmen and employees at least twice each month in the lawful money of the United States.

§ 201.118 Nondiscrimination. The lessee shall not discriminate against any employee, or applicant for employment, because of race, creed, color, or national origin, and shall require an identical provision to be included in all sub-contracts relating to operations under his lease.

§ 201.119 Purchase of production. In time of war, or when the President of the United States shall so prescribe, the United States shall have the right of first refusal to purchase at the market price all or any portion of the oil or gas produced from the leased area, as provided in section 12 (b) of the act.

§ 201.120 Suspension of operations during war or national emergency. Upon recommendation of the Secretary of Defense, during a state of war or national emergency declared by the Congress or the President of the United States after August 7, 1953, the Secretary is authorized to suspend any or all operations under a lease, as provided in section 12 (c) of the act: Provided, That just compensation shall be paid by the United States to the lessee whose operations are thus suspended.

§ 201.121 Restriction of exploration and operations. The United States shall have the right, as provided in section 12 (d) of the act, to restrict from exploration and operations the leased area or any part thereof which may be designated by and through the Secretary of Defense, with the approval of the President of the United States, as, or as part of, an area of the outer Continental Shelf needed for national defense. So long as such designation remains in effect no exploration or operations may be conducted on the surface of the leased area or the part thereof included within the designation except with the concurrence of the Secretary of Defense. If operations or production under any lease within any such restricted area shall be suspended, any payments of rentals, minimum royalty, and royalty prescribed by such lease likewise shall be suspended during such period of suspension of operations and production, and the term of such lease shall be extended by adding thereto any such suspension period, and the United States shall be liable to the lessee for such compensation as is required to be paid under the Constitution of the United States.

§ 201.122 Geological and geophysical exploration; rights-of-way. The United States reserves the right to authorize the conduct of geological and geophysical exploration in the leased area which does not interfere with or endanger actual operations under the lease and the right to grant such easements or rights-of-way, upon, through, or in the leased area as may be necessary or appropriate to the working of other lands containing the deposits described in the act, and to the treatment and shipment of products thereof by or under authority of the Government, its lessees or permittees, and for other public purposes, subject to the provisions of section 5 (c) of the act where they are applicable and to all lawful and reasonable regulations and conditions prescribed by the Secretary thereunder.

§ 201.123 Leases of sulphur and other mineral. The United States reserves the right to grant sulphur leases and leases of any mineral other than oil, gas, and sulphur within the leased area or any part thereof, subject to the provisions of section 8 (c), 8 (d), and 8 (e) of the act and all lawful and reasonable regulations prescribed by the Secretary thereunder: Provided, That no such sulphur lease or lease of other mineral shall authorize or permit the lessee thereunder unreasonably to interfere with or endanger operations under the lease which is continued under section 6 of the act.

§ 201.124 Removal of property on termination of lease. Upon the expiration of any lease, or the earlier termination thereof as provided in the regulations in this part, the lessee shall within a period of one year thereafter remove from the premises, except as provided in § 201.14, all structures, machinery, equipment, tools, and materials other than improvements needed for producing wells and other property permitted by the lessor to be maintained.

§ 201.125 Remedies in case of default. (a) Whenever the lessee fails to comply with any of the provisions of the act or of the lease or of the lawful and reasonable regulations issued within 90 days after the Secretary of the Interior has determined that the lease meets the requirements of section 6 (a) of the act, the lease shall be subject to cancellation as follows:

(1) If, at the time of such default, no well is producing, or is capable of producing, oil or gas in paying quantities from the leased area, whether such well be drilled from a surface location within the leased area or be directionally drilled from a surface location on adjacent or adjoining lands the lease may be cancelled by the Secretary (subject to the right of judicial review as provided in section 8 (j) of the act) if such default continues for the period of 30 days after mailing of notice by registered letter to the lessee at the lessee's record post office address.

(2) If, at the time of such default, any well is producing, or is capable of producing, oil or gas in paying quantities from the leased area, whether such well be drilled from a surface location within the leased area or be directionally drilled from a surface location on adjacent or adjoining lands, the lease may be cancelled by an appropriate proceeding in any United States district court having jurisdiction under the provisions of section 4 (b) of the act if such default continues for the period of 30 days after mailing of notice by registered letter to the lessee at the lessee's record post office address.

(b) If any such default continues for the period of 30 days after mailing of notice by registered letter to the lessee at the lessee's record post office address, the lessor may then exercise any legal or equitable remedy which the lessor may have; however, the remedy of cancellation of the lease may be exercised only under the conditions and subject to the limitations set out in paragraph (a) of this section, or pursuant to section 8 (i) of the act.

(c) A waiver of any particular default shall not prevent the cancellation of the lease or the exercise of any other remedy the lessor may have by reason of any other cause or for the same cause occurring at any other time.

§ 201.126 Heirs and successors in interest. Each obligation under any lease and under these regulations in this part shall extend to and be binding upon, and every benefit thereunder shall inure to, the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, or assigns of the lessee.

APPEALS

§ 201.150 Appeals. Any person aggrieved by any action taken by the Director of the Bureau of Land Management or the Director of the Geological Survey under this part has the right of appeal to the Secretary of the Interior in accordance with the conditions and limitations provided in §§ 221.73–221.76 of this title.

MINERAL LEASES AFFECTED BY SECTION 6 OF THE OUTER CONTINENTAL SHELF LANDS ACT

250.100 Effect of regulations on provisions of lease.

AUTHORITY: §§ 250.1 to 250.100 issued under sections 5 and 6 (67 Stat. 464).

GENERAL PROVISIONS

§ 250.1 Purpose and authority. The Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act enacted on August 7, 1953 (67 Stat. 462), referred to in this part as "the act," authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to prescribe rules and regulations applicable to operations conducted under a lease issued or maintained under the provisions of the act, and for the prevention of waste, the conservation of natural resources of the outer Continental Shelf, and the protection of correlative rights therein. The regulations in this part shall be administered by the Director of the Geological Survey.

NOTE: Compliance with the regulations of this part does not obviate the necessity of compliance with requirements and regulations of the Department of the Army and the Coast Guard with respect to prevention of obstruction to navigation, lights, and warning devices, and other matters relating to safety of life and property, as authorized by section 4 of the act.

[3] Nothing herein should be construed to waive compliance with any provision of any State lease the subject matter of which is not covered in the regulations in this part, e. g., paragraph IV of the Louisiana Oil and Gas Lease Form, February 1942.

[4] See 30 CFR Part 250.

§ 250.2 Definitions. The following terms as used in the regulations in this part shall have the meanings here given:

(a) Secretary. The Secretary of the Interior.

(b) Director. The Director of the Geological Survey, Washington, D. C., having administrative direction of the enforcement of the regulations in this part.

(c) Supervisor. A representative of the Secretary, under administrative direction of the Director, authorized and empowered to regulate operations and to perform other duties prescribed in the regulations in this part, or any subordinate of such representative acting under his direction.

(d) Outer Continental Shelf. All submerged lands (1) which lie seaward and outside of the area of lands beneath navigable waters as defined in the Submerged Lands Act (67 Stat. 29) and (2) of which the subsoil and seabed appertain to the United States and are subject to its jurisdiction and control.

(e) Lease. The contract or agreement under which the leasehold rights are held by the lessee, or the land covered by the contract or agreement, whichever is required by the context.

(f) Lessee. The party authorized by a lease, or an approved assignment thereof, to develop and produce oil, gas, or sulphur on the leased lands in accordance with the regulations in this part, including all parties holding such authority by or through him.

(g) Operator. The individual, partnership, firm, or corporation having control or management of operations on the leased land or a portion thereof. The operator may be a lessee, designated agent of the lessee, or holder of rights under an approved operating agreement.

(h) Waste of oil and gas. Waste means and includes (1) physical waste as that term is generally understood in the oil and gas industry; (2) the inefficient, excessive, or improper use of, or the unnecessary dissipation of reservoir energy; (3) the locating, spacing, drilling, equipping, operating, or producing of any oil or gas well or wells in a manner which causes or tends to cause reduction in the quantity of oil or gas ultimately recoverable from a pool under prudent and proper operations or which causes or tends to cause unnecessary or excessive surface loss or destruction of oil or gas; (4) the inefficient storage of oil; and (5) the production of oil or gas in excess of transportation or marketing facilities or in excess of reasonable market demand.

(i) Directional drilling. The deviation of a bore hole from the vertical or from its normal course in an intended predetermined direction or course with respect to the points of the compass. Directional drilling shall not include deviations made for the purpose of straightening a hole that has become crooked in a normal course of drilling or deviating a hole at random without regard to compass direction in an attempt to sidetrack a portion of the hole on account of mechanical difficulty in drilling.

JURISDICTION AND FUNCTIONS OF SUPERVISOR

§ 250.10 Jurisdiction. Drilling and production operations, handling and measurement of production, determination and collection of rental and royalty, and, in general, all operations subject to the regulations in this part are under the jurisdiction of the supervisor for any district as delineated by the Director.

§ 250.11 General functions. The supervisor is authorized to act upon the request, applications, and notices made or given by an operator or lessee under the regulations in this part and to require compliance with lease terms, with the regulations in this part, and all other applicable regulations, and with applicable law to the end that all operations shall conform to sound conservation practice and shall be conducted in such manner as to protect the natural resources of the outer Continental Shelf and result in their maximum ultimate recovery. After appropriate hearings, the supervisor may establish field rules to govern the development and method of production of a pool, field, or area. The supervisor may require satisfactory evidence that a lease is in good standing, that the lessee or operator is authorized to conduct operations, and that an acceptable bond has been filed before permitting operations on the leased land.

§ 250.12 Supervision of operations. (a) The supervisor shall inspect and regulate operations under the regulations in this part and shall issue orders and rules necessary, in his judgment, to prevent damage, or waste of any natural resource, or injury to life or property.

(b) Emergency suspensions. The supervisor is authorized to require a lessee by written notice to suspend any operation or method of operation which endangers life or threatens immediate, serious, or irreparable damage to the leased deposits or other valuable mineral deposits.

§ 250.13 Temporary approvals. Whenever the regulations in this part require a lessee to obtain approval of the supervisor, the lessee may make an oral or telegraphic request for such approval, and the supervisor may give such oral or telegraphic approval as may be warranted: Provided, That the transaction shall forthwith be confirmed in the manner otherwise required by the regulations in this part.

§ 250.14 Samples, tests, and surveys. (a) When deemed necessary or advisable, the supervisor is authorized to require that adequate tests or surveys be made in an acceptable manner without cost to the lessor to determine the reservoir energy; the presence, quantity, and quality of oil, gas, sulphur, other mineral deposits, or water; the amount and direction of deviation of any well from the vertical; or the formation, casing, tubing, or other pressures.

(b) The supervisor may, at the time of approval of any notice to drill or redrill any well, stipulate reasonable requirements for the taking of formation samples or cores to determine the identity and character of any formation.

§ 250.15 Drilling and abandonment of wells. The supervisor shall demand drilling in accordance with the terms of the lease and of the regulations in this part; and shall require plugging and abandonment, in accordance with such plan as may be approved or prescribed by him, of any well no longer used or useful, and upon failure to secure compliance with such requirement, perform the work at the expense of the lessee, expending available public funds, and submit such report as may be needed to furnish a basis for appropriate action to obtain reimbursement.

§ 250.16 Well potentials and permissible flow. The supervisor is authorized to specify the time and method for determining the potential capacity of any well and to fix the percentage of such capacity or the permissible production of any such well that may be utilized when, in his opinion, such action is necessary to prevent waste or to conform with such proration rules, schedules, or procedures as may be established by the Secretary.

§ 250.17 Well-spacing and well-casing. The supervisor shall approve well locations and well-spacing and -casing programs determined to be necessary for the proper development of the lease, giving due consideration to the location of drilling platforms, the geological and reservoir characteristics of the field, and the number of wells that can be economically drilled.

§ 250.18 Rights of use and easement. (a) In addition to the rights and privileges granted to a lessee under any lease issued or maintained under the act, the supervisor may grant such lessee, subject to such reasonable conditions as said supervisor may prescribe, the right of use or an easement to construct and maintain platforms, fixed structures, and artificial islands, and to use the same for carrying on operations, including drilling, directional drilling, producng, treating, handling, and storing production, and housing personnel engaged in operations, not only in connection with the lease on which the platform, structure, or island, is situated, but for the conduct of operations on any other lease, State or Federal.

(b) The supervisor may grant to a holder of a Federal or State lease the right of use or an easement to construct and maintain platforms, fixed structures, and artificial islands on areas of the outer Continental Shelf, near or adjacent to the leased area, and to use same for drilling directional well or wells to be bottomed under the leased area, and for producing and reworking such well or wells, and for handling, treating, and storing the production therefrom. Such rights of use or easement if on an area subject to any mineral lease issued or maintained under the act shall be granted only after the lessee under such lease has been notified and afforded an opportunity to voice objections thereto, and any such right shall be exercised only in such manner so as not to interfere unreasonably with operations of the lessee under such lease.

(c) Once a right of use or easement has been exercised by the erection of a fixed platform, structure, or island, the right shall continue so long as such platforms, structures, or islands are maintained, even beyond the termination of any lease on which they may be situated, and the rights of all subsequent lessees shall be subject to such rights of use and easement by prior lessees. The foregoing right of use and easement shall include the right to lay gathering lines, flow lines, and other pipelines used in connection with any lease operations, for moving production to a central point for purposes of gathering, treating, or storing. The right of use and easement shall not apply to pipelines used for transporting oil, gas, or other production after the same has been treated and measured, such rights-of-way being provided for in regulations under section 5 (c) of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act.

§ 250.19 Rentals, royalties, and other payments. The supervisor shall determine pursuant to the lease and regulations the rental and the amount or value of production accruing to the lessor as royalty, the loss through waste or failure to drill and produce protection wells on the lease, and the compensation due to the lessor as reimbursement for such loss.

§ 250.20 Suspension of operations and production. On receipt of an application for suspension of operations or production or for relief from any drilling or producing requirement under a lease, the supervisor shall grant such approval as he may deem warranted in the premises or reject such application, subject to the right of appeal as provided in § 250.81.

REQUIREMENTS FOR LESSEES

§ 250.30 Lease terms, regulations, waste, damage, and safety. The lessee shall comply with the terms of the lease, with the written orders of the supervisor, and, subject to the provisions of section 5 (a) of the act, with the regulations in this part and any amendments thereof. The lessee shall take all reasonable precautions to prevent damage or waste of any natural resource or injury to life or property or the aquatic life of the seas.

§ 250.31 Designation of operator. In all cases where operations are not conducted by the record owner but are to be conducted under authority of an unapproved operating agreement, assignment, or other arrangement, a "designation of operator" shall be submitted to the supervisor, in a manner and form approved by him, prior to commencement of operations. Such designation will be accepted as authority of operator or his local representative to fulfill the obligations of the lessee and to sign any papers or reports required under the regulations in this part. All changes of address and any termination of the authority of the operator shall be immediately reported, in writing, to the supervisor or his representative. In case of such termination or of controversy between the lessee and the designated operator, the operator, if in possession of the lease, will be required to protect the interests of the lessor.

§ 250.32 Local agent. When required by the supervisor, the lessee shall designate a representative empowered to receive notices and comply with orders of the supervisor issued pursuant to the regulations in this part.

§ 250.33 Drilling and producing obligations. (a) The lessee shall diligently drill and produce such wells as are necessary to protect the lessor from loss by reason of production on other properties, or in lieu thereof, with the consent of the supervisor, shall pay a sum determined by the supervisor as adequate to compensate the lessor for failure to drill and produce any such well.

(b) The lessee shall promptly drill and produce such other wells as the supervisor may reasonably require in order that the lease may be properly and timely developed and produced in accordance with good operating practices.

§ 250.34 Drilling and development programs. (a) Prior to the beginning of any operations on the lease, including the construction of drilling or production platforms or other structures, the lessee shall submit to the supervisor for approval an acceptable plan for the performance of such work. Such plan shall include (1) a plan of the drilling or production platform or structures, showing the location and major features thereof, (2) the proposed well-casing program for the initial well, (3) the location of the initial well (including surface and projected bottom-hole location if the well is to be directionally drilled), (4) structural interpretations based on available geological and geophysical data, and (5) such other pertinent data as the supervisor may prescribe.

(b) After a discovery has been made on the lease, the lessee shall submit to the supervisor a plan of development for the lease or field including (1) the number and location of the proposed wells (including the projected bottom-hole location for directionally drilled wells) and the approximate time for drilling each, (2) amendments or additions to the structural interpretations, (3) plans for additional drilling or producing platforms or other structures, (4) the well-casing program for the field or area, and (5) such other data as the supervisor may prescribe. Such program must be approved by the supervisor and may be modified from time to time as conditions may warrant.

(c) The supervisor may, upon request of the lessee, classify as confidential the geological and geophysical interpretations submitted as provided in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section for such time as is necessary to protect the interests of the lessee.

§ 250.35 Subsequent well operations. After completion of all operations contemplated under any previously approved notice or plan, the lessee shall not begin to redrill, repair, deepen, plug back, shoot, or plug and abandon any well, make water shutoff, alter the casing or liner, stimulate production by acid, gas, air, water injection, or any other method, change the method of recovering production, or use any formation or well for gas storage or water disposal without first notifying the supervisor of his plan and intention and receiving written approval prior to commencing the contemplated work. This requirement shall not deter the lessee from taking any action in an emergency to prevent damage.

§ 250.36 Well designations. The lessee shall mark promptly each drilling platform or structure in a conspicuous place, showing his name or the name of the operator, the serial number of the lease, the identification of the wells, and shall take all necessary means and precautions to preserve these markings.

§ 250.37 Well records. (a) The lessee shall keep on the lease, or at his headquarters for the field, or otherwise conveniently available to the supervisor, accurate and complete records of the production, drilling, redrilling, deepening, repairing, cementing, alterations to casing, plugging, abandoning, and all other well operations, including electrical or radioactive well logs and directional well surveys. The records shall show all the formations penetrated, the content and character of oil, gas, other mineral deposits, or water in each formation, and the kind, weight, size, and landed depth of casing used in drilling each well on the leased lands, and any other information obtained in the course of well operations.

(b) The lessee shall, within 30 days after the completion of any well and within 30 days after the completion of any further operations on it, transmit to the supervisor copies of the records of such work on forms furnished by or acceptable to him.

(c) The lessee shall, within 30 days after the completion of electrical or radioactive well logging operations or directional well surveys, transmit to the supervisor copies of such logs or charts. Such logs or charts may be either field copies of individual runs or composite logs of more than one run.

(d) The lessee shall also submit such other reports and records of operations as may be required and in the manner and form prescribed by the supervisor.

(e) Upon request and in the manner and form prescribed by the supervisor, the lessee shall furnish a copy of the daily drilling report, a plat showing the location, designation, and status of all wells on the leased lands, together with such other pertinent information as the supervisor may require.

(f) When deemed advisable by the supervisor, the lessee shall require each service company to furnish promptly to the supervisor legible, exact copies of reports on cementing, perforating, acidizing, or other similar services.

§ 250.38 Samples, tests, and surveys. (a) The lessee, when required by the supervisor, shall make adequate tests or surveys in an acceptable manner, without cost to the lessor, to determine the reservoir energy; the presence, quantity, and quality of oil, gas, sulphur, other mineral deposits, or water; the amount and direction of deviation of any well from the vertical; or the formation, casing, tubing, or other pressures.

(b) The lessee shall take such formation samples or cores to determine the identity and character of any formation in accordance with reasonable requirements of the supervisor prescribed at the time of approval of the notice to drill or redrill any well.

§ 250.39 Directional survey. (a) An angular deviation and directional survey shall be made of the finished hole of each well directionally deviated.

(b) The supervisor, at the request of an offset lessee made prior to completion of a well, may require a lessee of an adjoining lease to make or furnish a directional survey of any hole, at the risk and expense of the offset lessee making such request. A copy of such directional survey shall be furnished to the supervisor and the offset lessee. If it is determined that such well is closer to the line of the offset lease than one-half (½) the required distance from such line fixed by an approved spacing program or by special field rules, the risk and expense of making such directional survey shall be borne by the offending lessee; and, unless and until the hole is promptly straightened to correct the offense, the supervisor may reduce the allowable production from the well to prevent its draining unduly the offset leased area. Neither the imposition of any penalty or of the costs of such survey upon the offending lessee nor the reduction of the allowable production from the well is intended to prejudice any other remedy which the affected parties may have.

§ 250.40 Control of wells. (a) The lessee shall take all reasonable precautions for keeping all wells under control at all times and shall provide at the time any well is started the proper high-pressure fittings and equipment as the supervisor may prescribe or approve. A conductor string of casing must be cemented throughout its length, and all strings of casing must be securely cemented and anchored unless other procedure is authorized or prescribed by the supervisor.

(b) The lessee shall take all reasonable precautions to prevent any well from blowing open, including the installation of storm chokes on all producible wells, and shall take immediate steps and exercise due diligence to bring under control any such well.

§ 250.41 Emulsion and dehydration. (a) The lessee shall complete and maintain all oil wells in such mechanical condition and operate them in such manner as to prevent, so far as possible, the formation of emulsion and basic sediment.

(b) The lessee shall put in marketable condition, if commercially feasible, all products produced from the leased land and pay royalty thereon without recourse to the lessor for deductions on account of costs of treatment.

§ 250.42 Pollution. The lessee shall not pollute the waters of the high seas or damage the aquatic life of the sea or allow extraneous matter to enter and damage any mineral- or water-bearing formation. The lessee shall dispose of all useless liquid products of wells in a manner acceptable to the supervisor.

§ 250.43 Well abandonment. The lessee shall promptly plug and abandon any well on the leased land that is not used or useful, but no productive well shall be abandoned until its lack of capacity for further profitable production of oil, gas, or sulphur has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the supervisor. Before abandoning a producible well, the lessee shall submit to the supervisor a statement of reasons for abandonment and his detailed plans for carrying on the necessary work. A producible well may be abandoned only after receipt of written approval by the supervisor. No well shall be plugged and abandoned until the manner and method of plugging shall be approved or prescribed by the supervisor. Equipment shall be removed, and premises at the well-site shall be properly conditioned immediately after plugging operations are completed on any well when directed by the supervisor. Drilling equipment shall not be removed from any suspended drilling well without consent of the supervisor.

§ 250.44 Accidents and fires. The lessee shall take all reasonable precautions to prevent accidents and fires, shall immediately notify the supervisor of all accidents or fires on the leasehold, and shall submit a full report thereon within 10 days after correction or control of the accident or fire.

§ 250.45 Workmanlike operations. The lessee shall carry on all operations and maintain the property at all times in a safe and workmanlike manner, having due regard for the preservation and the conservation of the property and for the health and safety of employees. The lessee shall take reasonable steps to prevent accumulations of oil or other materials deemed to be fire hazards and shall promptly remove such hazardous accumulations as do occur.

§ 250.46 Sales contracts. (a) The lessee shall file with the supervisor not less than 30 days after the effective date thereof copies of all contracts for the disposal of lease products. Nothing in any such contract or in any approval thereof by the supervisor as authorized in paragraph (b) of this section shall be construed or accepted as modifying any of the provisions of the lease, including, but not limited to, provisions relating to gas waste, taking royalty in kind, and the method of computing royalties due as based on a minimum valuation and in accordance with the regulations applicable to the lands covered by the contract.

(b) If request for approval of a contract is made by the seller, the contract may be approved by the supervisor subject to the conditions provided in paragraph (a) of this section and to such further conditions as may be prescribed by the supervisor.

(c) Lessee may submit to the Secretary, through the supervisor, for approval any long-term contract which the lessee has made or proposes to make for the sale of gas produced from a lease or leases. Should the Secretary approve such contract, for the purpose of computing royalties on gas sold and delivered from the lease or leases under such contract, the value of the gas on the leased premises shall be the price paid therefor under such contract. Nothing in any such contract, or the approval thereof, shall be construed to limit the right of the United States to take its royalty in kind.

§ 250.47 Division orders. The lessee shall file with the supervisor not less than 30 days after the effective date thereof copies of division orders or other instruments granting to transportation agencies or purchasers authority to receive products from leased lands. The supervisor may, upon request, approve such orders or other instruments subject to such conditions as he shall prescribe.

§ 250.48 Royalty and rental payments. The lessee shall pay all rentals when due and shall pay in value or deliver in production all royalties in the amounts determined by the supervisor as due under the terms of the lease. Payments of rentals and royalties in value shall be by check or draft on a solvent bank, or by money order, drawn to the order of the Treasurer of the United States.

MEASUREMENT OF PRODUCTION AND COMPUTATION OF ROYALTIES

§ 250.60 Measurement of oil. The lessee shall gage and measure all production in accordance with methods approved by the supervisor. The lessee shall provide tanks suitable for measuring accurately the crude oil produced from the lease (positive copies of 100 percent capacity tank tables to be furnished to the supervisor) or may arrange with the supervisor for other acceptable methods of measuring, storing, and recording production. The quantity and quality of all production shall be determined in accordance with the standard practices, procedures, and specifications generally used by the industry.

§ 250.61 Measurement of gas. The lessee shall measure all production in accordance with methods approved by the supervisor, and the measured volumes shall be adjusted to the standard pressure base of 10 ounces above the atmospheric pressure of 14.4 pounds per square inch, a standard temperature of 60° Fahrenheit, and for deviation from Boyle's law. If gas is being disposed of at a different pressure base, the supervisor may require that gas volumes be adjusted to conform to such base.

§ 250.62 Determination of content of gas. The content of gas delivered to an extraction plant treating gas from the lease shall be determined periodically by field tests, as required by the supervisor, to be made at the place and by the methods approved by him and under his supervision.

§ 250.63 Quantity basis for substances extracted from gas. (a) The primary quantity basis for computing monthly royalties on casing-head or natural gasoline, butane, propane, or other substances (hereinafter called substances in this section) extracted from gas is the monthly net output of the plant at which the substances are manufactured, "net output" being defined as the quantity of each substance that the plant produces for sale.

(b) If the net output of a plant is derived from the gas obtained from only one lease, the quantity of substances on which computations of royalty for the lease is based is the net output of the plant.

(c) If the net plant output of a substance is derived from gas obtained from several leases producing gas of uniform content of such substance, the production of net output of the substance allocable to each lease as a basis for computing royalty will be determined by dividing the amount of gas delivered to the plant from each lease by the total amount of gas delivered from all leases.

(d) If the net plant output of a substance is derived from gas obtained from several leases producing gas of diverse content of such substance, the proportion of net output of the substance allocable to each lease as a basis for computing royalty will be determined by multiplying the amount of gas delivered to the plant from the lease by the substance content of the gas and dividing the arithmetical product thus obtained by the sum of the similar arithmetical products separately obtained for all leases from which gas is delivered to the plant.

§ 250.64 Value basis for computing royalties. The value of production, for the purpose of computing royalty, shall be the estimated reasonable value of the product as determined by the supervisor, due consideration being given to the highest price paid for a part or for a majority of production of like quality in the same field or area, to the price received by the lessee, to posted prices, and to other relevant matters. Under no circumstances shall the value of production of any of said substances for the purposes of computing royalty be deemed to be less than the gross proceeds accruing to the lessee from the sale thereof or less than the value computed on such reasonable unit value as shall have been determined by the Secretary. In the absence of good reason to the contrary, value computed on the basis of the highest price per barrel, thousand cubic feet, or gallon paid or offered at the time of production in a fair and open market for the major portion of like-quality oil, gas, or other products produced and sold from the field or area where the leased lands are situated will be considered to be a reasonable value.

§ 250.65 Royalty on oil. (a) The royalty on crude oil shall be the percentage of the value or amount of the crude oil produced from the leased lands established by law, regulation, or the term of the lease. No deduction may be made for actual or theoretical transportation losses.

(b) Royalty shall be based on production removed from the lease except that, when conditions so warrant, the supervisor may require such royalty to be based on actual monthly production. Evidence of all shipments shall be filed with the supervisor within five days after the oil has been run by pipeline or by other means of transportation. Such evidence shall be signed by representatives of the lessee and of the purchaser who have witnessed the measurements reported, and the determinations of gravity, temperature, and the percentage of impurities contained in the oil shall be shown.

§ 250.66 Royalty on unprocessed gas. If gas, either gas-well gas or casing-head gas, is sold without processing for the recovery of constituent products, the royalty thereon shall be the percentage established by the terms of the lease of the value or amount of the gas produced.

§ 250.67 Royalty on processed gas. (a) If gas-well gas is processed for the recovery of constituent products, a royalty as provided in the lease will accrue on the value of all residue gas, and on all natural gasoline, butane, propane, or other substances extracted therefrom.

(b) If casing-head gas is processed for the recovery of constituent products, a royalty as provided in the lease will accrue as follows:

(1) On the full amount of the residue gas remaining after processing.

(2) Unless otherwise provided in the lease, on the value of 50 percent (or the net proceeds received by the lessee if greater than 50 percent) of all natural gasoline, butane, propane, or other substances extracted from the casing-head gas.

(c) In determining the value of natural gasoline, the volume of such gasoline may be corrected when deemed necessary by the supervisor to such standard and by such method as may be approved by the supervisor, in order that volumetric differences between natural gasolines of various specifications may be equitably adjusted.

(d) No allowance shall be made for boosting residue gas or other expenses incidental to marketing.

§ 250.68 Commingling production. Subject to such conditions as he may prescribe for measurement and allocation of production, the supervisor may authorize the lessee to move production from the lease to a central point for purposes of treating, measuring, and storing, and in moving such production, the lessee may commingle the production from different wells, leases, pools, and fields, and with production of other operators. The central point may be on shore or at any other convenient place selected by lessee.

PROCEDURE IN CASE OF DEFAULT BY LESSEE

§ 250.80 Default. Whenever the owner of a lease fails to comply with the provisions of the regulations in this part, the supervisor is authorized to give 30-day notice of such default by registered letter to the lessee at his record post office address as provided in section 5 (b) (1) of the act, to recommend to the Secretary, through the Director, lease cancellation pursuant to section 5 (b), (1) and (2) of the act, appropriate action under the penalty provisions of section 5 (a) (2) of the act, or the exercise of such other legal or equitable remedy as the lessor may have.

§ 250.81 Appeals. (a) An appeal from any order issued under authority of the regulations in this part may be filed as hereinafter set forth in this section. Compliance with any such order shall not be suspended by reason of an appeal having been taken unless such suspension is authorized in writing by the Director or the Secretary (dependent upon the officer with whom the appeal is pending) and then only upon a determination that such suspension will not be detrimental to the lessor or upon the submission and acceptance of a bond deemed adequate to indemnify the lessor from loss or damage.

(b) An appeal to the Director may be taken from any order of the supervisor by filing such appeal with the latter officer within 20 days after service of the order. The appeal shall incorporate or be accompanied by such written showing and argument on the facts and law as the appellant may deem adequate to justify reversal or modification of the order. All statements of fact must be made under oath.

(c) The supervisor shall transmit the appeal and accompanying papers to the Director with a full report and recommendations in the premises, and that official shall review the record and render such a decision in the case as he deems proper.

(d) An appeal from any decision of the Director may be taken to the Secretary within 30 days after service of the Director's decision. The appeal shall be accompanied by such written showing and argument on the facts and law as appellant may deem adequate to justify reversal or modification of the decision. Any statements of fact not submitted to the Director must be made under oath.

(e) Oral argument in any case pending before the supervisor, the Director, or the Secretary will be allowed on motion in the discretion of such officer and at a time to be fixed by him.

§ 250.82 Judicial review. Nothing contained in this part shall be construed to prevent any interested party from seeking judicial review as authorized by law.

REPORTS TO BE MADE BY ALL LESSEES (INCLUDING OPERATORS)

§ 250.90 General requirements. Information required to be submitted in accordance with the regulations in this part shall be furnished in the manner and form prescribed in the regulations in this part or as directed by the supervisor. Copies of forms can be obtained from the supervisor and must be filled out completely and filed punctually with that official.

§ 250.91 Sundry notices and reports on wells. Form 9–150 covers all notices of intention and all subsequent reports pertaining to individual wells except those for which special blanks are provided. The forms may be used for any of the purposes listed thereon, or a special heading may be inserted in the blank to adapt it for use for similar purposes. Any written notice of intention to do work or to change plans previously approved must be filed in triplicate, unless otherwise directed, and must reach the supervisor and receive his approval before the work is begun. The lessee is responsible for receipt of the notice by the supervisor in ample time for proper consideration and action. The following paragraphs illustrate some of the uses to which Form 9–150 may be put and indicate the requirements with respect to each use.

(a) Notice of intention to drill. (1) The notice of intention to drill a well must be filed in triplicate on Form 9–150 with the supervisor and approval received before the work is begun. This notice, in addition to the requirements contained in § 250.34, must give the surface location and projected bottom-hole location in feet from the lease boundaries; elevation of the derrick floor; proposed depth to which the well will be drilled; the bottom-hole location; estimated depths to the top of important markers; estimated depths at which water, oil, gas, and mineral deposits are expected; the proposed casing program, including the size and weight of casing, the depth at which each string is to be set, and the amount of cement and mud to be used. Information also shall be furnished relative to the proposed plan for drilling other proposed wells from the same platform, coring at specified depths, and plans for electrical logging, together with any other information which may be required by the supervisor.

(2) Each copy of the application shall be accompanied by a plat drawn on a scale of not less than 2,000 feet to the inch, showing surface and subsurface location of the well to be drilled and all wells theretofore drilled.

(b) Notice of intention to change the condition of a well. Before repairing (other than work incidental to ordinary well operation), acidizing or stimulating production by other methods, deepening, perforating, plugging back, sidetracking, squeezing with mud or cement, or commencing any operations that will alter the condition of a well or productive horizon other than previously reported, a detailed written statement of the plan of work must be filed in triplicate with the supervisor on Form 9–150 and approval obtained before the work is started. This requirement shall not deter any operator from taking immediate action in an emergency to prevent damage.

(c) Subsequent report of changing the condition of a well (Form 9–150). Within 30 days after the completion of any work described in paragraph (b) of this section, a detailed report of the work done and the results obtained shall be filed in duplicate with the supervisor. Such report shall show the amount of production of oil, gas, and water before and after the work was completed and shall also include a complete statement of the work accomplished and the methods employed, including all dates. Reports of work done by service companies, unless previously furnished the supervisor, shall be submitted with subsequent reports.

(d) Notice of intention to abandon well (Form 9–150). Before beginning abandonment work on any well, whether a drilling well, a depleted producing well, or a dry hole, notice of intention to abandon shall be filed in triplicate with the supervisor, and approval obtained before the work is started. The notice, as to a producible well, must show the reason for abandonment, and as to any well must give a detailed statement of the proposed work, including such information as kind, location, and length of plugs (by depths), and plans for mudding, cementing, shooting, testing, removing casing, and other pertinent information.

(e) Subsequent report of abandonment. After a well is abandoned or plugged, a subsequent record of work done must be filed with the supervisor. This report shall be filed separately within 30 days after the work is done. The report shall give a detailed account of the manner in which the abandonment or plugging work was carried out, including the nature and quantities of materials used in plugging and the location and extent (by depths) of the plugs of different materials; records of any tests or measurements made and of the amount, size, and location (by depths) of casing left in the well; and a detailed statement of the volume of mud fluid used and the pressure attained in mudding. If an attempt was made to part any casing, a complete report of the methods used and results obtained must be included.

§ 250.92 Log and history of well (Form 9–151). The lessee shall furnish in duplicate, on Form 9–151, to the supervisor, not later than 30 days after the completion of each well, a complete and accurate log and history, in chronologic order, of all operations conducted on the well. If a log is compiled for geologic information from cores or formation samples, duplicate copies of such log shall be filed in addition to the regular log. Duplicate copies of all electric logs, temperature surveys, or direction surveys shall be furnished. The lessee shall require the drillers to record pertinent information obtained in drilling the well.

§ 250.93 Monthly report of operations (Form 9–152). A separate report of operations for each lease must be made on Form 9–152 for each calendar month, beginning with the month in which drilling operations are initiated, and must be filed in duplicate with the supervisor on or before the 20th day of the succeeding month, unless an extension of time for the filing of such report is granted by the supervisor. The report on this form shall disclose accurately all operations conducted on each well during each month, the status of operations on the last day of the month, and a general summary of the status of operations on the leased lands, and the report must be submitted each month until the lease is terminated or until omission of the report is authorized by the supervisor. It is particularly necessary that the report shall show for each calendar month:

(a) Each well listed separately by number and its location shown if possible.

(b) The number of days each well produced, whether oil or gas, and the number of days each input well was in operation.

(c) The quantity of oil, gas, and water produced, the total amount of gasoline and other lease products recovered, and other required information. When oil and gas, or oil, gas, and gasoline, or other hydrocarbons are concurrently produced from the same lease, separate reports on this form should be submitted for oil and gas and gasoline, unless otherwise authorized or directed by the supervisor.

(d) The depth of each active or suspended well, and the name, character, and depth of each formation drilled during the month, the date each such depth was reached, the date and reason for every shut-down, the names and depths of important formation changes and contents of formations, the amount and size of any casing run since last report, the dates and results of any tests such as production, water shut-off, or gasoline content, and any other noteworthy information on operations not specifically provided for in the form.

(e) If no runs or sales were made during the calendar month, the report must so state.

§ 250.94 Statement of oil and gas runs and royalties (Form 9–153). When directed by the supervisor, a monthly report shall be made by the lessee in duplicate, on Form 9–153, showing each run of oil, all sales of gas, gasoline, and other lease products, and the royalty accruing therefrom to the lessor.

§ 250.95 Special forms or reports. When special forms or reports other than those referred to in the regulations in this part may be necessary, instructions for the filing of such forms or reports will be given by the supervisor.

MINERAL LEASES AFFECTED BY SECTION 6 OF OUTER CONTINENTAL SHELF LANDS ACT

§ 250.100 Effect of regulations on provisions of lease. (a) As contemplated by section 6 (b) of the act, the regulations in this part will supersede the provisions of any lease which is determined to meet the requirements of section 6 (a) of the act, to the extent that they cover the same subject matter, with the following exceptions: The provisions of a lease with respect to the area covered by the lease, the minerals covered by the lease, the rentals payable under the lease, the royalties payable under the lease (subject to the provisions of sections 6 (a) (8) and 6 (a) (9) of the act, and the term of the lease subject to the provisions of section 6 (a) (10) of the act and, as to sulphur, subject to the provisions of section 6 (b) (2) of the act) shall continue in effect and, in the event of any conflict or inconsistency, shall take precedence over the regulations in this part.

(b) A lease that meets the requirements of section 6 (a) of the act shall also be subject to the mineral leasing regulations applicable to the outer Continental Shelf,[1] as well as the regulations relating to geophysical and geological exploratory operations and to pipeline rights-of-way in the outer Continental Shelf, to the extent that those regulations are not contrary to or inconsistent with the provisions of the lease relating to the area covered, the minerals covered, the rentals payable, the royalties payable, and the terms of the lease.

CHIU CHUI IRRIGATION PROJECT, ARIZONA

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE CHARGES

Notice is hereby given of intention to promulgate §§ 130.145 to 130.150, inclusive, Title 25, Code of Federal Regulations, to read as follows:

§ 130.145 Charges. (a) Pursuant to the acts of August 1, 1914 and March 7, 1928 (38 Stat. 583, 45 Stat. 210; 25 U. S. C. 385, 387), the reimbursable costs of operating and maintaining the Chiu Chui Indian Irrigation Project in Arizona is apportioned on a per acre basis against the irrigable lands of the project to which water can be delivered and for the calendar year 1954, and each succeeding year until further order the basic rate is hereby fixed at $6 per acre for the delivery of not to exceed three acre feet of water per acre annually. Additional water, when available, may be delivered upon written application of the landowner or lessee at the rate of $2.50 per acre foot, or fraction thereof.

(b) The rates herein fixed shall not apply to lands described in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph until such lands have been subjugated to proper standards and consolidated into larger farm units:

(1) Tribal land assigned to individual Indians (located within the boundaries of Sections 34 and 35, T. 7 S., R. 5 E.; and Sections 1, 2, and 12, T. 8 S., R. 5 E., G. & S. R. M. commonly known as the "old project"), shall be assessed temporarily $1 per acre per annum.

(2) Tribal lands within the area described in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph irrigated by the tribe or Indian association enterprises, $4 per acre per annum.

(3) Lands newly developed, after assignment to Indians in 40 and 80 acre tracts, $2 per acre per annum for the first calendar year, $4 per acre per annum for the second year following the date of assignment and thereafter the annual charge of $6 per acre shall apply.

Non-Indians leasing such lands shall be charged the full basic rate.

§ 130.146 Payments. The annual charges fixed in § 130.145 shall become due on March 1 of each year and payable on or before that date, and any unpaid charges shall stand as a first lien against the land without penalty until paid. Charges for excess water shall be paid in advance of the delivery of water.

§ 130.147 Water delivery. The delivery of water shall be refused to all tracts of lands for which the charges have not been paid when due, except (a) where an Indian owner or Indian assignee of tribal land not under lease to a non-Indian is financially unable to pay the operation and maintenance charges on the due date, the superintendent or other official in charge of the Papago Indian Agency may arrange with such Indian to pay, within the calendar year, the operation and maintenance charges from proceeds of crops grown upon the land, provided written request and application for such arrangement is made by the Indian on or before the due date for the payment of the charges; and (b) where assignments of lands for use by Indians are made in tracts of 10 acres or less and the superintendent or other official in charge of the Papago Indian Agency is convinced that the assignee is unable to pay the operation and maintenance charges on the due date, water may be delivered upon a filing by the superintendent of a certificate to that effect, without advance payment of the operation and maintenance charges. In both cases the unpaid charges shall stand as a first lien against the land without penalty until paid.

§ 130.148 Water users' responsibility for water after delivery. It is the duty of the Indian Irrigation Service to furnish available water for beneficial irrigation use only. It is the duty of all water users of the project to aid in the prevention of the waste of water and of damage to adjacent lands. The water users are responsible for the water after it has been delivered to their lands, and are required to have their fields and ditches of proper capacity and in a suitable condition for the economical use of irrigation water.

§ 130.149 Water service. A water service schedule will be worked out by the Indian Irrigation Service in cooperation with all the water users. These schedules shall be complied with as regularly as physical conditions will permit. Violation of the foregoing requirement shall be just cause for refusal to deliver water to that tract.

§ 130.150 Distribution and apportionment. The pumped water of the project is deemed a common water supply in which all lands of the entire project are entitled to share equally and such water will be distributed to the lands of the project as equitably as physical conditions will permit. Water users will be advised at the beginning of each year or irrigation season of the amount of water available so that the cropping plans for specific periods can be worked out jointly between the Indian Irrigation Service and the water users.

Interested persons are hereby given opportunity to participate in preparing the proposed regulations by submitting their views, data or arguments in writing to Mr. Ralph M. FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. R–133]

APPLICATIONS FOR AUTHORIZATION TO EXPORT OR IMPORT NATURAL GAS AND FOR CERTIFICATES OF PUBLIC CONVENIENCE AND NECESSITY

FILING, AUTHORIZATION AND CERTIFICATE FEES REQUIRED

FEBRUARY 3, 1954.

Amendment to Parts 153 and 157 of Subchapter E of the rules relating to applications for authorization to export or import natural gas and for certificates of public convenience and necessity under section 7 of the Natural Gas Act as amended.

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. Section 3 of the Natural Gas Act (15 U. S. C. 717b) authorizes the Commission to issue orders authorizing exportations of natural gas to a foreign country or importations of natural gas from a foreign country to the United States when found to be consistent with the public interest. Authorizations under this section of the act, including permits under Executive Order 10485, 18 F. R. 5397, for construction and operation of facilities for such purposes, are issued by the Commission in accordance with the provisions of Part 153 of its general rules and regulations (18 CFR Part 153).

3. Section 7 of the Natural Gas Act (15 U. S. C. 717f), as amended, empowers the Commission to issue certificates of public convenience and necessity granting authority to engage in the transportation or sale of natural gas subject to the Commission's jurisdiction, or to construct, extend, interconnect, acquire or operate facilities for such transportation or sale or to abandon any such facilities. Certificates under this section of the act are issued by the Commission in accordance with the provisions of Part 157 of its general rules and regulations (18 CFR Part 157).

4. Title V of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act for 1952, approved August 31, 1951 (Public Law 137, 82d Congress, 65 Stat. 290, 5 U. S. C. 140) as implemented by Bureau of the Budget Circular No. A–25, issued to the heads of all executive departments and establishments by order of the President on November 5, 1953, authorizes and directs the Commission by regulation to prescribe and collect fair and equitable fees for the purpose among others of making the work of issuing certificates and export or import authorizations, including permits under Executive Order 10485, self-sustaining. The law directs that such fees shall be as uniform as practicable and subject to such policies as the President may prescribe, taking into consideration direct and indirect cost to the Government, value to the recipient, public policy or interest served, and other pertinent facts.

5. Although the act and Budget Circular referred to in paragraph 4, above, provide that the Commission shall institute a system of administrative fees to place authorizing activities of the Commission including those under the Natural Gas Act on a self-supporting basis, the devising of the system for recovering costs of such activities is left to the discretion of the Commission. In order to determine the actual costs of these activities on an individual docket basis and to assess and collect such costs on that basis, it would be necessary to establish an additional system of cost accounting for natural gas proceedings under sections 3 and 7 of the Natural Gas Act and under Executive Order 10485. To avoid this additional administrative expense the Commission contemplates prescribing a schedule of filing fees, collectable from all applicants for certificates, authorizations, or permits on acceptance of the application for filing. In addition to such a schedule of initial filing fees the Commission would promulgate a second schedule of fees, designated as certificate and authorization or permit fees, based upon a percentage of the construction or acquisition costs of the particular facilities certificated in the case of gas certificates and in the case of export or import authorizations including permits for the construction or interconnection of facilities, upon a fixed rate per Mcf upon estimated volumes exported or imported during the first year of operation. Such an authorization or certificate fee is to be a single assessment made at the time of issuing each certificate and export or import authorization or permit to the applicant, and is to be at a rate high enough to recover the bulk of those costs which are incurred in certificate and export or import proceedings and otherwise not recoverable by means of the filing fee.

6. Pursuant to the authority vested in it by section 16 of the Natural Gas Act (15 U. S. C. 717o) and Title V of Public Law 137, 82d Congress (65 Stat. 290, 5 U. S. C. 140) as implemented by Bureau of the Budget Circular No. A–25, issued November 5, 1953, the Commission proposes to amend its rules by the addition in Part 153 of §§ 153.20 and 153.21 and by the addition in Part 157 of §§ 157.50 and 157.51 to set up a system of filing fees and permit, authorization and certificate fees, in the following form:

§ 153.20 Filing fee required. An application under this part must be accompanied by a filing fee which is not returnable and shall be charged in accordance with the following schedule:

Exportation of natural gas	$150.00
Importation of natural gas	150.00
Permit under E. O. 10485	150.00
Combined permit under E. O. 10485 and either exportation or importation of natural gas	200.00

Remittances covering filing fees should be made payable to the Treasurer of the United States and forwarded to the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 153.21 Authorization fee required. Upon the granting of an authorization to export or import natural gas under this Part or a permit thereunder to construct or interconnect facilities pursuant to E. O. 10485, the Commission shall levy an assessment against the successful applicant for an amount not to exceed one cent per Mcf for all natural gas estimated from the application and record to be exported or imported during the first 12 months of operation under the authorization granted. Fees levied under this section are due within 30 days after rendition by the Commission of a bill for the amount assessed. Remittances should be made payable to the Treasurer of the United States and forwarded to the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 157.50 Filing fee required. An application under this Part must be accompanied by a filing fee which is not returnable and shall be charged in accordance with the following schedule:

Construction or acquisition of new or additional facilities, or extension or interconnection of facilities, when estimated cost is:
Less than $500,000	$150.00
$500,000 to $1,999,999	200.00
$2,000,000 to $3,999,999	300.00
$4,000,000 or more	[1] 500.00
Abandonment of facilities	150.00
All others, including status determination	150.00

[1] Plus $100 for each additional $1,000,000 or fraction thereof.

Remittances should be made payable to the Treasurer of the United States and forwarded to the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 157.51 Certificate fee required. Upon the granting of a certificate of public convenience and necessity under this part, the Commission shall levy an assessment against the successful applicant for an amount not to exceed 0.1 percent of the estimated cost of the certificated facilities. Fees levied under this section are due within 30 days after rendition by the Commission of a statement for the amount assessed. Remittances should be made payable to the Treasurer of the United States and forwarded to the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

7. Any interested person may submit to the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., not later than 30 days from the date of the publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, data, views and comments in writing concerning the proposed amendments. The Commission will consider these written submittals before acting upon the proposed amendments. An original and 9 copies should be filed of any such submittals.

No application for the lands may be allowed under the homestead, small tract, desert land, or any other nonmineral public land laws unless the lands have been classified as valuable or suitable for such type of classification or shall be so classified upon consideration of an application.

This order shall not otherwise become effective to change the status of such lands until 10:00 a. m. on the 35th day after the date of this order. At that time the said lands shall, subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, become subject to application, petition, location, and selection as follows:

(a) Ninety-one day period for preference-right filings. For a period of 91 days, commencing at the hour and on the day specified above, the public lands affected by this order shall be subject only to (1) application under the homestead or the desert-land laws or the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 609 (43 U. Applications under subdivision (1) of this paragraph shall be subject to applications and claims of the classes described in subdivision (2) of this paragraph. All applications filed under this paragraph either at or before 10:00 a. m., on the 35th day after the date of this order shall be treated as though filed simultaneously at that time. All applications filed under this paragraph after 10:00 a. m., on the said 35th day, shall be considered in the order of filing.

(b) Date for non-preference-right filings. Commencing at 10:00 a. m. on the 126th day after the date of this order, any lands remaining unappropriated shall become subject to such application, petition, location, selection, or other appropriation by the public generally as may be authorized by the public-land laws. All such applications filed either at or before 10:00 a. m. on the 126th day after the date of this order, shall be treated as though filed simultaneously at the hour specified on such 126th day. All applications filed thereafter shall be considered in the order of filing.

A veteran shall accompany his application with a complete photostatic, or other copy (both sides), of his certificate of honorable discharge, or of an official document of his branch of the service which shows clearly his honorable discharge as defined in § 181.36 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations, or constitutes evidence of other facts upon which the claim for preference is based and which shows clearly the period of service. Other persons claiming credit for service of veterans must furnish like proof in support of their claims. Persons asserting preference rights, through settlement or otherwise, and those having equitable claims, shall accompany their applications by duly corroborated statements in support thereof, setting forth in detail all facts relevant to their claims.

Applications for these lands, which shall be filed in the Land Office, Boise, Idaho, shall be acted upon in accordance with the regulations contained in § 295.8 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations and Part 296 of that title, to the extent that such regulations are applicable. Applications under the homestead laws shall be governed by the regulations contained in Parts 166 to 170, inclusive, of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations, and applications under the desert-land laws and the said Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938, shall be governed by the regulations contained in Parts 232 and 257, respectively, of that title.

Inquiries concerning these lands shall be addressed to the Land Office, Boise, Idaho.

[Case No. 172]

ISADORE MARKS ET AL.

ORDER REVOKING LICENSES AND DENYING EXPORT PRIVILEGES

In the matter of Isadore Marks, individually and t/a Sealand Machinery Company, 6427 Southwest 16th Street, Miami, Florida; Easy Enterprises, Inc., Pier 3, Miami, Florida; Industrial Steel Industries, Inc., 551 Northwest 71st Street, Miami, Florida; respondents.

This proceeding, having been commenced by the Director, Investigation Staff, Office of International Trade, now the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, wherein Isadore Marks, Easy Enterprises, Inc., and Industrial Steel Industries, Inc., were charged with violating the Export Control Act of 1949, as amended, and the regulations promulgated thereunder, came on for hearing before a Compliance Commissioner at Miami, Florida, on the 2d day of December 1953. The respondents, having been duly served with the charges and with notice of hearing, appeared at such hearing and were there represented by their attorney. The Compliance Commissioner, after hearing all the evidence, has submitted his report and recommendation to the undersigned Director of Export Supply, who has carefully considered the whole record and the recommendation and, after such consideration and upon the whole record, the undersigned Director of Export Supply hereby makes the following

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. (a) At all times hereinafter mentioned Isadore Marks, as an individual and also under the firm name of Sealand Machinery Company, Easy Enterprises, Inc., a corporation, and Industrial Steel Industries, Inc., a corporation, were engaged in the export business in Miami, Florida. The corporations are instrumentalities of Marks.

(b) On or about the 15th day of February 1951, Easy Enterprises, Inc., caused to be loaded upon a barge being exported from the United States to the Dominican Republic a quantity of zinc of a value of approximately $1,245.36. Permission for the exportation of the barge had previously been granted by the Maritime Administration and the necessary export declaration had been duly filed.

(c) A validated export license was necessary for the exportation of zinc if of a value in excess of $300.00, but Easy had not obtained such license.

(d) Upon discovery of the zinc aboard the barge, it was seized by United States Customs as an illegal exportation and later forfeited, the seizure and forfeiture not being contested.

2. (a) Under date of April 26, 1951, Marks applied to the Office of International Trade, now the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, for a license to export to a consignee and purchaser named therein, certain equipment including a diesel-powered crane or shovel and a self-propelled road grader. This license was granted May 3, 1951. Under date of May 15, 1951, he similarly applied for an export license to ship to the same consignee and purchaser additional equipment including the bituminous paver hereinafter mentioned. This license was granted on May 21, 1951.

(b) He thereafter exported from the United States the shovel, the road grader, and the bituminous paver, shipping the shovel and the road grader to one consignee and purchaser different from the consignee and purchaser designated in his application and license and shipping the paver to another consignee and purchaser also different from the consignee and purchaser designated in his application and license.

(c) He accomplished these exportations by causing to be executed and filed for each piece of equipment mentioned an export declaration in which it was certified on his behalf that the equipment was being exported to the consignee and purchaser named in the export licenses issued to him authorizing such exportations to such consignee and purchaser and it was further certified therein on his behalf that the exportations were being made under the authority of such licenses.

3. (a) On or about the 13th day of December 1951, Marks, using his corporation, Industrial Steel Industries, Inc., as the purchaser, for the purpose of filling an order received by him from a firm in Cuba, purchased and caused to be delivered to a ship going to Cuba a quantity of steel of a value in excess of $3,800.00. At about the same time he telephoned a customs official in Miami and ascertained that an exportation of steel, if of a value less than $1,000.00, could be made to Cuba under general license, a validated export license not being required unless the value was in excess of that amount.

(b) He thereupon split the steel so purchased into three parts and for each of the parts executed or caused to be executed a separate export declaration. One of these export declarations was executed by his employee who described himself as the secretary of a company of which Marks was manager and which was therein named as the exporter. This declaration correctly stated the name of the consignee and purchaser in Cuba but valued the steel being exported at $964.70. Another of these export declarations was executed by an individual who said he did it as a favor for the true purchaser and consignee. This declaration named as consignee and purchaser, not the true consignee and purchaser, but the customs broker in Cuba who handled its business. The steel described in it was valued at $987.60. The remaining export declaration was signed in the name of Marks' trade name, Sealand Machinery Company, as exporter, and correctly named as purchaser and consignee the true purchaser and consignee in Cuba. The value of the steel being exported was stated as $990.

(c) Marks intended that all the steel mentioned in these three declarations be delivered to the firm in Cuba for which he had purchased the same. As respects all of this steel, he and his corporation, Industrial Steel Industries, Inc., were the true exporters and the exporters named in two of the declarations were falsely named. As respects all of this steel, only one firm in Cuba was the true consignee and purchaser and the consignee and purchaser named in one of these declarations was falsely named. The value of the steel sought to be exported under these three declarations was in excess of $3,000.00, the steel actually constituted only one exportation, and the values as stated in the declarations, aggregating as they did less than $3,000.00, were falsely therein set forth.

4. All the acts hereinabove set forth were knowingly performed either by Marks or pursuant to his instructions knowingly given for the furtherance of his business.

And, from all of which it is concluded:

A. That Marks and Easy Enterprises, Inc., violated the Export Control Act of 1949, as amended, and § 379.1 (a) of the Export Control Regulations when he knowingly exported from the United States without first having obtained the necessary export license therefor a quantity of zinc of a value in excess of $1,000.00; B. That Marks violated the Export Control Act of 1949, as amended, and §§ 381.1 (b) (1) (2) (3) ii, 381.3 (a) (b) (2) of the Export Control Regulations when he showed he had not (1) knowingly exported the said paver, shovel, and grader contrary to the terms and provisions of the export licenses which had been granted to him for the exportation thereof; (2) falsely described the true ultimate purchaser and consignee of the said equipment in applications for export licenses and concealed their true identity from the Office of International Trade; and C. Marks and Industrial Steel Industries, Inc., violated the Export Control Act of 1949, as amended, and §§ 370.2 (a) (b), 381.1 (b) (1) (2) (3) and 384.2 (a) (1) (2) of the Export Control Regulations when they (1) knowingly attempted to export a quantity of steel of a value in excess of $3,000.00 without first having applied to and obtained from the Office of International Trade, now the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, a validated export license authorizing such exportation, by splitting the said steel into three groups and representing to Customs officials that each group was of a value less than $1,000.00 exportable under General License and (2) by knowingly making or causing to be made false representations and statements as to value, consignee, purchaser, and exporter on export declarations filed by them or on their behalf in support of such attempted exportations.

The Compliance Commissioner, in making his recommendation, has considered not only the facts involved in this case but also the cooperation of the respondents in this proceeding. He has recommended that consideration be given to them for the period during which they have been temporarily suspended from export privileges. His recommendation, upon the facts and circumstances appearing in the record, appears to be fair, reasonable, and necessary to achieve effective enforcement of the law and is accordingly adopted.

It is now therefore ordered, That:

I. All outstanding validated export licenses held by or issued in the names of the above-named respondents, or any of them, or in which they appear or participate as purchaser, intermediate or ultimate consignee, or otherwise, are hereby revoked and shall be forthwith returned to the Bureau of Foreign Commerce for cancellation.

II. Respondents and each of them, are hereby denied and declared ineligible to exercise the privilege of participating directly or indirectly in any manner or capacity in the exportation of any commodity from the United States to any foreign destination, including Canada until August 31, 1955. Without limitation of the generality of the foregoing, participation in an exportation shall be deemed to include and prohibit respondents' participation (a) in the filing of any export license application, (b) in the obtaining or using of any validated or general export license or other export control document, (c) in the receiving in any foreign country of any exportation from the United States, and (d) in the financing, forwarding, transporting, or other servicing of exports from the United States.

III. Such denial of export privileges shall extend not only to the named respondents, their successors or assigns, directors, officers, associates, partners, representatives, agents, and/or employees, but also to any person, firm, corporation, or business organization with which they, or any of them, may be now or hereafter related by ownership, control, position of responsibility, or other connection in the conduct of trade involving exports from the United States or services connected therewith.

IV. Respondent Marks is hereby excluded until August 31, 1955, from engaging in practice on his own behalf or on behalf of any other person, firm, or corporation before the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, Department of Commerce, in any matter, proceeding, or application which may during such period be pending in said Bureau, except that this part shall not be deemed to prevent or prohibit him, should he so desire, from defending himself in person against any charge or charges which may be made against him during such period of suspension, if any such charge or charges be made.

V. No person, firm, corporation, or other organization shall knowingly apply for or obtain any license, shipper's export declaration, bill of lading, or other export control document relating to any exportation from the United States under validated or general licenses, or otherwise, to or for the named respondents or any of them, or any person, firm, corporation, or other organization within the scope of Part III above, without prior disclosure of such facts to, and specific authorization from, the Bureau of Foreign Commerce.

Dated: February 8, 1954.

JOHN C. BORTON,
Director,
Office of Export Supply.

The five lateral pipe lines involved are connected to Applicant's main Gray County, Texas, to Lyons, Kansas, transmission system at various points in the states of Oklahoma and Kansas, and are being and will be used to supply gas largely during off-peak periods. CONSOLIDATED GAS UTILITIES CORP.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

FEBRUARY 4, 1954.

Take notice that Consolidated Gas Utilities Corporation (Applicant), a Delaware corporation having its principal place of business in the Braniff Building, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, filed, on January 20, 1954, an application pursuant to section 7 (b) of the Natural Gas Act for permission and approval to abandon and remove approximately 12,000 feet of 4½-inch lateral pipeline, all as hereinafter described.

The lateral line involved is located in Grant County, Oklahoma, extends from Applicant's main transmisison line to a gasoline plant constructed by W. O. Morse, and was used to transport residue gas from the gasoline plant. Applicant states that the gasoline plant has been inoperative since February, 1953, due to depletion of the gas reserves on which it depended, and that there are no prospects of the plant resuming operations. Applicant states that said lateral line is now unused other than for the delivery of gas to two farm homes. Construction and operation of the lateral line was authorized by a temporary certificate issued August 20, 1952.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before the 24th day of February 1954. The application is on file with the Commission for public inspection.

Public notice is hereby given that Public Utility District No. 1 of Douglas County, Bridgeport, Washington, has filed application under the Federal Power Act (16 U. S. C. 791a–825r) for preliminary permit for proposed Project No. 2149 to be located on the Columbia River in Chelan, Douglas, and Okanogan Counties, Washington, and affecting Indian Tribal lands and public lands of the United States. FEBRUARY 5, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that the West Penn Electric Company ("West Penn"), a registered holding company, and the Potomac Edison Company ("Potomac"), a public-utility subsidiary of West Penn, and also a registered holding company, have filed a joint application-declaration with this Commission regarding the proposal of West Penn to transfer to Potomac, as a capital contribution, all of the outstanding capital stock of White Star Lines, Inc. ("White Star"). Applicant and declarant have designated sections 9 and 10 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") and Rule U-45 thereunder as applicable to the proposed transaction.

All interested persons are referred to said application-declaration which is on file in the offices of the Commission for a statement of the facts and the proposed transaction set forth therein, which are summarized as follows:

White Star is a Pennsylvania corporation which operates motor vehicles primarily for the transportation of passengers. All of its outstanding capital stock, consisting of 2,100 shares of common stock of the par value of $100 per share, is owned by West Penn. West Penn proposes to transfer to Potomac, as and for a contribution to the capital of Potomac, and Potomac proposes to acquire, all of the outstanding capital stock of White Star.

White Star is directed and supervised from the office of Potomac in Hagerstown, Maryland, together with the Blue Ridge Transportation Company ("Blue Ridge"), a wholly owned subsidiary of Potomac, and Penn Bus Company, a 50 percent owned subsidiary of West Penn (the other 50 percent of its capital stock being owned by Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines, Inc., a non-affiliated company), as a unified and coordinated bus system under the name of "Blue Ridge Lines."

Applicant and declarant represent that the transfer by West Penn of the capital stock of White Star to Potomac will result in further simplification of the corporate and operating relationships of the West Penn holding company system and will facilitate the sale of the properties of White Star, Blue Ridge and Penn Bus Company, although such transfer is not conditioned thereupon.

Applicant and declarant have requested that the Commission's order herein be issued as soon as practicable pursuant to Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act and that such order become effective upon issuance.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, on or before February 18, 1954, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on this matter, stating the reasons for such request, the nature of his interest and the issues of fact or law raised by such application-declaration which he proposes to controvert, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. UTAH POWER & LIGHT CO. AND WESTERN COLORADO POWER CO.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED SALE OF SECURITIES BY SUBSIDIARY TO PARENT HOLDING COMPANY

FEBRUARY 4, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that Utah Power & Light Company ("Utah"), a registered holding company, and its wholly-owned electric-utility subsidiary, the Western Colorado Power Company ("Colorado"), have filed with this Commission a joint application-declaration pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") designating sections 6 (b), 9 (a), 10 and 12 (f) of the act and Rules U-23 and U-45 thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions, which are summarized as follows:

Colorado proposes: (a) To refinance $1,000,000 principal amount of 11-month notes issued and delivered to Utah during the year 1953, by issuing and delivering to Utah its note in the principal amount of $1,000,000 bearing interest payable semi-annually at the rate of 4½ percent per annum and maturing July 1, 1963, upon receipt of which note Utah will cancel and return said 11-month notes to Colorado; (b) during the period ending March 31, 1955, to issue and sell to Utah up to, but not more than, 20,000 shares of Colorado's $20 par value common stock for $20 per share, payable in cash; (c) during the period ending March 31, 1955, to borrow from Utah up to, but not more than, $1,000,000, to be evidenced by Colorado's promissory note or notes executed from time to time as such borrowings are made, such notes to bear interest at the rate of 4 percent per annum, payable quarterly, and to mature not more than 11 months from the date thereof. At the end of the period, March 31, 1955, the ratio of the amount of notes to the amount of stock issued shall not exceed ten of notes to four of stock.

Colorado proposes to use the funds so received, other than the refinancing of its 11-month notes as aforesaid, toward financing its current construction program. The company estimates that it will require, in addition to $350,000 of its own cash, approximately $1,400,000 to complete its 1954 construction program and to carry the program forward into 1955.

It is estimated that the total expenses to be incurred herein will not exceed $500.

Colorado has filed with the Public Utilities Commission of Colorado an application for approval of its issuance and delivery to Utah of the $1,000,000 note maturing July 1, 1963, and of its issuance and sale to Utah of not more than 20,000 shares of its common stock at $20 per share, being proposals (a) and (b) aforesaid. Company counsel states that the State commission has jurisdiction over the issuance of securities, including stocks, bonds, notes, or other evidences of indebtedness maturing more than twelve months after the date of issuance.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than February 24, 1954, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law, if any, raised by said application-declaration which he desires to controvert; or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date, said application-declaration, as filed or as amended, may be granted and permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rule U-20 (a) and Rule U-100 thereof.

ARKANSAS POWER & LIGHT CO.

NOTICE OF FILING REGARDING AUTHORIZATION OF NEW CLASS OF PREFERRED STOCK

FEBRUARY 4, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that Arkansas Power & Light Company ("Arkansas"), an electric utility company and a subsidiary of Middle South Utilities, Inc., a registered holding company, has filed a declaration with this Commission of its intention to create a new class of preferred stock ("New Preferred Stock") upon the authorization thereof by the holders of its presently outstanding $7 and $6 preferred stock and its common stock. Arkansas has designated sections 6 (a) and 7 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") and Rule U-23 thereunder as applicable to such proposal.

All interested persons are referred to said declaration which is on file in the offices of the Commission for a statement of the facts and the proposal set forth therein which are summarized as follows:

Arkansas now has outstanding 47,609 shares of $7 preferred stock and 45,891 shares of $6 preferred stock, both classes without par value, comprising the entire amounts of preferred stock authorized by its charter. Arkansas presently intends to refinance such outstanding shares of preferred stock with the proceeds from the sale of New Preferred Stock or by an exchange or conversion of said outstanding shares of preferred stock. Any such refinancing, exchange, or conversion will be the subject of one or more filings with this Commission in the future.

In order to provide the means for refinancing its presently outstanding $7 and $6 preferred stocks, and to finance, in part, its contemplated expenditure of $25,000,000 in 1954 for construction of new facilities and the extension and improvement of its present facilities to provide electric service to its customers, Arkansas proposes to amend its corporate charter so as to authorize the issuance and sale of 250,000 shares of New Preferred Stock, in one or more series, each series to rank pari passu and to have identical characteristics, except as to the number of shares of each series, the distinctive designation, dividend rate, date of payment of dividends, the date from which such dividends shall commence to accumulate, and the amount or amounts payable upon redemption thereof.

The Certificate of Amendment of Arkansas' charter will contain certain protective provisions regarding the New Preferred Stock. One of the provisions, which accords the holders of the New Preferred Stock the right to elect a majority of the board of directors of the company in the event of default in an amount equal to four quarterly dividend payments, will not become operative, however, until the present $7 and $6 preferred stocks, which now enjoy such right, are either acquired or retired by the company. So long as the present preferred stocks remain outstanding, this contingent right of the present preferred stocks may not be conferred upon any other class of stock without the affirmative vote of the holders of two-thirds of the outstanding shares of present preferred stock. Arkansas does not propose to solicit the approval of the holders of its presently outstanding preferred stocks for this purpose, in view of its intention to effect a retirement of such preferred stocks at an early date.

Arkansas proposes to solicit the vote of its stockholders, which requires 60 days' notice under the laws of the State of Arkansas, for authorization of New Preferred Stock.

Arkansas requests that the Commission's order herein be issued on or before February 19, 1954 pursuant to Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations under the act and requests that the Commission's order herein become effective upon issuance.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than February 18, 1954, request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on this matter, stating the reasons for such request, the nature of his interest and the issues of fact or law raised by such declaration which he proposes to controvert, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request shall be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C., and shall be identified by the caption of this notice. At any time after February 18, 1954, the Commission may permit said declaration, as filed or as amended, to become effective forthwith as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or may exempt such proposal from the provisions of the act as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 thereof.

By the Commission.

GPU proposes to make cash capital contributions in the aggregate amount of $350,000 to its public utility subsidiary, Northern Pennsylvania Power Company ("North Penn"). Each such contribution will, upon receipt by North Penn, be credited to the stated capital applicable to its Common Stock. Such capital contributions will be made by GPU from time to time, but not later than September 30, 1954, as North Penn requires funds for construction purposes or to reimburse its treasury for expenditures therefrom for construction purposes or to repay bank loans utilized for that purpose. Thus GPU will by these cash capital contributions assist North Penn with its construction program which is designed to insure that North Penn will continue to be in a position to meet the demands of its consuming public.

It is requested that the Commission's order be expedited and made effective forthwith upon issuance and it is stated that no state or Federal Commission other than this Commission has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions. It is estimated that expenses in connection with the transactions will not exceed $300.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than February 18, 1954 at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law, if any, raised by said declaration which he desires to controvert; or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. This amendment excludes certain areas in Ohio from the areas in which scrapie has been found to exist and in which a quarantine has been established. Hereafter, none of the restrictions of the quarantine and regulations in 9 CFR, 1952 Supp., Part 79, as amended, apply with respect to shipments of sheep from such areas.

The foregoing amendment in part relieves restrictions presently imposed and must be made effective immediately to be of maximum benefit to persons subject to such restrictions. In part the amendment imposes further restrictions necessary to prevent the spread of scrapie, a communicable disease of sheep, and to this extent it must be made effective immediately to accomplish its purpose in the public interest. Accordingly, under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003), it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure with respect to the foregoing amendment are impracticable and contrary to the public interest and good cause is found for making the amendment effective less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Secs. 4, 5, 23 Stat. 32, as amended, sec. 2, 32 Stat. 792, as amended, secs. 1, 3, 33 Stat. 1264, as amended; 21 U. S. C. 111, 120, 123, 125. Interprets or applies sec. 7, 23 Stat. 32, as amended; 21 U. S. C. 117)

Fancy, which are of a size smaller than a size that will pack 96 grapefruit, packed in accordance with the requirements of a standard pack, in a standard nailed box.

(3) As used in this section, "handler," "ship," and "Growers Administrative Committee" shall have the same meaning as when used in said amended marketing agreement and order; and "U. S. By virtue of the authority vested in the President by section 1 of the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847; 43 U. S. C. 141) and pursuant to Executive Order No. 10355 of May 26, 1952, it is ordered as follows:

Executive Order No. 4885 of May 21, 1928, temporarily withdrawing the following-described lands in Idaho pending classification and in aid of legislation, is hereby revoked:

BOISE MERIDIAN

T. 9 S., R. 13 E.,

UTAH

REVOKING PUBLIC LAND ORDER NO. 760 WHICH RESERVED PUBLIC LANDS AND MINERALS IN PATENTED LANDS FOR USE OF THE UNITED STATES ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION

By virtue of the authority vested in the President and pursuant to Executive Order No. 10355 of May 26, 1952, it is ordered as follows:

Public Land Order No. 760 of October 22, 1951, withdrawing the public lands and the minerals reserved to the United States in patented lands in the following described areas in Utah for use of the United States Atomic Energy Commission is hereby revoked:

SALT LAKE MERIDIAN

T. 32 S., R. 11 E., unsurveyed
Secs. 1, 2, and 3, secs. 10 to 15, inclusive, secs. 22 to 27, inclusive, and secs. 34, 35, and 36.
T. 33 S., R. 11 E.,
Secs. 1, 2, 3, 10, 11, and 12.

T. 33 S., R. 12 E.,
Secs. 5 to 8, inclusive.

The areas described, including both public and non-public lands, aggregate approximately 38,194.94 acres.

The above-described lands are of an extremely rough and rugged nature with shallow, rocky soils, and lie at an elevation between 8,000 and 9,500 feet. The few open parks are at too high an elevation, with shallow, rocky soils, to be adaptable to farming, with too little rainfall to produce crops without irrigation. The land is primarily suitable for grazing. It is unlikely that it will be classified for any other use, but any application that is filed will be considered on its merits.

This order shall not otherwise become effective to change the status of the described lands until 10:00 a. m. on the 35th day after the date of this order. At that time the said lands shall become subject to application, selection, petition, and location under the applicable public land laws, subject to valid existing rights, the provisions of existing withdrawals, the requirements of applicable laws, and the 91-day preference right filing period for veterans and others entitled to preference under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. S. C. 279–284), as amended.

TITLE 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 10817]

PART 3—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

TABLE OF ASSIGNMENTS FOR TELEVISION BROADCAST STATIONS

In the matter of amendment of § 3.606 Table of assignments, rules governing Television Broadcast Stations; Docket No. 10817.

1. The Commission has under consideration its notice of proposed rule making and order to show cause (FCC 53-1685) issued in this proceeding on December 21, 1953. In the notice the Commission proposed to amend the Table of Assignments set out in § 3.606 of the rules so as to assign television Channel 72 to Baltimore, Maryland, in place of Channel 60. WITH-TV, Inc., permittee of a television station on Channel 60 in Baltimore, was directed to show cause in this proceeding why its authorization for Station WITH-TV in Baltimore should not be modified to specify operation on Channel 72 in place of Channel 60.

2. WITH-TV, Inc., filed a "Reply to Show Cause Order" stating that it supports the proposed amendment of channels and consents to and requests the modification of its construction permit to specify operation on Channel 72 in lieu of Channel 60.

3. We believe that the assignment of Channel 72 in Baltimore would represent a distinct improvement over the assignment of Channel 60 in light of the severely limited transmitter sites available with the employment of Channel 60. The assignment of Channel 72 in place of Channel 60, therefore, would effect a more efficient utilization of the spectrum and would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity.

4. Authority for the amendment adopted herein is contained in sections 4 (i), 301, 303 (c), (d), (f) and (r), 307 (b), and 316 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

5. The amendment adopted herein involves an existing authorization for television station WITH-TV in Baltimore. We believe, therefore, that the public interest, convenience and necessity would be served by making the amendment adopted herein effective immediately.

6. In view of the foregoing: It is ordered, That, effective immediately, the outstanding authorization of Station WITH-TV in Baltimore, Maryland (BMPCT-1613), is modified to specify operation on Channel 72 in place of Channel 60, and an appropriate authorization will be issued to WITH-TV, Inc.

7. It is further ordered, That, effective immediately, the Table of Assignments contained in § 3.606, rules governing Television Broadcast Stations, is amended as follows:

Baltimore, Md.	2+, 11—, 13+, 18, *24+, 72—

PART 18—INDUSTRIAL, SCIENTIFIC AND MEDICAL SERVICE

ELECTRIC ARC WELDING DEVICES USING RADIO FREQUENCY ENERGY

In the matter of amendment of Part 18 of the Commission's rules and regulations; Docket No. 10113.

At a meeting of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 3d day of February 1954;

The Commission having under consideration the matter of the amendment and extension of footnote 1 to § 18.1 (a) relative to electric arc welding devices using radio frequency energy;

It appearing that footnote 1 of § 18.1 (a) of the Commission's rules provides for the operation of electric arc welding devices using radio frequency on a temporary basis until January 31, 1954 pending a determination of the best solution to the problem of how arc welding equipment may be satisfactorily stabilized and the radiation reduced to limits which may reasonably be expected to prevent harmful interference to authorized radio services, and

It further appearing that the Joint Industry Committee on High Frequency Stabilized Arc Welders has filed a petition with the Commission requesting that a proceeding be instituted to include in Part 18 of the Commission's rules and regulations provisions applicable to electrical arc welding devices using radio frequency energy, which are substantially in accordance with the general provisions of footnote 1 of § 18.1 (a) of the rules; and

It further appearing that the Commission has had insufficient time to make a determination whether or not the promulgation of Rules making the provisions of footnote 1 to § 18.1 (a) an integral part of Part 18 of the rules on a permanent basis would be in the public interest; and

It further appearing that pending a Commission determination of this matter, the continued operation of electric arc welding devices using radio frequency energy should be provided for on a temporary basis until July 31, 1954, in accordance with the provisions of footnote 1 to § 18.1 (a); and

It further appearing that when footnote 1 to § 18.1 was previously amended, the clause requiring users of electric arc welding devices using radio frequency energy to promptly remedy any interference caused by such devices to any authorized radio service was inadvertently omitted; and

It further appearing that the public interest will be served by reinserting the clause with respect to interference to authorized radio services; and

It further appearing that authority for these amendments is contained in section 4 (i), 301, 303 (f) and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended; and

It further appearing that, since these amendments merely extend the existing provisions of footnote 1 to § 18.1 (a) of the rules pending Commission determination of the matters raised by the petition of the Joint Industry Committee on High Frequency Stabilized Arc Welders and reinsert the clause concerning interference to authorized radio services, notice of proposed rule making under the provisions of section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act is not required, and the amendments may be effective immediately;

It is ordered, That, effective January 31, 1954, footnote 1 to § 18.1 (a) of the Commission's rules be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

[1] The effective date of Part 18 with respect to electric arc welding devices using radio frequency energy is suspended from January 31, 1954, until July 31, 1954: Provided, That, in the event of interference from electric arc welding devices using radio frequency energy to any authorized radio service, steps to remedy such interference shall promptly be taken (except that, in case of interference to receivers arising from direct intermediate frequency pickup by such receivers of the fundamental frequency emissions of certified electric arc welding equipment using radio frequency energy, this provision with respect to interference shall not apply): And further provided, however, That equipment manufactured after September 1, 1952 shall be subject to the same technical limitations and standards as are set forth for industrial heating equipment in §§ 18.21 to 18.24, inclusive, except that such equipment need not be operated within a shielded room or space but in lieu thereof shall be operated with sufficient shielding to limit the radiation to the value prescribed in § 18.22: And further provided, That broad band type of emissions from arc welding equipment shall be measured by an instrument having performance characteristics similar to the "Proposed American Standards Specification for a Radio Noise Meter—0.15 to 25 Megacycles/Second" dated March 1950, published by the American Standards Association Committee on Radio Electrical Coordination C63. Quasi-peak values of field intensity shall be measured and used in determining compliance with §§ 18.21 (b) and 18.22 (a). Instruments not having characteristics similar to the above mentioned standards may be used provided suitable correlation factors are used to adjust the field intensity readings to values which would be obtained with an instrument having the desired characteristics.

The certification required by § 18.22 may be based upon field intensity measurements made by the manufacturer of the equipment at locations other than the one where the equipment is in use provided such certification includes a statement by the operator of the equipment that the equipment covered thereby has been installed and is being operated in conformity to the instructions issued by the manufacturer.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Agricultural Marketing Service

[7 CFR Part 28]

COTTONSEED

PROPOSED REVISED STANDARDS FOR GRADES SOLD OR OFFERED FOR SALE FOR CRUSHING PURPOSES WITHIN UNITED STATES; DETERMINATION OF QUANTITY INDEX

Notice is hereby given that the United States Department of Agriculture is considering the revision of the Standards for Grades of Cottonseed Sold or Offered for Sale for Crushing Purposes within the United States (7 CFR Part 28), pursuant to the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.)

The proposed amendment would make mandatory the use of a linters factor in determining the quantity index of cottonseed. The linters factor has been developed to adjust the value of cottonseed for varying amounts of linters on the seed. If the amount of linters is above average the linters factor will increase the grade, and with lower than average amounts the linters factor will reduce the grade. As the linters content of cottonseed diminishes below 10 percent, the discounts for linters increase at a greater rate. This is because the per pound value of linters produced from cottonseed which has a total linters content below 10 percent is less than those produced from cottonseed with a total linters content of more than 10 percent. By use of a basic linters factor of 1.5 for average cottonseed with 11 percent total linters, the table of premiums and discounts shown in paragraph (c) of § 28.402 of the proposed amendment has been prepared on the basis of the formulas listed below:

Percent linters on cottonseed	Premium or discount factor
11.1 and over	Premium = (percent linters minus 11.0) × 1.5.
10.9–10.0	Discount = (11.0 minus percent linters) × 1.5.
9.9–5.0	Discount = (10.0 minus percent linters) × 2.5 + 1.5.
4.9–0	Discount = (5.0 minus percent linters) × 3.0 + 14.0.

It would be necessary to revise the scale of premiums and discounts from time to time to reflect changes in the price relationship between linters and other products obtainable from cottonseed.

The proposed amendment is as follows:

1. Amend § 28.401 by deleting paragraph (d).

2. Delete § 28.402 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 28.402 Determination of quantity index. The quantity index of cottonseed shall be determined as follows:

(a) For cottonseed that by analysis contain 16.5 percent or more of oil, the quantity index shall equal the result of 4 times (percentage of oil), plus 6 times (percentage of ammonia), plus the applicable linters premium or discount shown in paragraph (c) of this section, plus 5.

(b) For cottonseed that by analysis contain less than 16.5 percent of oil, the quantity index shall equal the result of 6 times (percentage of oil), plus 6 times (percentage of ammonia), plus the applicable linters premium or discount shown in paragraph (c) of this section, minus 28.

(c) The premium or discount for total linters content of cottonseed to be used in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section will be according to the following table:

Total linters content of cottonseed (percent)	Premium or discount (quantity index units)	Total linters content of cottonseed (percent)	Premium or discount (quantity index units)
20.0	+13.5	10.0	−1.5

[Docket Nos. AO 103-A13 and AO 103-A13 RO1]

HANDLING OF MILK IN THE NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA, MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS WITH RESPECT TO A PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE TENTATIVE MARKETING AGREEMENT AND TO THE ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of the recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to proposals to amend the tentative marketing agreement and the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, marketing area. Interested parties may file written exceptions to this decison with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business the 5th day after publication of this decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The hearing, on the record of which the following findings and conclusions were formulated, was held at New Orleans, Louisiana, on May 7, 1953, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on April 23, 1953 (18 F. R. 2505) and reopened at the same location on January 14, 1954, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on December 31, 1953 (19 F. R. 70).

The material issues of record related to:

1. The classification and pricing of milk in excess of that disposed of for Class I use;

2. The minimum order price for butterfat used for fluid cream; and

3. The classification and pricing of milk used in Class I-A

Findings and conclusions. The findings and conclusions with respect to the material issues herein decided, all of which are based on the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, are as follows:

1. All producer milk in excess of Class I should be classified as one class and priced on the basis of prices paid for ungraded milk by manufacturing plants in the general area.

The present pricing provisions of the order have not proved satisfactory to permit the full marketing of producers' milk and have not maximized returns to producers. During the past season of flush milk production, a large volume of producers' milk was refused by handlers. The reason for this refusal was allegedly that the level of Class II prices is too high. From the months of April through August 1953, a cooperative association of producers was obliged to receive and separate nearly 5 million pounds of milk from producers. The skim milk from this milk was dumped and most of the fat was shipped as cream to a butter and ice cream mix manufacturing concern several hundred miles distant. The cooperative received in the neighborhood of 65 cents per pound of fat for such cream. Producer returns on this milk varied between $2.00 and $2.26 per hundredweight for 4.0 percent milk. The amount of milk so marketed by the association during this period amounts to between one-third and one-half the volume of producer milk accepted by handlers and utilized in Class III.

An additional amount of milk of unknown volume was taken back by individual farmers and fed to livestock or dumped.

The average returns for producer milk which was not accepted by handlers amounted to approximately $1.00 per hundredweight less than the Class III price. In addition, there was considerable loss of value for milk dumped or fed to livestock.

During the period while producers were marketing or dumping their own milk, prices for Class II products under the order were at or in excess of the costs of similar products from other sources. This handicapped producer milk in competition for the more favorable outlets for excess milk and brought about considerable displacement of sales to these outlets. One handler testified that he had lost a substantial volume of class II sales and that the milk he formerly utilized in Class II had to be utilized in Class III. The reason for such displacement of producer milk in Class II, according to this handler, was the fact that the Class III price under the order was more nearly competitive with the products in such use and that he therefore fared better financially by using producer milk in a lower priced outlet.

Pricing adjustments which bring about marketings as indicated by this testimony are not to the best interest of producers nor of the market as a whole. It is therefore concluded that the price of milk utilized for products now classified as Class II should be reduced to a level more nearly in line with competitive conditions. The level appropriate for this purpose is deemed to be the same as the cost of ungraded milk to unregulated plants in and near the general supply area for the New Orleans market. Paying prices for 6 plants in the State of Mississippi should be used for this purpose. These plants are as follows:

Pet Milk Co., Kosciusko, Miss.
Brookhaven Creamery Co., Brookhaven, Miss.
Borden Food Co., Starkville, Miss.
Kraft Foods Co., Newton, Miss.
Wilson & Co., Macon, Miss.
Cooperative Creamery Assn., Starkville, Miss.

Products made by these plants are available and are sold in competition on the market which absorbs excess producer milk. This market extends through several states adjacent to and including Louisiana. Handlers testified that at prices which they would consider more competitive virtually the entire volume of producer milk might be marketed in the higher value outlets for surplus milk.

The price resulting from this recommended formula would bring about some reduction in the returns to producers from milk which is now utilized in Class II. On the other hand, the average price paid by the 6 Mississippi manufacturing plants runs somewhat above the Class III price under the order. To the extent that milk is marketed at the recommended price rather than at the Class III price, producers stand to benefit. In 1951, the 6 manufacturing plants paid an average price of 30 cents above the Class III price under the order. In 1952, the average difference was 20 cents. For the first 10 months of 1953, during most of which time ungraded milk marketed in the New Orleans milkshed was more or less demoralized, the average difference was only 12 cents. During the past several years, the volume of producer milk sold in Class III has generally exceeded by considerable volume that sold in Class II.

Handlers contended that 15 cents should be deducted from the prices paid by the manufacturing plants in fixing the Class II price to allow for extra costs involved in receiving and transporting producer milk to locations where it may be manufactured. Not all of the surplus milk received from producers must be handled in this fashion. Furthermore, no justification is recognized why producers should be paid for milk according to the method by which each handler chooses to handle such milk. To recognize costs of certain handlers for performing any particular marketing function and to make milk prices dependent upon what processes may be carried out by the handler would tend to relieve handlers of the incentive to operate on a least cost basis.

Since milk is priced on the butterfat and skim basis under the order, it is necessary that the value of 4.0 percent milk, as reflected by the paying price of the 6 Mississippi plants, be broken down according to the relative market price of butterfat and nonfat solids. For this purpose the butterfat should be valued at 110 percent of the Chicago butter price except as noted below. This will mean that the cost of a pound of surplus fat will be about 12 percent less than the value of a pound of fat in 92-score butter as reflected on the wholesale butter market in Chicago. Any remaining value of such Class II milk will be assigned to the nonfat solids portion of the milk.

Indications are that an unusually large volume of surplus milk will be available in the New Orleans market during the coming flush production season. It may be necessary to market some of this milk through ungraded manufacturing plants. Such plants have shown little interest in excess producer milk due, in part, to high rates of production on ungraded farms from which they draw milk. Other ungraded plants deriving their skim milk and butterfat previously in the form of cream, condensed and dried nonfat solids have not afforded an outlet to handlers for producer milk in competition with such products from ungraded sources.

The average test of milk received from producers is more than 4.0 percent. The average test of all producer milk used or disposed of by handlers for manufacturing uses averaged approximately 6.0 percent butterfat in 1953. The butterfat differentials paid farmers by ungraded plants have been less than will result from the proposed formula. In order to encourage producer milk to be utilized to the maximum by handlers, the Class II butterfat price should be determined by using a factor of 105 instead of 110 during the period of high volume and distressed markets. This is slightly less than the weighted average price for butterfat used in Class II and Class III uses during the past year. Although this method of determining the butterfat value will not alter the price for 4.0 percent milk, it should contribute to more orderly marketing of excess butterfat during the flush production period. The record does not show, however, that handlers' ability to utilize or move milk for manufacturing uses will be impaired indefinitely. Therefore, this emergency period should be ended by August 31, at which time surplus milk and butterfat may be less burdensome to the market.

Consolidation of the two classes for surplus milk into one class requires numerous conforming changes in the order. These have been provided for in the attached amendments. Under the base rating plan any excess milk will be paid for first at the Class II price to the extent that Class II utilization is available for such assignment.

2. The pricing provisions of the order relative to butterfat utilized in Class I should not be changed.

The justification for proposing to reduce the price of butterfat used in cream rested primarily on the competition between fluid cream and various substitutes for cream made from vegetable fats. It was contended that the prices provided under the order for Class I butterfat are at levels so high as to impair the competitive position of butterfat in the Class I market and therefore, to bring about a reduction in the sales of producer milk at the Class I price.

Under the present classification provisions of the order, any reduction in the price of Class I butterfat would affect not only the fat in cream products but also the butterfat in other Class I milk products. Most of the Class I butterfat is in fact contained in the latter products. No proposal was made to reduce the price of butterfat in bottled milk and the record evidence does not indicate that such a reduction would be appropriate at this time. Neither was there any proposal nor record evidence to justify establishment of a separate class for fluid cream.

The proposal, as suggested on the hearing record, would result in an increase in the price of skim milk to the extent that fat values are decreased. This would be true, since no proposal was made to change the Class I price itself. If the Class I price is not to be altered, the only remaining method for accomplishing a reduction in Class I butterfat costs would be to shift a greater proportion of the price of Class I milk onto the nonfat solids. The evidence indicates, however, any increase in price of nonfat solids under the order might impair the competitive position of producer milk for Class I use with relation to concentrated solids from other sources.

Since the record does not justify any overall reduction in the Class I price at this time nor an increase in the price for nonfat solids, it is not appropriate to make any change in the order price for Class I butterfat.

3. Provision under the order for classification and pricing of milk used in Class I–A (canned sterile milk) should be discontinued. The party proposing the change in the Class I–A price indicated that the present prices under the order are too high to permit milk utilized in this class under the New Orleans marketing order to be competitive with milk from unpriced sources. The proposal dealt, however, only with milk to be disposed of as Class I–A milk outside the marketing area. It was contended that milk for this use may come from sources competitive with manufactured milk prices. It was therefore considered impossible to process milk priced under the order and sell it in competition with this market if it was necessary to pay anything above the Class III price. The proponent did not suggest, however, that the price for Class I–A milk be changed if marketed to outlets in the New Orleans marketing area. On the other hand, no provision was suggested in the order for regulating nonpool handlers who may supply such milk into the marketing area. Neither does there appear to be any basis for regulating canned sterile milk from such outside sources.

No milk has been utilized in Class I–A under the order since September 1952. Record evidence indicates that no handler is now equipped to make such use of milk at the present time and there is no anticipation of such use in the near future. All special provisions in the order relative to this class of milk, therefore, should be withdrawn.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Written argument and proposed findings and conclusions submitted on behalf of interested persons concerning issues on which decision is herein recommended were considered, along with the evidence in the record, in making the findings and reaching the conclusions herein set forth. To the extent that the proposed findings and conclusions differ from the findings and conclusions contained herein, the specific or implied requests to make such findings are denied because of the reasons stated in support of the findings and conclusions in this decision.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Recommended marketing agreement and order amending the order, as amended. The following order amending the order, as amended, is recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which the foregoing conclusions may be carried out. The recommended marketing agreement is not included in this decision because the regulatory provisions thereof would be identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended.

ADMINISTRATIVE BODY

* § 984.32 Establishment and membership. (a) A Control Board is hereby established, consisting of ten members, selected by the Secretary, for each of whom there shall be an alternate member who shall be nominated and selected in the same manner and shall have the same qualifications as the member for whom each is an alternate. One member and one alternate member shall be selected from nominees by each of the following groups or from among other qualified persons belonging to such groups:

(1) The cooperative packers doing business within the State of California;

(2) All packers and distributors, other than the cooperative packers, doing business within the State of California;

(3) The group of cooperative packers or other than cooperative packers doing business within the State of California, who, during the preceding marketing year, handled more than 50 percent of the merchantable walnuts handled by packers located within the State of California;

(4) Those growers of walnuts whose orchards are located in California and who market their walnuts through cooperative packers;

(5) All other growers of walnuts whose orchards are located in California;

(6) Those growers whose orchards are located in California and whose walnuts were marketed during the preceding marketing year through the packer group specified in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph;

(7) The packers whose plants are located within the States of Oregon or Washington;

(8) The growers of walnuts whose orchards are located within the States of Oregon or Washington;

 (9) Shellers of walnuts within the area of production who are handlers but who are not packers.

(b) The tenth member shall be selected after the selection of the nine members from the above specified groups and after opportunity for such nine members to nominate the tenth member.

* § 984.33 Term of office. The term of office of Control Board members and alternate members shall be for a period of one year, beginning on July 1 of each year. Members and their respective alternates shall be selected by the Secretary and shall serve until their respective successors shall be selected and shall qualify.

§ 984.34 Nominations. (a) Each of the nine groups specified in § 984.32 may nominate one person as member and one person as alternate; and the nine members first selected may nominate, by majority vote, one person as member and one person as alternate for the tenth member. Nominations for each packer group shall be submitted on the basis of ballots to be mailed by the Control Board to all packers in such group whose pack for the preceding marketing year is on record with the Control Board. Nominations on behalf of growers who market their walnuts through cooperative packers shall be submitted on the basis of ballots cast by each such cooperative packer for its growers. Nominations on behalf of growers who market their walnuts through other than cooperative packers shall be submitted after ballot by such growers pursuant to announcements by press releases through the United States Department of Agriculture to the principal papers in the walnut producing areas in California, Oregon, and Washington. Such releases shall provide pertinent information, including the names of incumbents from the areas involved and the locations where ballots may be obtained. The ballots shall be accompanied by full instructions as to their marking and mailing. All votes cast by cooperative packers, packers other than cooperative packers, or for cooperative grower groups, shall be weighted according to the tonnage of merchantable walnuts (computed to the nearest whole ton in case of fractions) recorded as certified for handling by the packer or for the cooperative grower group during the preceding marketing year, and if less than one ton is recorded for any such packer or grower group, its vote shall be weighted as one vote. All votes cast by individual growers shall be given equal weight: Provided, That when growers marketing through cooperative packers and growers marketing through other than cooperative packers are in the same group entitled to submit nominations, the vote for the nominee receiving the largest number of votes of growers marketing through other than cooperative packers shall be weighted according to the combined tonnage of merchantable walnuts of such other than cooperative packers recorded as certified for handling by them during the preceding marketing year.

(b) Nominations for the sheller group shall be submitted on the basis of ballots to be mailed by the Control Board to all shellers of record who are handlers but who are not packers or distributors. All votes cast by such shellers shall be weighted according to the quantity of shelled walnuts handled by each such sheller during the preceding marketing year.

*(c) Nominations received in the foregoing manner by the Control Board shall be reported to the Secretary on or before June 1 of each marketing year, together with a certificate of all necessary tonnage data and other information deemed by the Board to be pertinent or requested by the Secretary. If the Board fails to report nominations to the Secretary in the manner hereinbefore specified on or before June 1 of any year, the Secretary may select the member or alternate without nomination. If nominations for the tenth member or alternate are not submitted on or before August 1 of any year, the Secretary may select such member or alternate without nomination.

§ 984.35 Qualification. Any person selected as a member or alternate of the Control Board shall qualify by filing a written acceptance of his appointment with the Secretary or his designated representative. Any member or alternate who, at the time of his selection, was a member of or employed by a member of the group which nominated him shall, within thirty days after he ceases to be such member or employee, become disqualified to serve further and his position on the Control Board shall be deemed vacant.

§ 984.36 Alternates. (a) An alternate for a member of the Control Board shall act in the place and stead of such member in his absence or in the event of his death, removal, resignation, or disqualification, until a successor for his unexpired term has been selected and has qualified.

(b) In the event any member of the Control Board and his alternate are both unable to attend a meeting of the Control Board, any alternate for any other member nominated by the same group that nominated the absent member may serve in the place and stead of the absent member and his alternate, or in the event such other alternate cannot attend, or there is no such other alternate, such member or, in the event of his disability or a vacancy, his alternate may designate, subject to the disapproval of the Secretary, a temporary substitute to attend such meeting. At such meeting such temporary substitute may act in the place and stead of such member. For the purposes of this paragraph, a cooperative handler group and a cooperative grower group in the same state shall be considered the same group.

§ 984.37 Vacancy. To fill any vacancy occasioned by the death, removal, resignation, or disqualification of any member or alternate of the Control Board, a successor for his unexpired term shall be selected in accordance with § 984.34 within thirty days after such vacancy occurs. If a nomination is not made and reported to the Secretary by the Board within such thirty days, the Secretary may select a member or alternate to fill such vacancy.

§ 984.38 Expenses. The members of the Control Board shall serve without compensation, but shall be allowed their necessary expenses.

§ 984.39 Powers. The Control Board shall have the following powers:

(a) To administer the provisions hereof in accordance with its terms;

(b) To make rules and regulations to effectuate the terms and provisions hereof;

(c) To receive, investigate, and report to the Secretary complaints of violations hereof;

(d) To recommend to the Secretary amendments hereto.

§ 984.40 Duties. The duties of the Control Board shall be as follows:

(d) To appoint such employees as it may deem necessary and to determine the salaries, define the duties, and fix the bonds of such employees;

(e) To cause the books of the Control Board to be audited by one or more competent public accountants at least once for each marketing year and at such other times as the Control Board deems necessary or as the Secretary may request, and to file with the Secretary three copies of all audit reports made;

(f) To investigate the growing, shipping and marketing conditions with respect to walnuts and to assemble data in connection therewith;

••(g) To investigate compliance with the provisions of this part.

§ 984.41 Procedure. (a) The members of the Control Board shall select a chairman from their membership and all communications from the Secretary may be addressed to the chairman at such address as may from time to time be filed with the Secretary. The Board shall select such other officers and adopt such rules for the conduct of its business as it may deem advisable. The Board shall give to the Secretary or his designated agent and representatives the same notice of meetings of the Control Board as is given to members of the Board.

(b) All decisions of the Control Board, except where otherwise specifically provided, shall be by majority vote of the members present. The presence of six members shall be required to constitute a quorum.

(c) The Control Board may vote by mail or telegram upon due notice to all members, and when any proposition is submitted for voting by such method, one dissenting vote shall prevent its adoption until submitted to a meeting of the Control Board.

GRADE REGULATION OF UNSHELLED WALNUTS

• § 984.43 Establishment of pack specifications and minimum standards. In order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, the Control Board shall, with the approval of the Secretary, prescribe pack specifications for the several commercially recognized grades, including minimum standards of quality and maturity, for the packing of unshelled walnuts; and thereafter each handler shall pack all unshelled walnuts to be handled by him in accordance with such specifications and minimum standards and, prior to shipment, shall have such walnuts certified as merchantable. The provisions hereof relating to minimum standards of quality and maturity and grading and inspection requirements, within the meaning of section 2 (3) of the act, and any other provisions pertaining to the administration and enforcement thereof, shall continue in effect irrespective of whether the season average price for walnuts is in excess of the parity level specified in section 2 (1) of the act. To aid the Secretary in determining whether to approve such pack specifications, the Control Board shall furnish to the Secretary the data upon which it acted in prescribing such pack specifications and such other data pertaining thereto as the Secretary may request.

• § 984.44 Certification of merchantable walnuts. (a) Each handler, at his own expense, shall obtain an appropriate inspection certificate for each lot of merchantable walnuts handled or to be handled by him and for each lot of merchantable restricted walnuts withheld by him. Such certificates shall be issued by inspectors designated by the Control Board. All such certificates shall show, in addition to such information as is specified in (b) (1), (2), or (3) of this section, the identity of the handler, the quantity and pack of merchantable walnuts in such lot, date of inspection, and that the walnuts covered by such certificate conform to the pack specifications and minimum requirements prescribed pursuant to § 984.43. Copies of each certificate issued shall be furnished by the inspector to the handler and the Control Board.

••(b) Three types of certificates may be issued, all of which shall contain the information specified in paragraph (a) of this section and, in addition, the following information:

(1) "Shipping certificates," covering merchantable walnuts shipped, which shall show the date of shipment, name and address of carrier, railroad car number, whether for interstate, intrastate, or export shipment and, if for export, the country of destination;

(2) "Stock certificates," covering lots of merchantable walnuts to be handled, which shall show the handler's lot number;

(3) "Restricted certificates," covering lots of merchantable restricted walnuts to be withheld, which shall show the handler's lot number and location of the lot at time of inspection.

•(c) All walnuts handled shall be identified by seals or stamps affixed to the container by the handlers under the supervision of the Control Board or the designated inspectors. All lots covered by stock certificates or restricted certificates shall be identified by tags affixed to the containers by the handlers under the supervision of the Control Board or the designated inspectors. The Control Board may require that all walnuts covered by stock or restricted certificates be identified by seals affixed to the containers by the handlers under the supervision of the Control Board or the designated inspectors.

••(d) The shipment of walnuts from a lot covered by a stock inspection certificate shall be reported to the Control Board. Such reports shall be submitted by the handler or the designated inspectors, at such intervals and in such form as the Board may prescribe, pursuant to § 984.69.

•• (e) Whenever the Control Board determines that the length of time in storage or conditions of storage of any lot of walnuts which has been previously inspected have been or are such as to normally cause deterioration, such lot of walnuts shall be reinspected at the handler's expense and must be recertified as merchantable prior to shipment.

• ALLOCATION OF MERCHANTABLE WALNUTS

§ 984.47 Recommendation for merchantable free and restricted percentages. (a) Whenever the Control Board finds that the supply of merchantable walnuts exceeds or is likely to exceed the trade demand therefor and that it would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act to establish the percentages of merchantable walnuts during a marketing year which shall be free and restricted, respectively, it shall recommend such percentages to the Secretary. In making its recommendation, the Board shall furnish to the Secretary, not later than September 20 of each marketing year, the following estimates and recommendation, each of which shall be adopted by the affirmative vote of at least six members of the Board:

(1) Its estimate of the quantity of merchantable walnuts to be produced and packed during such year;

(2) Its estimate of the handler carryover of merchantable walnuts as of August 1;

(3) Its estimate of the trade demand for merchantable walnuts (on the basis of prices not exceeding the maximum prices contemplated in section 2 of the act); in determining such trade demand, consideration shall be given to the estimated trade carryover at the beginning and end of the marketing year;

(4) Its recommendation as to the merchantable free and restricted percentages to be fixed.

(b) The Board shall also furnish to the Secretary a complete report of the proceedings of the Board meeting at which the recommended merchantable free and restricted percentages to be fixed by the Secretary were adopted.

§ 984.48 Establishment of merchantable free and restricted percentage regulations by the Secretary. Whenever the Secretary finds from the recommendation of the Control Board and supporting information supplied by the Control Board, or from any other available information, that to establish the percentage of merchantable walnuts which shall be free and restricted, respectively, during any marketing year, would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall so establish such percentages. In establishing such merchantable free and restricted percentages, the Secretary shall give consideration to the ratio of the estimated trade demand for merchantable walnuts (with appropriate adjustments for such handler carryover as may have theretofore contributed to the restricted percentage and for a desirable level of handler carryover at the end of the marketing year), to the sum of the estimated production of merchantable walnuts and the handler carryover of merchantable walnuts which has not theretofore contributed to the restricted percentage, to the recommendation submitted to him by the Control Board, and to such other pertinent information as he deems appropriate. The merchantable allocation percentage shall also be established by the Secretary.

§ 984.49 Withholding merchantable restricted walnuts. (a) Except as otherwise provided in § 984 81, whenever a regulation has been established by the Secretary under the provisions of § 984.48, each handler, before or upon handling any unshelled walnuts, shall have withheld from handling a quantity of merchantable walnuts equal to the merchantable allocation percentage by weight of such quantity handled or certified for handling by him: Provided, That this provision shall not apply to any lot of merchantable walnuts which is sold or delivered within the area of production to a handler for subsequent handling and which is reported to the Control Board pursuant to § 984.74.

(b) The quantity of walnuts hereby required to be withheld shall constitute and may be referred to as the "merchantable restricted obligation" of a handler. The merchantable walnuts handled by any handler in accordance with the provisions of this sub-part shall be deemed to be that handler's quota fixed by the Secretary within the meaning of section 8 (a) (5) of the act.

••CONTROL OF SURPLUS WALNUTS

§ 984.52 Recommendation for marketable and surplus percentages. (a) Whenever the Control Board finds that the total supply of walnuts, unshelled and shelled, expressed in terms of sound kernel weight, exceeds or is likely to exceed the total trade demand therefor and that it would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act to establish marketable and surplus percentages on unshelled and shelled walnuts, it shall recommend to the Secretary such percentages for walnuts produced in each district. In making its recommendation, the Board shall furnish to the Secretary, not later than September 20 of each marketing year, the following estimates and recommendation, each of which shall be adopted by the affirmative vote of at least six members of the Board:

(1) Its estimate of the applicable orchard-run production;

(2) Its estimate of the quantity of merchantable walnuts to be produced and packed during such year, expressed in terms of sound kernel weight;

(3) Its estimate of the handler carryover of merchantable walnuts as of August 1, expressed in terms of sound kernel weight;

(4) Its estimate of merchantable trade demand (on the basis of prices not exceeding the maximum prices contemplated in section 2 of the act), expressed in terms of sound kernel weight; in determining such trade demand, consideration shall be given to the estimated trade carryover at the beginning and end of the marketing year;

(5) Its estimate of shelled walnut production during such marketing year;

(6) Its estimate of shelled handler carryover as of August 1;

(7) Its estimate of shelled trade demand (on the basis of prices not exceeding the maximum prices contemplated in section 2 of the act); in determining such trade demand, consideration shall be given to the estimated trade carryover at the beginning and end of the marketing year;

(8) Its recommendation as to the marketable and surplus percentages to be fixed.

(b) The Control Board shall also furnish to the Secretary a complete report of the proceedings of the Board meeting at which the recommended marketable and surplus percentages to be fixed by the Secretary were adopted.

§ 984.53 Establishment of marketable and surplus percentage regulations by the Secretary. (a) Whenever the Secretary finds from the recommendation of the Control Board and supporting information supplied by the Control Board, or from any other available information, that to establish the percentages of walnuts which shall be marketable and surplus, respectively, during any marketing year would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall so establish such percentages for walnuts produced in each district. The applicable diversion percentages shall also be established by the Secretary.

(b) For the purposes of the control of surplus walnuts, the area of production shall be divided into Districts 1 and 2. District 1 shall consist of the State of California and District 2 shall consist of the States of Oregon and Washington. Uniform marketable and surplus percentages shall be established for the entire area of production, except that the surplus percentage established with respect to walnuts produced in either district may be lower than the percentage established with respect to walnuts produced in the other district whenever the latest official forecast of the U. S. Department of Agriculture is for a total crop of walnuts in such district of a size smaller than the average size of the total crops produced in such district during the three immediately preceding crop years, based on the latest official reports of the U. S. Department of Agriculture: Provided, That for each 10 percentage-point difference, or fraction thereof, below the aforementioned average, the surplus percentage with respect to walnuts produced in such district may be established at a maximum of 5 percentage-points below the surplus percentage established with respect to walnuts produced in the other district; and, in no event, shall the surplus percentage established with respect to walnuts produced in either district be less than one-half of the surplus percentage established with respect to walnuts produced in the other district.

§ 984.54 Withholding surplus walnuts. (a) Except as otherwise provided in § 984.81, whenever a regulation has been established by the Secretary under the provisions of § 984.53, each handler, before or upon handling any walnuts, unshelled or shelled, shall have withheld from handling a quantity of walnuts having a sound kernel weight equal to the diversion percentage of the sound kernel weight of all walnuts handled or certified for handling by him during a marketing year: Provided, That this provision shall not apply to any lot of walnuts which is sold or delivered within the area of production to a handler for subsequent handling and which is reported to the Control Board pursuant to § 984.74.

(b) Walnuts withheld as surplus shall be set aside and thereafter held for the account of the Control Board at the expense of the handler and, from the date of withholding, at all times thereafter shall be held by the handler, available for inspection by the Control Board or its agents. Such walnuts shall be stored in such manner as to maintain them in the same condition as when certified for surplus, except for loss through fire, acts of God, acts of war, riot, or other conditions beyond the handler's control. Upon demand of the Control Board, they shall be delivered to the Board f. o. b. handler's warehouse or point of storage. All such surplus walnuts so withheld by the handler shall be at the time of withholding placed by the handler, at his own expense, in suitable containers, which may be prescribed by the Control Board, and identified by appropriate seals or stamps and tags to be furnished by the Control Board and to be affixed to the containers by the handlers under the direction and supervision of the Control Board or its designated inspectors.

(c) The quantity of walnuts hereby required to be withheld shall constitute and may be referred to as the "diversion surplus" or the "diversion surplus obligation" of a handler. The walnuts handled by any handler in accordance with the provisions hereof shall be deemed to be that handler's quota fixed by the Secretary within the meaning of section 8 (a) (5) of the act.

§ 984.55 Determination of sound kernel weight—(a) For merchantable walnuts handled. All merchantable walnuts handled or certified for handling by any handler during a marketing year shall be included in the total sound kernel weight for such handler at the unshelled weight thereof, as shown by the applicable inspection certificates issued pursuant to § 984.44, multiplied by the sound kernel content percentage of such walnuts, as determined by the Control Board's designated inspectors. The inspection procedure for determining the sound kernel content of merchantable walnuts handled shall be prescribed by the Control Board, with the approval of the Secretary. The sound kernel percentage of each lot of walnuts certified in accordance with § 984.44 shall be shown for each pack and size on the certificates issued under § 984.44: Provided, That if a handler does not store merchantable walnuts covered by stock certificates in such a manner as to permit accurate identification with respect to each certificate, the sound kernel weight for such walnuts shipped from such lots may be determined by multiplying the unshelled weights of each pack and size reported to the Control Board, pursuant to § 984.69, by the cumulative average sound kernel content percentage of all of the merchantable walnuts of such packs and sizes certified for such handler from the beginning of the current season to the date on which the report of shipment is received by the Control Board.

(b) For shelled walnuts handled. All shelled walnuts handled by any handler during a marketing year shall be included in the total sound kernel weight for such handler at the actual net weight thereof, as shown by the reports submitted by him pursuant to § 984.71 or as shown by such handler's records.

§ 984.56 Grade requirements for surplus—(a) For unshelled walnuts. Any lot of unshelled walnuts, the kernel weight of which is offered to meet any part or all of a handler's surplus obligation, must contain at least the minimum percentage (based on unshelled weight) of sound kernels as is established by the Control Board, with the approval of the Secretary.

(b) For shelled walnuts. Any lot of shelled walnuts, to be eligible for certification as surplus, must meet the specifications of the U. S. Commercial Grade, as defined in the U. S. Standards for Shelled English Walnuts. Such specifications may be modified by the Board with the approval of the Secretary.

§ 984.57 Inspection and certification of surplus. It shall be the duty of each handler to cause an inspection to be made of all walnuts withheld by him in satisfaction of his surplus obligation. Such inspection shall be performed by inspectors designated by the Control Board and in such manner as shall be determined by the Control Board, with the approval of the Secretary. The cost thereof shall be paid by the handler. A certificate of such inspection shall be issued which shall show the identity of the handler, the number and type of containers in the lot, and whether the walnuts are unshelled or shelled. If the walnuts are unshelled, the certificate shall show the total weight of unshelled walnuts in the lot and the percentage, by weight, of sound kernels in the lot; and, if shelled, the total weight of shelled walnuts in the lot and that such walnuts meet the specifications prescribed pursuant to § 984.56 (b). Copies of each certificate shall be furnished to the handler and the Control Board.

§ 984.58 Storage facilities. The Control Board may rent and operate, or arrange for the use of facilities for storage and handling of surplus walnuts withheld.

DISPOSITION OF CONTROLLED WALNUTS

• § 984.61 Disposition of merchantable restricted walnuts withheld—(a) By shelling. Any handler may shell the merchantable restricted walnuts which he withholds pursuant to § 948.49 or deliver them for shelling to an authorized sheller.

(1) Any person within the area of production who desires to become an authorized sheller may submit an application to the Control Board. Such authorization shall be granted to applicants for a period of one year upon submission to the Control Board of an agreement in writing to:

(i) Shell such merchantable restricted walnuts within the area of production;

(ii) Use such merchantable restricted walnuts as he may receive for no other purpose than shelling;

(iii) Dispose of or deliver such merchantable restricted walnuts as unshelled walnuts to no one other than an authorized sheller;

(iv) Comply fully with all laws and regulations applicable to the shelling of walnuts;

(v) Pursuant to the provisions of § 984.75, report to the Control Board the receipt of any lot of merchantable restricted walnuts;

(vi) Permit, at his own expense, such inspection as the Control Board may require to determine compliance with the provisions of this sub-paragraph.

(b) By export. Sales of merchantable restricted walnuts, withheld pursuant to § 984.49, for shipment or export to destinations outside the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Canal Zone shall be made only by the Control Board. The Control Board shall be obligated to sell in export only such quantities for which it may be able to find satisfactory outlets. Sales for export shall be made by the Control Board only on execution of an agreement to prevent reimportation into the United States; and, in the case of export to Canada or Mexico, such walnuts shall be sold only on the basis of a delivered price, duty paid. A handler, at his request, shall be authorized to act as agent of the Control Board upon such terms and conditions as the Control Board may specify in negotiating export sales from merchantable restricted walnuts withheld by him, or a handler may be so authorized with respect to merchantable restricted walnuts withheld by others; and when so acting, shall be entitled to receive a commission of 5 percent of the export sales price, f. o. b. area of production. The proceeds of any such export sales by a handler, after deducting all expenses actually and necessarily incurred, shall be paid to the handler withholding the walnuts so sold by the Board.

•• § 984.62 Disposition of surplus walnuts withheld—(a) By export. Sales of surplus walnuts, withheld pursuant to § 984.54, for shipment or export to destinations outside the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Canal Zone shall be made only by the Control Board and shall be governed by the provisions of § 984.61 (b).

(b) By other than export. Surplus walnuts which are not disposed of pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, shall be pooled and shall be disposed of by the Control Board upon the best terms and at the highest rate obtainable consistent with the ultimate complete disposition of surplus, subject to the following conditions:

(1) No such surplus walnuts shall be sold in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Canal Zone other than to governmental agencies or to charitable institutions for charitable purposes, except for diversion into walnut oil, poultry or animal feed, or into such other channels as the Control Board finds to be non-competitive with existing normal markets for walnuts and with proper safeguards in each case to prevent such walnuts thereafter entering the channels of trade in such normal markets.

(2) The Control Board shall not, prior to March 31 of any crop year, dispose of more than 50 percent of the surplus walnuts withheld other than under the provisions of § 984.83 and paragraph (a) of this section.

(3) Any surplus walnuts remaining unsold as of August 31 of the marketing year following the marketing year in which such surplus walnuts were withheld shall be disposed of as soon as practicable through the most readily available outlets, within the limitations of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

(c) Disposition of proceeds from sales of pooled surplus. Expenses incurred by the Control Board in receiving, handling, holding and disposing of pooled surplus walnuts shall be charged against the proceeds of sales of such surplus walnuts. The remaining proceeds from the disposition of pooled surplus walnuts shall be distributed by the Control Board to handlers in proportion to their contributions thereto, measured by the weight of the shelled walnuts or by the sound kernel content equivalent if the walnuts are unshelled.

EXPENSES AND ASSESSMENTS

• § 984.65 Expenses. The Control Board is authorized to incur such expenses as the Secretary may find are reasonable and likely to be incurred by it during each marketing year, for the maintenance and functioning of the Control Board and for such purposes as the Secretary may, pursuant to the provisions hereof, determine to be appropriate. The recommendation of the Control Board as to the expenses for each such marketing year, together with all data supporting such recommendations, shall be submitted to the Secretary on or before September 20 of the marketing year in connection with which such recommendation is made. The funds to cover such expenses shall be acquired by levying assessments as hereinafter provided.

• § 984.66 Assessments—(a) Establishment of assessment rates by the Secretary. The Secretary shall fix separate rates of assessment for each marketing year to be paid by each handler with respect to merchantable walnuts handled or certified for handling and with respect to shelled walnuts handled. At any time during or after a marketing year, the Secretary may increase either or both of these rates of assessment to apply respectively, to all merchantable walnuts handled or certified for handling during the marketing year or to all shelled walnuts handled during such year, to secure sufficient funds to cover the expenses authorized by § 984.65, or any later finding by the Secretary relative to the expenses of the Control Board, and such additional assessments shall be paid to the Control Board upon demand.

(b) Requirement for payment. Each handler of merchantable walnuts and shelled walnuts shall, with respect to the merchantable walnuts handled or certified for handling by him and the shelled walnuts handled by him, pay to the Control Board, upon demand, his pro-rata share of the expenses which the Secretary finds are reasonable and are likely to be incurred during each marketing year. Each handler's share of such expenses shall be: For merchantable walnuts handled or certified for handling during the applicable marketing year, the ratio between the total quantity of merchantable walnuts handled by him and the total quantity of such walnuts handled by all handlers during such marketing year; for shelled walnuts handled, the ratio of the weight of shelled walnuts handled by him during the applicable marketing year and the weight of all shelled walnuts handled during such marketing year by all handlers.

••(c) Suit to enforce payment. The Control Board may, with the approval of the Secretary, maintain suits in its own name or in the names of its members, to enforce the payment of assessments levied under this section.

••(d) Expenses of surplus walnut operations. The Control Board is authorized to use funds derived from assessments collected pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section to defray expenses incurred by the Control Board in discharging its obligations, pursuant hereto, with respect to surplus walnuts withheld. All such expenses shall be deducted from the proceeds obtained by the Control Board from the sale or other disposal of pooled surplus walnuts pursuant to § 984.62 (b).

(e) Accounting and refunds. (1) Any money collected as assessments during any marketing year and not expended in connection with the respective marketing year's operations hereunder, may be used and shall be refunded by the Control Board in accordance with the provisions hereof. Such excess funds may be used by the Control Board during the period of four months subsequent to such marketing year in paying the expenses of the Control Board in connection with the new marketing year. The Control Board shall, however, from funds on hand, including assessments collected during the new marketing year, distribute or make available within five months after the beginning of the new marketing year the aforesaid excess to the handlers from whom assessments were collected. Such refunds to each handler shall be made on the basis of the ratio of the total amount paid by him to the total amount paid by all handlers.

(2) Any money collected from assessments hereunder and remaining unexpended in the possession of the Control Board upon the termination hereof shall be distributed in such manner as the Secretary may direct.

REPORTS

• § 984.68 Reports of handler carryovers. Each handler, on or before August 15 and January 15 of each marketing year, shall file with the Control Board a written report of:

(a) All merchantable walnuts (except such as may be certified and held to meet the handler's merchantable restricted obligation or his surplus obligation in accordance with the provisions of § 984.49 and § 984.54), including the estimated quantity of merchantable walnuts in ungraded lots to be packed as merchantable walnuts, held by him on the first day of August and January, respectively, showing the pack (if merchantable) and location thereof and the quantities:

(1) Which theretofore have been certified for handling and on which the merchantable restricted obligation has previously been met;

(2) Which have been packed as merchantable walnuts but have not been certified and on which the merchantable restricted obligation has not been met; and

(3) Which are estimated as merchantable but have not been packed as merchantable and are to be so packed.

••(b) All shelled walnuts (except such as may be certified and held as surplus in accordance with the provisions of § 984.54), including the estimated quantity of shelled walnuts in unshelled lots to be shelled, held by him on the first day of August and January, respectively, showing the locations thereof and the quantities:

(1) On which the surplus obligation has previously been met;

(2) Which have been shelled but on which the surplus obligation has not been met; and

(3) Which are estimated as shelled walnuts to be produced, but have not yet been shelled.

•• § 984.69 Reports of merchantable walnuts shipped from stock. Each handler, upon shipping merchantable walnuts from a lot covered by a stock certificate shall submit a report, at such intervals and in such form as the Board may prescribe, showing the date of shipment, name and address of carrier, railroad car number, whether for interstate, intrastate, or export shipment, and, if for export, the country of destination: Provided, That the Control Board may, at its option, waive the requirement for any of the prescribed items of information in individual cases where it deems that such items are unnecessary to assure full compliance and accurate accounting.

• § 984.70 Reports of merchantable restricted and surplus walnuts held. Each handler, from time to time, on demand of the Control Board, shall file with the Board a report of the merchantable restricted and surplus walnuts held by him pursuant to the provisions of §§ 984.49 and 984.54, as of any date specified by the Board. Such reports at the request of the Control Board may be in the form of confirmations of the records of the Board of such handler's holdings. Such reports shall show the quantity, pack (if merchantable), location, and the applicable handler's lot number of the walnuts covered thereby.

•• § 984.71 Reports of shelled walnuts handled. Each handler who handles shelled walnuts at any time during a marketing year shall submit reports thereof to the Control Board, in such form and at such intervals as the Board may prescribe, for all shelled walnuts handled by him. Such reports shall accurately show the net weight of shelled walnuts so handled by him and such other information pertinent thereto as the Control Board may specify.

• § 984.72 Reports of disposition of merchantable restricted walnuts withheld—(a) Reports of intention to dispose. Each handler, before he disposes of any quantity of merchantable restricted walnuts held by him, shall file with the Control Board a report of his intention to dispose of such walnuts. This report shall be filed not less than five days prior to the date on which such walnuts are disposed of, unless the five day period is expressly waived by the Control Board.

(b) Report of disposition accomplished. Each handler, within fifteen days after the disposition of any quantity of merchantable restricted walnuts, shall file with the Control Board a report of the actual disposition of such walnuts.

(c) Requirements of reports. The reports required by this section shall show the quantity, pack, location, the applicable handler's storage lot numbers, and the inspection certificate numbers of the walnuts covered thereby, and the disposition which is intended or which has been accomplished.

• § 984.73 Reports of sale or delivery of walnuts for packing or shelling. Within the area of production, any shipment of unshelled walnuts, other than merchantable walnuts (which involves the shipment of such walnuts from California to Oregon or Washington, from Oregon to Washington, and from Oregon or Washington to California) for sale or delivery to a packer for packing or to a sheller for shelling shall be reported to the Control Board by the shipper at time of shipment and by the packer or sheller immediately upon receipt of such shipment. The report by the shipper shall show the date of shipment, the quantities shipped, the identity of the consignee, and whether the walnuts so shipped will be packed or shelled. The report by the consignee shall show the date of receipt of the walnuts so shipped, the quantities of the walnuts so received, the identity of the shipper, and shall include a certification to the U. S. Department of Agriculture and to the Control Board that the walnuts so received will be handled in accordance with regulations established pursuant to the provisions of §§ 984.43 and 984.53.

•• § 984.74 Reports of sale or delivery of walnuts for subsequent handling. Within the area of production, any shipment of merchantable or shelled walnuts by a handler to another handler for subsequent handling shall be reported to the Control Board by the shipper at time of shipment and by the consignee immediately upon receipt of such shipment. The report by the shipper shall show the date of shipment, whether the walnuts are merchantable or shelled, the quantities shipped, and the identity of the consignee, and the shipper shall obtain and submit a certification from the consignee to the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Control Board that he will meet the control obligations on the walnuts so shipped. The report by the consignee shall show the date of receipt of the walnuts so shipped and the identity of the shipper.

• § 984.75 Reports of receipt of merchantable restricted walnuts for shelling. Each authorized sheller, immediately upon receipt of any lot of merchantable restricted walnuts, shall report to the Control Board the quantity and pack of the walnuts so received, the identity of the person from whom received, and, within fifteen days after the disposition of such walnuts, shall report such disposition to the Control Board.

§ 984.76 Other reports. Upon request of the Control Board, made with the approval of the Secretary, each handler shall furnish to the Control Board in such manner and at such times as it prescribes (in addition to such other reports as are specifically provided for herein) such other information as will enable the Control Board to perform its duties and exercise its powers hereunder.

• § 984.77 Verification of reports. For the purpose of checking and verifying reports made by handlers, the Control Board, through its duly authorized agents, shall have access to each handler's premises wherein walnuts may be held by such handler and, at any time during reasonable business hours, shall be permitted to inspect any walnuts so held by such handler and any and all records of the handler with respect to the holding or disposition of all walnuts which may be held or which may have been disposed of by such handler, including records with respect to acquirements, packing, shelling, and shipment of both unshelled and shelled walnuts, as applicable. Each handler shall furnish all labor necessary to facilitate such inspections as the Control Board may make of such handler's holdings of merchantable restricted walnuts and of surplus walnuts. Each handler shall store all merchantable restricted and surplus walnuts held by him in such manner as to facilitate inspection and shall maintain adequate storage records which will permit accurate identification with respect to inspection certificates of respective lots and of all such walnuts held or theretofore disposed of.

•• § 984.78 Certification of reports. All reports submitted to the Control Board as required in this part shall be certified to the U. S. Department of Agriculture and to the Control Board as to the completeness and correctness of the information contained therein.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

•• § 984.80 Cancellation of certificates. (a) Stock certificates covering merchantable walnuts which have not been handled may be cancelled for accounting purposes, by the Board, at the request of any handler, and such handler's merchantable restricted, surplus and assessment obligation, pursuant to §§ 984.49, 984.54, and 984.66 (b), respectively, shall be adjusted to reflect any such cancellation: Provided, That no such cancellations or adjustments shall be made after the close of the marketing year in which the walnuts are certified.

(b) Except as provided in paragraph (d) of this section, no shipping certificate or stock certificate shall be cancelled after the walnuts covered by such certificate have been handled in trade channels for unshelled walnuts, and (except as provided in §§ 984.66 (b) and 984.83) no adjustments shall be made in a handler's control or assessment obligation with respect to merchantable walnuts which have been handled.

(c) Merchantable restricted certificates shall be cancelled to facilitate withholding and assessment accounting in connection with any exchanges of merchantable restricted or surplus walnuts as provided in § 984.86 and to correct the record with respect to any excess withholding by handlers. The handler shall be responsible for initiating any such cancellations.

(d) The Board may make adjustments in handlers' control and assessment obligations upon satisfactory proof being furnished by such handler that merchantable walnuts held by him were destroyed by fire, flood, or by any other means beyond the handler's control: Provided, That no such adjustments shall be made after September 1 of the succeeding marketing year.

• § 984.81 Postponement of control obligation upon the filing of a bond—(a) Right to postpone control obligations. Compliance by any handler with the requirements of §§ 984.49 and 984.54 as to the time when merchantable restricted and surplus walnuts shall be withheld shall be deferred to any date desired by the handler, but as to the merchantable restricted obligation, not later than December 31 of the marketing year; and as to the surplus obligation, not later than March 1 of the marketing year with respect to obligations accumulated between August 1 and January 31, inclusive, and not later than August 31 of the succeeding marketing year with respect to obligations accumulated between February 1 and July 31, inclusive, of such marketing year. Such deferment shall be granted only upon the voluntary execution and delivery by such handler to the Control Board before he handles any walnuts of such marketing year of a written undertaking that, on or prior to the dates specified by such handler, he will have fully satisfied his control obligations as prescribed in §§ 984.49 and 984.54.

(b) Filing of bond. Such undertaking shall be secured by a bond or bonds to be filed with, and acceptable to, the Control Board and with a surety or sureties acceptable to the Control Board, in the amount or amounts stated below, conditioned upon full compliance with such undertaking. The amount of the bond for deferment of the merchantable restricted obligation shall be the amount obtained by multiplying the poundage bearing the lowest bonding rate or rates which could have been selected for withholding from the packs handled or certified for handling, by the applicable bonding rate. The amount of the bond for deferment of the surplus obligation shall be the total deferred surplus obligation of the handler, in terms of sound kernel weight, multiplied by the bonding rate established pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section. The cost of such bond or bonds shall be borne by the handler filing the same.

(c) Bonding rates. (1) The bonding rate for merchantable restricted walnuts for each pack shall be an amount per pound representing the season's domestic opening price for such pack net to packer f. o. b. shipping point which shall be computed at 95 percent of the opening price for such pack announced by the packer or packers who, during the preceding marketing year, handled two-thirds of the merchantable walnuts handled by all packers. Such packer or packers shall be selected in order of volume handled in the preceding marketing year, using the minimum number of packers to represent a volume of two-thirds of the total volume handled. If such opening prices involve different prices announced by two or more packers for respective packs, the prices so announced shall be averaged on the basis of the quantity of such packs handled during the preceding marketing year by each such packer.

••(2) The bonding rate for surplus walnuts shall be based upon the current price per pound for "light amber halves and pieces" and shall be computed at 95 percent of the weighted average domestic price f. o. b. shipping point for the current marketing year in which such pack was sold or offered for sale during the calendar week in which the Secretary establishes the marketable and surplus percentages pursuant to § 984.53 by any handler or handlers who, during the preceding marketing year, handled 51 percent of the shelled walnuts handled by all handlers: Provided, That if "light amber halves and pieces" are not sold or offered for sale during the aforesaid calendar week, the Control Board shall designate the nearest comparable pack of bulk shelled walnuts sold or offered for sale during such week by the aforesaid handler or handlers. Such handlers shall be selected in order of volume handled in the preceding marketing year, using a minimum number of handlers to represent a volume of 51 percent of the total volume of shelled walnuts handled during such year. The price or prices of such handler or handlers so selected shall be reported to the Control Board and shall be certified by such handler or handlers to the U. S. Department of Agriculture and to the Control Board as to their correctness. If prices from two or more handlers are involved for the designated pack, the prices so reported shall be averaged on the basis of the quantity of shelled walnuts handled during the preceding marketing year by each such handler. Such rate may be modified by the Control Board with the approval of the Secretary.

(d) Replacement by Control Board. (1) Any sums collected through default of a handler on his bond shall be used by the Control Board to purchase walnuts from handlers, as provided herein: With respect to default on a bond for merchantable restricted obligation, a quantity of merchantable walnuts represented by the sum collected through such default; and with respect to default on a bond for a surplus obligation, a quantity of sound kernels, or the equivalent thereof in unshelled walnuts, represented by the sum collected through such default. Purchases in connection with merchantable restricted walnuts shall be made from the merchantable free percentages with respect to which the merchantable restricted obligation has been met and at the bonding rate for each pack. Purchases in connection with surplus walnuts shall be made from the marketable percentages with respect to which the surplus obligation has been met. The Control Board shall at all times purchase the lowest priced walnuts or packs offered, consistent with the grade requirements established for merchantable restricted and surplus walnuts, and the purchases shall be made from the various packers as nearly as practicable in proportion to the quantity of their respective offerings (at the same prices) of the walnuts or packs to be purchased.

(2) Walnuts purchased to satisfy control obligations shall be turned over to those handlers who have defaulted on their bonds, for disposition pursuant to §§ 984.61 and 984.62. The quantity delivered to each handler shall be that quantity represented by the sums collected through default, and the different grades of merchantable walnuts, if any, shall be apportioned among the various packers on the basis of the quantity of walnuts to be delivered to each packer to the total quantity purchased by the Control Board with bonding funds.

(e) Disposition of excess funds. Any unexpended sums which have been collected by the Control Board through default of a handler on his bond remaining in possession of the Control Board at the end of a marketing year shall be used to reimburse the Board for its expenses, including administrative and other costs incurred in the collection of such sums and in the purchase of walnuts as provided in paragraph (d) of this section. Any balance remaining after reimbursement of such expenses shall, after the close of the marketing year, be refunded to the handlers from whom such sums were collected on bonds during such marketing year in proportion to the respective collections thereunder. If the Control Board is unable to purchase walnuts to the extent and as provided in paragraph (c) of this section, any unexpended sums which have been collected by the Control Board through default of a handler on his bond shall be used to reimburse the Board for its expenses, including administration and other costs incurred in the collection of such sums and in the attempt to purchase such walnuts. Any balance remaining after reimbursement of such expenses shall be distributed after the close of the marketing year among all handlers in proportion to the quantity of merchantable walnuts or of sound kernels handled by them during the marketing year in which the default occurred.

(f) Satisfaction of control obligations. Collection by the Board upon any bond or bonds filed pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be deemed a satisfaction of the merchantable restricted or surplus obligations represented by such collection, provided that merchantable or surplus walnuts turned over to handlers are disposed of pursuant to §§ 984.61 and 984.62. A handler who has defaulted on his bond shall be credited on his merchantable restricted obligation with that quantity of merchantable walnuts represented by the sums collected on account of such default, and on his surplus obligation with that quantity of sound kernels represented by the sums collected on account of such default.

• § 984.82 Revision of control percentages. The Secretary, on request of the Control Board made at any time prior to March 31 of any marketing year (or if the Control Board shall fail so to request, on request within like time of two or more handlers who have handled during the immediately preceding marketing year at least 10 percent of the total tonnage of merchantable walnuts or of shelled walnuts, respectively, handled by all handlers during such marketing year) and after a finding of fact, based on such revised and current information as may be pertinent, that the merchantable walnuts or shelled walnuts, respectively, available for sale will not be sufficient to supply the respective trade demand therefor and provide an adequate carryover, may decrease the merchantable restricted percentage or the surplus percentage, respectively, to conform to such finding.

• § 984.83 Adjustment upon revision of control percentages. Upon any revision in the control percentages, the control obligation of each handler with respect to the walnuts handled or certified for handling by him for the entire marketing year shall be recomputed in accordance with such revised control percentages. From the walnuts still held by a handler to meet his control obligations and from such surplus walnuts that may have been delivered by him to the Control Board pursuant to § 984.62 (b) and which are still held by the Control Board, the handler shall be permitted to select, under the supervision and direction of the Control Board, the particular walnuts to be removed from the walnuts withheld.

• § 984.84 Application of control percentages and bonding rates after end of marketing year—(a) Control percentages. The control percentages established for any marketing year shall continue in effect with respect to all walnuts, for which the control obligations have not been previously met, which are handled or certified for handling by any handler after the end of such marketing year and before such percentages are established for the succeeding marketing year. After such percentages are established for the new marketing year, the control obligations for all such walnuts theretofore handled or certified for handling during the marketing year shall be adjusted to the newly established percentages.

(b) Bonding rates. The bonding rates established for any marketing year shall continue in effect with respect to any bond or bonds executed and delivered pursuant to § 984.81 (b), after the end of such marketing year and until such bonding rates are modified. After bonding rates are established for a new marketing year, the new rates shall be applicable and any bond or bonds theretofore given for that marketing year shall be adjusted to the new rates.

• § 984.85 Interhandler transfers for meeting control obligations. For the purpose of meeting his control obligations, any handler may, upon notice to and under the supervision and direction of the Control Board, acquire from another handler walnuts with respect to which the respective control obligation has not been met and any control obligation with respect to walnuts so transferred shall be waived. If any such sales are made from walnuts on which the respective control obligation has been met, the seller's respective obligation shall be reduced accordingly upon proof satisfactory to the Control Board that the purchaser is withholding such walnuts.

• § 984.86 Exchange of walnuts withheld. Any handler who has withheld walnuts pursuant to the requirements of §§ 984.49 and 984.54 and has had them certified as walnuts eligible to meet his control obligation, may exchange therefor, in the case of merchantable restricted walnuts, an equal quantity by weight of other merchantable walnuts, or, in the case of surplus walnuts, an equal quantity, by weight of sound kernels, of other walnuts meeting the grade requirements for surplus. Any such exchange shall be made under the supervision and direction of the Control Board or its designated inspectors, with appropriate inspection and certification of the walnuts involved.

§ 984.87 Assistance of Control Board in meeting control obligations. The Control Board, on written request, may assist handlers in accounting for their control obligations and may aid any handler in acquiring walnuts to meet any deficiency in a handler's control obligation, or in accounting for and disposing of walnuts withheld.

•• § 984.88 Exemptions—(a) Exempt packs of merchantable walnuts. The control percentages established pursuant to §§ 984.48 and 984.53 shall not apply to separate packs of merchantable walnuts of which not over 12 percent by count pass through a round opening 9/64 inches in diameter.

(b) Walnuts not subject to regulation. Except as otherwise provided in this section, nothing contained in this part shall be construed to authorize any limitation of the right of any person to handle merchantable or shelled walnuts for consumption by charitable institutions, for distribution by relief agencies, sale to the government for school lunch purposes, or in such minimum quantities or types of shipments as the Control Board may, with the approval of the Secretary, prescribe for all, or any part, of the area of production.

(1) No assessment shall be levied pursuant to § 984.66 (b) on walnuts disposed of for the purposes or in the quantities specified in or pursuant to this paragraph.

(2) The Control Board shall prescribe, with the approval of the Secretary, such rules, regulations, and safeguards as it deems necessary to prevent walnuts shipped under the provisions of this paragraph from entering into commercial channels of trade contrary to or in violation of this paragraph.

• § 984.89 Compliance. Except as provided in this part, no person shall handle walnuts, unshelled or shelled, during any marketing year in which a regulation issued by the Secretary pursuant to § 984.48 or § 984.53 is in effect unless such person has previously met the control obligations provided by such regulations and the provisions of this part and unless such person has all unshelled walnuts handled by him certified as merchantable prior to handling.

§ 984.90 Rights of the Secretary. The members of the Control Board (including successors and alternates), and any agents, employees or representatives thereof, shall be subject to removal or suspension by the Secretary at any time. Each and every regulation, decision, determination, or other act of the Control Board shall be subject to the continuing right of the Secretary to disapprove of the same at any time. Upon such disapproval, the disapproved action of the Control Board shall be deemed null and void, except as to acts done in reliance thereon or in compliance therewith prior to such disapproval by the Secretary. If the Control Board, for any reason, fails to perform its duties or exercise its powers under this part, the Secretary may designate another agency to perform such duties and exercise such powers.

§ 984.91 Personal liability. No member or alternate of the Control Board nor any employee or agent thereof shall be held personally responsible, either individually or jointly with others, in any way whatsoever, to any handler or any person for errors in judgment, mistakes, or other acts either of commission or omission, as such member, alternate or employee, except for acts of dishonesty.

§ 984.92 Separability. If any provision of this part is declared invalid, or the applicability thereof to any person, circumstance, or thing is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this part or the applicability thereof to any other person, circumstance or thing shall not be affected thereby.

§ 984.93 Derogation. Nothing contained in this part is, or shall be construed to be, in derogation or in modification of the rights of the Secretary or of the United States to exercise any powers granted by the act or otherwise, or, in accordance with such powers, to act in the premises whenever such action is deemed advisable.

§ 984.94 Duration of immunities. The benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred upon any person by virtue of this part shall cease upon the termination of this part except with respect to acts done under and during the existence of this part.

§ 984.95 Agents. The Secretary may, by a designation in writing, name any person, including any officer or employee of the Government, or name any bureau or division in the United States Department of Agriculture, to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this part.

§ 984.96 Effective time and termination—(a) Effective time. The provisions of this part shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare above his signature attached to this part, and shall continue in force until terminated in one of the ways hereinafter specified.

(b) Termination. (1) The Secretary may, at any time, terminate the provisions of this part by giving at least one day's notice by means of a press release or in any other manner which he may determine.

(2) The Secretary may terminate or suspend the operation of any or all of the provisions of this part, whenever he finds that such provisions do not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(3) The Secretary shall terminate the provisions of this part at the end of any marketing year whenever he finds that such termination is favored by a majority of the producers of walnuts who during the preceding marketing year have been engaged in the production for market of walnuts in the States of California, Oregon, and Washington: Provided, That such majority have during such period produced for market more than 50 percent of the volume of such walnuts produced for market within said States; but such termination shall be effected only if announced on or before July 1 of the then current marketing year.

(4) The provisions of this part shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing them cease to be in effect.

(c) Proceedings after termination. (1) Upon the termination of the provisions of this part, the members of the Control Board then functioning shall continue as joint trustees, for the purpose of liquidating the affairs of the Control Board, of all funds and property then in the possession or under the control of the Board, including claims for any funds unpaid or property not delivered at the time of such termination. Action by said trusteeship shall require the concurrence of a majority of the said trustees.

(2) Said trustees shall continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary; shall, from time to time, account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all property on hand, together with all books and records of the Control Board and the joint trustees to such person as the Secretary may direct; and shall, upon the request of the Secretary, execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title and right to all of the funds, property, and claims vested in the Control Board or the joint trustees pursuant to this part.

(3) Any person to whom funds, property or claims have been transferred or delivered by the Control Board or its members, pursuant to this section, shall be subject to the same obligation imposed upon the members of the said Board and upon said joint trustees.

§ 984.97 Effect of termination or amendment. Unless otherwise expressly provided by the Secretary, the termination of this part or of any regulation issued pursuant to this part, or the issuance of any amendment to either thereof, shall not (a) affect or waive any right, duty, obligation, or liability which shall have arisen or which may thereafter arise in connection with any provision of this part or any regulation issued under this part, or (b) release or extinguish any violation of this part, or of any regulation issued under this part, or (c) affect or impair any rights or remedies of the Secretary or of any other person, with respect to any such violation.

The following alternative modifications of the marketing agreement and order as proposed to be amended by the Walnut Control Board, as set forth hereinabove, are proposed to be made by John E. Trunk of Dundee, Oregon, in his capacity as a commercial grower of walnuts in Oregon:

1. Change § 984.7 of the Control Board proposal (§ 984.1 (b) of Order) to read as follows:

§ 984.7 "Walnuts" "Walnuts" means only walnuts of the "English (Juglans Regia)" varieties grown in the States of California, Oregon, and Washington, and of sufficient maturity to be commercially prepared for market for human consumption in dried form.

2. Change § 984.9 of the Control Board proposal to read as follows:

§ 984.9 Merchantable unshelled walnuts. "Merchantable unshelled walnuts" means all unshelled walnuts meeting the pack specifications and minimum standards of quality and maturity prescribed pursuant to § 984.44.

3. Add, immediately following § 984.10 of the Control Board proposal the following (and renumber subsequent sections accordingly):

§ 984.11 Merchantable shelled walnuts. "Merchantable shelled walnuts" means all shelled walnuts meeting the minimum grade requirements, if any, prescribed pursuant to § 984.45.

4. Change § 984.19 of the Control Board proposal (§ 984.1 (p) of Order) to read as follows:

§ 984.20 Handler carryover. "Handler carryover," as of any date, means:

(a) Unshelled: All merchantable unshelled walnuts (except those held in satisfaction of control obligations), wherever located, then held by a handler or for his account (whether or not sold), plus the estimated quantity of merchantable unshelled walnuts in ungraded lots then held by a handler for packing as merchantable walnuts;

(b) Shelled: all merchantable shelled walnuts (except those held as surplus) wherever located, then held by a handler or for his account (whether or not sold), plus the estimated quantity of merchantable shelled walnuts in unshelled lots, then held by a handler for shelling.

5. Change § 984.20 of the Control Board proposal (§ 984.1 (o) of Order) to read as follows:

§ 984.21 Trade demand. "Trade demand" means:

(a) Unshelled: the quantity of merchantable unshelled walnuts which the trade will acquire from all handlers during a marketing year for distribution in the continuental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Canal Zone: Provided, That there may also be considered in the making of such computation merchantable unshelled walnuts which will be acquired for distribution in Canada or Cuba, whenever there is reasonable probability that such distribution may be made to the particular country at prices reasonably comparable with prices received in the continental United States.

(b) Shelled: the quantity of merchantable shelled walnuts which the trade will acquire from all handlers during a marketing year for distribution in the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Canal Zone: Provided, That there may also be considered in the making of such computation merchantable shelled walnuts which will be acquired for distribution in Canada or Cuba, whenever there is reasonable probability that such distribution may be made to the particular country at prices reasonably comparable with prices received in the continental United States.

6. Change § 984.22 of the Control Board proposal (renumbered as § 984.23) by adding thereto the words and figures "and § 984.—."

7. Strike § 984.44 of the Control Board proposal, relating to certification of merchantable walnuts, and insert in its place the heading "Grade Regulation of Shelled Walnuts", and the following new sections and headings:

§ 984.45 Establishment of minimum grade. In order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, in each year for which surplus regulations are recommended by the Control Board pursuant to § 984.52 and are established by the Secretary pursuant to § 984.53, the Control Board, with the approval of the Secretary, shall prescribe a minimum grade regulation for the packing of shelled walnuts; and thereafter each handler shall pack all shelled walnuts to be handled by him in accordance with such minimum grade requirements and, prior to shipment, shall have such shelled walnuts certified as herein provided as meeting such minimum requirements. To aid the Secretary in determining whether to approve such minimum grade regulations, the Control Board shall furnish to the Secretary the data upon which it acted in prescribing such minimum grade and such other data pertaining thereto as the Secretary may request.

CERTIFICATION OF UNSHELLED AND SHELLED WALNUTS

§ 984.46 Certification. (a) Each handler, at his own expense, shall obtain an appropriate inspection certificate for each lot of merchantable unshelled or merchantable shelled walnuts handled or to be handled by him and for each lot of merchantable restricted unshelled walnuts or surplus unshelled or shelled walnuts withheld by him. Such inspection certificate applicable to shelled walnuts shall be obtained prior to any secondary processing, such as brushing, slicing, dicing or chopping, of the shelled walnuts after completion of the original shelling thereof. Such certificates shall be issued by inspectors designated by the Control Board. Each such certificate shall show, in addition to such information as is specified in (b) (1), (2), or (3) of this section, the identity of the handler, the quantity and pack of merchantable walnuts in such lot, date of inspection, and that the walnuts covered by such certificate conform to the pack specifications and minimum requirements prescribed pursuant to § 984.44, if unshelled walnuts, or if shelled walnuts then to the minimum grade requirements prescribed pursuant to § 984.45. Copies of each certificate issued shall be furnished by the inspector to the handler and to the Control Board.

(b) Three types of such certificates may be issued, all of which shall contain the information specified in paragraph (a) of this section and, in addition, the following information:

(1) "Shipping certificates" covering merchantable walnuts shipped, which shall show the date of shipment, name and address of carrier, railroad car number, whether for interstate, intrastate, or export shipment, and, if for export, the country of destination;

(2) "Stock certificates" covering lots of merchantable walnuts to be handled, which shall show the handler's lot number;

(3) "Restricted certificates", covering lots of merchantable restricted unshelled walnuts to be withheld, which shall show the handler's lot number and location of the lot at time of inspection.

(4) "Surplus certificates", covering lots of surplus unshelled or shelled walnuts to be withheld, which shall show the handler's lot number and location of the lot at time of inspection.

(c) All walnuts handled shall be identified by seals or stamps affixed to the container by the handlers under the supervision of the Control Board or the designated inspectors. All lots covered by stock certificates or restricted or surplus certificates shall be identified by tags affixed to the containers by the handlers under the supervision of the Control Board or the designated inspectors. The Control Board may require that all lots covered by stock, restricted or surplus certificates be identified by seals affixed to the containers by the handlers under the supervision of the Control Board or the designated inspectors.

(d) The shipment of walnuts from a lot covered by a stock inspection certificate shall be reported to the Control Board. Such reports shall be submitted by the handler or the designated inspectors, at such intervals and in such form as the Board may prescribe, pursuant to § 984.—.

(e) Whenever the Control Board determines that the length of time in storage or conditions of storage of any lot of walnuts which has been previously inspected have been or are such as to normally cause deterioration, such lot of walnuts shall be reinspected at the handler's expense and must be recertified as merchantable, prior to shipment.

8. In § 984.55 (a) of the Control Board proposal insert the word "unshelled" immediately preceding the word "walnuts" whenever appearing.

9. Change (b) of § 984.56 of the Control Board proposal to read as follows:

(b) For shelled walnuts. Any lot of shelled walnuts, to be eligible for certification as surplus, must meet the minimum grade requirements prescribed by the Control Board and approved by the Secretary pursuant to § 984.45.

10. Change § 984.66 (b) of the Control Board proposal to read as follows:

(b) Requirements for payment. Each handler of merchantable unshelled walnuts and merchantable shelled walnuts shall, with respect to the merchantable unshelled walnuts handled or certified for handling by him and the merchantable shelled walnuts handled by him, pay to the Control Board, upon demand, his pro-rata share of the expenses which the Secretary finds are reasonable and are likely to be incurred during each marketing year. Each handler's share of such expenses shall be: For merchantable unshelled walnuts handled or certified for handling during the applicable marketing year, the ratio between the total quantity of merchantable unshelled walnuts handled by him and the total quantity of such walnuts handled by all handlers during such marketing year; for merchantable shelled walnuts handled, the ratio of the weight of merchantable shelled walnuts handled by him during the applicable marketing year and the weight of all merchantable shelled walnuts handled during such marketing year by all handlers.

Alternative Proposal

As an alternative to the foregoing proposed changes, the following are proposed:

11. Change § 984.4 of the Control Board proposal to read as follows:

§ 984.4 Area of production. "Area of production" means the State of California.

12. In § 984.7, change "States of California, Oregon and Washington" to read "State of California."

13. In § 984.11, change the word "States" to "State", and strike "Oregon, or Washington" whenever appearing.

14. Change § 984.32 to read as follows:

§ 984.32 Establishment and membership. A Control Board is hereby established, consisting of eight members, selected by the Secretary, for each of whom there shall be an alternate member who shall be nominated and selected in the same manner and shall have the same qualifications as the member for whom each is an alternate. One member and one alternate member shall be selected from nominees by each of the following groups or from among other qualified persons belonging to such groups:

(a) The cooperative packers doing business within the State of California;

(b) All packers and distributors, other than the cooperative packers, doing business within the State of California;

(c) The group of cooperative packers or other than cooperative packers doing business within the State of California, who, during the preceding marketing year, handled more than 50 percent of the merchantable walnuts handled by packers located within the State of California;

(d) Those growers of walnuts whose orchards are located in California and who market their walnuts through cooperative packers;

(e) All other growers of walnuts whose orchards are located in California;

(f) Those growers whose orchards are located in California and whose walnuts are marketed during the preceding marketing year through the packer group specified in paragraph (c) of this section;

(g) Shellers of walnuts within the area of production who are handlers but who are not packers.

15. In § 984.32, change "nine" to "seven," and "tenth" to "eighth," and strike, "Oregon, and Washington."

16. In § 984.41 (b), change "six" to "five."

The following alternative modifications of the marketing agreement and order as proposed to be amended by the Walnut Control Board, as set forth hereinabove, are proposed to be made by John E. Trunk, Dundee, Oregon, D. Leo Gholson on behalf of Gholson and Gholson, Tigard, Oregon, Francis T. Rowell on behalf of Hudson House, Inc., Portland, Oregon, and by Hazel Ingalls as Secretary-Treasurer of the Salem Nut Growers Cooperative of Salem, Oregon:

17. Change §§ 984.47, 984.48, 984.52, and 984.53, of the amended and recodified marketing order proposed by the Walnut Control Board to replace marketing order No. 84, so as to provide that separate salable and surplus percentages applicable to both unshelled and shelled walnuts, and separate merchantable free and merchantable restricted percentages applicable to unshelled walnuts, shall be fixed for the state of California, as District No. 1, and the states of Oregon and Washington, as District No. 2, and that such percentages established with respect to walnuts produced in either District may be lower than such percentages established with respect to walnuts produced in the other District if the total crop of walnuts in such District is forecast by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to be smaller than the average of the total crops produced in that District during a historical period or to be of a size which is smaller in relation to the forecast total production in both Districts than the proportion which the average production in that District during that period bears to the average total production in both Districts during that period; and change §§ 984.82 and 984.83 of said proposed amended and recodified order so as to require that not later than March 31 of each year the Control Board must review the control percentages previously recommended or established, in the light and on the basis of actual production of walnuts in each District during that marketing year, and authorizing the Control Board to recommend and the Secretary of Agriculture to make such adjustments of any or all of said control percentages as may be found to be proper, fair and equitable; and such other changes to said proposed amended or recodified walnut marketing order as may be necessary or desirable in order to effectuate the foregoing proposed changes. The amendments to marketing order No. 84 necessary to accomplish the aforesaid proposals of the Walnut Control Board as changed as herein stated, are hereby proposed.

18. Alternative proposal. As an alternative to the foregoing proposed changes of the proposal submitted by the Control Board, and of corresponding amendments to the marketing order, it is hereby proposed that the proposed amended and recodified marketing order heretofore submitted by the Walnut Control Board be changed so as to cover an "area of production" consisting only of the State of California, and to cover only such walnuts as are grown in the State of California; together with appropriate changes of §§ 984.32, 984.34, and 984.41, relative to the size, membership and quorum of the Control Board, and such other changes of the proposed amended marketing order as may be necessary or desirable in order to release from the said proposed amended marketing order the states of Oregon and Washington and walnuts grown therein.

The following alternative modifications of the marketing agreement and order as proposed to be amended by the Walnut Control Board, as set forth hereinabove, are proposed to be made by D. Leo Gohlson and John E. Trunk, it being stated in that connection that such proposals are being "submitted for the purpose of implementing the proposals previously submitted in general form jointly by Leo Gohlson and others:"

19. Change § 984.47 of the amended and recodified marketing order proposed by the Control Board to replace marketing Order No. 84, to read as follows:

§ 984.47 Recommendation for merchantable free and restricted percentages—(a) Districts. For the purpose of allocation of merchantable walnuts, the area of production shall be divided into District 1, consisting of the State of California and District 2, consisting of the States of Oregon and Washington.

(b) Unshelled walnuts. (1) Whenever the Control Board finds that the supply of merchantable unshelled walnuts exceeds or is likely to exceed the trade demand therefor and that it would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act to establish the percentages of merchantable unshelled walnuts during a marketing year which shall be free and restricted, respectively, it shall recommend such percentages to the Secretary. Such recommended percentages shall be uniform for the entire production area: Provided, however, That in the event the Board shall find, on the basis of official reports of the U. S. Department of Agriculture or other relevant factors, that the quantity of merchantable walnuts produced in one district is or will be substantially less or greater than the average quantity of such walnuts produced in that district during a representative historical period or that the proportion which such production in one district bears to the production in both districts is or will be substantially greater or less than the average such proportion during such representative historical period, the Board shall recommend such merchantable free and restricted percentages for each district as will equitably take into account such variation from historical production levels and distribution: Provided, further, That in no event shall the Board recommend a merchantable free or restricted percentage for either district less than one-half such percentage recommended for the other district. In making its recommendation, the Board shall furnish to the Secretary, not later than September 20 of each marketing year, the following estimates and recommendation, each of which shall be adopted by the affirmative vote of at least six members of the Board:

(i) Its estimate of the quantity of merchantable unshelled walnuts to be produced and packed during such year;

(ii) Its estimate of the handler carryover of merchantable unshelled walnuts as of August 1;

(iii) Its estimate of the trade demand for merchantable unshelled walnuts (on the basis of prices not exceeding the maximum prices contemplated in section 2 of the act); in determining such trade demand, consideration shall be given to the estimated trade carryover at the beginning and end of the marketing year;

(iv) Its recommendation as to the merchantable free and restricted percentages to be fixed for unshelled walnuts.

(2) The Board shall also furnish to the Secretary a complete report of the proceedings of the Board meeting at which the recommended merchantable free and restricted percentages to be fixed by the Secretary were adopted.

(c) Shelled walnuts. (1) Whenever the Control Board finds that the supply of merchantable shelled walnuts exceeds or is likely to exceed the trade demand therefor and that it would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act to establish the percentages of merchantable shelled walnuts during a marketing year which shall be free and restricted, respectively, it shall recommend such percentages to the Secretary. Such recommended percentages shall be uniform for the entire production area: Provided, however, That in the event the Board shall find, on the basis of official reports of the U. S. Department of Agriculture or other relevant factors, that the quantity of merchantable walnuts produced in one district is or will be substantially less or greater than the average quantity of such walnuts produced in that district during a representative historical period or that the proportion which such production in one district bears to the production in both districts is or will be substantially greater or less than the average such proportion during such representative historical period, the Board shall recommend such merchantable free and restricted percentages for each district as will equitably take into account such variation from historical production levels and distribution: Provided, further, That in no event shall the Board recommend a merchantable free or restricted percentage for either district less than one-half such percentage recommended for the other district. In making its recommendation, the Board shall furnish to the Secretary, not later than September 20 of each marketing year, the following estimates and recommendation, each of which shall be adopted by the affirmative vote of at least six members of the Board:

(i) Its estimate of the quantity of merchantable shelled walnuts to be produced and packed during such year;

(ii) Its estimate of the handler carryover of merchantable shelled walnuts as of August 1;

(iii) Its estimate of the trade demand for merchantable shelled walnuts (on the basis of prices not exceeding the maximum prices contemplated in section 2 of the act); in determining such trade demand, consideration shall be given to the estimated trade carryover at the beginning and end of the marketing year;

(iv) Its recommendation as to the merchantable free and restricted percentages to be fixed for shelled walnuts.

(2) The Board shall also furnish to the Secretary a complete report of the proceedings of the Board meeting at which the recommended merchantable free and restricted percentages to be fixed by the Secretary were adopted.

20. Change § 984.48 of said proposal to read as follows:

§ 984.48 Establishment of merchantable free and restricted percentage regulations by the Secretary—(a) Unshelled walnuts. Whenever the Secretary finds from the recommendation of the Control Board and supporting information supplied by the Control Board, or from any other available information, that to establish the percentage of merchantable unshelled walnuts which shall be free and restricted, respectively, during any marketing year, would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall so establish such percentages for each of the two districts. In establishing such merchantable free and restricted percentages for unshelled walnuts, the Secretary shall give consideration to the ratio of the estimated trade demand for merchantable unshelled walnuts (with appropriate adjustments for such handler carryover as may have theretofore contributed to the restricted percentage and for a desirable level of handler carryover at the end of the marketing year), to the sum of the estimated production of merchantable unshelled walnuts and the handler carryover of merchantable unshelled walnuts which has not theretofore contributed to the restricted percentage of unshelled walnuts, to the recommendation submitted to him by the Control Board, and to such other pertinent information as he deems appropriate. The merchantable allocation percentage of unshelled walnuts shall also be established by the Secretary.

(b) Shelled walnuts. Whenever the Secretary finds from the recommendation of the Control Board and supporting information supplied by the Control Board, or from any other available information, that to establish the percentage of merchantable shelled walnuts which shall be free and restricted, respectively, during any marketing year, would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall so establish such percentages for each of the two districts. In establishing such merchantable free and restricted percentages for shelled walnuts, the Secretary shall give consideration to the ratio of the estimated trade demand for merchantable shelled walnuts (with appropriate adjustments for such handler carryover as may have theretofore contributed to the restricted percentage and for a desirable level of handler carryover at the end of the marketing year), to the sum of the estimated production of merchantable shelled walnuts and the handler carryover of merchantable shelled walnuts which has not theretofore contributed to the restricted percentage of shelled walnuts, to the recommendation submitted to him by the Control Board, and to such other pertinent information as he deems appropriate. The merchantable allocation percentage of shelled walnuts shall also be established by the Secretary.

21. Change § 984.49 of said proposal to read as follows:

§ 984.49 Withholding merchantable restricted walnuts. (a) Except as otherwise provided in § 984.81, whenever a regulation has been established by the Secretary under the provisions of § 984.48, each handler, before or upon handling any unshelled or shelled walnuts, shall have withheld from handling a quantity of merchantable shelled or unshelled walnuts equal to the applicable merchantable allocation percentage by weight of such quantity handled or certified for handling by him: Provided, That this provision shall not apply to any lot of merchantable walnuts which is sold or delivered within the area of production to a handler for subsequent handling and which is reported to the Control Board pursuant to § 984.74.

(b) The quantity of walnuts hereby required to be withheld shall constitute and may be referred to as the "merchantable restricted obligation" of a handler. The merchantable walnuts handled by any handler in accordance with the provisions of this sub-part shall be deemed to be that handler's quota fixed by the Secretary within the meaning of section 8 (a) (5) of the act.

22. Change § 984.52 to read as follows:

§ 984.52 Recommendation for marketable and surplus percentages. (a) Whenever the Control Board finds that the total supply of walnuts, unshelled and shelled, expressed in terms of sound kernel weight, exceeds or is likely to exceed the total trade demand therefor and that it would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act to establish marketable and surplus percentages on unshelled and shelled walnuts, it shall recommend to the Secretary such percentages for walnuts produced in each district. Such recommended percentages shall be uniform for the entire production area: Provided, however, That in the event the Board shall find, on the basis of official reports of the U. S. Department of Agriculture or other relevant factors, that the quantity of walnuts produced in one district is or will be substantially less or greater than the average quantity of walnuts produced in that district during a representative historical period or that the proportion which such production in one district bears to the production in both districts is or will be substantially greater or less than the average such proportion during such representative historical period, the Board shall recommend such marketable and surplus percentages for each district as will equitably take into account such variation from historical production levels and distribution: Provided, further, That in no event shall the Board recommend a marketable or surplus percentage for either district less than one-half such percentage recommended for the other district. In making its recommendation, the Board shall furnish to the Secretary, not later than September 20 of each marketing year, the following estimates and recommendation, each of which shall be adopted by the affirmative vote of at least six members of the Board:

(1) Its estimate of the applicable orchard-run production;

(2) Its estimate of the quantity of merchantable unshelled walnuts to be produced and packed during such year, expressed in terms of sound kernel weight;

(3) Its estimate of the handler carryover of merchantable unshelled walnuts as of August 1, expressed in terms of sound kernel weight;

(4) Its estimate of merchantable unshelled trade demand (on the basis of prices not exceeding the maximum prices contemplated in section 2 of the act), expressed in terms of sound kernel weight; in determining such trade demand, consideration shall be given to the estimated trade carryover at the beginning and end of the marketing year;

(5) Its estimate of merchantable shelled walnut production during such marketing year;

(6) Its estimate of merchantable shelled handler carryover as of August 1;

(7) Its estimate of merchantable shelled trade demand (on the basis of prices not exceeding the maximum prices contemplated in section 2 of the act); in determining such trade demand, consideration shall be given to the estimated trade carryover at the beginning and end of the marketing year;

(8) Its recommendation as to the marketable and surplus percentages to be fixed for each of the two districts.

(b) The Control Board shall also furnish to the Secretary a complete report of the proceedings of the Board meeting at which the recommended marketable and surplus percentages to be fixed by the Secretary were adopted.

23. Change § 984.53 to read as follows:

§ 984.53 Establishment of marketable and surplus percentage regulations by the Secretary. Whenever the Secretary finds from the recommendation of the Control Board and supporting information supplied by the Control Board, or from any other available information, that to establish the percentages of walnuts which shall be marketable and surplus, respectively, during any marketing year would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall so establish such percentages for walnuts produced in each of the two districts. The applicable diversion percentages shall also be established by the Secretary.

24. In § 984.55 (a) insert the word "unshelled" immediately preceding the word "walnuts" other than in the headings.

25. In § 984.61 (a) insert the word "unshelled" immediately preceding the word "walnuts;" except only in (iv).

26. Change § 984.68 to read as follows:

§ 984.68 Reports of handler carryovers. Each handler, on or before August 15 and January 15 of each marketing year, shall file with the Control Board a written report of:

(a) All merchantable unshelled walnuts (except such as may be certified and held to meet the handler's merchantable restricted obligation or his surplus obligation in accordance with the provisions of §§ 984.49 and 984.54), including the estimated quantity of merchantable unshelled walnuts in ungraded lots to be packed as merchantable unshelled walnuts, held by him on the first day of August and January, respectively, showing the pack (if merchantable) and location thereof and the quantities:

(1) Which theretofore have been certified for handling and on which the merchantable restricted obligation has previously been met;

(2) Which have been packed as merchantable unshelled walnuts but have not been certified and on which the merchantable restricted obligation has not been met; and

(3) Which are estimated as merchantable but have not been packed as merchantable and are to be so packed.

(b) All merchantable shelled walnuts (except such as may be certified and held as surplus in accordance with the provisions of § 984.54), including the estimated quantity of merchantable shelled walnuts in unshelled lots to be shelled, held by him on the first day of August and January, respectively, showing the locations thereof and the quantities:

(1) Which theretofore have been certified for handling and on which the merchantable restricted obligation has previously been met;

(2) Which have been packed as merchantable shelled walnuts but have not been certified and on which the merchantable restricted obligation has not been met; and

(3) Which are estimated as merchantable shelled walnuts to be produced, but have not yet been shelled.

27. Change § 984.82 to read as follows:

§ 984.82 Revision of control percentages. The Control Board prior to March 31 of each year shall review on the basis of actual production in each of the districts the control percentages established for that marketing year, and shall recommend to the Secretary prior to that March 31 such adjustments of any such percentages as it may find to be fair and equitable. The Secretary, on request of the Control Board made at any time prior to March 31 of any marketing year (or if the Control Board shall fail so to request, on request within like time of two or more handlers who have handled during the immediately preceding marketing year at least 10 percent of the total tonnage of merchantable unshelled walnuts or of merchantable shelled walnuts, respectively, handled by all handlers in that district during such marketing year) and after a finding of fact, based on such revised and current information as may be pertinent, that the merchantable unshelled walnuts or merchantable shelled walnuts, respectively, available for sale will not be sufficient to supply the respective trade demand therefor and provide an adequate carryover, may decrease the applicable merchantable restricted percentage or the surplus percentage, respectively, to conform to such finding.

Alternative Proposal

As an alternative to the foregoing proposed changes, the following are proposed:

28. Change § 984.4 of the Control Board proposal to read as follows:

30. In § 984.11, change the word "states" to "state," and strike "Oregon, or Washington" whenever appearing.

31. Change § 984.32 to read as follows:

One member and one alternate member shall be selected from nominees by each of the following groups or from among other qualified persons belonging to such groups:

(a) The cooperative packers doing business within the State of California;

(b) All packers and distributors, other than the cooperative packers, doing business within the State of California;

(e) All other growers of walnuts whose orchards are located in California;

(f) Those growers whose orchards are located in California and whose walnuts are marketed during the preceding marketing year through the packer group specified in paragraph (c) of this section;

(g) Shellers of walnuts within the area of production who are handlers but who are not packers.

32. In § 984.32, change "nine" to "seven," and "tenth" to "eighth," and strike, "Oregon, and Washington."

DEFINING AND DELIMITING THE TERM "BONA FIDE THRIFT OR SAVINGS PLAN"

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Section 7 (d) (3) (b) of the Fair Labor Standards Act provides that the term "regular rate" shall not be deemed to include "sums paid in recognition of services performed during a given period if * * * the payments are made pursuant to a * * * bona fide thrift or savings plan, meeting the requirements of the Administrator set forth in appropriate regulations which he shall issue, having due regard, among other relevant factors, to the extent to which the amounts paid to the employees are determined without regard to hours of work, production, or efficiency. * * *"

In formulating the provisions of these regulations consideration has been given to the pattern of existing thrift and savings plans and to recommendations made by the representatives of management and labor who appeared at a public hearing called by the Administrator.

Notice is hereby given that I propose to adopt said regulations as set forth below. Prior to their final adoption, however, consideration will be given to any data, views or comments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing to the Administrator of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C., by any interested person within 30 days from the publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed regulations are as follows:

No. 30——4

Sec.
547.0 Scope and effect of regulations.
547.1 Essential requirements for qualification.
547.2 Disqualifying provisions.
547.3 Petition for amendment of regulations.

AUTHORITY: §§ 547.0 to 547.3 issued under 52 Stat. 1060, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 201-219.

§ 547.0 Scope and effect of regulations. (a) The regulations in this part set forth the requirements of a "bona fide thrift or savings plan" under section 7 (d) (3) (b) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended (hereinafter called the act). In determining the total remuneration for employment which section 7 (d) of the act requires to be included in the regular rate at which an employee is employed, it is not necessary to include any sums paid to or on behalf of such employee, in recognition of services performed by him during a given period, which are paid pursuant to a bona fide thrift or savings plan meeting the requirements set forth herein. In the formulation of the regulations in this part due regard has been given to the factors and standards set forth in section 7 (d) (3) (b) of the act.

(b) Where a thrift or savings plan is combined in a single program (whether in one or more documents) with a plan or trust for providing profit-sharing payments to employees, or with a plan or trust for providing old age, retirement, life, accident or health insurance or similar benefits for employees, contributions made by the employer pursuant to such thrift or savings plan may be excluded from the regular rate if the plan meets the requirements of the regulation in this part and the contributions made for the other purposes may be excluded from the regular rate if they meet the tests set forth in Part 549 of this chapter or the tests set forth in Interpretative Bulletin, Part 778 of this chapter § 778.6 (g), as the case may be.

§ 547.1 Essential requirements for qualification. (a) A "bona fide thrift or savings plan" for the purpose of section 7 (d) (3) (b) of the act is required to meet all the standards set forth in paragraphs (b) through (f) of this section and must not contain the disqualifying provisions set forth in § 547.2.

(b) The thrift or savings plan constitutes a definite program or arrangement in writing, communicated or made available to the employees, which is established and maintained, in good faith, for the purpose of encouraging voluntary thrift or savings by employees by providing an incentive to employees to accumulate regularly and retain cash savings for a reasonable period of time or to save through the regular purchase of public or private securities.

(c) The plan specifically shall set forth the category or categories of employees participating and the basis of their eligibility. Eligibility may not be based on such factors as hours of work, production, or efficiency of the employees: Provided, however, That hours of work may be used to determine eligibility of part-time or casual employees.

(d) The amount any employee may save under the plan shall be specified in the plan or determined in accordance with a definite formula specified in the plan, which formula may be based on one or more factors such as the straight-time earnings or total earnings, base rate of pay, or length of service of the employee.

(e) The employer's contributions in any year may not exceed 15 percent of the participating employees' total earnings during that year; nor may they exceed the total dollar amount saved or invested by the participating employees under the plan.

(f) The employer's contributions shall be apportioned among the individual employees in accordance with a definite formula or method of calculation specified in the plan, which formula or method of calculation is based on the amount saved or the length of time the individual employee retains his savings or investment in the plan: Provided, That no employee's share determined in accordance with the plan may be diminished because of any other remuneration received by him.

§ 547.2 Disqualifying provisions. (a) No employee's participation in the plan shall be on other than a voluntary basis.

(b) No employee's wages or salary shall be dependent upon or influenced by the existence of such thrift or savings plan or the employer's contributions thereto.

(c) The amounts any employee may save under the plan, or the amounts paid by the employer under the plan may not be based upon the employee's hours of work, production or efficiency.

§ 547.3 Petition for amendment of regulations. Any person wishing a revision of any of the terms of the regulations in this part may submit in writing to the Administrator a petition setting forth the changes desired and the reasons for proposing them. If upon inspection of the petition, the Administrator believes that reasonable cause for amendment of the regulations is set forth, the Administrator will either schedule a hearing with due notice to interested parties, or will make other provision for affording interested parties an opportunity to present their views, either in support of or in opposition to the proposed changes.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 8th day of February 1954.

In the matter of the notification of Apartment Owners, Inc., File No. 24NY-3576.

Apartment Owners, Inc., having filed on December 29, 1953, a notification on Form 1-A for the purpose of obtaining an exemption from the registration provisions of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, pursuant to the provisions of section 3 (b) thereof and Regulation A promulgated thereunder; and

The Commission, on January 13, 1954, having issued its order, pursuant to Rule 223 (a) of the general rules and regulations under the Securities Act of 1933, that the conditional exemption under Regulation A be denied, and having concurrently given notice of opportunity for a hearing pursuant to said Rule 223; and

A written request from Apartment Owners, Inc., for a hearing having been received by the Commission on January 28, 1954;

It is hereby ordered, Pursuant to Rule 223 of the general rules and regulations under the Securities Act of 1933, that a public hearing be held on February 17, 1954, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., at the offices of the Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C., for the purpose of taking evidence on the matters specified herein. On such date the hearing room clerk in Room 193 will advise as to the room in which such hearing will be held.

The Commission having been advised that the Division of Corporation Finance has made an examination of the notification on Form 1-A, including the offering circular filed therewith as a part thereof;

It is further ordered, That the following matters are to be considered at the hearing, without prejudice, however, to the consideration and presentation of additional matters at the hearing upon further examination:

(1) Whether in the light of the nature of the business proposed to be done by the corporation, and more particularly its ability to obtain its stated need for additional financing by mortgages and loans in order to carry on its proposed activities, and the statement that Eugene Bynard McCann, the promoter, president and a director of the corporation, has had extensive experience in corporate financing and real estate, the failure to disclose his conviction and imprisonment for mail fraud is an omission of a material fact necessary to be stated in order to make the statements made in the offering circular, in the light of the circumstances under which they are made, not misleading; and

(2) Whether the use of the offering circular as filed with the Commission in connection with any offering of the shares to which the notification relates would operate as a fraud or deceit upon the offerees thereof.

It is further ordered, That Edward C. Johnson, or any officer or officers of the Commission designated by it for that purpose, shall preside at the hearing and any officer or officers so designated to preside at such hearing are hereby authorized to exercise all of the powers granted to the Commission under sections 19 (b), 21, and 22 (c) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and to hearing officers under the Commission's rules of practice.

Notice of such hearing is hereby given to Apartment Owners, Inc., Eugene Bynard McCann, and any other person or persons whose participation in such proceeding may be necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors. Any person desiring to be heard in said proceeding should file with the hearing officer or the Secretary of the Commission, on or before February 15, 1954, his application therefor as provided in Rule XVII of the rules of practice of the Commission, setting forth therein any matter or issues he desires raised by the aforesaid notification and offering circular.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Navel Orange Reg. 17, Amdt. 1]

PART 914—NAVEL ORANGES GROWN IN ARIZONA AND DESIGNATED PART OF CALIFORNIA

LIMITATION OF HANDLING

Findings. 1. Pursuant to the marketing agreement and Order No. 14 (18 F. R. 5638), regulating the handling of navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California, effective September 22, 1953, under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Navel Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such navel oranges, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

2. It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and this amendment relieves restrictions on the handling of navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California.

Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b) (1) (ii) of § 914.317 (Navel Orange Regulation 17, 19 F. R. 729) are amended to read as follows:

(ii) District 2, 300,300 boxes.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 608c)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 11th day of February 1954.

PART 914—NAVEL ORANGES GROWN IN ARIZONA AND DESIGNATED PART OF CALIFORNIA

LIMITATION OF HANDLING

§ 914.318 Navel Orange Regulation 18—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement and Order No. 14 (18 F. R. 5638), regulating the handling of navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California, effective September 22, 1953, under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Navel Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such navel oranges, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions of this section effective as hereinafter set forth. The Navel Orange Administrative Committee held an open meeting on February 11, 1954, after giving due notice thereof, to consider supply and market conditions for navel oranges and the need for regulation; interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit information and views at this meeting; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein was promptly submitted to the Department after such meeting was held; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such navel oranges; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period herein specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed on or before the effective date of this section.

(b) Order. (1) The quantity of navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California which may be handled during the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., February 14, 1954, and ending at 12:01 a. m. P. s. t., February 21, 1954, is hereby fixed as follows:

(i) District 1: 231,000 boxes;

(ii) District 2: 242,550 boxes;

(iii) District 3: Unlimited movement;

(iv) District 4: Unlimited movement.

(2) The prorate base of each handler who has made application therefor, as provided in the said marketing agreement and order, is hereby fixed in accordance with the prorate base schedule which is attached hereto and made a part hereof by this reference.

(3) Navel oranges handled pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be subject to any size restrictions applicable thereto which have heretofore been issued on the handling of such oranges and which are effective during the period specified herein.

(4) As used in this section "handled," "handler," "boxes," "prorate base," "District 1," "District 2," "District 3," and "District 4" shall have the same meaning as when used in said marketing agreement and order.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 608c)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 12th day of February 1954.

In either case the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler or producer-handler promptly upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION

§ 960.40 Skim milk and butterfat to be classified. Skim milk and butterfat contained in milk, skim milk, and cream or used to produce milk products received during each month from all sources by each handler shall be classified pursuant to §§ 960.41 through 960.46.

§ 960.41 Classes of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in §§ 960.43 and 960.44 skim milk and butterfat shall be classified separately as follows:

(a) Class I milk shall be all skim milk including reconstituted skim milk and all butterfat:

(1) Moved from a plant during the month or on hand at a plant at the end of the month in the form of milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, cream including sour cream or any mixture of cream and milk or skim milk, except skim milk, and butterfat which is classified as Class II milk pursuant to paragraph (b) (1), (2), or (3) of this section:

(2) Used to produce eggnog, cottage cheese, aerated cream, yogurt and concentrated milk for fluid consumption which was moved from a plant during the month or was on hand at a plant at the end of the month; or

(3) In shrinkage of producer milk as computed pursuant to § 960.42 (b) which is in excess of such shrinkage classified as Class II milk pursuant to paragraph (b) (4) of this section.

(b) Class II milk shall be all skim milk including reconstituted skim milk and all butterfat;

(1) Contained in skim milk which is dumped or fed to livestock by the handler or is moved from a plant and disposed of to farmers or livestock feeders for livestock feeding;

(2) Contained in cream which was moved from a plant during the month to a cold storage warehouse in the form of frozen cream or in the form of cream to be frozen, or which was on hand at a plant at the end of the month in the form of frozen cream;

(3) In shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat contained in producer milk in amounts equal to either the amounts of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, computed pursuant to § 960.42 (b) or amounts equal to 2 percent of the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, contained in producer milk, whichever amounts are smaller;

(4) In shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat contained in other source milk as computed pursuant to § 960.42 (b);

(5) Used to produce or contained in ice cream, imitation ice cream, and other frozen desserts and mixes for such products (liquid or powdered); butter; butter oil; cheese, other than cottage cheese; bulk condensed or skim milk or whole milk (sweetened or unsweetened); evaporated or condensed milk (or skim milk) in hermetically sealed cans; casein; nonfat dry milk solids; dry whole milk; condensed or dry buttermilk; whey, powdered malted milk; lactose; or any other products other than those specified in paragraph (a) of this section which products are moved from a plant during the month or are on hand at a plant at the end of the month.

§ 960.42 Shrinkage. Shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat contained in producer milk and in other source milk shall be computed each month as follows:

(a) Combine into separate totals for skim milk and butterfat all skim milk and butterfat contained in all milk, skim milk, and cream or used to produce all milk products received during the month from all sources and deduct therefrom all skim milk and butterfat, respectively, contained in or used to produce all milk, skim milk, cream, and all milk products moved from a plant during the month or an hand at a plant at the end of the month; Provided, That producer milk transferred or diverted by a handler from his pool plant to another pool plant without first having been received for purposes of weighing in the transferring or diverting handlers pool plant shall be included in the receipts at the pool plant to which such milk was transferred or diverted for the purpose of computing shrinkage and shall be excluded from the receipts at the transferring or diverting handler's pool plant for such purpose.

(b) Prorate the total shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section to skim milk and butterfat, respectively, contained in or used to produce all producer milk and all other source milk.

§ 960.43 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. All skim milk and butterfat contained in producer milk and in other source milk received by a handler shall be classified as Class I milk unless the handler proves to the market administrator that such skim milk and butterfat or a portion thereof should be classified as Class II milk. Any skim milk or butterfat which is classified in one class shall be reclassified to the other class if subsequent to the original classification such skim milk or butterfat is handled in such a manner as to justify its reclassification.

§ 960.44 Transfers. Skim milk or butterfat transferred (including skim milk and butterfat in milk which was diverted) from a pool plant in the form of milk, skim milk or cream to:

(a) Another pool plant or a nonpool plant from which a route is operated wholly or partially within the marketing area shall be classified as Class I milk unless utilization in Class II is indicated by the operators of both plants in their reports filed pursuant to § 960.30 for the month during which such transfer was made. If the two operators indicate a Class II utilization of all or part of the transferred skim milk and butterfat and the pounds of skim milk or butterfat remaining in Class II milk after the allocation of skim milk and butterfat in other source milk pursuant to § 960.46 (e) for the plant to which such transfer was made are greater than the pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, so mutually indicated to be classified as Class II milk, then all such skim milk or butterfat transferred shall be classified as Class II milk. If the pounds of skim milk or butterfat remaining in Class II milk after the allocation of skim milk and butterfat in other source milk pursuant to § 960.46 (e) for the plant to which such transfer was made are less than the pounds of skim milk or butterfat, respectively, so mutually indicated to be classified at Class II milk, then an amount of such transferred skim milk or butterfat, respectively, equal to the pounds remaining in Class II in the plant to which such transfer was made shall be classified as Class II milk and the remainder of such skim milk or butterfat so transferred shall be classified as Class I milk.

(b) To a producer-handler shall be classified as Class I milk.

(c) To a nonpool plant from which no route is operated within the marketing area shall be classified as Class I milk unless utilization in Class II is mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by the operators of both plants on or before the 8th day of the month following that within which such transfer was made and the operator of the nonpool plant maintains books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat received at his plant and makes such books and records available to the market administrator, upon his request, for the verification of such utilization. If the above conditions are met the market administrator shall classify all skim milk and butterfat received at the nonpool plant and the skim and butterfat so transferred shall be allocated in series beginning with any skim milk and butterfat, respectively, remaining in Class I milk after allocating skim milk and butterfat in milk received from dairy farmers who the market administrator determines constitute the regular source of milk for Class I uses at such plant in series beginning with Class I milk.

§ 960.45 Computation of skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each month the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for other obvious errors the report submitted by each handler pursuant to § 960.30 and shall compute separately the pounds of skim milk and butterfat in each class.

§ 960.46 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat. Skim milk and butterfat to be classified pursuant to § 960.40 shall be separately allocated to skim milk and butterfat classified pursuant to § 960.41 through § 960.44 in sequence as follows:

(a) Plant shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat contained in producer milk as computed pursuant to § 960.42 (b) shall be allocated to skim milk and butterfat, respectively, classified pursuant to § 960.41 (a) and (b) (4).

(b) Skim milk and butterfat contained in or used to produce products other than milk, skim milk, or cream received in such form shall be allocated to skim milk and butterfat contained in or used to produce products moved from a plant during the month or on hand at a plant at the end of the month in like form.

(c) Skim milk and butterfat contained in any frozen cream which was classified in a previous month as Class II milk pursuant to § 960.41 (b) (2) and which was removed from storage or received from another handler during the month for which classification is being determined shall be allocated to skim milk and butterfat used to produce ice cream or other frozen desserts or mixes for such ice cream or other frozen desserts moved from a plant during such month or on hand at a plant at the end of such month.

(d) Remaining skim milk and butterfat contained in or used to produce other source milk other than that received from a plant at which the handling of milk is fully subject to the pricing and payment provisions of another marketing agreement or order issued pursuant to the act shall be allocated to remaining skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in Class II milk, and if such remaining skim milk or butterfat contained in or used to produce such other source milk exceeds the remaining skim milk or butterfat, respectively, in Class II milk, such excess of skim milk of butterfat shall be allocated to skim milk or butterfat, respectively, in Class I milk.

(e) Remaining skim milk and butterfat contained in or used to produce other source milk received from a plant at which the handling of milk is fully subject to the pricing and payment provisions of another marketing agreement or order issued pursuant to the act shall be allocated to remaining skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in Class II milk, and if such remaining skim milk or butterfat contained in or used to produce such other source milk exceeds the remaining skim milk or butterfat, respectively, in Class II milk, such excess of skim milk or butterfat shall be allocated the skim milk and butterfat in Class I milk.

(f) Skim milk and butterfat transferred and classified pursuant to § 960.44 shall be allocated to skim milk and butterfat, respectively, pursuant to such classification.

(g) Add to the remaining skim milk and butterfat in each class the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, allocated pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section.

(h) If the then remaining skim milk or butterfat in all classes exceeds the skim milk or butterfat contained in producer milk received by such handler, subtract such excess of skim milk or butterfat from remaining skim milk or butterfat, respectively, in Class II milk, and if the remaining skim milk or butterfat in Class II milk is less than such excess of skim milk or butterfat, respectively, subtract the difference of skim milk or butterfat from remaining skim milk or butterfat, respectively, in Class I milk. The resulting volumes of skim milk and butterfat in each class are the volumes of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk in each class.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 960.50 Basic formula price. The basic formula price per hundredweight of milk to be used in determining the Class I and Class II milk price pursuant to §§ 960.51 and 960.52 shall be the highest of the prices per hundredweight of milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content computed by the market administrator pursuant to paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of this section.

(a) The average of the basic (or field) prices ascertained to have been paid or to be paid per hundredweight for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the month at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department of Agriculture by the companies indicated below:

(b) The price resulting from the following computations:

(1) Multiply by 6 the simple average as computed by the market adminstrator, of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter per pound at Chicago as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the month for which prices are being computed;

(2) Add an amount equal to 2.4 times the simple average as published by the Department of Agriculture of the prices determined per pound of "Cheddars" on the Wisconsin Cheese Exchange at Plymouth, Wisconsin, for the trading days that fall within the month; and

(3) Divide by 7 and to the resulting amount add 30 percent; and then multiply by 3.5.

(c) The price computed by adding together the plus amounts pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph:

(1) From the average price of butter as computed in paragraph (b) (1) of this section, subtract 3 cents, add 20 percent of the resulting amount, and then multiply by 3.5.

(2) From the simple average as computed by the market administrator, of the weighted averages of the carlot prices per pound for nonfat dry milk solids, spray, and roller process, respectively, for human consumption, f. o. b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area, as published for the period from the 26th day of the immediately preceding month through the 25th day of the month for which prices are being computed by the Department of Agriculture, deduct 5.5 cents, and multiply by 8.2.

§ 960.51 Class I milk prices. The minimum prices per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for butterfat and skim milk in producer milk received by such handler during the month which is classified as Class I milk shall be computed by the market administrator as follows:

(a) Add to the basic formula price the following amount for the month indicated:

Month:	Amount
April, May, and June	$1.00
February, March, and July	1.45
All others	1.90

Provided, That in no month shall the Class I price computed pursuant to this section be less than the higher of the Class I prices computed pursuant to the 3.5 percent Class I price effective in the Cleveland, Ohio or the Stark County, Ohio marketing area for such month.

(b) The price of butterfat shall be the amount obtained in paragraph (a) of this section multiplied by 20.

(c) The price of skim milk shall be computed by:

(1) Multiplying the price of butterfat pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section by 0.035;

(2) Subtracting such amount from the amount obtained in paragraph (a) of this section:

(3) Dividing such net amount by 0.965; and

(4) Rounding off to the nearest full cent.

§ 960.52 Class II milk prices. The minimum prices per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for butterfat and skim milk in producer milk received by such handler during the month which is classified as Class II milk shall be computed by the market administrator as follows:

(a) Multiply the basic formula price computed pursuant to § 960.50 by the result obtained pursuant to § 960.51 (c).

(b) Divide the result obtained pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section by 0.035. The result shall be the price per hundredweight of butterfat classified as Class II milk.

(c) From the basic formula price computed pursuant to § 960.50 subtract the amount computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, and divide the remainder by 0.965. The result shall be the price per hundredweight of skim milk classified as Class II milk.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICE

§ 960.60 Value of producer milk. The value of producer milk received by each handler during the month shall be computed by the market administrator by multiplying the hundredweight of skim milk and butterfat in each class as computed pursuant to § 960.46 by the applicable class prices and adding together the resulting amounts: Provided, That if after the allocation of skim milk and butterfat pursuant to paragraphs (a) through (g) of § 960.46 the remaining amount of skim milk of butterfat exceeds the amount of skim milk or butterfat, respectively, in producer milk received by such handler, there shall be added to the value of the producer milk received by such handler a further amount computed by multiplying the hundredweight of skim milk of butterfat as subtracted pursuant to § 960.46 (h) by the applicable class price.

§ 960.61 Computation of uniform prices. For each month the market administrator shall compute a uniform price per hundredweight of milk containing 3.5 percent of butterfat to be paid to producers delivering milk to any pool plant as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the value of producer milk for each handler as computed pursuant to § 960.60 for all handlers who reported pursuant to § 960.30 for such month, except those in default in payments required pursuant to § 960.72 for the preceding month.

(b) Add the total amount of all payments made pursuant to § 960.72 (b), (c), and (d);

(c) Add any amounts paid into the producer-settlement fund and subtract any amounts paid out of the producer-settlement fund pursuant to § 960.77;

(d) Add an amount representing not less than one-half of the unobligated balance in the producer-settlement fund exclusive of the amounts added or subtracted pursuant to paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section;

(e) Subtract, if the weighted average butterfat test of all producer milk represented by the amounts included under paragraph (a) of this section is greater than 3.5 percent, or add, if the weighted average butter, at test of such milk is less than 3.5 percent, an amount computed by multiplying the total pounds of butterfat represented by the difference of such weighted average butterfat test from 3.5 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 960.74 multiplied by 10;

(f) Divide the resulting amount by the total hundredweight of producer milk received by all handlers during the month for which uniform prices are being computed;

(g) Subtract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents, and the result shall be the uniform price to be paid per hundredweight of milk containing 3.5 percent of butterfat to producers who delivered milk during the month for which uniform prices are being computed.

§ 960.62 Notification. On or before the 10th day of each month the market administrator shall notify each handler who submitted a report for the preceding month pursuant to § 960.30 of:

(a) The classification pursuant to § 960.46 of skim milk and butterfat contained in producer milk received by such handler during the preceding month and the value of such milk computed pursuant to § 960.60;

(b) The uniform prices for the preceding month computed pursuant to § 960.61; and

(c) The amount due such handler pursuant to § 960.73 and the amount to be paid by such handler pursuant to §§ 960.72, 960.75, and 960.76.

PAYMENTS FOR MILK

§ 960.70 Payments to producers or cooperative associations. Subject to §§ 960.75 and 960.76, each handler who is not a cooperative association shall make payments to producers or cooperative associations pursuant to either paragraph (a) or (b) of this section:

(a) On or before the 12th day of each month such handler shall pay to a cooperative association which requests such payment for producer milk received in the preceding month from producers who have given such cooperative association written authorization to collect payment for their milk a total amount not less than the sum of the individual amounts otherwise payable to such producers pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section. In making such payments to a cooperative association, the payments shall be accompanied with a statement showing the name of each producer for whose milk payment is being made to the cooperative association the volume and average butterfat content of milk received from each such producer, and the amount of and reason for any deductions which the handler has withheld from the amount due such producer.

(b) On or before the 12th day of each month such handler shall pay each producer (other than those for whom a cooperative association collects pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section) for milk received from him during the preceding month at not less than the appropriate uniform price computed pursuant to § 960.61 for such month, adjusted by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 960.74 for such month, and less any deductions authorized by such producer: Provided, That if the payments made to a handler pursuant to § 960.73 have been reduced pursuant to the proviso contained therein, such handler may reduce payments to producers of cooperative associations by the same amount per hundredweight of milk and such handler shall complete payments to producers of cooperative associations as required by this section or before the next date for making payments pursuant to this section following the date upon which such handler received payment in full for amounts due him pursuant to § 960.73.

§ 960.71 Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as the "producer-settlement fund" into which he shall deposit all payments made pursuant to §§ 960.72 and 960.77 and out of which he shall make all payments pursuant to §§ 960.73 and 960.77.

§ 960.72 Payments to the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 12th day of each month handlers shall make payments to the market administrator as follows:

(a) If the value of producer milk received by a handler in the preceding month as computed pursuant to § 960.60 exceeds the amount which such handler is required to pay to all producers pursuant to § 960.70, such handler shall pay the difference between the two amounts.

(b) Any handler who during the preceding month operated a nonpool plant from which a route extending into the marketing area was operated shall pay an amount computed by determining the value at the Class I price which would be applicable at such plant if it were a pool plant of all Class I milk disposed of on routes operated wholly or partially within the marketing area during the preceding month and by deducting from such value the value of such milk at the Class II price: Provided, That if such handler received at his nonpool plant during the preceding month skim milk and butterfat from a pool plant which was classified as Class I milk pursuant to § 960.44 (a) a payment shall be made pursuant to this section only if the volume of Class I milk so disposed of on routes operated wholly or partially within the marketing area is in excess of the volume of Class I milk received from a pool plant and shall be computed only on such excess.

(c) Any handler who during the preceding month operated a pool plant shall pay an amount computed by determining the value of other source milk which was received during the preceding month and allocated to Class I milk pursuant to § 960.46 (d) at the Class I price applicable to such plant and by deducting from such value the value of such milk at the Class II price.

(d) Any handler who received other source milk in the preceding month which was allocated to Class I milk pursuant to § 960.46 (e) shall pay any amount by which the value of such milk at the Class I price applicable to the plant at which such other source milk was received exceeded the value of such milk computed pursuant to the other marketing agreement or order.

§ 960.73 Payments out of the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 12th day of each month, the market administrator shall pay to each handler any amount by which the sum required to be paid by such handler for the preceding month pursuant to § 960.70 is greater than the total value of the milk of such handler computed pursuant to § 960.60 for such preceding month, less any unpaid obligations of the handler to the market administrator pursuant to § 960.72: Provided, That if the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make payments to all handlers pursuant to this paragraph, the market administrator shall reduce such payments by a uniform amount per hundredweight of milk and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds become available.

§ 960.74 Producer butterfat differential. In making payments pursuant to § 960.70 the uniform prices shall be adjusted for each one-tenth of one percent of butterfat content in the milk of each producer above or below 3.5 percent, as the case may be, by a butterfat differential (computed to the next high half-cent) computed as follows: Divide the average price of butter as computed pursuant to § 960.50 (b) (1) by 10 and, if the result is not an even whole or half cent, round to the next higher whole or half cent.

§ 960.75 Expense of administration. As his pro rata share of the expense incurred pursuant to § 960.22 (c), each handler shall pay the market administrator on or before the 14th day of each month 3 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe with respect to (a) all receipts within the preceding month of producer milk (including such handlers' own production), (b) all other source milk received at a pool plant in the preceding month and classified as Class I, and (c) all other source milk on which payment is made pursuant to § 960.72 (b).

§ 960.76 Marketing services. In making payments to producers or cooperative associations pursuant to § 960.70 a handler shall make deductions and dispose of amounts so deducted as follows:

(a) Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section a handler shall deduct 8 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe, with respect to all producer milk for which payment is being made pursuant to § 960.70 and shall pay the total amount of such deductions to the market administrator on or before the 14th day after the end of the month in which such producer milk was received. Such amount shall be expended by the market administrator to verify weights and tests of milk of producers and to provide producers with market information, such service to be performed by the market administrator or by an agent engaged by and responsible to him.

(b) In the case of producers for whom a cooperative association is actually performing the services described in paragraph (a) of this section as determined by the market administrator, a handler shall make, in lieu of the deductions specified in paragraph (a) of this section, such deductions from payments required pursuant to § 960.70 (b) for producer milk received in the preceding month as may be authorized by such producers, and pay such deductions on or before the 14th day after the end of the month in which such producer milk was received to the cooperative association rendering such services.

§ 960.77 Errors in payments. Whenever audit by the market administrator of any handler's reports, books, records or accounts discloses errors or whenever skim milk or butterfat is reclassified pursuant to § 960.43 resulting in moneys due (a) the market administrator from such handler, or such handler from the market administrator or (b) any producer or cooperative association from such handler pursuant to § 960.70 the market administrator shall promptly notify such handler of any such amount due, and payment thereof shall be made on or before the next date for making payment set forth in the provision under which such error occurred, following the 5th day after such notice. In computing amounts due pursuant to this section class prices, the appropriate uniform price, the butterfat differential, the rate of administration assessment pursuant to § 960.75, and the rate of marketing service deduction pursuant to § 960.76 which were applicable in the month for which the original calculations of amounts due were made shall be used.

§ 960.78 Termination of obligation. (a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this order shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator received the handler's report of utilization of the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notified the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to a cooperative association, the name of such producers or association, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this subpart, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books or records required by this subpart to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this subpart to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this subpart shall terminate two years after the end of the calendar month during which milk involved in the claim was received if any underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the calendar month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market adminstrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler, within that applicable period of time, files pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this subpart for the payment of money.

§ 960.81 Suspension or termination. Whenever the Secretary finds the subpart or any provision of this subpart obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall terminate or suspend the operation of this order or any such provision of this subpart.

§ 960.82 Continuing obligations. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this subpart there are any obligations thereunder the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any person (including the market administrator), such further acts shall be performed notwithstanding such suspension or termination.

§ 960.83 Liquidation. Upon the suspension of the provisions of the subpart, except this section, the market administrator, or such other liquidation agent as the Secretary may designate, shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, dispose of all property in his possession or control, including accounts receivable and execute and deliver all assignments or other instrument necessary or appropriate to effectuate any such disposition. If a liquidating agent is so designated all assets, books, and records of the market administrator shall be transferred promptly to such liquidation agent. If, upon such liquidation, the funds on hand exceed the amounts required to pay outstanding obligations of the office of the market administrator and to pay necessary expenses of liquidation and distribution, such excess shall be distributed to contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

HANDLING OF MILK IN TRI-STATE MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF HEARING AND PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO TENTATIVE MARKETING AGREEMENT AND TO ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of a public hearing to be held at 64 State Street, Galliopolis, Ohio, beginning at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., February 18, 1954, for the purpose of receiving evidence with respect to proposed amendments hereinafter set forth, or appropriate modifications thereof, to the tentative marketing agreement heretofore approved by the Secretary of Agriculture and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Tri-State marketing area. These proposed amendments have not received the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Consideration will be given also to the question of whether economic and marketing conditions which relate to the handling of milk for the said marketing area require emergency action with respect to any or all amendments deemed necessary as the result of the hearing.

Proposed by the Southeastern Ohio Cooperative Dairy Sales Association, Inc.:

1. Clarify the definition of "fluid milk plant" in § 972.7 (b) so that irregular emergency shipments would still be defined within the 25,000 pounds limit for the delivery period.

2. Include in § 972.9 defining the "Gallipolis District Plant," the County of Meigs in Ohio.

3. Amend the first clause of § 972.13 to read as follows: "'Producer' means any person other than a producer-handler who produces milk received:".

4. a. Amend § 972.34 to establish a basis of inter-handler transfers to be classified on a pro rata basis according to utilization from the receiving handler to the plant of the handler making the transfer.

b. Also, amend § 972.36 to be consistent with the request to the amended § 972.34.

Proposed by the Huntington Interstate Milk Producers Association:

5. Delete § 972.41 in its entirety and substitute the following:

§ 972.41 Class I milk prices. Subject to the provisions of §§ 972.44 through 972.47, the minimum prices per hundredweight on a 3.5 percent butterfat content basis to be paid by each handler for producer milk classified as Class I milk, shall be the basic formula price determined pursuant to § 972.40 adjusted as follows:

(a) Add $2.10 per hundredweight of Class I milk;

(b) Add a seasonal bonus computed as follows for the delivery periods indicated:

October	12½
November	25
December	25
February	12½

(2) The fund shall be distributed by the Market Administrator by the addition of the prescribed percentage for each month, October through February, to the producer payrolls under his supervision. The Market Administrator shall divide the percentage of the fund to be distributed for each month by the total amount of Class I milk in pounds in the market during each of the months, October through February, and each producer's share shall be determined by the total amount of Class I milk in pounds delivered to the Tri-State Market by that producer for each of the months, October through February.

6. Supplement and amend § 972.46 as follows:

8. Insert a new section as follows:

§ 972.19 Any handler located within the Tri-State Marketing Area and who operates a milk route wholly or partially beyond the limits of the District in which its processing plant is located shall pay for such products sold beyond the limits of its District the class prices then prevailing in the District in which said products are sold.

(a) "Full-pay patients" are those patients who are responsible for paying the rates set forth in § 401.7 for their care as in-patients at the hospital.

(b) "Part-pay patients" are those patients who, after financial investigation, are found to be unable under the criteria specified in § 401.6, to pay the rates established for full-pay patients, but who are nevertheless able to pay the modified rates established in § 401.7 for their care as in-patients at the hospital.

(c) "Indigent patients" are those patients who, after financial investigation, are found to be unable under the criteria specified in § 401.6 to pay any amount for their care as in-patients at the hospital.

(d) "In-patients" are patients who are hospitalized for the purpose of receiving medical care, treatment, or observation.

(e) "Out-patients" are ambulatory patients who receive medical care or treatment not requiring hospitalization.

(f) "Referred patients" are out-patients referred to the hospital by private physicians as their own patients for X-ray, laboratory, or other special services performed on the prescription or at the request of such private physicians.

(g) "Emergency patients" are out-patients who require medical care or treatment as a result of sudden illness or injury where to delay such care or treatment would imperil the life or safety of the patient. Emergency patients who require hospitalization as in-patients shall be considered as full-pay patients, part-pay patients, or indigent patients as the case may be.

(h) "Clinic patients" are out-patients other than referred or emergency patients.

(i) "Patient day" means a period of twenty-four hours beginning at midnight. In the computation of the time for payment the day of admission into the hospital will be counted and the day of discharge therefrom excluded. Patients admitted and discharged on the same patient day will be charged for one patient day.

§ 401.2 Eligibility for admission, medical care, and treatment. Subject to the provisions of § 401.6, all persons in need of hospitalization, medical care, or treatment are eligible for admission to the hospital either as in-patients or out-patients as their medical condition may indicate. Each admission shall be conditioned upon the capacity and facilities of the hospital available to receive and treat the patient.

§ 401.3 Examinations for admission. Each applicant for admission as an in-patient may be examined pursuant to the direction of the Superintendent for determination by him or his designee of the eligibility of the applicant for admission under this part.

§ 401.4 Agreements for payments. All full-pay and part-pay patients or their responsible representatives will be required to execute an agreement to pay the costs of their hospitalization and other services as specified in this part.

§ 401.5 Advance payments. Payments are to be made weekly in advance for in-patient hospitalization, except in those cases where the patient enters the hospital for a definite number of days constituting less than a week. In such cases payment shall be made in advance for the number of days the patient expects to remain in the hospital. However, the Superintendent, or his designee, may waive the requirements of this section in those cases in which he determines that the patient, his responsible representative, or other individual or organization who undertakes the payment for his hospitalization and care, is financially responsible. In such cases, full settlement shall be made as soon as practicable. Requirement for advanced payments prior to admission may be waived in the case of emergency admissions.

§ 401.6 Income schedule for determination of rates. The ability of a patient to pay for his hospitalization and other services shall be determined in accordance with the following schedule:

OWEN BROTHERS STOCKYARDS, MEMPHIS, TENN.

DEPOSTING OF STOCKYARD

It has been ascertained that the Owen Brothers Stockyards, Memphis, Tennessee, originally posted under the name of Guyton Stock Yards on June 25, 1930, as being subject to the Packers and Stockyards Act, 1921, as amended (7 U. S. C. 181 et seq.), no longer comes within the definition of a stockyard under said act for the reason that it is no longer being conducted or operated as a public livestock market. Therefore, notice is given to the owners of the stockyard and to the public that such livestock market is no longer subject to the provisions of the act.

Notice of public rule making has not preceded promulgation of the foregoing rule since it is found that the giving of such notice would prevent the due and timely administration of the Packers and Stockyards Act and would, therefore, be impractical. There is no legal warrant or justification for not depositing promptly a stockyard which no longer in within the definition of that term contained in said act.

The foregoing is in the nature of a rule granting an exemption or relieving a restriction and, therefore, may be made effective in less than 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(42 Stat. 159, as amended and supplemented; 7 U. S. C. 181 et seq.)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 9th day of February 1954.

Director, Livestock Division, Agricultural Marketing Service.

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Orange Reg. 251]

PART 933—ORANGES, GRAPEFRUIT, AND TANGERINES GROWN IN FLORIDA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 933.668 Orange Regulation 251—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 33, as amended (7 CFR Part 933), regulating the handling of oranges, grapefruit, and tangerines grown in the State of Florida, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendations of the committees established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of all oranges, except Temple oranges, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective not later than February 17, 1954. Shipments of all oranges, except Temple oranges, grown in the State of Florida, are presently subject to regulation by grades and sizes, pursuant to the amended marketing agreement and order, and, unless sooner terminated, will so continue until February 22; the recommendation and supporting information for continued regulation subsequent to February 16, 1954, and in the manner herein provided, was promptly submitted to the Department after an open meeting of the Growers Administrative Committee on February 9; such meeting was held to consider recommendations for regulation, after giving due notice of such meeting and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; the provisions of this section, including the effective time hereof, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such oranges; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period hereinafter set forth so as to provide for the continued regulation of the handling of all oranges, except Temple oranges; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of the persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof.

(b) Order. (1) Orange Regulation 249 (7 CFR 933.663; 19 F. R. 530), is hereby terminated at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., February 17, 1954.

(2) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., February 17, 1954, and ending at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., March 1, 1954, no handler shall ship:

(i) Any oranges, except Temple oranges, grown in the State of Florida, which do not grade at least U. S. No. 1 Russet; or

(ii) Any oranges, except Temple oranges, grown in the State of Florida, which are of a size smaller than a size that will pack 288 oranges, packed in accordance with the requirements of a standard pack, in a standard nailed box.

(3) As used in this section, the terms "handler," "ship," and "Growers Administrative Committee" shall each have the same meaning as when used in said amended marketing agreement and order; and the terms "U. S. No. 1 Russet," "standard pack," and "standard nailed box," shall have the same meaning as when used in the revised United States Standards for Florida Oranges (7 CFR 51.1140–1186).

Shipments of Temple oranges, grown in the State of Florida, are subject to the provisions of Orange Regulation 244 (7 CFR 933.647; 18 F. R. 7380).

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup. 608c)

Chapter XIV—The Renegotiation Board

Subchapter B—The Renegotiation Board Regulations Under the 1951 Act

PART 1460—PRINCIPLES AND FACTORS IN DETERMINING EXCESSIVE PROFITS

MINIMUM REFUND

This part is amended by deleting § 1460.5 in its entirety and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

§ 1460.5 Minimum refund. Except as hereinafter provided, and in the absence of unusual circumstances, no determination of excessive profits shall be made if such excessive profits before adjustment for State taxes measured by income amount to less than $10,000 with respect to any fiscal year ended on or before December 31, 1951, or less than $20,000 with respect to any fiscal year ended after December 31, 1951. If a determination of excessive profits would be made at or in excess of the applicable minimum amount but for the limitation set forth in section 105 (f) (1) of the act and § 1458.3 (a) of this subchapter, the determination will be made in accordance with such limitation even though the amount of the determination is less than the minimum prescribed by this section. For example, if renegotiable receipts or accruals are $258,000, and excessive profits would be determined as $20,000 but for the statutory limitation that the excessive profits to be eliminated in such case shall not exceed $8,000 (the difference between $258,000 and $250,000) a determination in the amount of $8,000 will be made. In the renegotiation of an affiliated or related group, whether or not consolidated, determinations of excessive profits with respect to individual members of the group may be made in amounts less than the applicable mimimum specified in this section: Provided, That the aggregate of the determinations for all members of the group equals or exceeds such applicable minimum. If the fiscal year is a fractional part of twelve months, the applicable minimum specified in this section shall be reduced to the same fractional part thereof. The provisions of this section shall not apply to subcontracts under section 103 (g) (3) of the act.

§ 13.3 Georgraphic scope. This part is applicable to donable personal property located, needed and usable within continental United States, Alaska, District of Columbia, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

§ 13.4 Allocation of donable property. Allocations of donable property will be made on the basis of need and usability of the property. The following factors will be taken into consideration in effecting equitable allocation of property:

(a) States in greatest need for the type of property to be allocated;

(b) Extraordinary health and educational needs occasioned by emergencies such as fire, floods and other disasters, defense training, and the like;

(c) Location, condition, and transportability of property;

(d) Ability of the eligible applicant or State Agency to meet transportation requirements for accepting the property;

§ 13.5 Donations of personal property. (a) Donations of personal property are made by or pursuant to delegations from the Administrator of General Services upon certification by the Department that the property applied for is usable and necessary for educational or public health purposes, including research, and upon a finding that the applicant is eligible to receive such property under the act and regulations issued pursuant thereto.

(b) Donable property will be made available to State Agencies for distribution to eligible applicants except that in states where no State Agency exists, property will be made available directly to eligible applicants or to State Departments of Education or Health for distribution to eligible applicants. Applications for donable property shall be made only on the application form "Application for Surplus Property—Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended," Form HEW 135 (formerly Form FS–135 Budget Bureau No. 85 R004.1). Sample copies of such application form may be obtained from the Office of the Secretary, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Washington 25, D. C., or from any Regional Office of the Department. State Agencies shall promptly distribute donable property to eligible applicants in accordance with the criteria and provisions established in this part and shall require the authorized representative of each such applicant to sign a Form HEW 135 or a warehouse issue sheet or other State Agency document or form containing the equivalent certifications and the same terms and conditions as are set forth in the Form HEW 135.

(c) Retransfers of donable property by donees or State Agencies to other donees or eligible applicants will be made upon the same terms and conditions as are set forth in § 13.6.

§ 13.6 Terms and conditions of donations or transfers. (a) All right, title and interest in donable property, except the right to possession, shall remain in the United States until the eligible applicant has executed the application and certifications provided for in § 13.5 (b). State Agencies shall not acquire any title to donable property except where State licensing laws require that title pass in order that State licensing or registration of the property may be effected.

(b) Property acquired by a donee pursuant to this part shall be on a "as is," "where is" basis without warranty of any kind.

(c) The period of restriction has been determined to expire after the property has been used for health or educational purposes for a period of four (4) years.

(d) Property acquired by a donee pursuant to this part will be used only for educational purposes or public health purposes, including research, and for no other purpose and will be placed in use no later than twelve months after acquisition thereof.

(e) The donee, during the period of restriction, will not sell, trade, lease, or otherwise dispose of or encumber this property or remove it for use outside the State without prior approval of the Department. Any sale, trade, lease or other disposal of said property, when such action is authorized by the Department during the period of restriction, shall be for the benefit and account of the United States of America and the net proceeds of such sale, lease, or other disposal or encumbrance shall be received and held in trust for the United States of America and shall be paid promptly to the United States of America.

(f) In the event the property is sold, traded, leased, or otherwise disposed of or encumbered during the period of restriction without prior approval, the donee at the option of the Department shall be liable for the reasonable value of the property at the time of such sale, trade, lease or other disposal as determined by the Department in lieu of being liable for the net proceeds of the disposal, as set forth in paragraph (e) of this section.

(g) In the event donable property is not placed in use within twelve months of receipt as provided in paragraph (d) of this section, the donee will promptly notify the Department in writing through the appropriate State Agency. Title and the right to the possession of such property not so placed in use within the above-mentioned period shall promptly revert to the United States of America, and upon demand the applicant will release such property to such person as the Department or its designee shall direct.

(h) During the period of restriction, property which is not suitable, usable or no longer needed by the donee for the purposes for which obtained by it will be subject to retransfer by the donee to such other educational or public health user, as may be authorized by the Department or its designee, or, if such property is not desired by other educational or public health applicants, it will be sold upon authorization for the benefit and account of the Government. Net proceeds from such sales will be remitted to the Department, payable to the Treasurer of the United States, except in those instances in which the Department or its designee determines that the Government's administrative costs in connection with receipt thereof will exceed such net proceeds. At the option of the Department, or its designee, the donee will be permitted to pay the fair value as determined by the Department for the property and thereby secure abrogation of the restrictions set forth in paragraphs (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) of this section and this paragraph.

(i) State Agencies and donees will make such reasonable reports on the use, condition, and location of donable property and on other pertinent matters as the Secretary shall from time to time require.

(j) So long as title to donable property remains in the United States, State Agencies and/or donees will be responsible, as a bailee for mutual benefit, for such property from the time the property is released to such State Agency or donee, or their agents, or to a transportation agency designated by such State Agency or donee; and that in the event of any loss of, or damage to, any or all of such property, they will file such claim and/or institute and prosecute to conclusion such proceedings as may be necessary to recover, for the account of the United States of America, the fair value of such property lost or damaged.

(k) The Secretary may also prescribe such other terms and conditions as are deemed necessary or desirable.

Dated: February 10, 1954.

[SEAL] OVETA CULP HOBBY,
Secretary.

OIL AND GAS LEASE OF SUBMERGED LANDS UNDER THE OUTER CONTINENTAL SHELF LANDS ACT

This indenture of lease entered into as of _____, 19__, by and between the United States of America, hereinafter called the lessor, by the Director, Bureau of Land Management, and _____ hereinafter called the lessee, under, pursuant, and subject to the terms and provisions of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act of August 7, 1953 (67 Stat. 462; 30 U. S. C., sec. — et seq.), hereinafter referred to as the act, and to all lawful and reasonable regulations of the Secretary of the Interior (hereinafter referred to as the Secretary) when not inconsistent with any express and specific provisions herein, which are made a part hereof:

WITNESSETH:

SECTION 1. Rights of lessee. That the lessor, in consideration of a cash bonus and of the rents and royalties to be paid, and the conditions and covenants to be observed as herein set forth, does hereby grant and lease to the lessee the exclusive right and privilege to drill for, mine, extract, remove and dispose of all oil and gas deposits except helium gas in or under the following-described area of the outer Continental Shelf (as that term is defined in the act):

containing _____ acres, more or less (hereinafter referred to as the leased area), together with:

(a) The non-exclusive right to conduct within the leased area geological and geophysical explorations which are not unduly harmful to aquatic life;

(b) The right to drill water wells within the leased area and use free of cost, and to dispose of, water produced from such wells; and

(c) The right to construct or erect and to maintain within the leased area all artificial islands, fixed structures, sea walls, docks, dredged channels and spaces, buildings, plants, telegraph or telephone lines and cables, pipelines, reservoirs, tanks, pumping stations, and other works and structures necessary or convenient to the full enjoyment of the rights granted by this lease, for a period of 5 years and as long thereafter as oil or gas may be produced from the leased area in paying quantities, or drilling or well reworking operations, as approved by the Secretary, are conducted thereon; subject to any unitization or pooling agreement heretofore or hereafter approved by the Secretary which affects the leased area or any part thereof, the provisions of such agreement to govern the leased area or part thereof subject thereto where inconsistent with the terms of this lease.

SEC. 2. Obligations of lessee. In consideration of the foregoing, the lessee agrees:

(a) Bonds. To maintain at all times the bond required prior to the issuance of this lease and to furnish such additional security as may be required by the lessor if, after operations or production have begun, the lessor deems such additional security to be necessary.

(b) Cooperative or unit plan. Within 30 days after demand, to subscribe to and to operate under such reasonable cooperative or unit plan for the development and operation of the area, field, or pool, or part thereof, embracing lands included herein as the Secretary may determine to be practicable and necessary or advisable, which plan shall adequately protect the rights of all parties in interest, including the United States.

(c) Wells. (1) To drill and produce such wells as are necessary to protect the lessor from loss by reason of production on other properties or, in lieu thereof, with the consent of the oil and gas supervisor, to pay a sum determined by the supervisor as adequate to compensate the lessor for failure to drill and produce any such well. In the event that this lease is not being maintained in force by other production of oil or gas in paying quantities or by other approved drilling or reworking operations, such payments shall be considered as the equivalent of production in paying quantities for all purposes of this lease.

(2) After due notice in writing, to drill and produce such other wells as the Secretary may reasonably require in order that the leased area or any part thereof may be properly and timely developed and produced in accordance with good operating practice.

(3) At the election of the lessee, to drill and produce other wells in conformity with any system of well spacing or production allotments affecting the area, field, or pool in which the leased area or any part thereof is situated, which is authorized or sanctioned by applicable law or by the Secretary.

(d) Rentals and royalties. (1) To pay rentals and royalties as follows:

Rentals. To pay the lessor on or before the first day of each lease year commencing prior to a discovery of oil or gas on the leased area, a rental of ------ per acre or fraction thereof.

Minimum royalty. To pay the lessor in lieu of rental at the expiration of each lease year commencing after discovery a minimum royalty of ------ per acre or fraction thereof or, if there is production, the difference between the actual royalty paid during the year and the prescribed minimum royalty, if the actual royalty paid is less than the minimum royalty.

Royalty on production. To pay the lessor a royalty of ------ percent in amount or value of production saved, removed, or sold from the leased area. Gas of all kinds (except helium, and gas used for purposes of production from the leased area or unavoidably lost) is subject to royalty.

(2) It is expressly agreed that the Secretary may establish reasonable minimum values for purposes of computing royalty on products obtained from this lease, due consideration being given to the highest price paid for a part or for a majority of production of like quality in the same field, or area, to the price received by the lessee, to posted prices, and to other relevant matters and, whenever appropriate, after notice and opportunity to be heard.

(3) When paid in value, such royalties on production shall be due and payable monthly on the last day of the calendar month next following the calendar month in which the production is obtained. When paid in production, such royalties shall be delivered at pipeline connections or in tanks provided by the lessee. Such deliveries shall be made at reasonable times and intervals and, at the lessee's option, shall be effected either (i) on or immediately adjacent to the leased area, without cost to the lessor, or (ii) at a more convenient point closer to shore or on shore, in which event the lessee shall be entitled to reimbursement for the reasonable cost of transporting the royalty substance to such delivery point. In no case shall the lessee be required to hold royalty oil or other liquid products in storage beyond the last day of the calendar month next following the month in which produced nor be responsible or held liable for the loss or destruction of royalty oil or other liquid products in storage from causes over which the lessee has no control.

(4) Rentals or minimum royalties may be waived, suspended, or reduced and royalties on the entire leasehold or any deposit, tract, or portion thereof segregated for royalty purposes may be reduced if the Secretary finds that, for the purpose of increasing the ultimate recovery of oil or gas and in the interest of conservation of natural resources, it is necessary, in his judgment, to do so in order to promote development, or because the lease cannot be successfully operated under the terms fixed herein.

(e) Payments. Unless otherwise provided by regulation or directed by the Secretary, to make rental, royalty, or other payments to the lessor, to the order of the Treasurer of the United States, and to tender such payments to the oil and gas supervisor, Geological Survey.

(f) Contracts for disposal of products. To file with the oil and gas supervisor, Geological Survey, not later than 30 days after the effective date thereof, any contract or evidence of other arrangement for the sale or disposal of lease products. Nothing in any such contract or other arrangements shall be construed as modifying any of the provisions of this lease, including, but not limited to, provisions relating to gas waste, taking royalty in kind, and the method of computing royalties due as based on a minimum valuation and in accordance with the regulations applicable to this lease.

(g) Statements, plats, and reports. At such times and in such form as the lessor may prescribe, to furnish detailed statements and reports showing the amounts and quality of all products saved, removed, and sold from the leased area, the proceeds therefrom, and the amount used for production purposes or unavoidably lost; also a plat showing development work and improvements on or with regard to the leased area, and a report with respect to stockholders.

(h) Inspection. To keep open at all reasonable times for the inspection of any duly authorized representative of the lessor, the leased area and all wells, improvements, machinery and fixtures thereon and all books, accounts and records relative to operations and surveys or investigations on or with regard to the leased area or under the lease.

(i) Diligence; prevention of waste, health and safety of workmen. To exercise reasonable diligence in drilling and producing the wells herein provided for; to carry on all operations in accordance with approved methods and practices as provided in the operating and conservation regulations for the outer Continental Shelf, having due regard for the prevention of waste of oil or gas or damage to deposits or formations containing oil, gas, or water or to coal measures or other mineral deposits, for conservation of gas energy, for the preservation and conservation of the property for future productive operations, and for the health and safety of workmen and employees; to plug properly and effectively all wells drilled in accordance with the provisions of this lease before abandoning the same; to remove all structures when no longer required for operations under the lease to sufficient depth beneath the surface of the waters to prevent them from being a hazard to navigation; to carry out at expense of the lessee all lawful and reasonable orders of the lessor relative to the matters in this paragraph, and that on failure of the lessee so to do the lessor shall have the right to enter on the property and to accomplish the purpose of such orders at the lessee's cost: Provided, That the lessee shall not be held responsible for delays or casualties occasioned by causes beyond the lessee's control.

(j) Wages, freedom of purchase. To accord all workmen and employees directly engaged in any of the operations under this lease complete freedom of purchase, and to pay all wages due such workmen and employees at least twice each month in the lawful money of the United States.

(k) Nondiscrimination. Not to discriminate against any employee, or applicant for employment, because of race, creed, color or national origin, and to require an identical provision to be included in all sub-contracts relating to operations under this lease.

(l) Assignment of lease. To file for approval with the Director, Bureau of Land Management, within 90 days from the date of final execution, any instrument of transfer of this lease, or any interest therein, including, without limitation, assignments of record title, working or overriding royalty interests, operating agreements and subleases, such instrument to take effect upon approval by the Director, Bureau of Land Management, as of the first day of the lease month following the date of filing unless at the request of the parties an earlier date is specified in the Director's approval.

(m) Overriding royalties. Not to create overriding royalties in excess of those authorized by regulation.

SEC. 3. Reservations to lessor. The lessor reserves:

(a) Geological and geophysical exploration; rights-of-way. The right to authorize the conduct of geological and geophysical exploration in the leased area which does not interfere with or endanger actual operations under this lease, and the right to grant such easements or rights-of-way, upon, through, or in the leased area as may be necessary or appropriate to the working of other lands containing the deposits described in the act, and to the treatment and shipment of products thereof by or under authority of the United States, its lessees or permittees, and for other public purposes, subject to the provisions of section 5 (c) of the act where they are applicable and to all lawful and reasonable regulations and conditions prescribed by the Secretary thereunder.

(b) Leases of sulphur and other mineral. The right to grant sulphur leases and leases of any mineral other than oil, gas, and sulphur within the leased area or any part thereof, subject to the provisions of section 8 (c), 8 (d), and 8 (e) of the act and all lawful and reasonable regulations prescribed by the Secretary thereunder: Provided, That no such sulphur lease or lease of other mineral shall authorize or permit the lessee thereunder unreasonably to interfere with or endanger operations under this lease.

(c) Purchase of production. In time of war, or when the President of the United States shall so prescribe, the right of first refusal to purchase at the market price all or any portion of the oil or gas produced from the leased area, as provided in section 12 (b) of the act.

(d) Taking of royalties. All rights, pursuant to clause (3) of section 8 (b) of the act, to take royalties in the amount or value of production.

(e) Fissionable materials. All uranium, thorium, and all other materials determined pursuant to paragraph (1) of subsection (b) of section 5 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1946, as amended, to be peculiarly essential to the production of fissionable materials, contained, in whatever concentration, in deposits in the subsoil or seabed of the leased area or any part thereof, as provided in section 12 (e) of the act.

(f) Helium. Pursuant to section 12 (f) of the act, the ownership and the right to extract helium from all gas produced under this lease, subject to such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior.

(g) Suspension of operations during war or national emergency. Upon recommendation of the Secretary of Defense, during a state of war or national emergency declared by the Congress or President of the United States after August 7, 1953, the authority of the Secretary of the Interior to suspend any or all operations under this lease, as provided in section 12 (c) of the act: Provided, That just compensation shall be paid by the lessor to the lessee.

(h) Restriction of exploration and operations. The right, as provided in section 12 (d) of the act, to restrict from exploration and operations the leased area or any part thereof which may be designated by and through the Secretary of Defense, with the approval of the President, as, or as part of, an area of the outer Continental Shelf needed for national defense; and so long as such designation remains in effect no exploration or operations may be conducted on the surface of the leased area or the part thereof included within the designation except with the concurrence of the Secretary of Defense; and if operations or production under this lease within any such restricted area shall be suspended, any payments of rentals, minimum royalty, and royalty prescribed by this lease likewise shall be suspended during such period of suspension of operations and production, and the term of this lease shall be extended by adding thereto any such suspension period, and the lessor shall be liable to the lessee for such compensation as is required to be paid under the Constitution of the United States.

SEC. 4. Directional drilling. This lease may be maintained in force by directional wells drilled under the leased area from surface locations on adjacent or adjoining lands not covered by this lease. In such circumstances, drilling shall be considered to have been commenced on the leased area when drilling is commenced on the adjacent or adjoining land for the purpose of directionally drilling under the leased area, and production of oil or gas from the leased area through any directional well surfaced on adjacent or adjoining land or drilling or reworking of any such directional well shall be considered production or drilling or reworking operations (as the case may be) on the leased area for all purposes of this lease. Nothing contained in this paragraph is intended or shall be construed as granting to the lessee any leasehold interests, licenses, easements, or other rights in or with respect to any such adjacent or adjoining land in addition to any such leasehold interests, licenses, easements, or other rights which the lessee may have lawfully acquired under the act or from the lessor or others.

SEC. 5. Surrender and termination of lease. The lessee may surrender this entire lease or any officially platted subdivision of the leased area by filing with the Director, Bureau of Land Management, a written relinquishment, in triplicate, which shall be effective as of the date of filing, subject to the continued obligation of the lessee and his surety to make payment of all accrued rentals and royalties and to abandon all wells on the area to be relinquished to the satisfaction of the oil and gas supervisor.

SEC. 6 Removal of property on termination of lease. Upon the expiration of this lease, or the earlier termination thereof as herein provided, the lessee shall within a period of one year thereafter remove from the premises, except as provided in section 4 (b) of this lease, all structures, machinery, equipment, tools, and materials other than improvements needed for producing wells, and other property permitted by the lessor to be maintained on the leased area.

SEC. 7. Remedies in case of default (a) Whenever the lessee fails to comply with any of the provisions of the act or this lease or the applicable regulations in force and effect on the date of issuance of this lease, the lease shall be subject to cancellation as follows:

(1) Cancellation of non-producing lease. If, at the time of such default, no well is producing, or is capable of producing, oil or gas in paying quantities from the leased area, whether such well be drilled from a surface location within the leased area or be directionally drilled from a surface location on adjacent or adjoining lands, this lease may be cancelled by the Secretary (subject to the right of judicial review as provided in section 8 (j) of the act) if such default continues for the period of 30 days after mailing of notice by registered letter to the lessee at the lessee's record post office address.

(2) Cancellation of producing lease. If, at the time of such default, any well is producing, or is capable of producing, oil or gas in paying quantities from the leased area, whether such well be drilled from a surface location within the leased area or be directionally drilled from a surface location on adjacent or adjoining lands, this lease may be cancelled by an appropriate proceeding in any United States district court having jurisdiction under the provisions of section 4 (b) of the act if such default continues for the period of 30 days after mailing of notice by registered letter to the lessee at the lessee's record post office address.

(b) Other remedies. If any such default continues for the period of 30 days after mailing of notice by registered letter to the lessee at the lessee's record post office address, the lessor may then exercise any legal or equitable remedy which the lessor may have; however, the remedy of cancellation of this lease may be exercised only under the conditions and subject to the limitations set out above in paragraph (a) of this section, or pursuant to section 8 (i) of the act.

(c) Effect of waiver of default. A waiver of any particular default shall not prevent the cancellation of this lease or the exercise of any other remedy the lessor may have by reason of any other cause or for the same cause occurring at any other time.

SEC. 8. Heirs and successors in interest. Each obligation hereunder shall extend to and be binding upon, and every benefit hereof shall inure to, the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, or assigns of the respective parties hereto.

SEC. 9. Unlawful interest. No member of, or Delegate to, Congress, or Resident Commissioner, after his election or appointment, or either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, and no officer, agent, or employee of the Department of the Interior, except as provided in 43 CFR 7.4 (a) (1), shall be admitted to any share or part in this lease or derive any benefit that may arise therefrom; and the provisions of section 3741 of the Revised Statutes, as amended (41 U. S. C. sec. 22), and sections 431, 432 and 433 of Title 18 of the United States Code, relating to contracts made or entered into, or accepted by or on behalf of the United States, form a part of this lease so far as the same may be applicable.

(b) Royalty. To pay the lessor a royalty of _____ percent of the gross value of the sulphur produced, at the wellhead. Such royalty shall be paid monthly in value or delivered in kind at the option of the lessor. When paid in value, such royalty on production shall be due and payable monthly on the last day of the calendar month following the calendar month in which the production is obtained. When paid in kind, such royalty shall be delivered in merchantable condition at the point of shipment without cost to the lessor, unless otherwise agreed to by the parties hereto, at such time and in such storage compartments provided by the lessee as may reasonably be required by the lessor, provided that the lessee shall not be required to hold the royalty product in storage for more than 60 days beyond the end of the month in which produced, and, provided further that the lessee shall in no manner be responsible or held liable for the loss or destruction of the royalty product in storage from causes over which the lessee has no control.

(e) Payments. Unless otherwise provided by regulation or directed by the Secretary, to make rental, royalty, or other payments to the lessor, to the order of the Treasurer of the United States, and to tender such payments to the oil and gas supervisor, Geological Survey.

(f) Restriction of exploration and operations. The right, as provided in section 12 (d) of the act, to restrict from exploration and operations the leased area or any part thereof which may be designated by and through the Secretary of Defense, with the approval of the President, as, or as part of, an area of the outer Continental Shelf needed for national defense; and so long as such designation remains in effect no exploration or operations may be conducted on the surface of the leased area or the part thereof included within the designation except with the concurrence of the Secretary of Defense; and if operations or production under this lease within any such restricted area shall be suspended, any payments of rentals, minimum royalty, and royalty prescribed by this lease likewise shall be suspended during such period of suspension of operations and production, and the term of this lease shall be extended by adding thereto any such suspension period, and the lessor shall be liable to the lessee for such compensation as is required to be paid under the Constitution of the United States.

SEC. 4. Directional drilling. This lease may be maintained in force by directional wells drilled under the leased area from surface locations on adjacent or adjoining lands not covered by this lease. In such circumstances, drilling shall be considered to have been commenced on the leased area when drilling is commenced on the adjacent or adjoining land for the purpose of directionally drilling under the leased area, and production of sulphur from the leased area through any directional well surfaced on adjacent or adjoining land or drilling or reworking of any such directional well shall be considered production or drilling or reworking operations (as the case may be) on the leased area for all purposes of this lease. Nothing contained in this paragraph is intended or shall be construed as granting to the lessee any leasehold interests, licenses, easements, or other rights in or with respect to such adjacent or adjoining land in addition to any such leasehold interests, licenses, easements, or other rights which the lessee may have lawfully acquired under the act or from the lessor or others.

SEC. 5. Surrender and termination of lease. The lessee may surrender this entire lease or any officially platted subdivision of the leased area by filing with the Director, Bureau of Land Management, a written relinquishment, in triplicate, which shall be effective as of the date of filing, subject to the continued obligation of the lessee and his surety to make payment of all accrued rentals and royalties and to abandon all wells or workings on the area to be relinquished.

SEC. 6. Purchase of materials, etc., on termination of lease. On the expiration or termination of this lease, by surrender or forfeiture, the lessor, his agent, licensee, or lessee, shall have the exclusive right, at the lessor's election, to purchase at any time within six months, at the appraised value thereof, any or all buildings, machinery, equipment and tools, whether fixtures or personalty, placed by the lessee in or on the leased area, save and except equipment such as underground timbering, supports, shaft linings, and well casings, necessary for the abandonment or preservation of the mine, wells, or other development works, which shall be and remain a part of the realty without further consideration or compensation. The purchase price to be paid for the buildings, machinery, equipment, and tools to be purchased shall be fixed by the appraisal of three disinterested and competent persons (one to be designated by each party to this lease and the third by the two so designated), the valuation of the three or a majority of them to be conclusive. Pending such election to purchase within the period of six months, none of the buildings or other property shall be removed from their normal position. At any time within a period of 90 days after election by the lessor not to purchase or after expiration of the period of six months without election by the lessor, the lessee shall remove from the leased area the buildings and other property except the underground equipment and structures necessary for the preservation of the mine, wells, and other development works.

If the lease is producing at that time, it may be cancelled only by judicial proceedings in the manner provided in section 5 (b) (2) of the Act. These provisions shall not be construed to prevent the exercise by the lessor of any legal or equitable remedy which the lessor might otherwise have. A waiver of any particular default shall not prevent the cancellation of this lease or the exercise of any other remedy the lessor may have by reason of any other cause or for the same cause occurring at any other time.

SEC. 8. Heirs and successors in interest. Each obligation hereunder shall extend to and be binding upon, and every benefit hereof shall inure to, the heirs, executors, administrators, successors, or assigns of the respective parties hereto.

SEC. 9. Unlawful interest. No Member of, or Delegate to, Congress, or Resident Commissioner, after his election or appointment, or either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, and no officer, agent, or employee of the Department of the Interior, except as provided in 43 CFR 7.4 (a) (1), shall be admitted to any share or part of this lease, or derive any benefit that may arise therefrom; and the provisions of section 3741 of the Revised Statutes, as amended (41 U. [Docket No. AO-160-A-15-RO 1]

HANDLING OF MILK IN PHILADELPHIA, PA., MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO TENTATIVE MARKETING AGREEMENT AND PROPOSED ORDER AMENDING ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on March 23, 1953, pursuant to notice issued March 9, 1953 (18 F. R. 1452), and on January 21, 1954, pursuant to notice issued January 11, 1954 (19 F. R. 273).

The material issues on the record of the hearing were:

(1) Whether the 10-cent seasonal reduction in the Class II price should apply in February and March 1954.

(2) Whether certain Class II products should be priced in certain periods in a separate sub-class at a price lower than the regular Class II price.

(3) The need for abbreviated procedure to change the Class II price formula.

(4) Revision of the Class II formula on a more permanent basis.

This decision deals only with issues Nos. 1 and 3. Issues Nos. 2 and 4 are reserved for a further decision on this record.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the material issues stated above are based upon evidence contained in the record of the hearing:

(1) The 10-cent seasonal adjustment of the Class II formula price should be effective in March 1954.

Producer, as well as handler, representatives requested that the 10-cent seasonal deduction apply to the Class II formula price for February and March this year, because of the presently larger than usual volume of Class II milk, and expected increases during these months.

Receipts of milk from producers in December were about 4 percent greater in volume than in December the year previous. This increase was part of a general upward trend in production during recent years. December 1953 receipts were about 12 percent higher than for the same month of 1950, while during the same period the number of producers under the order declined from 8,925 to 7,872.

A number of handlers have shown unwillingness to receive this year the increased volume of milk in excess of their needs for fluid sales. Quotas have been announced by several handlers limiting the amount of milk they will receive from individual producers. In general, these quotas would be effective, beginning in January or February, and throughout the flush season. Many handlers lack facilities for manufacturing the increased volume of Class II milk. In the case of a few handlers who have considerable manufacturing capacity in their plants, it was pointed out that there is milk available from non-producer sources which can be purchased for manufacturing purposes at prices less than the order Class II price. This situation reduces the incentive for handlers with facilities to accommodate handlers without such manufacturing facilities who must dispose of excess milk.

Assuming the usual seasonal increase in production, the amount of milk in excess of quotas during the forthcoming flush season would probably be similar and possibly somewhat larger than the amount of over-quota milk last year. During 1953 the estimated volume of over-quota milk was for February, 1.1 million pounds; for March, 1.5 million pounds; for April, 2.2 million pounds; for May, 3.5 million pounds; and for June, 2.3 million pounds.

Much of this over-quota milk was marketed under arrangements made by a producer organization by movement to non-handler manufacturing plants in Eastern States. It was testified that prices received for this milk, after deduction of hauling charges, were less than the order Class II price by amounts ranging from 37 cents per hundredweight in February to 75 cents less in May. About a quarter of a million pounds of milk so handled in December 1953, brought a net price of $2.96, or 72 cents under the order Class II price.

It was indicated on the record that more of the milk from producers would be received by handlers, if the cost of Class II milk, or at least a part of the Class II utilization, was reduced to a level closer to the level obtained for milk shipped to non-handler manufacturing plants. One method proposed for immediately adjusting the Class II price was to suspend certain order provisions so that the seasonally lower formula price would apply in February and March this year, as well as for the months of April, May and June.

It does not appear that the market situation will require adjustment of the Class II price formula for the month of February this year. The rate of milk production in February is ordinarily less than in the following months of March through June. Also, experience has shown that the price formula has considerable flexibility in responding to changes in general supply conditions. In December 1953, the Class II formula price was slightly higher, for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat test at country plants, than some other representative prices for milk for manufacturing, namely the price for Class III milk under the New York order, and the estimated average price for milk for manufacturing purposes in the United States. During February and the following flush months of 1953, the Class II formula price was, on the same basis of comparison, lower than these other prices for milk for manufacturing purposes. A further factor in the current market situation is an amendment to the order made effective January 1, 1954, which revises the definition of "producer milk plant." Because of the new, more inclusive definition of "producer milk plant," there is some tendency on the part of nonproducer milk plants which had been furnishing some Class I milk to the market to withdraw from such operations, or substantially so, because of a preference to remain outside of order regulations. As a result, it may be expected there will be a somewhat increased demand for the producer milk received at plants regularly under the order, and a consequent lessening of the amount of producer milk which must be used in Class II, or refused under the quota system.

Since the year 1950, the Class II price formula has contained a seasonal adjustment for the months of April, May, and June in the form of a ten-cent reduction compared to other months. This seasonal adjustment recognizes the fact that in these months a higher proportion of Class II utilization is in manufactured products of relatively low value. Such a seasonal adjustment may be part of a pricing plan designed for a level of production closely adjusted to the needs of the market, although with some seasonal increase in production in the spring months. Such an adjustment is distinguished from a general change in the level of the Class II formula.

Some minor modification of the seasonal pattern of Class II formula on a current and temporary basis is appropriate. The inclusion of March 1954 in the months of seasonally lower price adjustment will not distort the seasonal nature of the adjustment, and is particularly appropriate when the volume of Class II milk is running higher than in previous years.

(3) The due and timely execution of the function of the Secretary under the act imperatively and unavoidably requires the omission of a recommended decision by the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, and the opportunity for exceptions thereto.

The conditions complained of are such that it is urgent that remedial action be taken not later than March 1, 1954. Delay beyond the minimum time required to make the order set forth below effective would defeat the purpose of such amendment. An early determination on issues treated in this decision is essential to orderly marketing in this marketing area. Action on these issues by the most expeditious procedure was requested by producers and handlers on the record. The time necessarily involved in the preparation, filing, and publication of a recommended decision, and exceptions thereto, would reduce the effectiveness of such relief and would tend to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. A brief was filed which contained proposed findings and conclusions, and arguments with respect to the provisions of the proposed amendments. Every point covered in the brief was carefully considered along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that the findings and conclusions proposed in the brief are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the request to make such findings or to reach such conclusions is denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions in this decision.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and are applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in the said marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Determination of representative period. The month of December 1953 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of an order amending the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area in the manner set forth in the amending order below is approved or favored by producers who during such period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in such order, as amended.

Marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled respectively "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Marketing Area" and "Order Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, by the order set forth below which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 11th day of February 1954.

[SEAL] JOHN H. DAVIS,
Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Marketing Area

§ 961.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest;

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and the aforesaid order, as amended, is hereby further amended as follows:

1. In § 961.40 (b) (2) change the period at the end of the sentence to a comma, and add the words "except in the computation of the price for March 1954, subtract 54 cents."

[1] This order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[17 CFR Part 240]

EXEMPTION OF LONG TERM PROFITS INCIDENT TO SALES WITHIN SIX MONTHS OF EXERCISE OF OPTION

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the Securities and Exchange Commission has under consideration a proposal for the amendment of § 240.16b–6 (Rule X-16B–6; 17 CFR 240.16b–6) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

Rule X-16B–6 grants a partial exemption from section 16 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act with respect to profits which might otherwise be deemed to have been realized and recoverable, where there is a purchase by an officer, director or 10 percent stockholder of an equity security pursuant to the exercise of an option or similar right and a sale of that equity security within six months thereof. The purpose of the amendment is to broaden the exemption provided by the rule so as to relieve from liability under section 16 (b) certain profits realized as a result of the exercise of an option or similar right which was acquired more than six months before its exercise, and the disposition of the security so acquired pursuant to a plan or agreement for a statutory merger or consolidation or reclassification of securities, or a proposal for the transfer of assets from one corporation to another in consideration for the issuance of securities. It has been suggested that the transactions described in the proposed rule are not comprehended within the purpose of section 16 (b). The amendment is covered by paragraph (c) of the text of the section below.

Statutory basis. The authority to adopt the proposed rule is vested in the Commission by the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, particularly sections 3 (a) (12), 3 (b), 16 (b) and 23 (a).

The text of the proposed rule is as follows:

§ 240.16b–6 Exemption of long term profits incident to sales within six months of the exercise of an option. (a) To the extent specified in paragraph (b) of this section the Commission hereby exempts as not comprehended within the purposes of section 16 (b) of the act any transaction or transactions involving the purchase and sale or sale and purchase of any equity security where such purchase is pursuant to the exercise of an option or similar right either (1) acquired more than six months before its exercise, or (2) acquired pursuant to the terms of an employment contract entered into more than six months before its exercise.

(b) In respect of transactions specified in paragraph (a) of this section the profits inuring to the issuer shall not exceed the difference between the proceeds of sale and the lowest market price of any security of the same class within six months before or after the date of sale. Nothing in this section shall be deemed to enlarge the amount of profit which would inure to the issuer in the absence of this section.

(c) The Commission also hereby exempts, as not comprehended within the purposes of section 16 (b) of the act, the disposition of a security, purchased in a transaction specified in paragraph (a) of this section, pursuant to a plan or agreement for merger or consolidation, or reclassification of the issuers' securities, or for the exchange of its securities for the securities of another person which has acquired its assets, where the terms of such plan or agreement are binding upon all stockholders of the issuer except to the extent that dissenting stockholders may be entitled, under statutory provisions or provisions contained in the certificate of incorporation, to receive the appraised or fair value of their holdings.

(d) The exemptions provided by this section shall not apply to any transaction made unlawful by section 16 (c) of the act or by any rules and regulations thereunder.

(e) The burden of establishing market price of a security for the purpose of this section shall rest upon the person claiming the exemption.

(f) The exemption granted pursuant to this section shall apply to any liability under section 16 (b) existing at or after the effective date of this section, but shall not be deemed to affect judgments rendered prior to that date.

All interested persons are invited to submit views and comments on the proposed rule in writing to the Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C., on or before February 23, 1954.

By the Commission.

[SEAL] ORVAL L. DUBOIS,
Secretary.

ORDER SUMMARILY SUSPENDING TRADING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 10th day of February A. D. 1954.

The Commission by order adopted March 13, 1953, pursuant to section 19 (a) (4) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, having summarily suspended trading in the $1.00 par value common stock of Adolf Gobel, Inc., on the American Stock Exchange for a period of ten days from that date, and subsequently having entered additional orders further suspending such trading in order to prevent fraudulent, deceptive or manipulative acts or practices; and

The Commission being of the opinion that the public interest requires the summary suspension of trading in such security on that Exchange and that such action is necessary and appropriate for the protection of investors; and

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC CO.

NOTICE OF FILING REGARDING ACQUISITION BY HOLDING COMPANY OF CAPITAL STOCKS OF HOLDING COMPANY AND PUBLIC UTILITY SUBSIDIARY THEREOF AND APPLICATION FOR EXEMPTION OF HOLDING COMPANY AND SUBSIDIARIES THEREOF

FEBRUARY 10, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that Pacific Gas and Electric Company ("PG&E"), an exempt holding company, has filed an application pursuant to the provisions of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), for approval of its acquisition of the outstanding common and preferred stocks of Pacific Public Service Company ("PPS"), an exempt holding company, and the outstanding preferred stocks of Coast Counties Gas and Electric Company ("Coast Counties"), a public-utility subsidiary of PPS.

Notice is further given that PG&E has filed an application for exemption of itself, as a holding company, and its subsidiaries as such, from the provisions of the act.

PG&E has specified sections 9 (a) (2) and 10 of the act as applicable to the proposed acquisitions of the capital stocks of PPS and Coast Counties and sections 3 (a) (1) and 3 (a) (2) as applicable to the requested exemption of PG&E and its subsidiaries.

All interested persons are referred to said applications which are on file in the offices of the Commission for a statement of the facts and proposed transactions, as set forth therein, which are summarized as follows:

PG&E is engaged in the generation, transmission and distribution of electric energy and the purchase, transmission and distribution of natural gas within the general area of northern and central California. PG&E owns (1) all of the outstanding capital stock of Vallejo Electric Light and Power Company ("Vallejo"), which is engaged solely in the distribution of electric energy in and in the immediate vicinity of Vallejo, California; (2) 7/14ths of the capital stock of Standard Pacific Gas Lines Incorporated ("Stanpac"), which owns and operates pipe lines connecting the Kettleman Hills gas fields and the Rio Vista gas fields with the gas utility systems of PG&E and Coast Counties; and (3) two small non-utility subsidiaries. PG&E as a holding company, and its subsidiaries as such, are exempt from the provisions of the act under an order of the Commission dated September 10, 1941 issued pursuant to sections 3 (a) (1) and 3 (a) (2) of the act (10 S. E. C. 39). PG&E and all its subsidiaries are incorporated and operate solely within the State of California.

PPS is solely a holding company which is exempt as such by reason of having filed an application with this Commission for exemption of itself and its subsidiaries pursuant to section 3 (a) (1) of the act. (File No. 31-565). PPS owns all of the outstanding common stock of Coast Counties, a California corporation, which is engaged in the distribution of electric energy and natural gas at retail in areas contiguous to and in areas served by PG&E. PPS also owns all of the outstanding common stocks of Natural Gas Corporation of California, a California corporation which is engaged in the production of natural gas from certain fields in California which it sells to PG&E and to Coast Counties, and of Gas Lines, Inc., a California corporation, which is engaged in the transportation of natural gas under private contract for various producers through facilities wholly or partially owned by Coast Counties. Coast Counties also owns 5/14ths of the outstanding capital stock of Stanpac (the remaining 2/14ths of Stanpac's common stock is owned by Standard Oil Company of California). PPS and all its subsidiaries are incorporated and operate solely within the State of California.

PPS has outstanding 741,969.85 shares of no par value common stock. Blyth & Co., Inc. ("Blyth"), an investment banking firm, holds 623,651 shares of such stock, the acquisition thereof having been approved by the Commission by an order dated June 1, 1953 (Holding Company Act Release No. 11959). PPS also has outstanding 298,137.7 shares of no par value $1.30 Cumulative First Preferred Stock, all of which is held by the public.

Coast Counties has outstanding 308,480 shares of common stock, par value $25 per share, all of which is owned by PPS. Coast Counties also has outstanding two series of cumulative preferred stock, par value $25 per share, consisting of 124,000 shares of 4 Percent Series A and 75,000 shares of 4.80 Percent Series B, all of which is owned by the public.

Pursuant to a contract between PG&E and Blyth dated January 20, 1954, PG&E proposes to issue and exchange 330,535 shares of its common stock, par value $25 per share, for the 623,651 shares of PPS common stock now held by Blyth, an exchange ratio of fifty-three hundredths ($0.53) of a share of PG&E common stock for each share of PPS common stock. As a result of this transaction PG&E will become the owner of about 84 percent of the common stock of PPS and approximately 60 percent of all classes of PPS capital stock.

Following the acquisition of the 623,651 shares of PPS common stock from Blyth, PG&E will offer to issue and exchange fifty-three hundredths (0.53) of a share of its common stock for each share of the publicly-held PPS common stock.

PG&E will offer to each holder of the preferred stock of PPS, in exchange for each share of such stock, at the holder's choice, either seven-tenths (0.7) of a share of PG&E common stock or one share of PG&E 5 percent Redeemable First Preferred Stock.

PG&E will offer to each holder of the Series A 4 percent Preferred Stock of Coast Counties, in exchange for each share of such stock, at the holder's choice, either seven-tenths (0.7) of a share of PG&E common stock or eight-tenths (0.8) of a share of PG&E 5 percent Redeemable First Preferred Stock.

PG&E will offer to each holder of the Series B 4.80 percent Preferred Stock of Coast Counties, in exchange for each share of such stock, at the holder's choice, either seven-tenths (0.7) of a share of PG&E common stock or one share of PG&E 4.80 percent Redeemable First Preferred Stock.

The applicant states that all of the foregoing transactions are subject to the approval of the California Public Utilities Commission to which application has been made.

As soon as possible after the consummation of the transactions described above, PG&E will proceed to merge PPS and Coast Counties with itself as the surviving corporation in accordance with the California Corporations Code.

In support of PG&E's application for exemption of itself as a holding company and its present and proposed subsidiaries as such, under section 3 (a) (2) of the act, PG&E represents that it is at present predominantly a public-utility company and that following the acquisition of the PPS and Coast Counties capital stock, PG&E will continue to be predominantly a public-utility company whose operations as such do not extend beyond the State in which it is organized.

In consideration of the granting of its application for exemptions, PG&E has stipulated that, following the acquisition of the 623,651 shares of the PPS common stock from Blyth and such shares of PPS common stock and PPS and Coast Counties preferred stocks as are publicly held and are tendered in response to the exchange offers to be made to the holders thereof, PG&E (1) will proceed with due diligence to effect the proposed merger in accordance with the Corporations Code of the State of California; and (2) will not, during the existence of any exemption granted herein, sell or otherwise dispose of any shares of the capital stocks of PPS or Coast Counties acquired by it except for the purpose of retirement or redemption of such shares by the issuer thereof or for the purpose of pledging such shares with the trustees under the First and Refunding Mortgage as required by the provisions thereof.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than February 23, 1954, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on this matter, stating the reasons for such request, the nature of his interest and the issues of fact or law raised by said application which he proposes to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request shall be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after February 23, 1954, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., said application, as filed or as amended, may be granted as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 thereof.

Subchapter A—Civil Air Regulations

PART 62—NOTIFICATION AND REPORTING OF AIRCRAFT ACCIDENTS AND OVERDUE AIRCRAFT

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 11th day of February 1954.

Presently effective Part 62 of the Civil Air Regulations sets forth provisions for the notification and reporting of accidents involving civil aircraft in the United States and aircraft of United States registry wherever they may occur. It also sets forth provisions for the notification of overdue aircraft. This part has heretofore provided that the required action be reported to the Civil Aeronautics Board.

On November 10, 1953, the Civil Aeronautics Board delegated to the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics the authority to investigate after December 31, 1953, those accidents involving fixed-wing aircraft having a maximum take-off weight of 12,500 pounds or less. In order to provide the Administrator with the notification of such accidents and the reports necessary for the proper investigation of such occurrences, this regulation provides that the notification and reporting of such accidents shall be directed to the Civil Aeronautics Administration instead of the Board as heretofore required. These requirements are generally the same as those that were formerly applicable to "other than air carrier aircraft". Notification and reporting of all other accidents will continue to be directed to the Civil Aeronautics Board. These requirements are generally the same as those formerly applicable to "air carrier aircraft". Several other minor changes have been made to clarify the wording of the regulations.

On July 20, 1953, a notice of proposed rule making was issued proposing a change in classification of the subparts which would distinguish notification and reporting requirements for large aircraft as compared to small aircraft. This proposal would also have eliminated the requirement that all large non-air-carrier aircraft damage be reported if it exceeds $100, an amount considered too small for large aircraft. The substance of these changes has been incorporated in this regulation since it conforms with the action of delegating the investigation of accidents involving small aircraft to the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Since the changes set forth in this regulation are minor in nature and impose no additional burden on any person, notice and public procedure thereon are unnecessary, and the regulation may be made effective without prior notice.

In consideration of the foregoing the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby revises Part 62 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 62, as amended) effective February 11, 1954, to read as follows:

APPLICABILITY AND DEFINITIONS

§ 62.1 Applicability of this part. This part establishes requirements for the notification and reporting of accidents involving civil aircraft in the United States, its Territories and Possessions, and aircraft of United States registry wherever they occur. It further establishes requirements for the notification of overdue aircraft. Subpart A of this part covers the notification and reporting to be made to the Civil Aeronautics Administration for small fixed-wing aircraft except those used by Alaskan air carriers, while Subpart B of this part provides for the notification and reporting to be made to the Civil Aeronautics Board for all other aircraft.

§ 62.2 Definitions. As used in this part the words listed below shall be defined as follows:

(a) Aircraft accident. An aircraft accident is an accident which occurs during the starting or warming up of an engine or engines, or operation of an aircraft, which results in serious or fatal injury to one or more persons or in substantial damage to any aircraft, or which involves a collision of two or more aircraft. Whenever serious or fatal injury results from contact with a rotating propeller which is installed on an aircraft, it shall be considered an aircraft accident.

(b) Aircraft accident incident to flight. An aircraft accident incident to flight is an aircraft accident which occurs between the time an engine or engines are started for the purpose of commencing flight until the aircraft comes to rest with all engines stopped for complete or partial deplaning or unloading. It excludes death or injuries to persons on board which result from illness, altercations, and other incidents not directly attributable to flight operation.

(c) Aircraft accident not incident to flight. An aircraft accident not incident to flight is an aircraft accident other than one defined in paragraph (b) of this section as incident to flight.

(d) Operator. An operator of aircraft is the person who causes or authorizes the operation of the aircraft, such as the owner or lessee of an aircraft.

(e) Fatal injury. A fatal injury is an injury which results in death within 30 days.

(f) Serious injury. A serious injury is an injury which requires hospitalization and medical treatment for a period of five or more days, or results in a fracture of any bone (except simple fractures of fingers, toes, or nose), lacerations which cause severe hemorrhages, or involve muscles, injury to any internal organ, or second or third degree burns or any burns involving more than five percent of the body surface, provided that the injury does not result in death within 30 days.

(g) Substantial damage. Substantial damage is damage which necessitates major overhaul of the aircraft or the replacement of or extensive repairs to any major component or combination of components of the aircraft. It does not include damage such as scraped wing tips, bent fairing or cowling, small punctured holes in the skin or fabric, dented skin or trailing edge, repairable damage to propeller blades, or damage to tires, engine accessories, or brakes.

(h) Small fixed-wing aircraft. Fixed-wing aircraft having a maximum certificated take-off weight of 12,500 pounds or less.

SUBPART A—NOTIFICATION AND REPORTING TO THE CIVIL AERONAUTICS ADMINISTRATION

APPLICABILITY

§ 62.4 Applicability of Subpart A of this part. The provisions of this subpart apply to all small fixed-wing aircraft except those operated by an air carrier authorized by a certificate of public convenience and necessity to engage in air transportation in Alaska.

NOTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS

§ 62.5 When notification is to be given. In the case of aircraft within the applicability of this subpart, immediate notification shall be given when any aircraft accident incident to flight occurs which (a) is known or believed to have resulted from structural failure of an aircraft, aircraft engine, or propeller, (b) involves collision of two or more aircraft in the air, or (c) results in serious or fatal injury to any person. Notification shall also be given of any occurrence of fire involving any of the components or systems on board the aircraft when incident to flight, regardless of the extent of injury to occupants or damage to the aircraft.

§ 62.6 Responsibility for giving notification. The pilot or pilots, or, if the pilots are incapacitated, the operator shall be responsible for giving such notification.

§ 62.7 To whom notification is directed. The notification shall be directed to the nearest Civil Aeronautics Administration communications station, aviation safety district office, or aviation safety agent.

§ 62.8 Information to be given in notification. The notification shall include the following information concerning the accident, if available: location, date, time of day, number of persons involved, injuries to each, aircraft identification including registration number, aircraft make and model, names of crew members, operator, and briefly the nature of circumstances surrounding the accident.

REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

§ 62.10 When a report is made. A written report shall be made of every aircraft accident incident to flight involving aircraft of United States registry wherever it may occur, when there is serious or fatal injury or where the reasonably estimated cost of repair is $100 or more. A written report may also be required for an aircraft accident not incident to flight, or for any accident involving minor injury or less than $100 estimated cost of repair if the pilot, owner, or operator is requested by an authorized representative of the Civil Aeronautics Administration to furnish it.

§ 62.11 Responsibility for making report. The pilot or operator of the aircraft involved in the accident shall be responsible for making the written report required by § 62.10. The report shall be made as soon as possible and good cause shown in writing for any delay over seven days. If the operator is not the pilot, then each pilot involved in the accident, if physically able at the time of the submission of the report, shall sign the report or attach thereto a signed statement setting forth the facts, conditions, and circumstances pertinent to the accident. If incapacitated at the time of the submission of the report, each pilot shall submit such a statement as soon as he is physically able to do so.

§ 62.12 Form of report and contents. The report shall be made in triplicate on an accident report form furnished by the Civil Aeronautics Administration and shall contain all available information required therein.

§ 62.13 To whom the report is directed. The report shall be mailed or delivered to the nearest aviation safety district or regional office of the Civil Aeronautics Administration. However, where a State by agreement with the Administration actively participates in the investigation of non-air-carrier accidents and the accident occurred in that State, a State aviation official or investigator is authorized to receive such report and exhibits in behalf of the Administration.

NOTE: Where a State aviation authority receives such an accident report and exhibits or conducts the investigation in behalf of the Administration, distribution of the copies of the report shall be in accordance with the agreement with the Administration.

PRESERVATION OF AIRCRAFT WRECKAGE AND RECORDS

§ 62.15 Preservation of aircraft wreckage and records. Aircraft wreckage and records thereof involved in or pertaining to an accident of which notification must be given under the provisions of § 62.5 shall be preserved for the Administration by the pilot, owner, or operator.[1] Wreckage of aircraft involved in accidents not requiring notification under § 62.5 need not be preserved, unless specifically ordered by an authorized representative of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

§ 62.16 Prohibition against removing or disturbing aircraft wreckage and records. Aircraft wreckage and records thereof involved in or pertaining to an accident of which notification must be given under the provisions of § 62.5 shall not be disturbed or removed, unless specific permission is granted by an authorized representative of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, except where necessary (a) to give assistance to persons injured or trapped therein, (b) to protect such wreckage from further serious damage, or (c) to protect the public from injury.

§ 62.17 Recording of original position and condition of wreckage. Whenever wreckage is moved in accordance with the provisions of § 62.16, prior to the removal, sketches or photographs shall be made of the original position and condition of the wreckage and marks on the ground, and any pertinent data which cannot be effectively photographed shall be recorded, unless the resultant delay would endanger the lives of persons injured or trapped, or unless essential public interests can be protected only by immediate movement. In any event, movement of the wreckage shall be so accomplished as to entail the minimum possible disturbance thereof, and shall be preserved in accordance with the provisions of § 62.15.

§ 62.18 Release of wreckage. Aircraft wreckage or records thereof involved in or pertaining to an accident of which notification must be given under the provisions of § 62.5 shall not be released for repair, salvage, disposal, or any other purpose until permission is granted by an authorized representative of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

NOTIFICATION OF OVERDUE AIRCRAFT

§ 62.20 When notification is to be given. When an aircraft is overdue and the operator or owner believes that it has been involved in an accident, the operator or owner shall immediately notify the Civil Aeronautics Administration in accordance with the provisions of §§ 62.6 through 62.8. In addition, it shall be the responsibility of the owner or operator to furnish such records pertinent to flight as may be requested by the Civil Aeronautics Administration. If the aircraft is still missing upon the expiration of seven days, the reporting provisions of §§ 62.10 through 62.13 shall be complied with.

SUBPART B—NOTIFICATION AND REPORTING TO THE CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

APPLICABILITY

§ 62.30 Applicability of Subpart B of this part. The provisions of this subpart apply to all aircraft covered by this part, which are not covered by Subpart A of this part.

NOTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS

§ 62.31 When notification is to be given. Immediate notification shall be given of any aircraft accident involving aircraft within the applicability of this subpart. Immediate notification also shall be given of any occurrence of fire involving any of the components or systems aboard the aircraft when incident to flight, regardless of the extent of injury to occupants or damage to the aircraft.

§ 62.32 Responsibility for giving notification. The operator of the aircraft shall be responsible for giving notification as provided in § 62.31.

§ 62.33 To whom notification is directed. The notification shall be directed to the Civil Aeronautics Board through its nearest office or through the nearest Civil Aeronautics Administration communications station or agent, who upon receipt shall transmit the information to the nearest Civil Aeronautics Board office. The notification shall be sent by the most expeditious means of communication available.

§ 62.34 Information to be given in notification. The notification shall include the following information concerning the accident, if available: location, date, time of day, number of persons involved, injuries to each, aircraft identification including registration number, aircraft make and model, names of crew members, operator, and briefly the nature of circumstances surrounding the accident.

REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

§ 62.35 When a report is made. A written report shall be made of every aircraft accident incident to flight involving aircraft of United States registry wherever it may occur.[2] A written report will not be required on any aircraft accident not incident to flight, unless the operator has been requested to make such a report by an authorized representative of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

§ 62.36 Responsibility for making report. The operator of the aircraft involved in the accident shall be responsible for making the written report required by § 62.35. The report shall be made as soon as practicable and good cause shown in writing for any delay over 10 days. Each member of the crew involved in the accident, if physically able at the time of the submission of the report, shall attach thereto a signed statement setting forth the facts, conditions, and circumstances pertinent to the accident. If incapacitated at the time of the submission of the report, each crew member shall submit a statement as soon as physically able.

§ 62.37 Form of report and contents. The report shall be made in duplicate on an accident report form furnished by the Civil Aeronautics Board and shall contain all available information required therein.

§ 62.38 To whom the report is directed. The report shall be mailed or delivered to the office or representative of the Civil Aeronautics Board nearest the residence of the operator involved, or as otherwise directed by an authorized representative of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

PRESERVATION OF AIRCRAFT WRECKAGE AND RECORDS

§ 62.40 Preservation of wreckage and records. Aircraft wreckage and records thereof involved in or pertaining to an aircraft accident shall be preserved for the Board by the operator.[3]

§ 62.41 Prohibition against removing or disturbing wreckage and records. Aircraft wreckage or records thereof involved in or pertaining to an aircraft accident shall not be disturbed or removed, unless specific permission is granted by an authorized representative of the Civil Aeronautics Board, except where necessary (a) to give assistance to persons injured or trapped therein, (b) to protect such wreckage from further serious damage, or (c) to protect the public from injury.

§ 62.42 Recording of original position and condition of wreckage. Whenever wreckage is moved in accordance with the provisions of § 62.41, prior to the removal, sketches or photographs shall be made of the original position and condition of the wreckage and marks on the ground, and any pertinent data which cannot be effectively photographed shall be recorded, unless the resultant delay would endanger the lives of persons injured or trapped, or unless essential public interests can be protected only by immediate movement. In any event, movement of the wreckage shall be so accomplished as to entail the minimum possible disturbance thereof, and shall be preserved in accordance with the provisions of § 62.40.

§ 62.43 Release of wreckage. Aircraft wreckage or records thereof involved in or pertaining to an aircraft accident of which notification must be given under the provisions of § 62.5 shall not be released for repair, salvage, disposal, or any other purpose until permission is granted by an authorized representative of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

AMOUNT OF PRODUCTION CAPACITY TO BE RESERVED

This amendment is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended. In the formulation of this amendment, consultation with industry representatives has been rendered impracticable due to the need for immediate action.

This amendment affects BDSA Order M-11A (formerly NPA Order M-11A), as amended, by decreasing the amount of production capacity which a producer of copper controlled materials must reserve for the acceptance of authorized controlled material orders. TITLE 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

PART 1—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

FILING OF OPPOSITIONS TO PETITIONS

1. The Commission has under consideration § 1.730 of its rules and regulations relating to practice and procedure, which provides for the filing of oppositions to petitions.

2. The Commission has been concerned with the frequent instances in which multifarious and repetitive pleadings are being filed in proceedings before it, increasing substantially the delay and complexity in the Commission's consideration of such matters. It is believed that in many instances such pleadings are totally unnecessary to the disposition of the matter.

3. Section 1.730 of the rules presently provides merely that oppositions to petitions, except as otherwise provided, must be filed within 10 days after such petition is filed with the Commission. The rules do not refer to the filing of any additional pleadings. In order to expedite the consideration of matters before the Commission, § 1.730 is being amended to provide that oppositions to petitions may be filed within 10 days after such petitions are filed with the Commission and that replies to such oppositions may be filed within 5 days after the filing of such oppositions. Section 1.730 is being further amended to provide expressly that no other pleadings may be filed unless (1) specifically requested by the Commission or (2) leave to file such additional pleadings is granted by the Motions Commissioner upon a showing of good cause. Section 0.112 of the Commission's rules relating to delegation of authority to the Motions Commissioner is being amended [1] to add subsection (g) which will delegate to the Motions Commissioner authority to act upon requests for leave to file additional pleadings pursuant to § 1.730 as amended. It should be noted that the amendment to § 1.730 does not alter the provisions of §§ 1.744 and 1.745 which apply to the Commission's motions practice and specify that action on such motions may be taken four days after such motions have been filed with the Commission.

4. The problem of repetitive pleadings also arises in rule-making proceedings before the Commission. In general, the Commission in its notices instituting rule-making proceedings specifies the dates by which comments and replies to such comments may be filed. It has been the Commission's experience that numerous additional pleadings, in many cases totally unnecessary to the disposition of the matter, are submitted, merely adding to the complexity and delay in the consideration of the problems presented. Accordingly, the Commission in future notices of proposed rule making will, in addition to specifying the dates by which comments and replies to such comments may be filed, provide further that no additional comments may be filed unless (1) specifically requested by the Commission or (2) good cause for the filing of such additional comments is established. Requests for leave to file additional pleadings in rule-making cases will be directed to the full Commission rather than the Motions Commissioner as provided above in connection with the amendment of § 1.730.

5. The amendments adopted are procedural in nature or related to the internal organization of the Commission and, therefore, prior notice of proposed rule making is unnecessary. It is believed that the public interest would be served by making such amendments effective February 17, 1954: Provided, however, That the amendment does not apply to pleadings already on file with the Commission.

6. Authority for the adoption of the amendments is contained in sections 4 (i) and 303 (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

7. In view of the foregoing, It is ordered, That, effective February 17, 1954 (except as provided in paragraph 5 above), § 1.730 of the Commission's rules is amended to read as follows:

§ 1.730 Oppositions and replies to oppositions. Except as otherwise provided, oppositions to petitions must be filed within 10 days after such petitions are filed with the Commission. Replies to such oppositions must be filed within 5 days after such oppositions are filed with the Commission. No other pleadings may be filed with the Commission unless (a) specifically requested by the Commission or (b) leave to file such additional pleadings has been granted by the Motions Commissioner upon a showing of good cause.

(Sec. 4, 48 Stat. 1066 as amended; 47 U. S. C. 154. Interprets or applies sec. 303, 48 Stat. 1082, as amended; 47 U. S. C. 303)

Adopted: February 10, 1954.

Released: February 11, 1954.

[Docket No. AO-249]

HANDLING OF MILK IN SOUTHWEST KANSAS MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of the recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to a proposed marketing agreement and order regulating the handling of milk in the Southwest Kansas marketing area. Interested parties may file written exceptions to this decision with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business the 15th day after publication of this decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The hearing on the record of which the proposed marketing agreement and order was formulated, was conducted at Dodge City, Kansas, August 18-21, 1953, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued July 29, 1953 (18 F. R. 4519).

The material issues of record related to:

1. The character of commerce in the handling of milk;
2. The need for regulation;
3. The extent of the marketing area;
4. The scope of regulation;
5. The classification of milk;
6. Class prices;
7. Payments to producers;
8. The administrative assessment; and
9. Administrative provisions.

Findings and conclusions. Upon the evidence adduced at the hearing and the record thereof it is hereby found and concluded that:

1. Character of commerce. The handling of milk in the Southwest Kansas marketing area is in the current of interstate commerce or directly burdens, obstructs or affects interstate commerce in milk or its products.

Milk produced for the Southwest Kansas marketing area is regularly distributed on routes extending into the States of Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas. The principal distribution in these states is by a handler whose plant is located in Dodge City, Kansas, although there is lesser distribution in the State of Oklahoma by a handler whose plant is in Liberal, Kansas. The Dodge City handler competes in procurement and sales with all other handlers of the Southwest Kansas area.

Milk produced in Colorado and Oklahoma is distributed in Kansas in competition with milk produced for the Southwest Kansas marketing area. Some of this distribution is by handlers whose plants are located in Colorado and Oklahoma. Other distribution is by handlers from the Wichita, Kansas, market which receives supplies from producers whose farms are located in Oklahoma.

During periods when milk production is in excess of the needs for fluid sales, producer milk is manufactured into products such as ice cream, butter and cheese which are disposed of over a wide area including states other than Kansas. In periods when milk production is short of the needs for fluid sales, milk is imported from other areas. Some of such imports are from states other than Kansas.

2. The need for regulation. The issuance of an order to regulate the handling of milk in the Southwest Kansas marketing area will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act.

Under short supply conditions that prevailed in the Southwest Kansas area through 1952 a cooperative association of producers had succeeded in establishing a nominal class use basis for pricing milk of its members and other producers disposed of to a number of the principal handlers of the area. The arrangements in effect followed generally the classification and pricing pattern in effect in the Wichita market, including the premium in excess of minimum order prices that were negotiated in the Wichita market. Returns to producers were based upon the average utilization by classes of the milk received by each handler.

Milk production in the Southwest Kansas area increased substantially early in 1953 in common with the experience in many other areas. The marketing system that appeared to work with reasonable satisfaction under conditions of short supply has not been adequate for the changed conditions. The handling and pricing of surplus milk has not been uniform. All handlers do not have adequate facilities for handling milk in excess of their fluid needs. While reasonable uniformity has prevailed in the prices at which handlers have accounted to producers for the milk used for their fluid sales there have been considerable differences in the prices at which they have accounted for the milk used in other ways. A considerable disparity in the blend prices of individual handlers has occurred through some handlers providing a market for only that milk needed for their fluid sales while other handlers have attempted to provide a market for the increased production through their manufacturing facilities.

After failure to reach an agreement with one handler concerning the price for milk in excess of fluid needs early this spring, the association retailed the milk of some 17 of its member producers for some weeks in competition with this handler and others, and for this time pooled the proceeds of the sales of all of its members. When retail sales were discontinued and the milk of these producers was placed with another handler who needed it only for manufacturing purposes, the association pool was also discontinued because nonmember producers were receiving higher blend prices from certain handlers.

It is evident that the area requires a marketing system whereby all producers share equitably the fluid sales of the area and also share equally the burden of seasonal and cyclic surpluses of milk. The distribution of facilities for handling milk in excess of fluid requirements do not permit these results through even distribution of milk supplies to handlers.

Producers and handlers have failed to agree upon any uniform plan designed to bring about a more uniform seasonal pattern of production to meet the needs of the market. One attempt to establish a base plan was abandoned after a short period of operation apparently because its provisions were not well understood by all elements of the market. Attempts to reach agreement on other increases have failed.

No testimony was offered at the hearing in opposition to the issuance of an order. It is concluded that the issuance of a marketing order will provide stability to the market and tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

3. The extent of the marketing area. The marketing area should be defined to include 26 cities, all in the Southwestern portion of Kansas, and 14 townships located in 7 counties which include or are adjacent to 9 of these cities.

Producers proposed that the marketing area be defined to include the corporate limits of the Cities of Dodge City, Garden City, Pratt, Great Bend, Larned, Kinsley and Scott City, all in Kansas, and supported the addition of the City of Liberal, Kansas, to this list of cities. Handlers proposed that the marketing area be defined as 29 counties plus two small municipalities in a 30th county.

Southwest Kansas is predominantly a rural area with no large centers of population. The cities which producers support as the marketing area are the largest cities in this portion of the state, and vary from approximately 3,000 to 15,000 in population. They are also the places at which are located the principal milk processing plants at which milk is received from producers for distribution in the area. There are, however, numerous smaller towns in which milk received at plants in these larger towns is distributed. In only three of these—Hoisington, Ellinwod, and Elkhart are there any milk plants which receive milk from dairy farmers and distribute fluid milk. Hoisington and Ellinwood are in the immediate vicinity of Great Bend.

Throughout a considerable portion of the surrounding area distribution of Grade A milk for fluid consumption is exclusively from (1) plants located within the area proposed, (2) plants regulated by the order for the Wichita, Kansas, market, and (3) producers retailing their own milk. There is little if any distribution of non-Grade A milk other than by farmer retailers. The regulation proposed is restricted to pricing Grade A milk eligible for fluid consumption that is received by handlers from producers. While it is not feasible to define a marketing area to include all territory within which regulated handlers may extend their sales it is considered advisable that the area defined include that territory within which they are the principal or sole suppliers of the kind of milk to be regulated and in which their sales are a significant portion of their business.

One Dodge City handler who distributes milk throughout the entire 29 county area proposed has about 13 percent of his sales in Dodge City and less than half of his sales in the 8 cities which producers proposed. A Garden City handler with distribution in 15 counties has slightly more than half of his sales in three of these cities. While the record does not show the percentage distribution of their sales, it shows that another Dodge City handler and a handler whose plant is located at Pratt each distribute milk in eight counties.

It is concluded that the marketing area should be defined to include the cities of Ashland, Cimarron, Coldwater, Dodge City, Elkhart, Ellinwood, Garden City, Great Bend, Greensburg, Hoisington, Hugoton, Johnson, Jetmore, Kinsley, La Crosse, Lakin, Larned, Liberal, Meade, Medicine Lodge, Ness City, Pratt, St. John, Stafford, Syracause, and Ulysses and certain townships which are adjacent to or include the Cities of Dodge City, Ellinwood, Garden City, Great Bend, Hoisington, Kinsley, Larned and Pratt. The marketing area so defined will include the principal points at which handlers of the larger cities are the suppliers of Grade A milk. It will accomplish the intent of handlers in requesting regulation by county boundaries and at the same time will present less administrative problems.

Population is not dense in the rural areas of Southwest Kansas. The geographical location and population of smaller towns is such as to make it impractical for there to be any substantial milk distribution in the area without sales in the defined marketing area. The inclusion of townships surrounding or adjacent to the principal cities will prevent the establishment of retail sales of unregulated milk adjacent to the boundaries of these cities.

Sales in Greeley, Wichita, Scott, Lane, and Kingman counties are not a significant part of the milk sales of the major handlers who will be regulated by the area herein proposed. For this reason the defined marketing area does not include cities in these counties. While there was producer testimony concerning need for regulation of milk received by a Scott City handler, the record fails to establish a close relationship between the milk supply for Scott City with that for the area herein defined.

Within the defined area, milk labeled Grade "A" must be produced and handled under local or state supervision in accordance with the standards of the United States Public Health Service Standard Milk Ordinance. These standards have been adopted by the Kansas State Board of Agriculture and are contained in the ordinances of the principal cities. While not all of the cities of the defined marketing area require milk of Grade "A" quality, distribution of non-Grade "A" milk appears to be limited to that of producer-retailers. As indicated by the area of distribution of major handlers, milk of Grade "A" quality moves freely within the defined area. While only one handler distributes throughout the entire area, several handlers distribute their milk throughout a considerable portion of the area. A single cooperative association represents a majority of the producers supplying the principal handlers who would be regulated.

4. The scope of regulation. The minimum class prices of the orders should apply to milk of Grade A quality received directly from the farm on which it is produced, at a milk plant from which fluid milk is distributed on routes in the marketing area, or at a receiving plant closely associated with and regularly supplying such a plant.

Health authorities of most cities of the marketing area in which bottling plants are located inspect the farms of and issue permits or ratings to those producers whose milk is eligible for distribution as Grade A Milk. In at least one instance, Liberal, the record indicates that currently farm inspections are made and ratings issued by the State of Kansas. However the City of Liberal is proposing to adopt an ordinance under which these functions will be performed by municipal authorities.

In order to distinguish clearly what milk is to be subject to the order, which processors and distributors are to be subject to regulation, and which dairy farmers will have their milk priced and pooled, it is necessary to include in the order definitions of "approved plant", "handler", "producer" and "other source milk".

"Approved plant" should be defined to include those milk plants approved by the appropriate health authorities having jurisdiction in the marketing area from which Class I milk (fluid milk items specifically named elsewhere in the order) is disposed of under Grade A label on routes in the marketing area. The definition should also include the plants which regularly receive milk from producers under inspection of the health authority of a municipality of the marketing area and move it to a plant under common ownership from which Grade A milk is disposed of on routes in the marketing area. The definition will thus be restricted to those plants regularly supplying the fluid milk needs of the area and will not include outside plants which from time to time furnish supplementary supplies to plants regularly supplying the area. There are presently no plants operating as receiving stations. One handler however, has a second plant which until recently was operated as a receiving and bottling plant and where milk from producers is presently collected and moved in farmer's cans to the handler's principal plant. Provision is made for this plant to be considered an approved plant should the handler choose to receive and commingle milk there for more economical handling.

It was contended that the benefits of market-wide pooling shall not be extended to dairy farms or fluid milk plants having only casual association with the market. Accordingly a proposal was made that a plant which disposed of less than 15 percent of its receipts of Grade A milk on routes in the marketing area be excluded from pooling. The need for such a provision at this time appears largely speculative and accordingly no action is herein considered on the basis of this record.

"Handler" should be defined as any person in his capacity as the operator of an approved plant and any cooperative association with respect to milk of producers which it may divert for its own account to an unapproved plant. The handler is the person who receives milk from producers and who is responsible for reporting receipts and utilization of milk and for paying producers minimum prices. A cooperative association in its role of marketing milk of its producer members may need for short periods to divert producers milk from approved plants to unapproved plants for its own account. If the association is defined as a handler for such milk, even though it has no plant, the producers whose milk is so diverted will continue to receive the uniform price established under the order and their milk will be available for fluid use when needed.

"Producer" should be defined as any person, other than a producer-handler who produces milk received at an approved plant, or diverted from an approved plant to an unapproved plant for the account of a handler, which milk is produced under a Grade A dairy farm permit or rating issued by the appropriate health authority of a municipality of the marketing area or by the State of Kansas. Provision should be made to exclude any person whose milk is priced under another Federal order as a producer under this order, since this would result in such persons' milk being priced and pooled under two separate regulations.

The order does not propose to price the milk or pool the Class I sales of a producer-handler, who is a person operating an approved plant and produces milk but receives no milk from producers. The producer-handler is his own marketing agent and is thus in a position to regulate his production to his sales and completely control its disposition. Producer-handlers are thus in an entirely different position from producers whose milk is marketed through a handler, and a producer-handler's milk should not be subject to the pricing and pooling provisions of the order. Any milk that producer-handlers sell to handlers is normally surplus to their own operations; to pool such milk without also pooling the Class I sales producer-handlers make directly would result in a preferential market to producer-handlers as compared with producers regularly supplying handlers. Producer-handlers should therefore be excluded from the definition of producers and any milk they deliver to buying handlers be treated as other source milk.

"Other source milk" should be defined to include all skim milk and butterfat other than that contained in producer milk. When received at an approved plant, such milk would be from dairy farmers not approved for producing Grade A milk or from a plant which does not qualify as an approved plant. Other source milk would not be priced under the order, but would be allocated to the lowest use in the handler's plant to prevent its displacing producer milk, which constitutes the regular supply of the market, from Class I.

5. Classification of milk. Milk should be classified in two classes. Class I milk should include all skim milk and butterfat disposed of as milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk drinks, and cream or cream mixtures. These are the products which are required by health regulations to be Grade A milk. Class II milk should include all skim milk and butterfat used to produce products not required to be from Grade A milk, disposed of for livestock feed, and allowable shrinkage.

Unaccounted for milk in excess of a reasonable allowance for plant loss should be Class I milk in order to require full accounting by handlers for their receipts. Two percent is considered a reasonable maximum allowance for this purpose under most conditions. For the flush production months of April, May and June the maximum allowance with respect to skim milk is established at 5 percent of receipts in order that handlers with skim milk in excess of their needs in volumes too small to justify transportation to manufacturing plants or other disposition as Class II milk may not suffer undue hardships. No limit need be put on shrinkage of other source milk since such milk is deducted from the lowest use class under the allocation provisions. Since it is not feasible to segregate shrinkage of producer milk from that of other source milk in the same plant, total shrinkage is prorated on the basis of the volume of receipts.

To prevent other source milk, which is unpriced, from displacing from Class I producer milk which is the regular supply for the market, other source milk should be allocated to the lowest class uses in a handler's plant. In establishing the classification of milk, responsibility should be placed upon the handler who first receives milk from producers to account for all milk and milk products received, and to prove to the market administrator his claim that such receipts should be classified as other than Class I. The handler who first receives milk from producers is the person who is in position to satisfy this primary requirement of a class price plan. Such a handler must be held responsible for reporting properly the utilization of such milk and making full payment for it. He must, therefore, maintain records to establish unquestionable proof of the utilization of all milk he receives.

Provision should be made to cover the classification of milk, skim milk and cream transferred to other milk plants since such disposition may be for either fluid (Class I) or manufacturing (Class II) use. Transfers to the approved plants of other handlers may be at classification agreed upon between the handlers, provided the transferee plant has use in the agreed class and the prior claim of producer milk in Class I utilization is maintained. This is the most practical method of dealing with inter-handler transfers since it is convenient to handlers and under the market-wide pool neither the total cost of milk to handlers nor returns to producers are changed. Transfers to a producer-handler should be Class I since producer-handlers normally purchase from handlers only for fluid use. Transfers from approved plants to fluid milk plants within 300 miles of Dodge City should be classified as Class I milk up to the total disposition of Class I milk from such plant in excess of its receipts from the dairy farmers constituting its regular source of supply. Transfers to manufacturing plants (those with no route distribution of fluid milk) within 300 miles should be Class II milk. Transfers of milk or skim milk to plants located more than 300 miles from Dodge City should be Class I. Milk and skim milk normally cannot economically be transported greater distances for manufacturing use. The 300 mile limit establishes an area within which there are manufacturing facilities adequate to dispose of any prospective excess of producer milk.

Cream may economically be transported considerable distances for manufacturing use. The use of Grade A certification is a reasonably accurate criterion as to whether cream moves for fluid use or manufacturing use. It is provided that transfers of cream to unapproved plants without regard to distance shall be Class I if under Grade A certification, and Class II if without such certification and identified by label and invoice as for manufacturing use milk solids. The production of manufacturing quality milk is neither an important agricultural enterprise in the Southwest Kansas area nor a significant factor in the total potential supply for the market. Nevertheless changes in the value of milk for manufacturing purposes have for considerable time been reflected in the prices for fluid use. Such changes have resulted from the relationship of the Wichita market to the Southwest Kansas market. There is considerable competition for milk sales between Wichita handlers and Southwest Kansas handlers. There is also some competition for milk supplies between the two markets. As a result the milk prices in the Southwest Kansas area have followed the pattern in the Wichita market. The minimum prices of the Wichita order are based upon manufacturing milk values. The relationship between the two markets is sufficiently close to make it important that changes in minimum order prices be influenced by the same factors. The basic formula price to be used in establishing the current month price for milk of 3.8 percent butterfat content should be the higher of the prices paid farmers at 15 milk manufacturing plants in Wisconsin and Michigan or a formula price based on market values of butter and nonfat dry milk solids. Such a basic formula parallels closely that in the Wichita order, prices milk at the basic test to which the market is accustomed, and permits handlers to know their costs at the time of purchase.

6. Class prices. The minimum price for Class I milk in the Southwest Kansas marketing area should be based upon the value of milk for manufacturing purposes, as reflected by the prices paid for milk by mid-west condenseries and market prices for butter and nonfat dry

The Class I price should be the basic formula price plus $1.65 in all months of the year. This is the Class I differential of the Wichita market. Producers proposed that this differential be $1.90 in order to compensate for differences in the classification and method of accounting for milk herein proposed from those applicable under the Wichita order and currently in use in the Southwest Kansas market. They contended that a Class I differential of $1.90 would be required, when applied to the separate classification and accounting for skim milk and butterfat proposed, to produce a blend or uniform price equal to that which would result from a $1.65 Class I differential applied to the milk equivalent classification and accounting system in use heretofore. Computation of the results under the two systems indicates that a differential somewhat less than $1.90 would accomplish this result.

Milk supplies in the Southwest Kansas area have increased substantially throughout 1952 and 1953. For January 1953 receipts were 26 percent greater than for January 1952. For May 1953 the increase over the same month a year earlier was more than 50 percent. Much of this increased supply was needed, as the market was in short supply during much of 1952 and for several years previously. Furthermore the prices paid producers much of this time were substantially in excess of the minimum prices of the Wichita order. The record however indicates that underlying economic conditions in the area have changed in a way which will increase the attractiveness of milk production. The principal agricultural enterprises of the area are wheat and beef cattle. Reductions in wheat acreages under marketing quotas and reduced profits from beef operations will, in the opinion of producer witnesses, increase milk production. These changes may also be reflected in sales volumes in this area in which much of the economy is closely related to agricultural enterprises. Under these circumstances it is considered advisable that the Class I differential be established at $1.65 at this time.

Producers proposed that the Class II price be the butter-powder formula price but that 30 cents for all months other than April, May and June, and 45 cents in these months, less than this price should apply to milk used in certain ways, principally that used for the manufacture of butter and cheese. Handlers proposed that the Class II price be determined by a butter-powder formula price incorporating lower yield factors and larger manufacturing allowances than those included in the attached order. For July the handler proposal was 47 cents less than the butter-powder formula price adopted as an alternative basic formula.

There is little production of milk for manufacturing use in the Southwest Kansas area and consequently limited facilities for processing milk into manufactured dairy products. Major milk handlers have facilities for making ice cream and cottage cheese and until recently all Grade A milk in excess of fluid needs was used in these products. Some handlers have limited facilities for making butter and cheese, and there is one cheese plant of limited capacity in the area. Increased supplies of milk in the flush season of 1953 were sufficient to require use of these facilities in disposition of surplus Grade A milk. The limited volume and facilities for manufacturing milk in the area provide no basis for pricing Class II milk on the basis of local paying prices.

National market values appear to be appropriate for pricing Class II uses with the possible exception of butter and hard-type cheese during spring months of flush production. The butter-powder formula has over the past seven years averaged within four cents per hundredweight of the United States average price paid for manufacturing milk shown in the record. For 1953 however, the U. S. average price paid was 19 cents less than the butter-powder formula price, indicating that under current dairy marketing conditions in the country there has been a widening of the gross margin between market values of dairy products and the prices plants generally pay for manufacturing milk.

The proposals received at the hearing apparently presuppose an indefinite continuation of these wider gross margins. While such margins have widened under somewhat similar conditions in the past they have reduced as marketing conditions change. In order that the current marketing situation may be reflected in the Class II price without freezing the price at an arbitrarily low level, it is concluded that the national average price for manufacturing milk should determine the Class II price. For July 1953 this price was 21.8 cents less than the butter-powder formula price. A preliminary estimate of this price is published by the Department by the end of the month to which it applies. The price per hundredweight and the average test of milk are given. While this preliminary estimate is subject to later revision, comparisons of preliminary and final figures show that these seldom show a revised price that is not related to a corresponding change in the butterfat test reported. It appears that when converted to a 3.8 percent basis by direct ratio the price reported currently is appropriate for use in determining the Class II price of the Southwest Kansas order.

Provision should be made for a lower price to apply for milk used in butter and hard-type cheeses during the months of March through June 1954. It appears likely that in the coming season a fairly substantial volume of surplus Grade A milk will need to be disposed of in these products. The limited volumes of manufacturing milk and the facilities available in the area do not provide for economical processing or marketing of butter and cheese in this area. It is concluded that a credit of four cents per pound should apply to butterfat in producer milk classified as Class II and used in the manufacture of butter and cheese during the coming months of March through June. Such credit should be limited to these coming flush production months. From this record the necessity or propriety of including such provisions for succeeding years cannot be determined.

The minimum class prices thus determined apply to milk of 3.8 percent butterfat content. Such prices to handlers should be adjusted for the actual butterfat test of the milk classified in each class. Butterfat differentials to handlers accomplish this result. For Class I milk the handler butterfat differential should be .125 times the Chicago butter price of the preceding month for each one-tenth percent variation from 3.8 percent. For Class II milk the differential should be .115 times the butter price of the current month. Such differentials reflect an appropriate difference in the value of butterfat in Class I milk and in Class II milk in this market.

7. Payments to producers. The proposed order provides for a market-wide pool under which all producers supplying the market would receive the same price for their milk regardless of its utilization by the handler who received the milk. Under present arrangements in the market the returns of producers supplying each handler are based on that handler's utilization of milk, and consequently prices vary among handlers. These variations were minor when the market was in short supply and practically all milk received was used as Class I milk. With more ample supplies considerably wider variations have occurred. Some handlers do not have facilities for handling any volume of milk in excess of their fluid needs and consequently have restricted their receipts to approximately their fluid needs. Other handlers with manufacturing facilities handle the reserve supply and seasonal surpluses of the area. For a period the cooperative association attempted to pool the returns of their members as a means of equalizing returns. During this period non-member producers in high utilization plants received returns in excess of member-producers. As a result of the past experiences in the market the cooperative association recommends that market-wide pooling of all producers be provided in the order.

The record indicates that steps should be taken to level out production on the market. At the present time there is a wide variation between the high and low months of production. Alignment of Class I prices with those of the Wichita market does not provide for seasonal differences in Class I prices beyond those that are in the basic formula price. Producers have proposed a fall incentive plan whereby 50 cents per hundredweight would be deducted in computing the uniform price during each of the months of April, May and June, and one-third of the total amount deducted would be disbursed to producers on the basis of their deliveries during each of the following months of August, September and October. This plan has the effect of applying a seasonal element in the pricing of milk to producers. It is concluded it should be adopted as a means of encouraging a more uniform pattern of production.

The practice of paying producers twice monthly now prevails in the market and should be continued under the order. Uniform prices, however, should be computed only once each month. Provision should be made for an advance payment with respect to milk delivered during the first half of the month at not less than the previous months' Class II price with final settlement for all deliveries at the uniform price of the order.

The butterfat differential to be used in making payments to producers should be the Chicago butter price times .12. This is the differential used in the Wichita order and in the Southwest Kansas market at this time. Handler's costs are not affected by this differential as it is merely a means of prorating returns to producers delivering milk of varying butterfat tests.

Provision is made for payments to a cooperative association of the amounts due its member producers if the cooperative association has such authority, as determined by the market administrator, and requests that payments be so made. This practice was used for a time by a cooperative association in the market.

8. The administrative assessment. It appears that an administrative assessment of 5 cents per hundredweight on all producer milk and on other source milk used in Class I will be required to defray the cost of administering the order, at least during its initial stages.

The market administrator is required to verify the use of all milk received at approved plants and must have sufficient funds to enable him to administer properly the terms of the order. In view of the anticipated volume of milk to be regulated and the costs incident to regulation over a widespread area, a maximum rate of 5 cents per hundredweight should be adopted to guarantee a sufficient income for proper administration. Expenses are normally relatively high at the beginning of a program. Should experience show that a lesser rate will suffice, provision is made that the Secretary may reduce the assessment to whatever amount is necessary to meet expenses without amending the order.

9. Administrative provisions. The remaining provisions of the order are of a general administrative nature, are incidental to the other provisions of the order, and are necessary for the proper and efficient administration of the order. They provide for the selection of a market administrator, define his powers and duties, prescribe the information to be reported by handlers and set forth the rules to be followed in making the computations required by the order. They also prescribe the length of time that records must be retained and provide a plan for the liquidation of the order in the event of its suspension or termination. They are similar to like provisions of other orders and except as set forth below require no comment.

Producer-handlers should be exempt from the regulatory provisions of the order except that requiring the filing of reports as requested by the market administrator. Reports are required from the producer-handler in order to verify his continued status as a producer-handler and to suplement market information.

A handler who operates an approved plant which is subject to the regulatory provisions of another milk marketing agreement or order issued pursuant to the act should be exempt from the provisions of this order other than for reporting his volume of Class I sales in the marketing area. It would be impractical to attempt to regulate a handler under two separate orders with respect to the same milk. It appears reasonable that the effective regulation should be that of the area in which such a handler makes the greater portion of his sales. Such a provision will conform to the parallel provisions of the Wichita order. A proposal that such a handler be required to pay any amount by which the value of Class I milk disposed of in the Southwest Kansas marketing area (at the minimum prices of this order) exceeds that charged under the other order need not be adopted. Handlers subject to the Wichita order are the only ones likely to be affected by such a provision. The pricing provisions herein recommended are so aligned with those of the Wichita order as to make the provision unnecessary.

The order should provide limitations on the period of time handlers shall retain books and records which are required to be made available to the market administrator, and on the period of time in which obligations under the order shall terminate. The provision made in this regard is identical in principle with the general amendment made to all in operation on July 30, 1947, effective February 22, 1949, and the Secretary's decision of January 26, 1949 (14 F. R. 444), covering the retention of records and limitation of claims is equally applicable in this situation and is adopted as a part of this decision.

Provision should be made for the dissemination of market information to producers, for the verification of weights and for the sampling and testing of milk received from producers for whom such services are not being rendered by a qualified cooperative association. The order should provide that 6 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary may determine be deducted from payments to such producers and be turned over to the market administrator to finance the cost of such services. The percent costs of rendering such services are increased in the Southwest Kansas area by the distances between handler plants and the relatively small number of producers. For producers for whom a cooperative association is rendering such services, the handler should pay to the cooperative association such deductions as the producer has authorized the cooperative to collect, such payments to be in lieu of those to the market administrator.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk produced for sale in the said marketing area as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and are applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, the said marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Rulings on briefs. Briefs were filed by representatives of cooperative associations of producers, by representatives of handlers, and by other interested persons.

These briefs contained proposed findings and conclusions and arguments with respect to the provisions of the proposed amendments. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully considered along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that the findings and conclusions proposed in the briefs are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the request to make such findings or to reach such conclusions is denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions in this recommended decision.

In either case, the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly, upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION

§ 919.40 Skim milk and butterfat to be classified. All skim milk and butterfat received within the month by a handler and which is required to be reported pursuant to § 919.30 shall be classified by the market administrator pursuant to the provisions of §§ 919.41 to 919.46, inclusive.

§ 919.41 Class of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in §§ 919.42 through 919.46, the classes of utilization shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk shall be all skim milk (including reconstituted skim milk) and butterfat (1) disposed of in the form of milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk drinks, cream, cultured sour cream, any mixture (except eggnog, aerated cream, and bulk ice cream mix) of cream and milk or skim milk, and (2) all other skim milk and butterfat not specifically accounted for as Class II milk;

(b) Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat;

(1) Used to produce any product other than those specified in paragraph (a) of this section;

(2) Disposed of for livestock feed;

(3) In cream frozen and stored;

(4) In shrinkage of producer milk that is not in excess of 2 percent (5 percent with respect to skim milk during the months of April, May and June) of receipts from producers;

(5) In shrinkage of other source milk; and

(6) In inventory at the end of the month as milk, skim milk, cream, or any product specified in paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 919.42 Shrinkage. The market administrator shall allocate shrinkage over a handler's receipts as follows:

(a) Compute the total shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat for each handler; and

(b) Prorate the resulting amounts between the receipts of skim milk and butterfat in receipts from producers and of other source milk.

§ 919.43 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) All skim milk and butterfat shall be Class I milk unless the handler who first receives such skim milk or butterfat can prove to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should be classified as Class II.

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat classified as Class II milk shall be reclassified if such skim milk or butterfat is later disposed of by such handler or another handler (whether in original or other form) as Class I milk. Any skim milk or butterfat which was classified as Class II milk in the previous month pursuant to § 919.41 (b) (6) shall be reclassified as Class I milk if it is subtracted in the current month from Class I pursuant to § 919.46 (a) (4).

§ 919.44 Transfers. Skim milk or butterfat disposed of by a handler either by transfer or diversion from an approved plant shall be classified:

(a) At the class mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator on or before the 7th day after the end of the month within which such transaction occurred, otherwise as Class I milk, if transferred or diverted in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream to the approved plant of another handler (except a producer-handler), subject in either event to the following conditions:

(1) The receiving handler has use in such class of an equivalent amount of skim milk and butterfat, respectively; and

(2) Such skim milk or butterfat shall be classified so as to allocate to producer milk the greatest total Class I utilization in the two plants.

(b) As Class I milk, if transferred or diverted to a producer-handler in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream.

(c) As Class I milk, if transferred or diverted in the form of milk or skim milk to an unapproved plant more than 300 miles distance as determined by the market administrator.

(d) As Class I milk, if transferred to an unapproved plant in the form of cream under Grade A certification, or unless the handler claims Class II classification and establishes the fact that such cream was transferred without Grade A certification and with each container labeled or tagged to indicate that the contents are for manufacturing use only and that the shipment was so invoiced.

(e) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted in the form of milk or skim milk to an unapproved plant located not more than 300 miles from the courthouse at Dodge City, Kansas, by shortest highway distance, as determined by the market administrator, and from which fluid milk is disposed of on wholesale or retail routes, unless the market administrator is permitted to audit the records of receipts and utilization at such unapproved plant, in which case the classification of all skim milk and butterfat received at such unapproved plant shall be determined and the skim milk and butterfat transferred from the approved plant shall be allocated to the highest use remaining after subtracting in series beginning with Class I milk, receipts of skim milk and butterfat at such unapproved plant direct from dairy farmers who the market administrator determines constitute the regular source of supply of such plant for fluid usage.

(f) As Class II milk, if transferred or diverted in the form of milk or skim milk to an unapproved plant located not more than 300 miles from the courthouse at Dodge City, Kansas, by shortest highway distance as determined by the market administrator, and from which fluid milk is not disposed of on wholesale or retail routes.

§ 919.45 Computation of the skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each delivery period the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for other obvious errors the report of receipts and utilization submitted by each handler and shall compute the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in Class I milk and Class II milk of such handler.

§ 919.46 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified. After making the computation pursuant to § 919.45, the market administrator shall determine the classification of producer milk as follows:

(a) Skim milk shall be allocated in the following manner:

(1) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class II the pounds of skim milk determined pursuant to § 919.41 (b) (3);

(2) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class the pounds of skim milk received from other handlers in a form other than milk, skim milk or cream according to its classification pursuant to § 919.41;

(3) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in series beginning with Class II, the pounds of skim milk in other source milk;

(4) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in series beginning with Class II, the pounds of skim milk in inventory at the beginning of the month in the form of milk, skim milk, cream (except frozen cream), or any other product specified in § 919.41 (a);

(5) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class the skim milk received from other handlers in the form of milk, skim milk or cream according to its classification as determined pursuant to § 919.44 (a);

(6) Add to the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph;

(7) If the remaining pounds of skim milk remaining in both classes exceed the pounds of skim milk received from producers, subtract such excess from the pounds of skim milk remaining in each class in series beginning with Class II. Any amount so subtracted shall be called "overage."

(b) Butterfat shall be allocated in accordance with the same procedure outlined for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Add the pounds of skim milk and the pounds of butterfat allocated to producer milk in each class, respectively, as computed pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section and determine the percent of butterfat content in such milk in each class.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 919.50 Basic formula price to be used in determining Class I prices. The basic formula price to be used in determining the price per hundredweight of Class I milk shall be the higher of the prices computed pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section for the preceding month.

(a) The average of the basic or field prices per hundredweight reported to have been paid, or to be paid, for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the month at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department, divided by 3.5 and multiplied by 3.8:

(b) The price per hundredweight computed by adding together the plus values pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph:

(1) From the simple average as computed by the market administrator of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) per pound of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter per pound at Chicago, as reported by the Department during the month, subtract 3 cents, add 20 percent thereof, and multiply by 3.8.

(2) From the simple average as computed by the market administrator of the weighted averages of carlot prices per pound for nonfat dry milk solids, spray and roller process, respectively, for human consumption, f. o. b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area, as published for the period from the 26th day of the preceding month through the 25th day of the current month by the Department deduct 5.5 cents, multiply by 8.5, and then multiply by 0.962.

§ 919.51 Class prices. Subject to the provisions of § 919.52, the minimum prices per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for milk received at his plant from producers during the month shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk. The price per hundredweight shall be the basic formula price plus $1.65 during all months of the year.

(b) Class II milk. The price per hundredweight shall be the average price reported by the Department for the current month for milk for manufacturing purposes, f. o. b. plant, United States, adjusted to a 3.8 percent butterfat basis by direct ratio: Provided, That: For butterfat received from producers and classified as Class II milk which is used to produce salted butter or cheese (other than cottage cheese) there shall be credited to the handler receiving such butterfat from producers 4 cents per pound during the months of March 1954 through June 1954, inclusive.

§ 919.52 Butterfat differential to handlers. If the average butterfat content of the milk of any handler allocated to any class pursuant to § 919.46 is more or less than 3.8 percent, there shall be added to the respective class price, computed pursuant to § 919.51 (a) and (b) for each one-tenth of one percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is above 3.8 percent, or subtracted for each one-tenth of one percent that such average butterfat content is below 3.8 percent, an amount equal to the butterfat differential computed by multiplying the simple average, as computed by the market administrator, of the daily wholesale selling price per pound (using the mid-point of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter at Chicago, as reported by the Department during the appropriate month, by the applicable factor listed below and dividing the result by 10:

(a) Class I milk: Multiply such price for the preceding month by .125; and

(b) Class II milk: Multiply such price for the current month by 1.15.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 919.60 Producer-handlers. Sections 919.40 through 919.46, 919.50 through 919.52, 919.70 through 919.71, 919.80 through 919.89 shall not apply to a producer-handler.

§ 919.61 Handlers subject to other orders. In the case of any handler who the Secretary determines disposes of a greater portion of his milk as Class I milk in another marketing area regulated by another milk marketing agreement or order issued pursuant to the act, the provisions of this order shall not apply except that the handler shall with respect to his total receipts of skim milk and butterfat, make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may require and shall allow verification of such reports by the market administrator pursuant to § 919.33.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICE

§ 919.70 Computation of value of milk. The value of milk received during each month by each handler from producers shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator as follows:

(a) Multiply the pounds of such milk in each class by the applicable respective class prices (adjusted pursuant to § 919.52) and add together the resulting amounts;

(b) Add an amount computed by multiplying the pounds of any overage deducted from each class pursuant to § 919.46 (a) (7) by the applicable class price(s);

(c) Add any charges computed as follows:

(1) For any skim milk or butterfat in inventory reclassified pursuant to § 919.43 (b) which is not in excess of the quantity in producer milk classified as Class II milk (other than as shrinkage) in the handler's plant for the preceding month, a charge shall be computed at the difference between its value at the Class I price for the current month and its value at the Class II price of the preceding month;

(2) For any other skim milk or butterfat reclassified pursuant to § 919.43 (b) a charge shall be computed at the difference between its value at the Class I price and its value at the Class II price both, for the month in which previously classified as Class II milk.

§ 919.71 Computation of uniform price. For each month the market administrator shall compute the uniform price per hundredweight for all milk of 3.8 percent butterfat content received from producers as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the values computed pursuant to § 919.70 for all handlers who made the reports prescribed in § 919.30 and who made the payments pursuant to §§ 919.80 and 919.83 for the preceding month;

(b) For each of the months of April through June subtract an amount equal to 50 cents per hundredweight on the total amount of producer milk included in these computations to be retained in the producer-settlement fund for the purpose specified in § 919.95;

(c) Add not less than one-half of the unobligated cash balance on hand in the producer-settlement fund;

(d) Subtract if the average butterfat content of the milk included in these computations is greater than 3.8 percent or add if such average butterfat content is less than 3.8 percent an amount computed by multiplying the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 3.8 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 919.81 and multiplying the resulting figure by the total hundredweight of such milk;

(e) Divide the resulting amount by the total hundredweight of milk included in these computations; and

(f) Subtract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents from the amount computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for milk of 3.8 percent butterfat content received from producers.

PAYMENTS

§ 919.80 Time and method of payment. Each handler shall make payment as follows:

(a) On or before the 15th day after the end of the month during which the milk was received, to each producer for whom payment is not made pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section, at not less than the uniform price for such month computed pursuant to § 919.71 adjusted by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 919.81, and less the amount of the payment made pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section: Provided, That if by such date such handler has not received full payment for such month pursuant to § 919.84, he may reduce his total payments to all producers uniformly by not more than the amount of reduction in payments from the market administrator; he shall, however, complete such payments pursuant to this paragraph not later than the date for making such payments next following receipt of the balance from the market administrator.

(b) On or before the 10th day of each month, to each producer for whom payment is not made pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section for milk as the market administrator determines received during the first 15 days of such month, at not less than the Class II price of the preceding month.

(c) On or before the 13th and 27th days of each month, in lieu of payments pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section respectively, to a cooperative association which so requests, with respect to producers for whose milk such cooperative association is authorized to collect payment, an amount equal to the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers. Such payments shall be accompanied by a statement showing for each producer the items required to be reported pursuant to § 919.31.

§ 919.81 Producer-butterfat differential. In making payments pursuant to § 919.80, there shall be added to or subtracted from the uniform price for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of the milk received from the producer is above or below 4.0 percent, an amount computed by multiplying by 1.2 the simple average as computed by the market administrator of the daily wholesale selling prices per pound (using the mid-point of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter at Chicago as reported by the Department during the month, dividing the resulting sum by 10, and rounding to the nearest one-tenth of a cent.

§ 919.82 Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as the "producer-settlement fund," into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers pursuant to §§ 919.83 and 919.85, and out of which he shall make all payments pursuant to §§ 919.84 and 919.85.

§ 919.83 Payments to the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 13th day after the end of the month during which the milk was received, each handler, including a cooperative association which is a handler, shall pay to the market administrator the amount, if any by which the value of the milk received by such handler from producers as determined pursuant to § 919.70 is greater than the amount required to be paid producers by such handler pursuant to § 919.80.

§ 919.84 Payments out of the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 14th day after the end of the month during which the milk was received, the market administrator shall pay to each handler, including a cooperative association which is a handler, the amount, if any, by which the value of the milk received by such handler from producers during the month as determined pursuant to § 919.70 is less than the amount required to be paid producers by such handler pursuant to § 919.80: Provided, That if the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make all payments pursuant to this paragraph, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly such payments and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds are available.

§ 919.85 Fall incentive payment. On or before the 15th day after the end of each of the months of August, September and October, the market administrator shall pay out of the producer-settlement fund to each producer from whom milk was received by handlers during the month, an amount computed as follows:

(a) Divide one-third of the total amount held pursuant to § 919.71 (b) by the total hundredweight of producer milk received by all handlers during the month and multiply the resulting amount (computed to the nearest cent per hundredweight) by the hundredweight of milk received from each such producer during the month: Provided, That payment under this paragraph due any producer who has given authority to a cooperative association to receive payments for his milk shall be distributed to such cooperative association if the cooperative association requests receipt of such payment.

§ 919.86 Adjustment of accounts. Whenever audit by the market administrator of any handler's reports, books, records, or accounts discloses errors resulting in money due:

(a) The market administrator from such handler;

(b) Such handler from the market administrator; or,

(c) Any producer or cooperative association from such handler, the market administrator shall promptly notify such handler of any amount so due and payment thereof shall be made on or before the next date for making payments set forth in the provisions under which error occurred.

§ 919.87 Marketing services. (a) Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, each handler, in making payments to producers (other than himself) pursuant to § 919.80, shall deduct 6 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as may be prescribed by the Secretary, and shall pay such deductions to the market administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of each month. Such moneys shall be used by the market administrator to sample, test, and check the weights of milk received and to provide producers with market information.

(b) In the case of producers for whom a cooperative association is actually performing the services set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, each handler shall make, in lieu of the deduction specified in paragraph (a) of this section such deductions from the payments to be made to such producers as may be authorized by the membership agreement or marketing contract between such cooperative association and such producers on or before the 15th day after the end of each month pay such deduction to the cooperative association rendering such services identified by a statement showing for each such producer the information required to be reported to the market administrator pursuant to § 919.31 in lieu of such statement a handler may authorize the market administrator to furnish such cooperative association the information with respect to such producers reported pursuant to § 919.31.

§ 919.88 Expenses of administration. As his pro rata share of the expense of administration of this subpart, each handler shall pay to the market administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of the month, 5 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as the Secretary may prescribe with respect to all receipts within the month of (a) other source milk which is classified as Class I, and (b) milk from producers including such handler's own production.

§ 919.89 Termination of obligation. The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this subpart for the payment of money.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this subpart shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market Administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and,

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to an association of producers, the name of such producer(s) or association of producers, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this subpart, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books and records required by this subpart to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this subpart to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this subpart shall terminate two years after the end of the month during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the month during which the payment (including deduction or setoff by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler, within the applicable period of time, files, pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

EFFECTIVE TIME, SUSPENSION OR TERMINATION

§ 919.100 Effective time. The provisions of this subpart, or of any amendment to this subpart, shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated, pursuant to § 919.101.

§ 919.101 Suspension or termination. The Secretary may suspend or terminate this subpart or any provision of this subpart whenever he finds this subpart or any provision of this subpart obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. This subpart shall terminate in any event whenever the provisions of the act authorizing it ceases to be in effect.

§ 919.102 Continuing obligations. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this subpart, there are any obligations under this subpart the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any person (including the market administrator), such further acts shall be performed notwithstanding such suspension or termination.

§ 919.103 Liquidation. Upon the suspension or termination of the provisions of this subpart except this section, the market administrator, or such other liquidating agent as the Secretary may designate, shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, dispose of all property in his possession or control, including accounts receivable, and execute and deliver all assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to effectuate any such disposition. If a liquidating agent is so designated, all assets, books, and records of the market administrator shall be transferred promptly to such liquidating agent. If, upon such liquidation, the funds on hand exceed the amounts required to pay outstanding obligations of the office of the market administrator and to pay necessary expenses of liquidation and distribution, such excess shall be distributed to contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 919.110 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this subpart.

HANDLING OF MILK IN NEOSHO VALLEY MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND PROPOSED ORDER, AMENDING ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Pittsburg, Kansas, on September 1–4, 1953, pursuant to notices thereof which were issued on August 18, 1953, and August 21, 1953 (18 F. R. 4995, 5122).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on January 11, 1954, issued his recommended decision and opportunity to file exceptions thereto with respect to a certain issue of such hearing, which was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on January 15, 1954 (19 F. R. 269).

The material issues, findings and conclusions, and general findings of the aforesaid recommended decision are hereby adopted as the issues, findings and conclusions, and general findings of this decision as if set forth in full herein, except as follows:

1. Delete the following from the third paragraph in the second column of 19 F. R. 269: "The period for which returns to producers are made under the base-excess plan should be extended to include the months of March, July, and August in addition to the months of April, May, and June".

The above material to be deleted is not germane to the issue considered at that point of the decision. In substance it is included elsewhere in the decision.

Ruling on exceptions. Within the period reserved for filing exceptions to the recommended decision, exceptions were submitted on behalf of certain interested parties. Such exceptions have been fully considered and to the extent that the findings and conclusions of this decision are at variance with any exceptions, such exceptions are hereby overruled.

Determination of representative period. The month of December 1953 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of an order amending the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Neosho Valley marketing area in the manner set forth in the attached amending order is approved or favored by producers who, during such period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in such order, as amended.

Marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Neosho Valley Marketing Area," and "Order Amending the Order, as amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Neosho Valley Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order as hereby proposed to be amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 12th day of February 1954.

[SEAL] JOHN H. DAVIS,
Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Neosho Valley Marketing Area

§ 928.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of each of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Neosho Valley marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity, specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Neosho Valley marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and the aforesaid order, as amended, is hereby further amended as follows:

1. In § 928.7 delete the parenthetical phrase "(including plant stores)," and substitute therefor the parenthetical phrase "(including routes operated by vendors and disposition at plant stores)".

2. In § 928.8 delete the parenthetical phrase "(including plant stores)" and substitute therefor the parenthetical phrase "(including routes operated by vendors and disposition at plant stores)".

3. Delete § 928.10 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 928.10 Producer-handler. "Producer-handler" means any person who, with the approval of any health authority having jurisdiction in the marketing area, processes milk from his own farm production and disposes of all or a portion of such milk as Class I milk within the marketing area, but who receives no milk from producers.

4. In § 928.22 (h) delete the words "within 10 days".

5. In § 928.22 (i) delete "11th day" and substitute therefor "12th day".

6. In § 928.22 (j) (2) delete "11th day" and substitute therefor "12th day".

7. Delete § 928.61 and substitute therefor the following:

Five of the members and their respective alternates shall be growers who shall not be handlers or employees of handlers. The five members of the committee who shall be growers and who shall not be handlers, or employees of handlers, are hereinafter referred to as "grower" members of the committee; and the four members who shall be handlers, or employees of handlers, are hereinafter referred to as "handler" members of the committee. Four of the five grower members shall be producers of avocados in District 1, and one grower member shall be a producer of avocados in District 2. § 969.21 Term of office. The term of office of each member and alternate member of the committee shall begin April 1, and shall terminate March 31 of the following year. Members and alternate members shall serve in such capacities for the portion of the term of office for which they are selected and qualify and until their respective successors are selected and have qualified. The consecutive terms of office of members shall be limited to three terms.

§ 969.22 Nomination—(a) Initial members. Nominations for each of the five initial grower members and four initial handler members of the committee, together with nominations for the initial alternate members for each position, may be submitted to the Secretary by growers and handlers. The names of at least two nominees should be submitted for each member or alternate member position to be filled. Such nominations may be made by means of group meetings of the growers and handlers concerned in each district. Such nominations, if made, shall be filed with the Secretary no later than ten calendar days prior to the effective date hereof. In the event nominations for initial members and alternate members of the committee are not filed pursuant to, and within the time specified in, this section, the Secretary may select such initial members and alternate members without regard to nominations, but selections shall be on the basis of the representation provided for in § 969.20.

(b) Successor members. (1) Nominations for successor members of the committee, and their respective alternates, shall be made at meetings of growers and handlers in each district. Such meetings shall be held at such times (on or before February 15 of each year) and

(2) Only growers who are present at such nomination meetings, or represented at such nomination meetings by a duly authorized agent, shall participate in the nomination and election of nominees for grower members and their alternates. Each grower shall be entitled to cast only one vote for each nominee to be elected in the district in which he produces avocados. No grower shall participate in the election of nominees in more than one district in any one fiscal year.

No handler shall participate in the election of nominees in more than one district in any one fiscal year.

§ 969.23 Selection. From the nominations made pursuant to § 969.22, or from other qualified persons, the Secretary shall select the five grower members of the committee, the four handler members of the committee, and an alternate for each such member.

§ 969.27 Alternate members. An alternate member of the committee, during the absence or at the request of the member for whom he is an alternate, shall act in the place and stead of such member. In the event of the death, removal, resignation, or disqualification of a member, his alternate shall act for him until a successor for such member is selected and has qualified.

§ 969.28 Powers. The committee shall have the following powers:

(a) To administer the provisions of this part in accordance with its terms;

(b) To receive, investigate, and report to the Secretary complaints of violations of the provisions of this part;

(c) To make and adopt rules and regulations to effectuate the terms and provisions of this part; and

(d) To recommend to the Secretary amendments to this part.

§ 969.29 Duties. The committee shall have the following duties:

(a) To select a chairman and such other officers as may be necessary, and to define the duties of such officers;

(b) To appoint such employees, agents, and representatives as it may deem necessary, and to determine the compensation and to define the duties of each;

(c) To submit to the Secretary at the beginning of each fiscal year a budget for such fiscal year, including a report in explanation of the items appearing therein and a recommendation as to the rate of assessment for such fiscal year;

(d) To keep minutes, books, and records which will reflect all of the acts and transactions of the committee and which shall be subject to examination by the Secretary;

(e) To prepare periodic statements of the financial operation of the committee and to make copies of each such statement available to growers and handlers for examination at the office of the committee;

(f) To cause its books to be audited by a certified public accountant at least once each fiscal year, and at such other times at the Secretary may request;

(g) To act as intermediary between the Secretary and any grower or handler;

(h) To investigate growing and maturity conditions of avocados, and to assemble data in connection therewith;

(i) To engage in such research relating to the determination of maturity and grade standards for avocados as may be approved by the Secretary;

(j) To submit to the Secretary such available information as he may request;

(k) To notify producers and handlers of meetings of the committee to consider recommendations for regulation;

(l) To consult with such representatives of growers or groups of growers as may be deemed necessary and to pay the travel expenses incurred by such representatives in attending committee meetings at the request of the committee: Provided, That the committee shall not pay the travel expenses of more than three such representatives in connection with any one meeting of the committee; and

(m) To investigate compliance with the provisions of this part.

§ 969.30 Procedure. (a) Five of the committee shall constitute a quorum and any action of the committee shall require at least four concurring votes: Provided, That at least one grower member and at least one handler member shall approve the action.

(b) The committee may vote by telegraph, telephone, or other means of communication, and any votes so cast shall be confirmed promptly in writing: Provided, That if an assembled meeting is held, all votes shall be cast in person.

§ 969.31 Expenses and compensation. The members of the committee, and their respective alternates when acting as members, shall be reimbursed for expenses necessarily incurred by them in the performance of their duties under this part and shall receive compensation at a rate to be determined by the committee, which rate shall not exceed $10 per day or portion thereof spent in performing such duties.

§ 969.32 Annual report. The committee shall, prior to March 31 of each fiscal year, prepare and mail an annual report to the Secretary, and to each handler and grower who requests a copy of the report. This annual report shall contain at least: (a) A complete review, by districts, of the regulatory operations during the fiscal year; (b) an appraisal of the effect of such regulatory operations upon the avocado industry; and (c) recommendations for changes in the program.

§ 969.40 Expenses. The committee is authorized to incur such expenses as the Secretary finds are reasonable and may be necessary to enable the committee to exercise its powers and perform its duties in accordance with the provisions of this part during each fiscal year. The funds to cover such expenses shall be acquired by the levying of assessments as provided for in § 969.41.

§ 969.41 Assessments. (a) Each person who first handles avocados shall, with respect to the avocados so handled by him, pay to the committee such person's pro rata share of the expenses which the Secretary finds will be incurred by the committee during each fiscal year. Each such person's share of such expenses shall be equal to the ratio between the total quantity of avocados handled by him as the first handler thereof during the applicable fiscal year, and the total quantity of avocados so handled by all persons during the same fiscal year. The payment of assessments for the maintenance and functioning of the committee may be required under this part throughout the period it is in effect irrespective of whether particular provisions thereof are suspended or become inoperative.

(b) The Secretary shall fix the rate of assessment to be paid by each such person. At any time during or after the fiscal year, the Secretary may increase the rate of assessment in order to secure sufficient funds to cover any later finding by the Secretary relative to the expense which may be incurred: Provided, That, in no case, shall the rate of assessment exceed ten cents per 55-pound box, or an equivalent quantity, of avocados. Such increase shall be applied to all avocados handled during the applicable fiscal year. In order to provide funds for the administration of the provisions of this part, the committee may accept the payment of assessments in advance, and may borrow money in any amount not to exceed 10 percent of the estimated expenses set forth in its budget for the then current fiscal year.

§ 969.42 Accounting. (a) If, at the end of a fiscal year, the assessments collected are in excess of the expenses incurred, each person entitled to a proportionate refund of the excess assessment shall be credited with such refund against the operations of the following fiscal year. Any handler may demand payment of such a refund, and the refund shall be paid to him: Provided, That any sum paid by a person in excess of his pro rata share of the expenses during any fiscal year may be applied by the committee at the end of such fiscal year to any outstanding obligations due the committee from such person.

(b) All funds received by the committee pursuant to the provisions of this part shall be used solely for the purposes specified in this part, and shall be accounted for in the manner provided in this part. The Secretary may, at any time, require the committee and its members to account for all receipts and disbursements.

REGULATIONS

§ 969.50 Recommendations for regulations. (a) Whenever the committee deems it advisable to regulate the shipment of any variety or varieties of avocados grown in District 1 or District 2 in the manner provided in § 969.51, it shall so recommend to the Secretary.

(b) All meetings of the committee held for the purpose of formulating recommendations for regulations shall be open to growers and handlers. The committee shall give notice of such meetings by publication in such newspapers as it deems appropriate and shall also mail a notice of such meetings to each grower and handler who has filed his address with the committee and requested such notice.

§ 969.51 Issuance of regulations. (a) The Secretary shall regulate the shipment of avocados whenever he finds, from the recommendations and information submitted by the committee or from other available information, that such regulations will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. Such regulations may:

(1) Prohibit, prior to such time as shall be specified in such regulations, the shipment of any size or sizes of any variety or varieties of avocados grown in District 1 or District 2, or

(2) Limit the shipment of any variety or varieties of avocados grown in District 1 or District 2 to those avocados which meet such quality or maturity standards as shall be prescribed in such regulations.

(b) The committee shall be informed immediately of any such regulations issued by the Secretary and the committee shall promptly give notice thereof to growers and handlers.

§ 969.52 Modification, suspension, or termination of regulations. (a) In the event the committee at any time finds that, by reason of changed conditions, any regulations issued pursuant to § 969.51 should be modified, suspended or terminated, it shall so recommend to the Secretary.

(b) Whenever the Secretary finds, from the recommendations and information submitted by the committee or from other available information, that a regulation should be modified, suspended, or terminated with respect to any or all shipments of avocados in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall modify, suspend, or terminate such regulation. If the Secretary finds that a regulation obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall suspend or terminate such regulation. On the same basis and in like manner the Secretary may terminate any such modification or suspension.

§ 969.53 Exemption certificate. Whenever a regulation is in effect pursuant to paragraph (a) (1) of § 969.51, the committee shall issue one or more exemption certificates to any grower who furnishes proof, satisfactory to the committee, that his avocados are mature. Such exemption certificates shall authorize the grower to whom the certificates are issued to ship, or have shipped, that portion of his production of the particular variety of avocados which is determined to be mature prior to the time that such avocados could be shipped under the then effective regulation. The committee shall adopt, with the approval of the Secretary, procedural rules by which such exemption certificates will be issued to growers. Such exemption certificates may be transferred to handlers when accompanied by the avocados covered by such certificate.

§ 969.54 Inspection and certification. Whenever the shipment of any variety of avocados is regulated pursuant to § 969.51, each handler who first ships avocados shall, prior to making each such shipment, cause such avocados to be inspected, by the State or Federal-State Inspection Service or such agency as the committee may designate with the approval of the Secretary, to determine whether they meet the requirements of such regulation. Promptly thereafter, each such handler shall submit, or cause to be submitted, to the committee a copy of the certificate of inspection with respect to such shipment. Inspection certificates shall accompany all shipments to designated points.

SUPPLEMENT TO REGULATIONS

§ 969.55 Avocados not subject to regulations. Except as otherwise provided in this section, any person may, without regard to the provisions of §§ 969.41, 969.51, and 969.54, and the regulations issued thereunder, handle avocados (a) for consumption by charitable institutions; (b) for distribution by relief agencies; (c) for export other than to Canada; (d) for commercial processing into products; or (e) in such minimum quantities or types of shipment as the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may prescribe. The committee shall, with the approval of the Secretary, prescribe such rules, regulations, and safeguards as it may deem necessary to prevent avocados shipped under the provisions of this section from entering channels of trade for other than the specific purposes authorized by this section. Such rules, regulations, and safeguards may include the requirements that handlers shall file applications with the committee for authorization to ship avocados pursuant to this section, and that such applications be accompanied by a certification by the intended purchaser or receiver that the avocados will not be used for any purpose not authorized by this section.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 969.60 Reports. Upon request of the committee, made with the approval of the Secretary, each handler shall furnish to the committee, in such manner and at such times as it may prescribe, such information as will enable the committee to perform its duties under this part.

§ 969.61 Compliance. Except as provided in this part, no person shall handle avocados, the shipment of which have been prohibited by the Secretary in accordance with the provisions of this part; and no person shall handle avocados except in conformity with the provisions of this part and the regulations issued under this part.

§ 969.62 Right of the Secretary. The members of the committee (including successors and alternates), and any agents, employees, or representatives thereof, shall be subject to removal or suspension by the Secretary at any time. Each and every regulation, decision, determination, or other act of the committee shall be subject to the continuing right of the Secretary to disapprove of the same at any time. Upon such disapproval, the disapproved action of the committee shall be deemed null and void, except as to acts done in reliance thereon or in accordance therewith prior to such disapproval by the Secretary.

§ 969.63 Effective time. The provisions of this part shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare above his signature to this part, and shall continue in force until terminated in one of the ways specified in § 969.64.

§ 969.64 Termination. (a) The Secretary may at any time terminate the provisions of this part by giving at least one day's notice by means of a press release or in any other manner in which he may determine.

(b) The Secretary shall terminate or suspend the operation of any and all of the provisions of this part whenever he finds that such provisions do not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(c) The Secretary shall terminate the provisions of this part at the end of any fiscal year whenever he finds that continuance is not favored by the majority of producers who, during a representative period determined by the Secretary, were engaged in the production of avocados covered hereunder for market: Provided, That such termination is announced on or before March 15 of the then current fiscal year. The Secretary shall, as soon as practicable after the close of the fiscal year ending March 31, 1956, conduct a referendum of producers and a poll of handlers to determine whether the continuation of this part is favored by them. Producers entitled to vote in such referendum shall be those who, during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1956, were engaged in producing avocados covered hereunder for market and the poll shall be confined to handlers who handled such avocados in that same fiscal year. If it develops from said referendum and poll that (1) less than two-thirds of the producers, by number or volume of production represented in said referendum, favor the continuance of this part, or (2) handlers representing more than one-half the volume of avocados handled favor termination of this part, the Secretary shall thereupon terminate this part.

(d) The provisions of this part shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing them cease to be in effect.

§ 969.65 Proceedings after termination. (a) Upon the termination of the provisions of this part, the committee shall, for the purpose of liquidating the affairs of the committee, continue as trustees of all the funds and property then in its possession, or under its control, including claims for any funds unpaid or property not delivered at the time of such termination.

(b) The said trustee shall (1) continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary; (2) from time to time account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all property on hand, together with all books and records of the committee and of the trustees, to such persons as the Secretary may direct; and (3) upon the request of the Secretary, execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person, full title and right to all of the funds, property, and claims vested in the committee or the trustees pursuant thereto.

(c) Any person to whom funds, property, or claims have been transferred or delivered, pursuant to this section, shall be subject to the same obligation imposed upon the committee and upon the trustees.

§ 969.66 Effect of termination or amendment. Unless otherwise expressly provided by the Secretary, the termination of this part or of any regulation issued pursuant to this part, or the issuance of any amendment to either thereof, shall not (a) effect or waive any right, duty, obligation, or liability which shall have arisen or which may thereafter arise in connection with any provision of this part or any regulation issued under this part, or (b) release or extinguish any violation of this part or of any regulation issued under this part, or (c) effect or impair any rights or remedies of the Secretary or of any other person with respect to any such violation.

§ 969.67 Duration of immunities. The benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred upon any person by virtue of this part shall cease upon its termination, except with respect to acts done under and during the existence of this part.

§ 969.68 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States, or name any agency or division in the United States Department of Agriculture, to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this part.

§ 969.69 Derogation. Nothing contained in this part is, or shall be construed to be, in derogation or in modification of the rights of the Secretary or of the United States (a) to exercise any powers granted by the act or otherwise, or (b) in accordance with such powers, to act in the premises whenever such action is deemed advisable.

§ 969.70 Personal liability. No member or alternate member of the committee and no employee or agent of the committee shall be held personally responsible, either individually or jointly with others, in any way whatsoever, to any person for errors in judgment, mistakes, or other acts, either of commission or omission, as such member, alternate, employee, or agent, except for acts of dishonesty, willful misconduct, or gross negligence.

§ 969.71 Separability. If any provision of this part is declared invalid or the applicability thereof to any person, circumstance, or thing is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this part or the applicability thereof to any other person, circumstance, or thing shall not be affected thereby.

§ 969.72 Counterparts. * This agreement may be executed in multiple counterparts and when one counterpart is signed by the Secretary, all such counterparts shall constitute, when taken together, one and the same instrument as if all signatures were contained in one original.

§ 969.73 Additional parties. * After the effective date of this part, any handler may become a party to this agreement if a counterpart is executed by him and delivered to the Secretary. This agreement shall take effect as to such new contracting party at the time such counterpart is delivered to the Secretary, and the benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred by this agreement shall then be effective as to such new contracting party.

§ 969.74 Order with Marketing Agreement. * Each signatory handler hereby requests the Secretary to issue, pursuant to the act, an order providing for the regulating of the handling of avocados in the manner as is provided for in this agreement.

[47 CFR Parts 7, 8]

[Docket No. 10904]

STATIONS ON LAND AND SHIPBOARD IN THE MARITIME SERVICE

FREQUENCIES NOT OPEN TO PUBLIC CORRESPONDENCE

In the matter of amendment of Parts 7 and 8 of the Commission's rules regarding eligibility for licenses for coast and ship stations operating on frequencies not open to public correspondence; Docket No. 10904.

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. Parts 7 and 8 of the Commission's rules make certain frequencies available, primarily in the band 152–162 Mc., which are not open to public correspondence but intended solely for business and operational purposes. The availability of these frequencies was predicated, among other things, upon the premise that the public interest would be better served if the assignment of such frequencies was limited to persons engaged in the business or operation to which radio was an adjunct rather than by third persons in the business of providing radiocommunications. Because a question has arisen as to whether or not these third persons might not also be assigned these frequencies to furnish the intended service, it is proposed to amend Part 8 of the Commission's rules to specifically preclude this possibility and insure that control and operation of radiocommunications systems aboard ships utilizing these frequencies will be vested in persons actually engaged in the business of operating vessels rather than in the business of furnishing communications. Specifically, rules governing eligibility for assignment of these frequencies would be established paralleling those set forth in § 7.351 of the rules which govern eligibility for limited coast stations.

3. Although Part 7 of the rules governing eligibility for assignment of these same frequencies now contain provision limiting eligibility as proposed in the preceding paragraph, it is believed to be desirable to clarify § 7.351 (a) (4) in this regard. This section was intended solely to accommodate an existing ship arrival and departure service rendered by the Western Union Telegraph Company. However, the provisions of the section may be read as going beyond this purpose. Therefore, it is proposed to amend the section so as to confine its scope accordingly but without disturbing the service now rendered by Western Union.

4. These proposals are issued under authority of sections 303 (a), (b), (c), and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

5. Any interested person may file with the Commission, on or before March 22, 1954, a written statement or brief in support of, or in opposition to, the proposed amendment. Comments or briefs in reply to the original comments or briefs may be filed within five days from the last day for filing the original comments or briefs. The Commission will consider all comments, briefs, and statements before taking final action.

6. In accordance with § 1.784 of the Commission's rules relating to practice and procedure, an original and 14 copies of all statements, briefs, or comments should be furnished to the Commission.

Adopted: February 10, 1954.

Released: February 11, 1954.

PRODUCERS LIVESTOCK COOPERATIVE ASSOCIATION STOCK YARDS, MT. VERNON, OHIO

DEPOSTING OF STOCKYARDS

It has been ascertained that the Producers Livestock Cooperative Association Stock Yards, Mt. Vernon, Ohio, originally posted under the name Mt. Vernon Live Stock Company Stock Yards on May 15, 1935 (changed to Producers Livestock Cooperative Association Stock Yards on September 1, 1945), as being subject to the Packers and Stockyards Act, 1921, as amended (7 U. S. C. 181 et seq.), no longer comes within the definition of a stockyard under said act. The owners of such livestock market have discontinued operating a public stockyard at the place at Mt. Vernon, Ohio, originally posted. Therefore, notice is given to the owners of the stockyard and to the public that such livestock market is no longer subject to the provisions of the act.

Notice of public rule making has not preceded promulgation of the foregoing rule since it is found that the giving of such notice would prevent the due and timely administration of the Packers and Stockyards Act and would, therefore, be impractical. There is no legal warrant or justification for not depositing promptly a stockyard which no longer is within the definition of that term continued in said act.

The foregoing is in the nature of a rule granting an exemption or relieving a restriction and, therefore, may be made effective in less than 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER. This notice shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, the lands hereinafter described, so far as they are withdrawn or reserved for power purposes, are hereby opened to disposition under the public-land laws, subject to the provisions of section 24 of the Federal Power Act of June 10, 1920 (41 Stat. 1075; 16 U. S. C. 818), as amended:

Determination No.	Type of withdrawal and date	Type of restoration	Description of lands
DA-323—Colorado....	Power site reserve No. 81, July 2, 1910.	Under the applicable public land laws.	T. 3 S., R. 73 W., 6th P. M. Colorado, Sec. 31, Lots 3, 4, E½SW¼, and unsurveyed.

No applications for these lands will be allowed under the homestead, desert-land, or any other non-mineral public land law, except as hereinafter provided, until the lands have been surveyed and have been classified as valuable or suitable for the purpose for which the land is sought. This tract is mostly steep and rocky and cannot be classified as suitable for homestead or desert-land use.

The lands described shall be subject to application by the State of Colorado for a period of ninety days from the date of publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER for rights-of-way for public highways or as a source of material for the construction and maintenance of such highways, as provided by section 24 of the Federal Power Act, as amended.

This order shall not otherwise become effective to change the status of such land until 10:00 a. m. on the 91st day after the date of publication. At that time the above-described land in DA-323 shall become subject to application, petition, location, and selection, subject to valid existing rights, the provisions of existing withdrawals, the requirements of applicable laws, and the 90-day preference-right filing period for veterans and others entitled to preference under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. COLORADO

RESTORATION ORDER NO. 18 (R-IV) UNDER FEDERAL POWER ACT

FEBRUARY 5, 1954.

Pursuant to the following-listed determinations of the Federal Power Commission, and in accordance with Order No. 427, section 2.22 (a) (4) of the Director, Bureau of Land Management, approved August 16, 1950 (15 F. R. 5641), it is ordered as follows:

Subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, the lands hereinafter described, so far as they are withdrawn or reserved for power purposes, are hereby opened to disposition under the public land laws as provided below, subject to the provisions of section 24 of the Federal Power Act of June 10, 1920 (41 Stat. 1075; 16 U. S. C. 818) as amended, and subject to the stipulation that, if and when the lands are required in whole or in part for purposes of power development, any structures or improvements placed thereon which shall be found to interfere with such development shall be removed or relocated so as to eliminate interference without cost or expense to the United States, its permittees or licensees:

Determination No.	Type of withdrawal	Type of restoration	Description of lands
DA-326—Colorado.....	Power site reserve No. 116, July 2, 1910	Under the applicable public land laws.	T. 4 S., R. 83 W., 6th P. M. Colorado, Sec. 19, Lot 1.
DA-322—Colorado.....	Temporary power site reserve No. 78.	Under the applicable land laws.	T. 1 S., R. 71 W., 6th P. M. Colorado, Tracts 56, 57, 58.
DA-306—Colorado.....	Power site reserve No. 116.	....do.....	T. 4 S., R. 93 W., 6th P. M. Colorado, Sec. 7, Lot 1.
DA-325—Colorado.....	Power site reserve.....	....do.....	T. 4 S., R. 84 W., 6th P. M. Colorado, Sec. 24, Lot 1.
DA-278—Colorado.....	Power site reserve Nos. 116 and 244.	....do.....	T. 4 S., R. 86 W., 6th P. M. Colorado, Sec. 9, Lots 18, 23, 25.

The lands in the above determinations are primarily suitable for grazing but, with the exception of the land in DA-278, each tract contains some land possibly suitable for small tract purposes. No application under either of the public-land laws will be allowed until the small tract values have been appraised and the method of disposal determined.

The tract in DA-278 is mostly rough and steep and is primarily suitable for grazing. None of the land described in this order will be subject to occupancy or disposition until it has been classified, and it is unlikely that the tract in DA-278 will be classified as suitable for homestead, desert-land, or small-tract use.

The lands described shall be subject to application by the State of Colorado for a period of ninety days from the date of publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER for rights-of-way, for public highways, or as a source of material for the construction and maintenance of such highways, as provided by section 24 of the Federal Power Act, as amended.

This order shall not otherwise become effective to change the status of such land until 10:00 a. m. on the 91st day after the date of publication. At that time all of the above described lands shall become subject to application, petition, location, and selection, subject to valid existing rights, the provisions of existing withdrawals, the requirements of applicable laws, and the 90-day preference-right filing period for veterans and others entitled to preference under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

MOTIONS COMMISSIONER

DELEGATION OF AUTHORITY TO ACT UPON REQUESTS FOR LEAVE TO FILE ADDITIONAL PLEADINGS

1. The Commission has under consideration § 1.730 of its rules and regulations relating to practice and procedure, which provides for the filing of oppositions to petitions.

2. The Commission has been concerned with the frequent instances in which multifarious and repetitive pleadings are being filed in proceedings before it, increasing substantially the delay and complexity in the Commission's consideration of such matters. It is believed that in many instances such pleadings are totally unnecessary to the disposition of the matter.

3. Section 1.730 of the rules presently provides merely that oppositions to petitions, except as otherwise provided, must be filed within 10 days after such petition is filed with the Commission. The rules do not refer to the filing of any additional pleadings. In order to expedite the consideration of matters before the Commission, § 1.730 is being amended to provide that oppositions to petitions may be filed within 10 days after such petitions are filed with the Commission and that replies to such oppositions may be filed within 5 days after the filing of such opposition. Section 1.730 is being further amended to provide expressly that no other pleadings may be filed unless (1) specifically requested by the Commission or (2) leave to file such additional pleadings is granting by the Motions Commissioner upon a showing of good cause. Section 0.112 of the Commission's rules relating to delegation of authority to the Motions Commissioner is being amended to add subsection (g) which will delegate to the Motions Commissioner authority to act upon requests for leave to file additional pleadings pursuant to § 1.730 as amended. It should be noted that the amendment to § 1.730 does not alter the provisions of §§ 1.744 and 1.745 which apply to the Commission's motions practice and specify that action on such motions may be taken four days after such motions have been filed with the Commission.

4. The problem of repetitive pleadings also arises in rule-making proceedings before the Commission. In general, the Commission in its notices instituting rule-making proceedings specifies the dates by which comments and replies to such comments may be filed. It has been the Commission's experience that numerous additional pleadings, in many cases totally unnecessary to the disposition of the matter, are submitted, merely adding to the complexity and delay in the consideration of the problems presented. Accordingly, the Commission in future notices of proposed rule making will, in addition to specifying the dates by which comments and replies to such comments may be filed, provide further that no additional comments may be filed unless (1) specifically requested by the Commission or (2) good cause for the filing of such additional comments is established. Requests for leave to file additional pleadings in rule-making cases will be directed to the full Commission rather than the Motions Commissioner as provided above in connection with the amendment of § 1.730.

5. The amendments adopted are procedural in nature or related to the internal organization of the Commission and, therefore, prior notice of proposed rule making is unnecessary. It is believed that the public interest would be served by making such amendments effective February 17, 1954: Provided, however, That the amendment does not apply to pleadings already on file with the Commission.

6. Authority for the adoption of the amendments is contained in sections 4 (i) and 303 (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

It is ordered, That, effective February 17, 1954, section 0.112 of the Commission's Rules is amended by adding subsection (g) as follows:

(g) Requests for leave to file additional pleadings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.730 of the Commission's Rules and Regulations.

Adopted: February 10, 1954.

Released: February 11, 1954.

NEW YORK STATE NATURAL GAS CORP.

ORDER CONSOLIDATING PROCEEDINGS AND FIXING DATE OF HEARING

The above-entitled proceedings concern changes proposed by New York State Natural Gas Corporation (Applicant) to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volumes Nos. 1 and 2, involving increased rates and other tariff changes embodied in filings made on January 15 and October 21, 1953, which the Commission, by orders heretofore issued in the respective proceedings, pursuant to sections 4, 15 and 16 of the Natural Gas Act, suspended and set for hearing concerning their lawfulness.

On November 16 and 17, 1953, Applicant presented its direct case in Docket No. G-2119, after which the hearing was recessed until February 1, 1954, when a recess to March 23, 1954, was granted by the Presiding Examiner, on motion of Commission Staff Counsel for not only such recess but also for consolidation of the proceeding in Docket No. G-2119, for purposes of hearing, with the proceeding in Docket No. G-2315, the latter already being set for hearing on March 23, 1954.

No objection has been interposed to the requested procedure, which, in the circumstances, appears appropriate, reasonable, and in the public interest in carrying out the provisions of the Natural Gas Act.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Company by sections 4, 15, and 16 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's general rules and regulations, including rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR Chapter I), the proceedings in the above-entitled Docket Nos. G-2119 and G-2315 be and the same are hereby consolidated for the purpose of hearing; and, further, that such hearing be held commencing on March 23, 1954, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved and the issues presented in the above-entitled proceedings.

(B) That at the consolidated hearing, the parties, including Commission Staff Counsel, may reserve cross-examination until after Applicant, New York State Natural Gas Corporation, has presented and completed its case-in-chief in both Dockets G-2119 and G-2315.

(C) Applicant, on or before February 23, 1954, as heretofore provided by the Commission's order of November 19, 1953, in Docket No. G-2315, shall serve upon all parties copies of the testimony and exhibits it proposes to offer at the hearing, including five (5) copies upon Commission Staff Counsel.

(D) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR, 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

Adopted: February 10, 1954.

Issued: February 11, 1954.

[Docket Nos. G-2137, G-2366]

SOUTHERN TIER GAS CORP.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED RATE SCHEDULE, CONSOLIDATING PROCEEDINGS AND FIXING DATE OF HEARING

On January 11, 1954, Southern Tier Gas Corporation (Southern Tier) tendered for filing, pursuant to section 4 (d) of the Natural Gas Act, its proposed Third Revised Sheet No. 4 to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, proposing to increase its rates for the sale of natural gas to the Village of Bath, New York, by $18,400 annually, or 12.7 percent per year. This proposed increase is in addition to an increase of $9,800 annually presently in effect under bond in Docket No. G-2137. Southern Tier proposes February 9, 1954, as the effective date of its Third Revised Sheet No. 4.

Southern Tier bases its proposed increase in rates and charges, among other things, upon anticipated increased cost of gas purchased from its supplier, New York State Natural Gas Corporation, whose increased rates have been suspended until April 21, 1954, by order of the Commission issued in Docket No. G-2315.

Among the other items included by Southern Tier as justification for its proposed increase in rates and charges to the Village of Bath are the utilization of a 6¾ percent rate of return with corresponding income tax requirements and a depreciation reserve stated as $53,818 for rate purposes although the depreciation reserve is stated on the books of the company at $113,616.

The increased rates and charges proposed in said Third Revised Sheet No. 4 to Southern Tier's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, as tendered for filing on January 11, 1954, have not been shown to be justified and may be unjust, unreasonable, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds:

(1) It is necessary and proper in the public interest and in aid of the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that Southern Tier's Third Revised Sheet No. 4 to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, be suspended as hereinafter provided and the use thereof deferred pending hearing and decision thereon.

(2) It is reasonable and appropriate in the public interest in carrying out the provisions of the Natural Gas Act to consolidate the proceedings in Docket No. G-2137 with the proceedings involved in Southern Tier's filing of its proposed Third Revised Sheet No. 4 to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, for the purposes of hearing and decision thereon and to hold a hearing in the above-mentioned proceedings at the time and place hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) The aforesaid proceedings as noted in finding (2) above be and the same are consolidated for purposes of hearing and decision.

(B) Pursuant to the authority contained in Section 4 of the Natural Gas Act, a public hearing be held on March 29, 1954, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the lawfulness of the rates, charges, and classifications contained in Southern Tier's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, as amended by its proposed Second Revised Sheet No. 4 in Docket No. G-2137 and its proposed Third Revised Sheet No. 4 filed January 11, 1954.

(C) In the interest of expedition, Southern Tier shall, on or before March 15, 1954, serve upon all parties, copies of the proposed testimony and exhibits proposed to be offered at the hearing in the consolidated dockets, including five (5) copies upon Commission Staff Counsel.

(D) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, Southern Tier's Third Revised Sheet No. 4 to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, be and the same is hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until July 11, 1954, and until such further time thereafter as said proposed Third Revised Sheet No. 4 may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(E) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

Adopted: February 10, 1954.

Issued: February 11, 1954.

[File No. 1-781]

MAGNAVOX CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO WITHDRAW FROM LISTING AND REGISTRATION, AND OF OPPORTUNITY FOR HEARING

FEBRUARY 10, 1954.

The Magnavox Company, pursuant to section 12 (d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule X-12D2-1 (b) promulgated thereunder, has made application to the Commission to withdraw its Common Stock, $1.00 Par Value, from listing and registration on the Cincinnati Stock Exchange and on the San Francisco Stock Exchange.

The application alleges:

(1) Out of the total number of 758,680 shares of the above security outstanding, only 139 shares were traded on the Cincinnati Stock Exchange during the period from January 2, to May 31, 1953, and only 4,552 shares were traded on the San Francisco Stock Exchange during the period from January 2 to June 30, 1953.

(2) The use made by shareholders of each of the above exchanges for trading such a limited number of shares is insufficient to justify the continuance of listing and registration on these exchanges.

(4) The applicant has complied with the rules of the Cincinnati Stock Exchange and of the San Francisco Stock Exchange relating to withdrawing a security from listing and registration on each of these exchanges.

Upon receipt of a request, prior to March 10, 1954, from any interested person for a hearing in regard to terms to be imposed upon the delisting of this security, the Commission will determine whether to set the matter down for hearing. Such request should state briefly the nature of the interest of the person requesting the hearing and the position he proposes to take at the hearing with respect to imposition of terms or conditions. CENTRAL PUBLIC UTILITY CORP.

ORDER GRANTING APPLICATION PROPOSING INDIRECT ACQUISITION BY PARENT HOLDING COMPANY OF STOCK AND ASSETS OF NON-AFFILIATED BUS COMPANY

FEBRUARY 10, 1954.

Central Public Utility Corporation ("Cenpuc"), a registered holding company, having filed with this Commission an application and an amendment thereto pursuant to section 10 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") with respect to the following proposed transactions:

Cenpuc owns all of the capital stock of Carolina Coach Company ("Carolina"), a Virginia corporation and a non-utility company engaged in the motor bus transportation business in Delaware, Maryland, North Carolina, Pennsylvania and Virginia. Carolina proposes to purchase from the Norfolk Southern Railway Company ("Railway"), a non-affiliated Virginia corporation, for a total cash consideration of $498,000 subject to adjustments, the following: (1) All of the capital stock (1,760 shares) of Norfolk Southern Bus Corporation ("Bus Corporation"), a Virginia corporation and a non-utility company, for $395,000, subject to certain adjustments; (2) the open-account indebtedness of Bus Corporation to Railway in the amount of such indebtedness existing at the time the transaction set forth in item (1) above is closed, which indebtedness as at December 31, 1952, amounted to $89,000; and (3) a parcel of land consisting of 4.01 acres located in the City of Norfolk, Virginia, for $14,000.

Bus Corporation is a motor bus carrier engaged in the transportation of passengers, baggage, mail and express in Virginia and North Carolina. It owns 85 shares (50 percent) of the outstanding capital stock of Norfolk Union Bus Terminal, Inc. ("Bus Terminal"), which operates a bus terminal in Norfolk, Virginia. Carolina owns the remaining 85 shares of Bus Terminal's capital stock. As at December 31, 1952, the underlying net book worth of Bus Corporation's capital stock was $209,427.22.

The application indicates that in order to finance the proposed acquisition, Carolina will borrow $350,000 from a bank or banks. This borrowing will be evidenced by unsecured promissory notes bearing interest at a rate not in excess of 4½ percent per annum and payable in quarterly installments over a period of five years. These notes may be prepaid without penalty.

The application states that after Carolina acquires the capital stock of Bus Corporation, that company will be merged into Carolina. In connection with this merger, it is represented that the tangible property of Bus Corporation, stated on its books as at December 31, 1952, at the aggregate net amount of $405,050, will be restated on Carolina's books. On a pro forma basis as at December 31, 1952, the aggregate net amount of such property, as proposed to be restated, would have been recorded on Carolina's books at $483,492. Such restatement includes adjustments to the depreciation reserves which it is alleged are necessary to set forth properly the value of structures against which excessive depreciation has been charged and to give effect to an appreciation in the value of revenue equipment, based upon providing more equitable salvage value therefor. The amount by which the total consideration to be paid by Carolina exceeds the adjusted book value of the property of Bus Corporation will be amortized at the rate of 10 percent per year. In addition, Carolina, on the basis of its experience, proposes to reduce the depreciation rate on the structures to be acquired from 4 percent to 2½ percent and on shop and garage, furniture and office, and miscellaneous equipment from 10 percent to 5 percent. The income statement of Bus Corporation for the year ended December 31, 1952, reflects a net loss of $63,445. Based upon the proposed merger and the estimated savings which applicant claims will result from joint operations, the increase in the pro forma and adjusted net income of Carolina for that period would have been approximately $204,935.

It is represented that the transactions to be carried out by Cenpuc, Carolina and Bus Corporation are subject to the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission and that such transactions, in whole or in part, are also subject to the jurisdiction of the State Corporation Commission of Virginia and the North Carolina Utilities Commission. Cenpuc urges that because of Rule U-8 promulgated under the act, the only transactions subject to the jurisdiction of this Commission are the indirect acquisitions of securities and assets of Bus Corporation by Cenpuc.

The filing contains an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission approving and authorizing, among other things, (a) the acquisition by Carolina of (1) the stock of Bus Corporation, (2) the open-account indebtedness due from Bus Corporation to Railways, and (3) the parcel of land in Norfolk, Virginia; and (b) the issuance by Carolina of the proposed notes; said order being effective on February 11, 1954, and reserving jurisdiction over the proposed accounting entries to be made by Carolina. According to the application the North Carolina Utilities Commission has approved the proposed acquisition by Carolina of the capital stock of Bus Corporation and the subsequent merger of the two companies. It is also indicated that the State Corporation Commission of Virginia has authorized the acquisition of such stock by Carolina but has not yet authorized the proposed merger of Carolina and Bus Corporation.

The applicant states that the only expenses in connection with the transactions proposed by Cenpuc will be counsel fees estimated not to exceed $300.

This Commission having issued a notice of filing pursuant to Rule U-23 and not having received a request for a hearing thereon within the period specified in said notice or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

This Commission finding that all of the transactions proposed by Cenpuc will meet the requirements of the applicable provisions of the act and rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, provided that the prposed merger of Carolina and Bus Corporation has been authorized by the State Corporation Commission of Virginia; and further finding that it is appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said application, as amended, should be granted, subject to the condition that all requisite approvals or authorizations not yet secured from the Interstate Commerce Commission, the State Corporation Commission of Virginia and the North Carolina Utilities Commission be obtained and made a part of the record herein:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, and subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24, that the aforesaid application, as amended, be and the same hereby is granted forthwith, subject to the further condition that this order shall become effective with respect to any transaction subject to the jurisdiction of, but not yet approved or authorized by, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the State Corporation Commission of Virginia and the North Carolina Utilities Commission only upon the obtaining of the approval or authorization thereof by the regulatory commission or commissions having jurisdiction with respect thereto; appropriate evidence of which shall be filed herein within ten days after such approval or authorization has been obtained.

By the Commission.

EASTERN UTILITIES ASSOCIATES

NOTICE OF FILING REGARDING SALE OF BONDS BY NEGOTIATION AND REQUEST FOR EXEMPTION FROM COMPETITIVE BIDDING

FEBRUARY 10, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that an application-declaration has been filed with this Commission, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 (the "act"), by Eastern Utilities Associates ("EUA"), a registered holding company. EUA has designated sections 7 and 12 of the act and Rules U-42 (b) (2), U-44 and U-50 thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions, which are summarized as follows:

EUA proposes to issue and sell to institutional investors $7,000,000 principal amount of Collateral Trust Bonds, 4⅜ Percent Series, due 1978, at 100 percent of their principal amount. The bonds will bear interest at the rate of 4⅜ percent per annum and will be secured by an Indenture and Deed of Trust, dated October 1, 1953, under which EUA will pledge all voting stock, now held or hereafter acquired, of its public-utility subsidiaries, Blackstone Valley Gas and Electric Company, Brockton Edison

Company, and Fall River Electric Light Company.

EUA presently has outstanding a $9,000,000 bank note, due April 19, 1954, which was issued in connection with EUA's recent reorganization under section 11 (e) of the act. (See Holding Company Act Release No. 10040.) The proceeds from the bank borrowing were used by EUA to purchase certain shares of capital stock of Fall River Electric Light Company and to refund EUA's then existing note indebtedness of $630,000. EUA's plan of reorganization provides, among other things, for the sale of $7,000,000 of debentures or collateral trust bonds as a means of retiring that much of the existing bank loan. It is stated that the proceeds from the proposed bonds, less expenses of the transaction, will be applied toward the reduction of the bank loan note. It is further stated that EUA contemplates the sale of a sufficient number of its shares of common stock to raise approximately $2,000,000 of equity capital at the earliest practicable date but not later than October 1, 1954, market conditions for the EUA shares being favorable.

EUA has agreed that so long as any of the bonds remain outstanding, if at the end of any calendar year the consolidated common equity ratio of EUA and its subsidiaries applicable to its common shares is less than 30 percent of total consolidated capitalization, or if at the end of any calendar year the consolidated funded debt ratio is in excess of 60 percent of such total capitalization, EUA will initiate, within 90 days after the year-end figures have been determined, appropriate proceedings, to be approved by this Commission, designed to bring such equity ratio above 30 percent or such debt ratio below 60 percent as the case may be. EUA reserves the right to request the Commission for modification of such agreement if future circumstances make such action desirable.

In accordance with the provisions of the aforesaid plan, the indenture securing the proposed bonds provides for an annual sinking fund of 1 percent for the first three years, 2 percent for the second three years, 3 percent for the third three years, 4 percent for the fourth three years and 5 percent thereafter, leaving 10 percent of the issue to be retired at maturity.

EUA considers Rule U-50 applicable to the proposed sale of collateral trust bonds but has requested an exemption from the competitive requirements of said rule. In support of its requested exemption, EUA states that shortly after its plan was ordered enforced by the United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts on February 10, 1953, EUA's subsidiaries sold bonds at competitive bidding which resulted in higher costs of money than had been anticipated, due to then existing market conditions. The management of EUA was of the view, at the time, that considering then existing market conditions a material saving in financing costs and expenses could be effected through a private sale of its proposed bonds because, among other reasons, EUA had never issued any senior securities and because of the changes in its structure which had occurred in the reorganization. EUA, therefore, requested this Commission for permission to explore the possibilities of a negotiated sale which permission was granted on August 18, 1953.

The filing states that officers of EUA, after negotiation with various institutions, were unable to place its proposed bonds because of the then state of the bond market which was aggravated by a decline in the stock market. EUA, therefore, requested and received from the Commission permission to employ investment bankers to sell the bonds and, after soliciting four houses, selected Kidder, Peabody & Co., whose proposal was the most favorable, as its agent. The filing further states that thereafter the bond market improved and on November 12, 1953, the proposed bonds were placed with 16 institutional investors, subject to this Commission's approval of the terms and provisions of the sale.

The fees and expenses in connection with the issue and sale of the proposed bonds, including a finder's fee of $30,000 and legal fees of $26,615, are estimated to amount to $72,865.

It is stated that no State or Federal commission, other than this Commission, has jurisdiction over the proposed issue and sale of said bonds.

EUA requests that the Commission's order herein become effective upon the issuance thereof.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than March 1, 1954, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reason or reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date, the application-declaration, as filed or as amended, may be granted and permitted to become effective.

By the Commission.

The borrowing companies propose to issue, from time to time but not later than December 31, 1954, short-term unsecured promissory notes (a) to banks in the aggregate principal amount of $55,670,000 and (b) to NEES in the aggregate principal amount of $28,980,000 or a total of $84,650,000. Notes proposed to be issued by the borrowing companies to NEES for the purpose of prepaying then outstanding notes payable to banks, will bear interest at the same interest rate as the notes to be prepaid until the due date of the prepaid notes and thereafter at the time of issuance or at such rate plus ¼ of 1 percent depending on whether the issuer is an electric or gas company. With respect to any notes proposed to be issued by the borrowing companies to prepay then outstanding notes payable to NEES, if the interest rate for the notes proposed to be issued exceeds the interest rate on the notes proposed to be prepaid, NEES will file an amendment to the application-declaration setting forth therein the proposed amount of the note or notes and the proposed interest rate thereon which amendment will become effective five days after the filing thereof unless the Commission notifies NEES to the contrary within said five-day period.

The following table shows for each borrowing company (1) the aggregate amount of notes proposed to be issued to banks and to NEES in 1954, (2) the maximum amount of notes to be outstanding with banks and with NEES at any one time during 1954:

The proceeds to be derived from the issuance of the proposed notes will be used by the borrowing companies to pay then outstanding notes or to pay for construction expenditures. The application-declaration indicates that during 1954 certain of the borrowing companies (or a resultant company of the merger of such companies) contemplate the issuance of an aggregate amount of $22,500,000 of permanent securities. Each of the borrowing companies proposes that if any permanent financing is done before the maturity of its note indebtedness, it will apply the proceeds therefrom in reduction of, or in total payment of, such indebtedness, and the amount of authorized and unissued notes will be reduced by the amount, if any, by which such permanent financing exceeds the amount of note indebtedness then outstanding.

The following table shows for each borrowing company (a) the amount of unsecured short-term notes outstanding at January 1, 1954, and (b) the amount of promissory notes estimated to be outstanding at December 31, 1954, after giving effect to the use of the proceeds from the proposed notes and contemplated permanent financing:

The application-declaration also indicates that NEES anticipates the sale of shares of its common stock in November 1954, to realize proceeds of $11,500,000.

The joint application-declaration states that incidental services in connection with the proposed note issues will be performed at cost by New England Power Service Company, an affiliated service company, such cost being estimated not to exceed $50 for NEES and each borrowing company, or an aggregate of $1,050.

The joint application-declaration further states that no State commission and no Federal commission, other than this Commission, has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions.

NEES and the borrowing companies request that the Commission's order herein become effective forthwith upon issuance.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than February 24, 1954, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues of fact or law, if any, raised by the said joint application-declaration which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date, said joint application-declaration, as filed or as amended, may be granted and permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rule U-20 (a) and Rule U-100 thereof.

FEDERAL REGISTER

VOLUME 19 NUMBER 34

Washington, Thursday, February 18, 1954

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter I—Agricultural Marketing Service (Standards, Inspections, Marketing Practices), Department of Agriculture

Subchapter C—Regulations and Standards Under the Farm Products Inspection Act

PART 54—GRADING AND INSPECTION OF DOMESTIC RABBITS AND EDIBLE PRODUCTS THEREOF AND UNITED STATES SPECIFICATIONS FOR CLASSES, STANDARDS, AND GRADES WITH RESPECT THERETO

APPLICATION FOR INSPECTION SERVICE

The amendment to the regulations governing the grading and inspection of domestic rabbits and edible products thereof and United States specifications for classes, standards, and grades with respect thereto (7 CFR Part 54), hereinafter promulgated, is pursuant to the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.) and the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1954 (Pub. Law 156, 83d Cong., approved July 28, 1953).

The amendment prescribes the forms of application for inspection service with respect to domestic rabbits. The administrative overhead charges provided for in the application form for services previously performed are changed from 7 to 12 percent and the hourly rate for making plant surveys has been changed from $3.00 to $4.00. In addition, the amendment contains an application form for plants operating under meat inspection service which also apply for domestic rabbit inspection service. An analysis of the financial status of the inspection program indicates that these increases are needed to cover the costs of the service.

It is hereby found that it would be impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice and engage in public rule making procedure with respect to this amendment for the reasons that (1) the facts upon which the determinations with respect to charges necessary to cover the cost of the service are not available to the industry, but are peculiarly known to the Department; (2) legislation requires that the services provided under this program shall be self-supporting; (3) contracts for inspection service which are currently in effect require 30 days notice of cancellation and there is insufficient time to engage in rule making procedures prior to the effective date of this amendment; and (4) the services provided hereunder are permissive and the industry does not require additional time to make preparation for compliance with this amendment.

The amendment, hereinafter set forth, is promulgated to become effective on April 1, 1954.

The amendment is as follows:

1. Add a new Subpart C—Forms, Instructions, and Applications.

2. Under Subpart C insert new center heading "Application for Inspection Service."

3. Add new § 54.281 to read as follows:

§ 54.281 Application for inspection of domestic rabbits and edible products thereof for condition and wholesomeness.

Application is hereby made, in accordance with the applicable provisions of the regulations (7 CFR Part 54) governing the inspection of domestic rabbits and edible products thereof, for condition and wholesomeness at the following designated plant:

Name of plant _____
Street address _____
City and State _____

(a) In making this application, the applicant agrees to comply with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid regulations, (including, but not being limited to, such instructions governing inspection of products as may be issued, from time to time, by the Administrator), and the following:

(1) Payment for the full cost of the inspection service covered hereby shall be made by the applicant to the Agricultural Marketing Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, (hereinafter referred to as "AMS") not later than thirty (30) days from the date of billing. Such full costs shall comprise such of the following items as may be due and may be included, from time to time, in the invoice or invoices covering the period or periods during which the inspection service may be rendered;

(i) A charge of $75.00 for the survey (required to be made with respect to an official plant pursuant to the aforesaid regulations) made of the designated plant and its premises (but no charge for the final survey) prior to the performance, by AMS, of the inspection service covered hereby: Provided, That,

PART 55—SAMPLING, GRADING, GRADE LABELING, AND SUPERVISION OF PACKAGING OF EGGS AND EGG PRODUCTS

APPLICATION FOR GRADING SERVICE

The amendment to the regulations governing the sampling, grading, grade labeling, and supervision of packaging of eggs and egg products (7 CFR Part 55) hereinafter promulgated, is pursuant to the authority contained in the Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1954 (Pub. Law 156, 83d Cong., approved July 28, 1953). The amendment revises the application forms for grading service performed on a contract basis, by increasing the administrative service charges needed to cover administration and supervision of the grading program. The present rate of charges based on volume of product graded, survey, and installation of grader fees is increased to provide approximately 10 percent more total revenue collected. Further, provision is made for an hourly rate for services rendered which are not specifically covered in the contract. An analysis of the financial status of the grading service indicates that these increases are needed to cover the cost of the service.

It is hereby found that it would be impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice and engage in public rule making procedure with respect to this amendment for the reasons that (1) the facts upon which the determinations with respect to charges necessary to cover the cost of the service are not available to the industry, but are peculiarly known to the Department; (2) legislation requires that the services provided under this program shall be self-supporting; (3) contracts for grading service which are currently in effect require 30 days notice of cancellation and there is insufficient time to engage in rule making procedures prior to the effective date of this amendment; and (4) the services provided hereunder are permissive and the industry does not require additional time to make preparation for compliance with this amendment.

The amendment, hereinafter set forth, is promulgated to become effective on April 1, 1954.

The amendment is as follows:

1. Under Subpart B—Forms and Instructions insert new center heading "Application for grading service," following § 55.115.

2. Add new § 55.121 to read as follows:

§ 55.121 Application for grading service with respect to shell eggs.

[F. R. Doc. 54-1155; Filed, Feb. 17, 1954; 8:55 a. m.]

PART 70—GRADING AND INSPECTION OF POULTRY AND EDIBLE PRODUCTS THEREOF AND UNITED STATES CLASSES, STANDARDS, AND GRADES WITH RESPECT THERETO

APPLICATIONS FOR GRADING AND INSPECTION SERVICE

The amendment to the regulations governing the grading and inspection of poultry and edible products thereof and United States classes, standards, and grades with respect thereto (7 CFR Part 70), hereinafter promulgated, is pursuant to the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.) and the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1954 (Pub. Law 156, 83d Cong., approved July 28, 1953).

The amendment revises the application forms for grading and inspection services performed on a contract basis by increasing the administrative service charges needed to cover administration and supervision of the program. The present rate of charges based on volume of product graded, survey, and installation of grader fees will be increased to provide approximately 10 percent more total revenue collected. Further, provision is made for an hourly rate for services rendered which are not specifically covered in the grading contract. The administrative overhead charges specified in the application form for inspection service have been changed from 7 to 12 percent, the hourly rate for making plant surveys has been changed from $3.00 to $4.00, and a new application form is provided for plants operating under Meat Inspection Service that also apply for poultry inspection service. An analysis of the financial status of the grading and inspection service indicates that these increases are needed to cover the cost of the service.

It is hereby found that it would be impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice and engage in public rule making procedure with respect to this amendment for the reasons that (1) the facts upon which the determinations with respect to charges necessary to cover the cost of the service are not available to the industry, but are peculiarly known to the Department; (2) legislation requires that the services provided under this program shall be self-supporting; (3) contracts for grading and inspection service which are currently in effect require 30 days notice of cancellation and there is insufficient time to engage in rule making procedures prior to the effective date of this amendment; (4) the services provided hereunder are permissive and the industry does not require additional time to make preparation for compliance with this amendment.

The amendment, hereinafter set forth, is promulgated to become effective on April 1, 1954.

The amendment is as follows:

1. Change § 70.410 to read as follows:

§ 70.410 Application for grading service with respect to live, dressed, and ready-to-cook poultry.

Application is hereby made, in accordance with the applicable provisions of the regulations (7 CFR Part 70) governing the grading and inspection of poultry and edible products thereof and United States classes, standards, and grades with respect thereto, for grading service to be performed at the plant hereinafter designated:

(c) The applicant agrees to pay for the full cost of the grading service covered hereby to AMS at the time the respective invoices are rendered by AMS. The full costs shall comprise such of the following items as may be due and may be included, from time to time, in the invoice or invoices covering the period or periods during which the grading service may be rendered:

Accordingly, under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003), it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure with respect to the amendment are impracticable and contrary to the public interest and good cause is found for making it effective less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

By virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary by the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 507, 59 Stat. 463, as amended by 61 Stat. 11, 63 Stat. 409, 67 Stat. 389; sec. 701, 52 Stat. 1055; 21 U. R. 4376; 19 F. R. 315) are amended as indicated below:

1. Part 141 is amended by adding the following new sections:

§ 141.124 Streptomycin hydrochloride solution oral veterinary—(a) Potency. Proceed as directed in § 141.101. Its potency is satisfactory if it contains not less than 90 percent of the number of milligrams of streptomycin per milliliter that it is represented to contain.

(b) Toxicity. Proceed as directed in § 141.103.

(c) pH. Proceed as directed in § 141.106 (b).

§ 141.219 Crude chlortetracycline oral veterinary—(a) Potency. Accurately weigh approximately 3.0 grams of the sample and place in a blender jar containing 200 milliliters of an acid-acetone solution prepared with 1 part 4*N* HCl, 6 parts distilled water, and 13 parts acetone. Blend for 3 minutes. Using an aliquot of the liquid, make the proper estimated dilutions in M/10 monopotassium phosphate buffer pH 4.5, shake well, and proceed as directed in § 141.201 (a) (3). Its content of chlortetracycline is satisfactory if it contains not less than 85 percent of the number of grams that it is represented to contain.

(b) Moisture. Proceed as directed in § 141.5 (a).

2. In § 146.58 Penicillin and streptomycin * * *, paragraph (b) Packaging is amended by changing the semicolon after the word "effectiveness", in the second sentence, to a period, and inserting immediately thereafter the clause: "Unless it is intended solely for veterinary use and is conspicuously so labeled,".

Its potency is not less than 250 milligrams per milliliter. Its pH is not less than 5.0 and not more than 8.0. It is nontoxic. Each preservative, buffer substance, and stabilizing agent used, if its name is recognized in the U. S. P. or N. F., conforms to the standards prescribed therefor by such official compendium.

(b) Packaging. In all cases the immediate container shall be a tight container as defined by the U. S. P. The composition of the immediate container shall be such as will not cause any change in the strength, quality, or purity of the contents beyond any limit therefor in applicable standards, except that minor changes so caused that are normal and unavoidable in good packaging, storage, and distribution practice shall be disregarded.

(c) Labeling. Each package shall bear on the outside wrapper or container and the immediate container:

(1) The batch mark.

(2) The number of milligrams of streptomycin in each milliliter of the immediate container.

(3) The statement "Expiration date ------," the blank being filled in with the date which is 12 months after the month during which the batch was certified: Provided, however, That such expiration date may be omitted from the immediate container if such immediate container is packaged in an individual wrapper or container.

(4) The name and quantity of each preservative used.

(5) The statement "For oral veterinary use only."

(d) Request for certification; samples. (1) In addition to complying with the requirements of § 146.2, a person who requests certification of a batch shall submit with his request a statement showing the batch mark, the number of packages of each size in the batch, and the number of milligrams of streptomycin per milliliter. Such request shall be accompanied or followed by the results of tests and assays made by him on the batch for potency, toxicity, and pH.

(2) Such person shall also submit with his request, in the quantities hereinafter indicated, accurately representative samples of the following:

(i) The batch; 1 immediate container for each 5,000 immediate containers in the batch, but in no case less than 5 or more than 12 immediate containers.

(2) If the Commissioner considers that investigations other than the examination of such immediate containers are necessary to determine whether or not such batch complies with the requirements of § 146.3 for the issuance of a certificate, the cost of such investigations.

The fee prescribed by subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall accompany the request for certification unless such fee is covered by an advance deposit maintained in accordance with § 146.8 (d).

§ 146.219 Crude chlortetracycline oral veterinary—(a) Standards of identity, strength, quality, and purity. Crude chlortetracycline oral veterinary is crude chlortetracycline with suitable and harmless diluents, buffer, substances, and suspending or dispersing agents. It contains not less than 10 grams of chlortetracycline activity per pound. Its moisture content is not more than 6 percent.

(b) Packaging. In all cases the immediate container shall be a well-closed container as defined by the U. S. P. and shall be of such composition as will not cause any change in the strength, quality, or purity of the contents beyond any limit therefor in applicable standards, except that minor changes so caused that are normal and unavoidable in good packaging, storage, and distribution practice shall be disregarded. Each such container shall contain not more than 100 pounds.

(c) Labeling. Each package shall bear on its label or labeling, as hereinafter indicated, the following:

(1) On the outside wrapper or container and the immediate container:

(i) The batch mark.

(ii) The number of grams of chlortetracycline in each pound of the batch.

(iii) The statement "For oral veterinary use only."

(iv) The statement "Expiration date ------," the blank being filled in with the date which is 12 months after the month during which the batch was certified: Provided, however, That such expiration date may be omitted from the immediate container if such immediate container is packaged in an individual wrapper or container.

(2) On the circular or other labeling within or attached to the package, adequate directions and warnings for the use of such drug by the laity. Such circular or other labeling may also bear a statement that a brochure or other printed matter containing information for other veterinary uses of such drug by a veterinarian licensed by law to administer it will be sent to such veterinarian on request.

(d) Request for certification; samples. (1) In addition to complying with § 146.2, a person who requests certification of a batch shall submit with his request a statement showing the batch mark, the number of packages of each size in such batch, the number of grams of chlortetracycline in each pound of the batch, and the quantity of each other ingredient used in making the batch, the date on which the latest assay of the batch was completed. Such request shall be accompanied or followed by the results of tests and assays made by him on the batch for average potency and average moisture.

(2) Such person shall submit in connection with his request a sample of the batch consisting of 1 ounce for each 3,000 pounds in the batch, but in no case less than five 1-ounce portions or more than twelve 1-ounce portions collected by taking single 1-ounce portions at such intervals throughout the entire time of packaging the batch that the quantities packaged during the intervals are approximately equal.

(e) Fees. The fee for the services rendered with respect to each batch under the regulations in this part shall be:

(1) $4.00 for each immediate container in the sample submitted in accordance with paragraph (d) (2) of this section.

(2) If the Commissioner considers that investigations other than examination of such drug are necessary to determine whether or not such batch complies with the requirements of § 146.3 for the issuance of a certificate, the cost of such investigations.

The fee prescribed by subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall accompany the request for certification unless such fee is covered by an advance deposit maintained in accordance with § 146.8 (d).

(f) Exemption from certification of repacked crude chlortetracycline oral veterinary. Crude chlortetracycline oral veterinary shall be exempt from the requirements of sections 502 (l) and 507 of the act if it complies with all the following conditions:

(1) It has been repacked, from a batch that has been certified under the regulations in this part, for use as an ingredient in the drinking water of animals and fowl;

(2) It conforms to the standards of identity, strength, quality, and purity prescribed by paragraph (a) of this section;

(3) It is repackaged in accordance with the requirements of paragraph (b) of this section; and

(4) Its labeling bears only the indications and directions for use that were approved when the batch from which it was repacked was certified.

Notice and public procedure are not necessary prerequisites to the promulgation of this order, and I so find, since it was drawn in collaboration with interested members of the affected industry and since it would be against public interest to delay providing for the amendments set forth above.

I further find, under authority provided in the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 507 (c), 59 Stat. 463, as amended by 61 Stat. 11, 63 Stat. 409; 21 U. S. C. 357 (c); 67 Stat. 18), that compliance of the drug crude chlortetracycline oral veterinary with the requirements of sections 502 (l) and 507 of the act is not necessary to insure the safety and efficacy of that drug when it complies with the conditions specified in § 146.219 (f) of the foregoing amendments.

(Sec. 701, 52 Stat. 1055; 21 U. S. C. 371. Interpret or apply sec. 507, 59 Stat. 463, as amended; 21 U. S. C. 357)

This order shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, since both the public and the affected industry will benefit by the earliest effective date, and I so find.

Dated: February 12, 1954.

(b) In suspending or terminating action in a petition case for any reason specified in this section, consular officers need not report such suspension or termination to the Department except in the following cases:

(1) Any case in which the consular officer knows or has reason to believe that the petition was approved erroneously, or that approval was obtained by fraud, misrepresentation, or other unlawful means;

(2) Any case involving a petition approved on Form I-129 for a preference quota immigrant classifiable under the provisions of section 203 (a) (1) (A) of the act, if it appears that a quota number will be available within six months for the issuance of an immigrant visa to the beneficiary.

The regulations contained in this order shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238; 5 U. S. C. 1003) relative to notice of proposed rule making and delayed effective date are inapplicable to this order because the regulations contained therein involve foreign affairs functions of the United States.

SEPARATION FROM SERVICE

In § 561.37 subdivisions (iii) and (xx) are amended and a new subdivision (xxvi) is added to paragraph (b) (2) as follows:

§ 561.37 Separation from service. • • •

(b) Discharge from Reserve duty status. • • •

(iii) Upon enlistment, induction, or acceptance of appointment as a member of any of the Armed Forces or as a Reserve enlisted member or officer thereof, including enlistment in another reserve component for the purpose of participating in an officer training program of that Armed Force. Discharge upon enlistment or acceptance of appointment as provided in this paragraph does not relieve the obligated individual of the remainder of any obligation incurred pursuant to section 4 (d) (1), (2), or (3), Universal Military Training and Service Act, as amended, except that discharge upon enlistment in the regular component of any Armed Force relieves the 5- or 6-year reservist of any remaining reserve obligation he may have.

(xx) A noncitizen inducted under the Universal Military Training and Service Act who upon relief from active duty gave only a foreign address for future reference is subject to discharge. Action will be taken as follows:

(a) Chiefs of military districts having now in their custody or receiving the reserve records of noncitizens who furnished only an address in a foreign country as a permanent address for mailing purposes will query each such individual by mail to obtain evidence of his intention to:

(1) Reside permanently outside the United States.

(2) Return within 6 months to the United States for permanent residence, including:

(i) Expected date of such return;

(ii) Expected place of residence; or

(3) Actively participate in the Reserve training program upon return to the United States.

(4) Become a citizen of the United States.

(b) If reservist replies that he is returning to the United States for permanent residence, that he wishes to participate actively in the Reserve training program, and furnishes an address in the United States through which he may be reached, the correspondence will be forwarded by endorsement, inclosing his reserve records, to the chief of the military district in which the reservist indicates he plans to reside.

(c) If reply indicates that the noncitizen plans to remain in a foreign country or his reply indicates the prospect of his return to the United States is uncertain, he will be discharged by reason of having completed the service for which inducted.

• • • • •

(xxvi) Upon application by an obligated reservist for the purpose of pursuing theological studies, obtaining ordination, and/or the taking of final vows in a religious order. Each such application will be processed as an individual action through The Adjutant General, Department of the Army, ATTN: AGPR-F. Each will be accompanied by a statement or certificate, signed by the appropriate official of the seminary or religious order, showing that in order to proceed further with his training and/or acceptance into a religious order it is required that the applicant be separated from any military status he may have. The document must further state that the applicant is otherwise fully qualified and acceptable to further pursue his religious training, and must give the date upon which it is anticipated he will qualify for ordination or the taking of final vows. Discharge will not be effected prior to receipt of reply from The Adjutant General.

Chapter II—Corps of Engineers, Department of the Army

PART 208—FLOOD CONTROL REGULATIONS

HOOVER DAM AND RESERVOIR, COLORADO RIVER, NEVADA-ARIZONA

Pursuant to the provisions of section 7 of the act of Congress approved December 22, 1944 (58 Stat. 890; 33 U. S. C. 709), § 208.80 is hereby prescribed to govern the use and operation of Hoover Dam and Reservoir on Colorado River, Nevada-Arizona, for flood-control purposes.

§ 208.80 Hoover Dam and Reservoir, Colorado River, Nevada-Arizona. The Bureau of Reclamation shall operate Hoover Dam and Reservoir in the interest of flood control, as follows:

(a) In order to provide storage space for control of floods, releases from Hoover Reservoir shall be scheduled so that available space for flood-control storage will not be less than that indicated in the following table for the dates shown. Flood-control storage space, as defined in the regulations in this section, shall be the available storage space below elevation 1,229 feet.

Date:	Available flood-control storage space (acre-feet)
August 1	2,500,000
September 1	2,500,000
October 1	2,500,000
November 1	2,675,000
December 1	3,963,000
January 1	5,350,000

(b) Releases from the reservoir shall be restricted to quantities that will not cause a flow in excess of 40,000 cubic feet per second at Needles, California, insofar as possible.

(c) For the period January 1 to August 1, minimum releases from the reservoir to attain the August 1 flood-control space prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section shall be determined from tables 1 through 6 of the Tables of Minimum Average Releases for Flood Control Purposes currently in force for various conditions of available flood-control storage space and of maximum forecasted inflow. The Tables of Minimum Average Releases for Flood Control Purposes currently in force as of the promulgation of this section are those dated January 27, 1954, File No. 373/102. Pertinent information on inflow forecasts and on permissible changes in the releases indicated in tables 1 through 6 of the Tables of Minimum Average Releases for Flood Control Purposes currently in force is given in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

(1) All inflow forecasts used in carrying out the provisions of the regulations in this section shall be prepared by the Bureau of Reclamation. The maximum forecast for any specified runoff period is defined as the estimated inflow volume (acre-feet) that, on the average, will not be exceeded 19 times out of 20.

(2) When minimum releases for the periods April 1 to August 1, May 1 to August 1, or June 1 to August 1 as given in tables 4, 5, or 6 are between 20,000 cubic feet per second and 40,000 cubic feet per second, it will be permissible to release less than the indicated amounts for a part of the period, provided the average releases for the entire period will equal the releases given in the table, without flows exceeding 40,000 cubic feet per second at Needles, California, gaging station.

(d) For the period August 1 to November 1, minimum releases from the reservoir shall be determined daily from table 7 of the Tables of Minimum Average Releases for Flood Control Purposes currently in force for various conditions of available flood-control storage space and of estimated inflow. The inflow shall be estimated on the basis of discharge reports from appropriate gaging stations on Colorado River and on Little Colorado River. Pertinent information on permissible changes in the releases as indicated in table 7 is given in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

(1) Minimum releases from the reservoir as given in table 7 of the Tables of Minimum Average Releases for Flood Control Purposes currently in force, if 40,000 cubic feet per second or less, shall not be reduced, when once initiated, until the storage space prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section becomes available.

(2) Minimum releases from the reservoir as given in table 7 of the Tables of Minimum Average Releases for Flood Control Purposes currently in force, if greater than 40,000 cubic feet per second, shall not be reduced, when once initiated, until the reservoir water surface has receded to elevation 1221.4 (top of spillway gates in raised position), or, if the reservoir water surface does not reach elevation 1221.4, until the inflow and reservoir water surface are both receding. Releases may then be gradually reduced to 40,000 cubic feet per second and shall be maintained at not less than that rate until the storage space prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section becomes available.

(e) For the period November 1 to January 1, the minimum releases from the reservoir shall be those necessary to make available the storage space prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section.

(f) Nothing in this section shall be construed to require dangerously rapid changes in magnitudes of releases.

(g) The Bureau of Reclamation shall procure such current basic hydrologic data, and make such current calculations of permissible releases from the reservoir as are required to accomplish the flood-control objectives prescribed in this section.

(h) The Bureau of Reclamation shall keep the District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, Department of the Army, in charge of the locality, currently advised of reservoir release, reservoir storage, and such other operating data as the District Engineer may request, and also of those basic operating criteria that affect the schedule of operation.

(i) The flood-control regulations of this section are subject to temporary modification by the District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, if found necessary in time of emergency. Requests for and action on such modifications may be made by any available means of communication, and the action taken by the District Engineer shall be confirmed in writing under date of same day to the office of the Regional Director of the Bureau of Reclamation in charge of the operations. Releases made in accordance with the regulations in this section shall not be required at rates or in a manner that would be inconsistent with the requirements for protecting the dam and reservoir or downstream dams and the levee systems in the Needles, Parker, Blythe, and Yuma area from major damage. In the event of danger of major damage to or failure of such dams or levee systems the releases required by the regulations of this section may be temporarily adjusted by the Bureau of Reclamation pending action of the District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, on request for approval of such adjustment.

(j) Revisions of the Tables of Minimum Average Releases for Flood Control Purposes may be developed from time to time as necessary by the Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation. Each such revision shall be effective upon the date specified in the approval thereof by the Chief of Engineers and the Commissioner of Reclamation and from that date until replaced shall be the Tables of Minimum Average Releases for Flood Control Purposes currently in force for purposes of this section. Copies of the Tables of Minimum Average Releases for Flood Control currently in force shall be kept on file in and may be obtained from the offices of the Chief of Engineers, Department of the Army, and the Commissioner of Reclamation, Washington, D. C., and also from the offices of the District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, and the Regional Director, Bureau of Reclamation, in charge of the locality.

TITLE 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 10588]

PART 3—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

ALTERATIONS IN BOUNDARY LINE OF ZONE I AND TABLE OF TELEVISION ASSIGNMENTS

In the matter of amendment of §§ 3.606, 3.610 (a) (1) (i) and Figure 1, Appendix 1, of the Commission's Rules and Regulations.

1. The Commission has before it for consideration the Petition of Daily Telegraph Printing Company filed November 6, 1953, and Supplement filed December 4, 1953, and the Petition of High Point Enterprise, Inc., filed November 10, 1953, and Supplement filed December 29, 1953, requesting reconsideration of the Commission's Report and Order (FCC 53-1391) of October 22, 1953, assigning Channel 4 to Fayettesville, West Virginia, and Channel 3 to Wilmington, North Carolina; the "Response" of Fayette Associates to the Daily Telegraph Petition and "Opposition" of Fayette Associates to the High Point Petition; the "Reply" of Robert R. Thomas, Jr., to the Daily Telegraph and High Point Petitions; the "Answer" of Daily Telegraph Printing Company to the "Reply" of Robert R. Thomas, Jr.; the "Opposition" of Joe L. Smith, Jr., Inc., to the Daily Telegraph and High Point Petitions; and the "Oppositions" of Havens & Martin, Inc., to the High Point Petition and Supplement.[1]

2. On October 22, 1953, the Commission adopted a Report and Order (FCC 53-1391) in this proceeding granting the requests of Robert R. Thomas, Jr., and Fayette Associates to amend its Table of Television Channel Assignments by assigning Channel 4 to Fayetteville, West Virginia, and Channel 3 to Wilmington, North Carolina. The Commission denied the requests of Daily Telegraph Printing Company for the assignment of Channel 6 at Bluefield, West Virginia, to be accomplished by substituting Channel 4 for Channel 6 at Beckley, West Virginia, and by altering the boundary line between Zone I and Zone II to include all of West Virginia within Zone I; and the request of High Point Enterprise, Inc. for the assignment of Channel 6 to High Point, North Carolina, to be accomplished by substituting Channel 3 for Channel 6 at Wilmington, North Carolina, and Channel 4 for Channel 6 at Beckley, West Virginia, and by altering the boundary line between Zone I and Zone II to include all of West Virginia within Zone I. Daily Telegraph and High Point now seek reconsideration of the action.

[1] On January 22, 1954, Daily Telegraph Printing Company filed a petition requesting the Commission to return the application of Robert R. Thomas, Jr., for a television station on Channel 4 at Oak Hill, West Virginia, or, in the alternative, to stay action on the application pending a final determination on its Petition for Reconsideration. The Commission's action herein renders the above petition moot.

ZONE LINE

3. Both the proposals of Daily Telegraph Printing Company for Channel 6 in Bluefield, and of High Point Enterprise, Inc., for Channel 6 in High Point, require that the boundary line between Zone I and Zone II in West Virginia be shifted in order that the minimum assignment spacings prescribed by the rules be met. The Commission employed two bases in delineating the boundary line between Zone I and Zone II. These were population density and concentration of cities with populations of 50,000 persons or greater. The line was predicated on the existence of large contiguous areas with substantially higher density of population and concentration of cities compared with other contiguous areas of comparative size. The first matter for our determination, therefore, is whether the zone line should be moved. Petitioners contend that the Commission erred in establishing the present line which places the southernmost portion of West Virginia within Zone II, and urge that all of the State should fall within Zone I.

4. The Commission rejected petitioner's proposals for shifting the zone line in our Report and Order of October 22, 1953. We have carefully reviewed our prior decision and have re-examined the evidence of record relating to this matter. The Commission is now of the view that our prior decision was not correct and that all of West Virginia should be contained within Zone I.

5. The present boundary line between Zone I and Zone II cuts across West Virginia, with the southern tip of the State falling within Zone II. West Virginia has a total area of 24,053 square miles, with 19,336 square miles in Zone I, and 4,717 square miles in Zone II. The population density in the Zone I portion of the State is 76.7 persons per square mile, while the Zone II portion has the substantially greater population density of 110.6 persons per square mile. The population density for the Zone II portion of West Virginia, moreover, is substantially greater than any of the other States, or parts of States, in Zone II, with North Carolina, the closest State, having a population density of only 82.7 persons per square mile. The population density of the Zone II portion of West Virginia is also greater than a number of States within Zone I.[2]

6. The Zone I Part of West Virginia now ranks 17th in the list of States within Zone I by order of population density and 16th in the list of States by order of concentration of cities with populations of 50,000 persons or greater. If the entire State is placed within Zone I, the population density would be 83.4 persons per square mile; and West Virginia would retain its relative position as the 17th State in Zone I. Similarly, placing all of West Virginia within Zone I would not alter the State's relative position as the 16th State in the list of States by order of square miles per cities with 50,000 population or greater.

7. The second basis employed by the Commission for determining zone lines was the concentration of large cities. While there are no cities with populations of 50,000 persons or greater within the Zone II part of West Virginia, the relatively small area does contain 19 cities and over a half million residents. In comparison, the substantially larger Zone I area contains three cities with populations greater than 50,000, but only 41 cities in all. The Zone II part of West Virginia encompasses about one-sixth of the total area of the State, yet contains over one-fourth of the State's total population. Population in the Zone II part of West Virginia, therefore, is greater, area-wise, than that of the Zone I portion.

8. As we have pointed out in our prior Report and Order, the determination of appropriate minimum spacings for television channel assignments represents a critical factor underlying the establishment of a nationwide television system. The Commission's rules for minimum spacings were predicated on the fact that the country is divided into large contiguous, homogeneous areas in terms of population density and concentration of cities. It is apparent, nevertheless, that in the delineation of a line of demarcation between such areas that close questions arise. The delineation of the line between Zone I and Zone II in West Virginia presents such a close case.

9. Upon reconsideration, we have reached the determination that all of West Virginia should be placed within Zone I. The part of the State presently within Zone II is contiguous to Zone I, and placing all of the State within Zone I will permit the employment of the natural State boundary as the dividing line between Zone I and Zone II. It should be emphasized that the zone line is now being shifted only because we are convinced, upon our reconsideration and re-examination of the evidence of record, that our present zone line in West Virginia is in error and that all of the State should be placed properly in Zone I.

[2] In only one other case where a State is divided into two zones does the Zone II part have a greater population density than the Zone I part. This is the case of Vermont, which has a population density of 36.1 persons per square mile in the very small portion of the State in Zone I, and a population density of 41.6 persons per square mile in the substantially larger Zone II portion.

ASSIGNMENT PROPOSALS

10. In our prior Report and Order of October 22, 1953 we denied the proposals of Daily Telegraph Printing Company and High Point Enterprise, Inc. since they were contingent on moving the zone line. We granted the proposals of Robert R. Thomas, Jr., for Channel 4 in Fayetteville, and Fayette Associates for Channel 3 in Wilmington. Having determined that all of West Virginia should fall within Zone I, we must reconsider the four separate proposals for channel assignments in the area, all of which now meet the minimum assignment spacing requirements. The four proposals before us, some of which are conflicting, are the following:

(1) The Daily Telegraph Printing Company proposes that Channel 6 be added to Bluefield, West Virginia, by substituting Channel 4 for Channel 6 at Beckley, West Virginia.

(2) High Point Enterprise, Inc., proposes that Channel 6 be assigned to High Point, North Carolina, by substituting Channel 3 for Channel 6 at Wilmington, North Carolina, and Channel 4 for Channel 6 at Beckley, West Virginia. (High Point suggests, also, that under its proposal Channel 6 can be assigned to Morehead City, North Carolina.)

(3) Robert R. Thomas, Jr., proposes that Channel 4 be assigned to Fayetteville, West Virginia, without making any other changes in the Table of Assignments.

(4) Fayette Associates proposes that Channel 3 be added to Wilmington, North Carolina, without making any other changes in the Table of Assignments.

CONFLICTS

11. The Daily Telegraph proposal for Channel 6 in Bluefield conflicts with the High Point proposal for Channel 6 in High Point since these communities are only about 115 miles apart. The Daily Telegraph proposal also conflicts with the Robert R. Thomas, Jr., proposal for Channel 4 in Fayetteville since the Daily Telegraph proposal requires that Channel 4 be assigned to Beckley, West Virginia. The High Point proposal for Channel 6 in High Point conflicts with the Robert R. Thomas, Jr., proposal for Fayetteville for the same reason. Finally, the High Point proposal also conflicts with the Fayette Associates proposal for Channel 3 in Wilmington, North Carolina, since High Point suggests that Channel 3 replace Channel 6 in Wilmington and Fayette proposes Channel 3 as an additional assignment. In light of the foregoing, the Commission is presented with the following three alternatives:

(1) Assigning Channel 4 to Fayetteville and Channel 3 to Wilmington. (This is the action taken by the Commission in our prior Report and Order of October 22, 1953.)

(2) Assigning Channel 6 to Bluefield and Channel 3 to Wilmington. (Requires substituting Channel 4 for Channel 6 in Beckley.)

(3) Assigning Channel 6 to High Point. High Point suggests that Channel 6 could also be assigned to Morehead

City, North Carolina. (Requires substituting Channel 4 for Channel 6 in Beckley and Channel 3 for Channel 6 at Wilmington.)

BLUEFIELD, WEST VIRGINIA

12. The community of Bluefield, West Virginia, has a population of 21,506 persons and has been assigned one channel, UHF Channel 41, by the Table of Assignments. Bluefield, the regional center of a large bituminous coal producing area, is the largest city within a 100-mile radius. The community is a railroad division point and a wholesale distribution center. Daily Telegraph submits that the annual wholesale sales in Bluefield aggregate approximately $100,000,000, making it the fourth largest market in West Virginia. It is alleged that Bluefield is the retail trading center for an area including nearly 400,000 people, and that retail sales in 1950 amounted to $196,636,000. Bluefield contains two colleges, with a third situated a few miles distant. Daily Telegraph urges that the area surrounding Bluefield is rugged and mountainous and that the UHF channel presently assigned will not adequately serve the area.

HIGH POINT AND MOREHEAD CITY, NORTH CAROLINA

13. High Point, North Carolina, has a population of 39,930 persons and is situated within the Greensboro-High Point standard metropolitan area. The Table of Assignments presently assigns one channel, UHF Channel 15, to High Point. Three channels, Channels 2, 51* and 57, however, are assigned to Greensboro, 15 miles from High Point, and three channels, Channels 12, 26 and 32*, are assigned to Winston-Salem, 16.5 miles from High Point. Thus, although no VHF channels have been assigned to High Point directly, two VHF channels have been assigned to communities near High Point. High Point Enterprise, Inc., submits, however, that High Point is an important cultural and trading center and merits a VHF assignment in its own right. High Point Enterprise urges that the value of manufacturing, wholesale, and retail trade, and agricultural marketing in High Point compares favorably with the other two cities in the area where VHF assignments have been made, and that the business and trading volume of High Point is sufficient to support a VHF television station in the community.[3] It is alleged that High Point is the natural trading area and cultural center for 119,996 people and that a VHF station in this community will provide a new medium for local expression. High Point states that there are a great number of VHF receivers already in the area. It is contended that a UHF operation in High Point would not be feasible at this time. As noted above, High Point Enterprise, Inc., suggests that under its proposal Channel 6 could be assigned in addition to Morehead City, North Carolina. No channels have been assigned to this community by the Table of Assignments. Morehead City has a population of 5,144 persons.

WILMINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA

14. The community of Wilmington, North Carolina, has a population of 45,043 persons. The Table of Assignments presently assigns three channels to this community, Channels 6, 29 and 35.[4] Channel 3 for Wilmington as proposed by Fayette Associates would represent a second VHF, and fourth channel in all, for the community. It is urged that the assignment of Channel 3 in Wilmington would provide a second locally originated and competitive VHF service in the community.

FAYETTEVILLE, WEST VIRGINIA

15. The community of Fayetteville, West Virginia, has a population of 1,952 persons. No channels are presently assigned to this community, and Robert R. Thomas, Jr., Oak Hill, West Virginia, proposes the assignment of Channel 4 without making any other changes in the Table of Assignments. Although no channels are assigned directly to Fayetteville, Channel 6 is presently assigned to Beckley, West Virginia, about 19 miles from Fayetteville. It is urged that Fayetteville is the County Seat of Fayette County, which has a population of 82,443 persons, and that a VHF assignment is necessary in order to serve the rugged and mountainous terrain in the area.

CONCLUSIONS

16. In our prior Report and Order the proposals to assign Channel 6 to Bluefield and to High Point were rejected since they were contingent upon shifting the zone line in West Virginia. That left for our consideration only the proposals for Channel 4 in Fayetteville and Channel 3 in Wilmington, both of which could be made in accordance with the minimum separations; and both proposals were adopted. In assigning Channel 4 to Fayetteville, we recognized that we were assigning a VHF channel to a very small community of less than 2,000 persons; however, this proposal was the only one for this area which, at that time, met our requirements. Our action herein in shifting the zone line, however, requires that we compare the Fayetteville proposal with the conflicting Bluefield and High Point proposals which now meet our minimum spacing requirements. We are of the view that a first VHF channel in either Bluefield, with a population of 21,506 persons, or High Point, with a population of 39,930 persons, is to be preferred to a first VHF channel in Fayetteville. We are therefore rescinding the action in our prior Report and Order making this assignment.

17. We must now choose between the conflicting Bluefield and High Point proposals, also keeping in mind how these proposals affect the Wilmington proposal. Channel 6 would represent a first VHF, and second channel in all, in both Bluefield and High Point. While High Point is larger in population than Bluefield, two VHF channels have been assigned to cities very close to High Point. Indeed, seven channels in all have been assigned in this small area. Moreover, the High Point request for Channel 6 conflicts with the proposal of Fayette Associates for Wilmington since it precludes the addition of a VHF channel to that city. Although High Point suggests, as an alternative, that Channel 6 could be assigned to Morehead City, North Carolina, we do not think this presents a satisfactory solution. Morehead City is a community with a population of only 5,144 persons. We have concluded that the most effective utilization of the spectrum would be realized by assigning Channel 6 to Bluefield and Channel 3 to Wilmington. We believe that these assignments of the scarce VHF channels would best serve the public interest, convenience and necessity. We are aware that in assigning Channel 6 to Bluefield we must substitute Channel 4 for Channel 6 in Beckley, West Virginia, and that such action requires that certain applicants for the Beckley channel specify a new site. We believe, however, that such inconvenience to the Beckley applicants is warranted in light of the more effective use of the spectrum that can be achieved by adding channel 6 to Bluefield.

18. Authority for the adoption of the amendments herein is contained in sections 4 (i), 301, 303 (c), (d), (f) and (r) and 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

19. In view of the foregoing, It is ordered, That our action in our Report and Order of October 22, 1953, only insofar as it granted the proposal of Robert R. Thomas, Jr. for the assignment of Channel 4 to Fayetteville, West Virginia, is rescinded. It is further ordered, That the proposal of Daily Telegraph Printing Company for the assignment of Channel 6 to Bluefield, West Virginia, is granted and that the proposal of High Point Enterprise, Inc., for Channel 6 in High Point, North Carolina, is denied. Our action in our Report and Order of October 22, 1953, granting the proposal of Fayette Associates for the assignment of Channel 3 in Wilmington, North Carolina, and other changes in assignments in that Report and Order are not disturbed.

20. It is further ordered, That, effective 30 days from publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, the Commission's Rules and Regulations are amended as follows:

(1) Section 3.610 (a) (1) (i) is amended to read as follows:

(i) Zone I consists of that portion of the United States located within the confines of the following lines drawn on the United States Albers Equal Area Projection Map (based on standard parallels 29½° and 45½°; North American datum): Beginning at the most easterly point on the State boundary line between North Carolina and Virginia; thence in a straight line to a point on the Virginia, West Virginia boundary line located at North Latitude 37° 49' and West Longitude 80° 12' 30"; thence westerly along the southern boundary lines of the States of West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois to a point at the junction of the Illinois, Kentucky, and Missouri State boundary lines; thence northerly along the western boundary line of the State of Illinois, Iowa, and Wisconsin State boundary lines; thence easterly along the northern State boundary line of Illinois to the 90th meridian; thence north along this meridian to the 43.5° parallel; thence east along this parallel to the 71st meridian; thence in a straight line to the intersection of the 69th meridian and the 45th parallel; thence east along the 45th parallel to the Atlantic Ocean. When any of the above lines pass through a city, the city shall be considered to be located in Zone I. (See Appendix I, Figure 1.)

(2) Section 3.606, Table of Television Assignments, is amended as follows:

(a) Delete Channel 4 in Fayetteville, West Virginia.

(b) Amend the table to read:

City:	Channel No.
Beckley, West Va.	4, 21, 66

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Internal Revenue Service

[26 CFR Part 39]

INCOME TAX; TAXABLE YEARS BEGINNING AFTER DECEMBER 31, 1951

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, that the regulations set forth in tentative form below are proposed to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Prior to the final adoption of such regulations, consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing in duplicate to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C., within the period of thirty days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in section 3791 of the Internal Revenue Code (53 Stat. 467; 26 U. S. C. 3791).

[SEAL] T. COLEMAN ANDREWS, Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

In order to conform Regulations 118 (26 CFR Part 39) to section 211 of the Technical Changes Act of 1953, approved August 15, 1953, such regulations are amended as follows:

PARAGRAPH 1. Section 39.3801 (a) (1)-1 is amended to read as follows:

§ 39.3801 (a) (1)-1 Purpose and scope of section 3801. Section 3801 provides for correction of the effect of certain types of errors specified in section 3801 (b), when one or more provisions of the internal revenue laws, such as the statute of limitations, would otherwise prevent such correction. Corrections are authorized under sections 3801 (b) (1) to 3801 (b) (5), inclusive, only when the Commissioner, if the correction would result in an allowance of a refund or credit for the year with respect to which the error was made, or the taxpayer, if the correction would result in an additional assessment for such year, has maintained a position inconsistent with the error. Corrections are authorized under sections 3801 (b) (6) and 3801 (b) (7) without regard to the maintenance of an inconsistent position. No correction is permissible under sections 3801 (b) (1) to 3801 (b) (5), inclusive, unless the inconsistent position is adopted by a determination made on or after August 27, 1938, or under sections 3801 (b) (6) and 3801 (b) (7) unless the determination became final after May 31, 1952. The provisions of section 3801 and of the regulations promulgated under such section shall not apply to any tax imposed by chapter 9, relating to employment taxes.

PAR. 2. Section 39.3801 (a) (3)–1 is amended by striking "or (4)" appearing in the second sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "(4), (6), or (7)".

PAR. 3. Section 39.3801 (b) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

SEC. 211. MITIGATION OF EFFECT OF STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS (TECHNICAL CHANGES ACT OF 1953, APPROVED AUGUST 18, 1953)—(a) Amendment of section 3801 (b). Section 3801 (b) (relating to circumstances of adjustment) is hereby amended by inserting after paragraph (5) the following new paragraphs:

(6) Disallows a deduction or credit which should have been allowed to, but was not allowed to, the taxpayer for another taxable year, or to a related taxpayer; but this paragraph shall apply only if (A) the determination became final on or after June 1, 1952, and (B) credit or refund of the overpayment attributable to the deduction or credit which should have been allowed to the taxpayer or related taxpayer was not barred, by any law or rule of law, at the time the taxpayer first maintained before the Secretary or the Tax Court of the United States, in writing, that he was entitled to such deduction or credit in the taxable year for which it is so disallowed; or

(7) Requires the exclusion from gross income of an item which is includible in the gross income of the taxpayer for another taxable year or in the gross income of a related taxpayer; but this paragraph shall apply only if (A) the determination became final on or after June 1, 1952, and (B) assessment of deficiency under section 272 (a) by the Secretary for such other taxable year or against such related taxpayer was not barred, by any law or rule of law, at the time the Secretary first maintained in a notice of deficiency sent pursuant to section 272 (a) or before the Tax Court of the United States, that such item should be included in the gross income of the taxpayer for the taxable year to which the determination relates—.

(b) Technical amendments. (1) Paragraph (5) of section 3801 (b) is hereby amended by striking out "transaction—" and inserting in lieu thereof "transaction; or".

(2) The second sentence of section 3801 (b) is hereby amended by striking out "Such" and inserting in lieu thereof "Except in cases described in paragraphs (6) and (7), such".

(c) Effective date. The amendments made by subsections (a) and (b) shall be effective as if included in the Internal Revenue Code at the time of its enactment. In any case in which the determination referred to in paragraph (6) or (7) of section 3801 (b), as amended by subsection (a) of this section, became final before the date of the enactment of this act, the one-year period described in section 3801 (c) shall be extended to include the one-year period beginning with the date of the enactment of this act.

PAR. 4. Section 39.3801 (b)–3 is amended as follows:

A. By inserting in the sixth sentence of Example (1) immediately after the word "authorized" the following: "under section 3801 (b) (3)";

B. By inserting at the end of Example (1) the following new sentence: "In this connection, however, see section 3801 (b) (7) and § 39.3801 (b)–10 as to circumstances under which an adjustment is authorized even though no tax has been paid with respect to the item for the taxable year to which the determination relates (1949 in this example)."

PAR. 5. Section 39.3801 (b)–7 is amended as follows:

A. By striking the heading and so much of paragraph (a) (1) as precedes "(i)" and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

§ 39.3801 (b)–7 Maintenance of inconsistent position in certain cases—(a) Adjustments resulting in additional assessments. (1) An adjustment under sections 3801 (b) (1) to 3801 (b) (5), inclusive, which would result in an additional assessment is authorized only if • • •

B. By amending the first sentence of paragraph (a) (2) to read as follows: "An adjustment under sections 3801 (b) (1) to 3801 (b) (5), inclusive, which would result in an additional assessment is not authorized if the Commissioner and not the taxpayer, has maintained such inconsistent position."

C. By striking so much of paragraph (b) (1) as precedes "(i)" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "(1) An adjustment under sections 3801 (b) (1) to 3801 (b) (5), inclusive, which would result in the allowance of a refund or credit is authorized only if".

D. By amending the first sentence of paragraph (b) (2) to read as follows: "An adjustment under sections 3801 (b) (1) to 3801 (b) (5), inclusive, which would result in the allowance of a refund or credit is not authorized if the taxpayer with respect to whom the determination is made, and not the Commissioner, has maintained such inconsistent position."

PAR. 6. Section 39.3801 (b)–8 (a) is amended to read as follows:

§ 39.3801 (b)–8 Existence of status of related taxpayer at time of the first maintenance of an inconsistent position. (a) No adjustment by way of a deficiency assessment shall be made under sections 3801 (b) (1) to 3801 (b) (4), inclusive, with respect to a related taxpayer unless the relationship existed both in the taxable year with respect to which the error was made and at the time the taxpayer with respect to whom the determination is made first maintained, in the manner described in this section, the inconsistent position with respect to the taxable year to which the determination relates.

PAR. 7. There are inserted immediately after § 39.3801 (b)–8 the following new sections:

§ 39.3801 (b)–9 Disallowed deductions or credits. Section 3801 (b) (6) applies if the determination disallows a deduction or credit which should have been, but was not, allowed to the same taxpayer for another taxable year or to a related taxpayer for the same or another taxable year. An adjustment is permitted under section 3801 (b) (6) only if such determination became final after May 31, 1952, and if a credit or refund attributable to such deduction or credit was not barred by any law or rule of law when the taxpayer first maintained in writing before the Commissioner or the Tax Court that he was entitled to such deduction or credit as, for example, in a return, in a claim for refund, or in a petition (or amended petition) before the Tax Court.

Example (1). The taxpayer, A, who computes his income by use of the accrual method of accounting, deducted in his return for the taxable year 1949 an item of expense which he paid in such year. At the time A filed his return for 1949, the statute of limitations for 1948 had not expired. Subsequently, the Commissioner asserted a deficiency for 1949 based on the position that the liability for such expense should have been accrued for the taxable year 1948. In 1953, after the period of limitations on refunds for 1948 had expired, there is a determination by the Tax Court disallowing such deduction for the taxable year 1949. A is entitled to an adjustment for the taxable year 1948. However, if such liability should have been accrued for the taxable year 1944, instead of 1948, A would not be entitled to an adjustment if a credit or refund with respect to 1944 was already barred when he deducted such liability for the taxable year 1949.

Example (2). The taxpayer, B, in his return for 1948 claimed a deduction for a charitable contribution. The Commissioner asserted a deficiency for such year contending that 50 percent of the deduction should be disallowed, since the contribution was made from community income 50 percent of which was attributable to B's spouse. The deficiency was sustained by the Tax Court in 1953, subsequent to the period of limitations within which B's spouse could claim a refund with respect to 1948. An adjustment is permitted to B's spouse, a related taxpayer, since a refund attributable to a deduction by her of such contribution was not barred when B claimed the deduction.

§ 39.3801 (b)–10 Required exclusions. Section 3801 (b) (7) applies if the determination requires the exclusion from gross income of an item which is includible in the gross income of the same taxpayer for another taxable year or in the gross income of a related taxpayer for the same or another taxable year. An adjustment under section 3801 (b) (7) is permitted only if such determination became final after May 31, 1952, and if assessment of deficiency under section 272 (a) by the Commissioner for such other taxable year or against such related taxpayer was not barred, by any law or rule of law, at the time the Commissioner first maintained in a notice of deficiency sent pursuant to section 272 (a) or before the Tax Court, that such item should be included in the gross income of the taxpayer for the taxable year to which the determination relates.

Example (1). The taxpayer, A, who computes his income by use of the accrual method of accounting, performed in 1948 services for which he received payments in 1948 and 1949. He did not include in his return for either 1948 or 1949 the payments which he received in 1949. In 1950, the Commissioner sent a notice of deficiency to A with respect to the year 1948, contending that A should have included all of such payments in his return for that year. A contested the deficiency on the basis that in 1948 he had no accruable right to the payments which he received in 1949. In 1954 (after the expiration of the period of limitations for assessing deficiencies with respect to 1949), the Tax Court sustained A's position. The Commissioner may assess a deficiency for 1949 since a deficiency assessment for that year was not barred when he sent the notice of deficiency with respect to 1948.

Example (2). B and C were partners in 1948, each being entitled to one-half of the profits of the partnership business. During 1948, B received an item of income which he treated as partnership income so that his return for that year reflected only 50 percent of such item. C, however, included none of such item in his return for 1948. In 1950, the Commissioner sent to C a notice of deficiency with respect to 1948, contending that his return should have reflected 50 percent of such item for 1948. C contested the deficiency on the basis that such item was not partnership income. In 1953, after the expiration of the period of limitations for assessing deficiencies with respect to 1948, the Tax Court sustained C's position. The Commissioner may assess a deficiency against B with respect to 1948 requiring him to include the entire amount of such item in his income since assessment of the deficiency was not barred when the Commissioner sent the notice of deficiency with respect to such item to C.

PAR. 8. Section 39.3801 (c) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

SEC. 211. MITIGATION OF EFFECT OF STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS (TECHNICAL CHANGES ACT OF 1953, APPROVED AUGUST 18, 1953).

• • • • •

(c) Effective date. The amendments made by subsections (a) and (b) shall be effective as if included in the Internal Revenue Code at the time of its enactment. In any case in which the determination referred to in paragraph (6) or (7) of section 3801 (b), as amended by subsection (a) of this section, became final before the date of the enactment of this Act, the one-year period described in section 3801 (c) shall be extended to include the one-year period beginning with the date of the enactment of this Act.

PAR. 9. Section 39.3801 (c)–1 is amended by inserting at the end of such section the following new sentence: "In respect of a determination referred to in section 3801 (b) (6) or 3801 (b) (7) which became final before August 15, 1953, the phrase 'the date of the determination', when used in this section, shall mean August 15, 1953."

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, that the regulations set forth in tentative form below are proposed to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Prior to the final adoption of such regulations, consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing in duplicate to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C., within the period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in section 1101 of the Revenue Act of 1926 (44 Stat. 70; 26 U. S. C. 411) and section 3791 of the Internal Revenue Code (53 Stat. 467; 26 U. S. C. 3791).

[SEAL] JUSTIN F. WINKLE,
Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

In order to conform certain provisions of Regulations 80 (1937 edition) (26 CFR, Part 80) and Regulations 105 (26 CFR, Part 81) relating to estate tax to sections 106, 207, 208, and 209 of the Technical Changes Act of 1953, such regulations are amended as follows:

(b) Decedents dying before February 11, 1939. For the purposes of section 302 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1926, as amended, an interest of a decedent shall not be included in his gross estate as intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after his death unless it would have been includible as such a transfer under section 811 (c) (2) of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended by section 7 of Public Law 378, Eighty-first Congress, approved October 25, 1949 (63 Stat. 891), had such section 811 (c) (2), as so amended, applied to the estate of such decedent. No refund or credit of any overpayment resulting from the application of this subsection shall be allowed or made if prevented by the operation of the statute of limitations or by any other law or rule of law; except that if the determination of the Federal estate tax liability in respect of the estate of any decedent dying before February 11, 1939, was pending on January 17, 1949, in the Tax Court of the United States or in any other court of competent jurisdiction, or if a decision of the Tax Court of the United States or such other court determining such estate tax liability did not become final until on or after January 17, 1949, then refund or credit of any overpayment resulting from the application of this subsection may, nevertheless, be made or allowed if claim therefor is filed within one year from the date of the enactment of this Act, notwithstanding section 319 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1926 or any other law or rule of law which would otherwise prevent the allowance of such refund or credit.

(c) Interest. No interest shall be allowed or paid on any overpayment resulting from the application of this section with respect to any payment made before the date of the enactment of this Act.

See § 81.17 (c) of Regulations 105.

Where refund or credit of any overpayment resulting from the application of the preceding paragraph is prevented by the operation of the statute of limitations, or by any other law or rule of law, refund or credit may, nevertheless be made if—

(1) The determination of the decedent's estate tax liability was pending on January 17, 1949, in The Tax Court of the United States or in any other court of competent jurisdiction, or if the decision of any of such courts determining such liability had not become final until on or after such date, and

(2) A claim for refund or credit therefor is filed on or before August 15, 1954.

However, no interest shall be allowed or paid with respect to any such overpayment made before August 15, 1953.

EXCLUSION OF CERTAIN TRANSFERS TAKING EFFECT AT DEATH (TECHNICAL CHANGES ACT OF 1953, APPROVED AUGUST 16, 1953)—(a) Decedents dying after February 10, 1939. Paragraph (1) of section 811 (c) (relating to the inclusion of certain interests in the decedent's gross estate) is hereby amended by inserting after subparagraph (C) the following: "Subparagraph (B) shall not apply to a transfer made before March 4, 1931; nor shall subparagraph (B) apply to a transfer made after March 3, 1931, and before June 7, 1932, unless the property transferred would have been includible in the decedent's gross estate by reason of the amendatory language of the joint resolution of March 3, 1931 (46 Stat. 1516)."

(4) Effect of disability in certain cases. For the purposes of this subsection, in the case of a decedent who was (for a continuous period beginning not less than three months before December 31, 1947, and ending with his death) under a mental disability to relinquish a power, the term "power" shall not include a power the relinquishment of which on or after January 1, 1940, and on or before December 31, 1947, would, by reason of section 1000 (e), be deemed not to be a transfer of property for the purposes of chapter 4.

(b) Effective date. The amendment made by subsection (a) shall apply only with respect to estates of decedents dying after December 31, 1950.

PAR. 6. Section 81.16, as amended by Treasury Decision 5904, approved May 27, 1952, is further amended by deleting "described in § 81.18 (b) (1) or § 81.19 (b) (1)" which appears in the last sentence of paragraph (d) and substituting in lieu thereof "includible in his gross estate under the provisions of § 81.18 or § 81.19".

(B) By deleting the last sentence of the first paragraph thereof.

(C) By deleting paragraph (b) thereof.

(D) By redesignating subparagraphs (1), (2), and (3) of paragraph (a) as paragraphs (a), (c), and (d), respectively.

(E) By inserting immediately after the first paragraph thereof the following new paragraph (b):

(b) Property shall not be included in the gross estate under this section unless transferred—

(1) After March 3, 1931, and before June 7, 1932, and the retention or reservation by the decedent was (i) for his life or (ii) for such a period as to evidence his intention that it should extend at least for the duration of his life, and his death occurs before the expiration of such period; or

(2) On or after June 7, 1932.

PAR. 8. Section 81.19, as amended by Treasury Decision 5936, is further amended as follows:

(A) By deleting from the heading thereof "—(a) General rule." and inserting a period in lieu thereof.

(B) By deleting the last sentence of the first paragraph thereof.

(4) In the case of a decedent dying after December 31, 1950, the provisions of this section do not apply to a transfer if—

(i) The relinquishment on or after January 1, 1940, and on or before December 31, 1947, of the power would, by reason of section 1000 (e), be deemed not a transfer of property for the purpose of the gift tax under chapter 4 (see § 86.3 (b) of this chapter), and

(ii) The decedent was, for a continuous period beginning on or before September 30, 1947, and ending with his death, under a mental disability to relinquish a power.

For the purpose of the foregoing provision, the term "mental disability" means mental incompetence, in fact, to release the power whether or not there was an adjudication of incompetence. Such provision shall apply even though a guardian could have released the power for the decedent.

PAR 10. There is inserted immediately preceding § 81.25 the following:

SEC. 209. REVERSIONARY INTERESTS IN CASE OF LIFE INSURANCE (TECHNICAL CHANGES ACT OF 1953, APPROVED AUGUST 16, 1953)—(a) Decedents dying after January 10, 1941, and before October 22, 1942. Effective with respect to estates of decedents dying after January 10, 1941, and before October 22, 1942, the proceeds of life insurance receivable by beneficiaries other than the executor shall not be included in the gross estate of a decedent under section 811 (g) of the Internal Revenue Code unless such proceeds would have been includible under section 404 (c) of the Revenue Act of 1942 (as amended by Section 508 (a) of the Revenue Act of 1950) had such section 404 (c), as so amended, applied to such estate.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE CHARGES

FLATHEAD INDIAN IRRIGATION PROJECT, MONTANA

FEBRUARY 10, 1954.

Pursuant to section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act of June 11, 1946 (60 Stat. 238), and authority contained in the acts of Congress approved August 1, 1914; May 18, 1916; and March 7, 1928 (38 Stat. 583; 39 Stat. 1942; and 49 Stat. 210), and by virtue of authority delegated by the Secretary of the Interior to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs August 28, 1946, and by virtue of the authority delegated by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to the Regional Director September 10, 1946 (11 F. R. 10267), notice is hereby given of the intention to modify §§ 130.16 and 130.17 of Title 25, Code of Federal Regulations, dealing with the irrigable lands of the Flathead Indian Irrigation Project not subject to the jurisdiction of the several irrigation districts, as follows:

§ 130.16 Charges, Jocko Division. (a) An annual minimum charge of $2.05 per acre, for the season of 1954 and thereafter until further notice, shall be made against all assessable irrigable land in the Jocko Division that is not included in an Irrigation District organization, regardless of whether water is used.

HANDLING OF MILK IN TULSA-MUSKOGEE, OKLAHOMA, MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS THERETO WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of this recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order amending the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Tulsa-Muskogee, Oklahoma, marketing area.

Interested parties may file written exceptions to this recommended decision with the Hearing Clerk, Room 1353, South Building, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business on the 12th day after the publication of this recommended decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The Hearing, on the record of which the proposed amendment to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, was formulated, was conducted at Tulsa, Oklahoma, on November 17–18, 1953, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on November 13, 1953 (18 F. R. 7195).

Material issues. The proposal, submitted by the Pure Milk Producers Association of Tulsa, was designed to clarify and to implement an existing provision of the order (§ 906.80 (c)) without changing its basic purpose or substance. Although the original proposal related to three provisions of the order, the sole issue presented related to the requirement that handlers pay producers who are members of a cooperative association through their cooperative association.

Findings and conclusions. Based on the evidence presented at the hearing and the record thereof it is concluded that:

(a) A qualified cooperative association which meets all conditions specified in this amendment is an association of the producers delivering to handlers with respect to which payment of uniform prices to such cooperative association for all milk purchased or received by handlers from its member-producers, may be required;

(b) Payment to a cooperative association will, when made in the manner provided in this amendment, (1) enable the receiving cooperative association to blend the net proceeds of all its sales in all markets, and to conduct its marketing activities in such a manner as will tend to promote efficient methods of marketing of milk by producers, (2) facilitate the channeling of milk by producers into available fluid milk outlets and the disposition of seasonal supplies in excess of current requirements therefore, in such a way as to augment the pooling and pricing provisions contained elsewhere in the order, and (3) contribute materially to the achievement and maintenance of stable conditions in the production, procurement and disposition of fluid milk in the Tulsa-Muskogee, Oklahoma, market; and

(c) The existing order provision should be clarified and implemented to the extent indicated by this amendment.

The proponent cooperative association which has been determined by the Secretary to be qualified under § 906.5 of the order is at present the only cooperative association from whose members handlers receive milk under the Tulsa-Muskogee, Oklahoma, milk order. Now affiliated with the association are approximately 1070 producers, or about 82 percent of all producers whose milk is priced by the order. Although the authority of this association to collect payment for its member-producers is not for determination by this decision, the evidence supporting the proposed amendment cannot be appraised without considering the character of the proponent association and its marketing activities.

The Pure Milk Producers Association of Tulsa (hereafter referred to as PMPA) is duly organized under the cooperative laws of the State of Oklahoma. To date it has operated in the manner commonly described as a bargaining association as contrasted with one which owns or operates a plant at which milk is physically received and from which it is disposed of in raw or processed form. Membership, as provided in the by-laws, is effected by the execution of a membership agreement between each member and the association.

This agreement is a form of agency contract commonly used by cooperative milk marketing associations by means of which the producer makes the signatory cooperative association his sole and exclusive agent to handle and market milk produced by him with authority to designate the place and manner of its delivery. Under this membership agreement, each signatory producer agrees specifically to abide by the by-laws.

Heretofore the PMPA has been collecting payments for milk delivered to handlers by approximately 500 of its member-producers—most of whom supply the Muskogee portion of the marketing area. One of the handler's under the Tulsa-Muskogee Order has a plant in each city and, with respect to milk received from member-producers at its Muskogee plant, remits sums due for milk received from such members to the association, but with respect to milk received from member-producers at its Tulsa plant, having the same type of membership agreement, this handler has thus far refused, along with several other Tulsa handlers, to remit in the same manner to the association.

In March 1951, the members of the PMPA authorized the association to begin collecting payments on their behalf, whenever the occasion arose, thus leaving to the management the decision as to when and how the cooperative would begin to collect for its members. After a series of marketing experiences involving the diversion of member milk and the problem of reblending the proceeds therefrom among its members, the PMPA submitted in July 1953, a written request to five Tulsa handlers not theretofore making payments to the association on a voluntary basis, pursuant to § 906.80 (c) of the order. Conferences followed during which the association volunteered to indemnify the handlers who paid the association, but apparently no agreement was reached as to the character of such indemnification. In these conferences the handlers expressed doubt as to the right of the association to collect for its members unless a further limited authorization, separate from the membership agreement was given by each producer, and they declined to comply with the request of the association.

During this interval producers were approached directly by handlers concerning such further authorization. Some producers came to their association representatives for advice. To many other members, the matter was of no practical consequence since payments were already being collected for milk received by handlers from them. A relatively few separate authorizations were received.

A special membership meeting was duly called and held on November 3 at which there was presented and adopted an amendment to the by-laws specifically authorizing the association to collect gross payments on behalf of member-producers and the blending thereof among the members. Thereafter the PMPA sought, by the proposal submitted at this hearing, to further clarify the order in respect of payments for member-producer milk.

Under existing membership agreements, the cooperative association is given explicit authority to designate the persons and places to which member milk is to be delivered. Under normal market conditions no change may be expected to result from the exercise of such authority in the relation of the vast majority of member-producers to their accustomed outlets, and the association, by its continued acquiescence in such deliveries and its continuous representation of those producers in matters affecting their interests in these established outlets, such as the checking of weights and tests, representation in making adjustments or negotiation of any of the terms and conditions of delivery and sale of members milk, may be deemed to be exercising its authority to market members' milk. The exercise of the authority becomes more obvious when, for various reasons, a quantity or number of member-producers are shifted from one handler to another or from a handler customarily receiving such milk, to a nonhandler.

In the spring of 1953 a number of handlers in the Muskogee area turned back milk, thus throwing upon the cooperative a sudden responsibility of finding another market. This it did, and during the months of April through October, the association diverted approximately 4,500,000 pounds of milk. For this milk the association arranged the hauling and collected the proceeds and reblended the proceeds among its producers. The association, at one time, also acquired a truck for transporting diverted or transferred milk but found that for the time being, other means of transportation were satisfactory.

Shifts of milk by the association between handlers to date have been of lesser frequency and volume largely because handlers expressly preferred to arrange for and handle such transfers themselves. However, the record shows that during 1952, quantities of other source milk (not priced) was classified in Class I while at the same time producer milk was classified in Class II. Because of such conditions and the possibility that one handler could be short, even though producer milk was generally available, opportunity still remains, to utilize a higher percentage of producer milk in Class I. A situation similar to that in 1952, could recur. The record also indicates that plans were well advanced to develop within the association a more extensive base-rating system for the distribution of proceeds as an incentive to reduce wide seasonal swings in production.

Under a milk order, handlers are not required to accept milk even though it is fully qualified and approved for fluid use. The responsibility for finding the best available market and of marketing milk so as to bring the best returns under an order program remains with the producer or with the cooperative who represents him. Movement of milk into the highest available uses at all seasons of the year not only aids in achieving the highest possible returns for existing supplies under the pooling system contained in the order but benefits non-members as well as members. Maintenance of facilities through which milk may be shifted in the quantities and at the times when needed to maximinize its use or to remove excess seasonal supplies, provides a useful and a stabilizing element in the market.

Evidence in the record indicates that payment by the cooperative will facilitate the shifting milk either among handlers or to the most accessible manufacturing outlets when necessary, even though only marginal quantities may be shifted as compared with the total quantity marketed; that it is necessary to carry out any plan of base rating for members; that it will tend to make the average member more conscious of the association's activity and services; that payment of haulers on behalf of members will enable the association to assist in dealing with hauling problems on a market-wide basis and will afford an avenue of frequent contact with members which, under the present system, is more susceptible of use to undermine member relations; and that such a method of payment should result in some reduction in the present cost to handlers of handling producer-payrolls.

An amendment offered at the hearing modified the original proposal so that certification by such a cooperative would be the basis for identifying the producers for whose milk payment would be required to be made to the certifying cooperative, and that as a prerequisite to acceptance of such certification the association agree to indemnify the handler who makes the payment in reliance upon the certification.

For the purpose of determining the channels through which payment is to be made under the order, it is concluded that the certification of membership by an association together with a guarantee of the accuracy of that certification on the part of the association affords a proper and sufficient basis for identifying the producers to whom payment must be made through their cooperative association in the discharge of the obligation imposed on a handler by the order.

In order that marketing conditions may not be disturbed by prolonged controversy the authority of a claimant cooperative to collect payment on behalf of its members and the correctness of its certification in any instance where the certification is challenged by a producer or by a handler should be determined by public administrative authority. The market administrator is an appropriate person to make such a determination.

It is also concluded that the submission of each of the items of information described in the amendment to the cooperative which collects payment for its members is incidental to and necessary to the proper operation of this method of making payment. Such information is necessary for the association to check the accuracy of the total payment received, and to compute and transmit appropriate payment to each of its members.

It was proposed that the required information for making partial payments for milk received during the first fifteen days of the current month be submitted by the 20th of each month and that such information with respect to final settlement for milk received each month be submitted by the 7th of the following month. Such dates should be the 25th and 10th day, respectively. While it is true that the detailed information is known to the handler by the dates proposed, it may not be in the form at that time in which it may be transmitted conveniently to the cooperative association. This is particularly true with respect to the information concerning final settlement for the month's deliveries. Announcement by the market administrator of prices essential to the calculation of the final amount due is not required until the 12th of the month. The dates adopted for furnishing the information will provide ample time for handlers to assemble such information and reasonable time for the purposes of the cooperative association. No changes are made in the dates presently provided for payment of monies to the cooperative association. Under this sequence of dates a cooperative association will be in position to make payment to its members by the dates on which handlers are required to pay other producers.

Handler witnesses indicated their feeling that the proposal, would (a) introduce irregularity and difficulties in the process of making farm inspections, (b) encourage producers whose milk was diverted to become careless in the production and care of milk on the farm, (c) create added difficulty on the part of handlers in keeping their plants approved by health authorities, (d) reduce the effectiveness of their own efforts through their field men to correct unsatisfactory conditions on the farm whenever they developed and (e) in general, result in a lowering of the quality of milk contrary to the objective of the order to secure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk for the market.

The record discloses, however, that of approximately 100 producers who were diverted about 70 shifted or were shifted back to approved plants without any difficulty in maintaining production on an approved basis and that such diversions in no way adversely affected the approved standing of the respective plants. It also discloses that while some modification of procedures were developed in order to keep in touch with diverted producers for the purpose of continuing periodic inspections of their farms, adequate inspection was continued.

On the other hand there is no indication in the record that, (a) handlers could not continue to use field man in the same manner and for the same purposes for which they are now used, (b) the cooperative association would not cooperate fully with the health authorities in keeping them in touch with member-producers whose milk may be diverted from time to time and in helping them to maintain proper standards of production and care of milk, (c) the cooperative association would not use or employ the necessary field men for this purpose or (d) the health authorities would not be as willing to cooperate with the cooperative association through their field men, in dealing with its member-producers as they have in the past with handlers in similar matters.

We are unable to find any convincing demonstration in this record that the quality of milk production in the Tulsa-Muskogee area would be adversely affected by the adoption of the proposed amendment.

A considerable portion of the testimony submitted in opposition to the proposed amendment expressed the view that the proposed changes were not in the best interests of its member-producers or of producers, in the market generally as contrasted with what the handlers had done or could do in the future on a voluntary basis. Concern was also expressed that the proposal would foster growth of monopoly control by the proponent cooperative association in the marketing of milk to handlers, with consequences inimical to their interests, to those of the consuming public and nonmember producers in that area, as well as tending toward a situation out of harmony with traditional standards of public policy towards monopolies in general.

Particular attention was drawn to the potential control which they asserted would come into the hands of an association as an incident to taking over the function of paying haulers, both as to the persons for whom and the conditions under which, milk could be hauled and the use of haulers to disseminate information among producers. Those who so testified should be well informed since, in the past, it was they, and not the producers, who made payment to the hauler on behalf of the producer with producer's money and were the ones to whom haulers looked for such payment. There was no adequate explanation or reason advanced, however, why a producer should not be allowed to pay his own hauling bills or why the producer would not be permitted to use his own association to do it for him. While the proponent association disclaimed having any present plans to take over the function of hauling or arrangements for hauling, except with respect to diverted milk for which it had to make them, it agreed that the problem of transporting milk from its member's farms to receiving plants was a part of the marketing of milk in which the association, as such, had an interest and responsibility. As to what might be done in the future and its merits, in so far as the hearing record discloses, must be regarded at this time as speculation rather than as fact.

The numerous Federal statutes designed to permit and to foster the growth of cooperative activity among farmers, including the Capper-Volstead Act of 1922, as amended, to which specific reference is made in the statute pursuant to which this milk order is issued, or the local statute under which the proponent cooperative association is organized, place no limit on the number of, or the percentage of, producers supplying a particular market who may act together in a cooperative to market their own milk. Within the marketing areas now regulated by Federal milk orders, it is known to the Secretary and is common knowledge throughout the industry that in some of the areas a preponderant majority of all milk producers are affiliated with and act through, a single cooperative association. In other markets there may be and are numerous cooperative associations, some of which operate as bargaining associations and others, to varying degrees, carry their marketing functions into manufacturing or wholesale and retail channels of distribution. At the same time, in all areas, as many milk producers as wish to, remain unaffiliated with any existing association, or are free to organize an association of their own.

Furthermore, the Department is not unmindful of the admonition contained in existing Federal law that in the exercise of the authority to issue milk orders, the Secretary shall accord such recognition and encouragement to producer-owned and producer-controlled cooperative associations as will be in harmony with the policy toward cooperative associations set forth in existing Acts of Congress, and as will tend to promote efficient methods of marketing and distribution. There should be no restriction on the right of farmers acting through their cooperative, to market their milk in the manner they feel is to their best interest merely because other persons doing business with them feel they could do it better.

The Capper-Volstead Act, to which specific reference is made above, contains the limitations beyond which cooperative bargaining may not enhance price levels and also contains the procedural means to make that limitation effective. Apprehensions expressed concerning a possible monopolistic trend contained in this record do not provide any basis, in and of themselves, for a denial of the proposal.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk, in the marketing area and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs were filed on behalf of the Pure Milk Producers Association of Tulsa and handlers who would be subject to the proposed marketing agreement and order, as hereby proposed to be amended. The briefs contained, proposed findings and conclusions, and arguments with respect to the provisions of the proposed amendments. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully considered along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that the findings and conclusions proposed in the briefs are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the request to make such findings or to reach such conclusions are denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions in this recommended decision.

Recommended marketing agreement and amendment to the order. The following order, amending the order, as amended, is recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which the foregoing conclusions may be carried out. The recommended marketing agreement is not included in this decision because the regulatory provisions thereof would be identical with those contained in the order as hereby proposed to be amended.

1. Delete § 906.80 (c) and substitute therefor the following:

(c) (1) Upon receipt of a written request from a cooperative association which the market administrator determines is authorized by its members to collect payment for their milk and receipt of a written promise to reimburse the handler the amount of any actual loss incurred by him because of any improper claim on the part of the cooperative, each handler shall (i) pay to the cooperative association on or before the 13th and 27th day of each month, in lieu of payments pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) respectively, of this paragraph an amount equal to the gross sum due for all milk received from certified members, less amounts owing by each member-producer to the handler for supplies purchased from him on prior written order or as evidenced by a delivery ticket signed by the producer, (ii) submit to the cooperative association on or before the 10th day of each month written information which shows for each such member-producer (a) the total pounds of milk received during the preceding month (b) the total pounds of butterfat contained in such milk, (c) the number of days on which milk was received, (d) for the month of April through June, the amount of base and excess milk received, and (e) the amounts withheld by the handler in payment for supplies sold and (iii) submit to the cooperative association on or before the 25th day of each month written information which shows for each such member-producer the total pounds of milk received during the first 15 days of the current month. The foregoing payment and submission of information shall be made with respect to milk of each producer whom the cooperative association certifies is a member, which is received on and after the first day of the calendar month next following receipt of such certification through the last day of the month next preceding receipt of notice from the cooperative association of a termination of membership or until the original request is rescinded in writing by the association.

(2) A copy of each such request, promise to reimburse and certified list of members shall be filed simultaneously with the market administrator by the cooperative and shall be subject to verification at his discretion, through audit of the records of the cooperative association pertaining thereto. Exceptions, if any, to the accuracy of such certification by a producer claimed to be a member, or by a handler, shall be made by written notice to the market administrator and shall be subject to his determination.

[Docket No. AO-173-A6]

HANDLING OF MILK IN WICHITA, KANSAS, MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS THERETO WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of this recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order amending the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Wichita, Kansas, marketing area.

Interested parties may file written exceptions to this recommended decision with the Hearing Clerk, Room 1353, South Building, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business of the 10th day after the publication of this recommended decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The hearing on the record of which the following findings and conclusions were formulated, was conducted at Wichita, Kansas, on October 7-9 and December 1-3, 1953 pursuant to notices thereof which were issued on September 18, 1953 and November 20, 1953 (18 F. R. 5629, 7547).

The major issues of the hearing related to:

1. Expansion of the marketing area;
2. Pool plant and producer qualifications;
3. The classification, allocation and accounting for milk;
4. Class prices;
5. Changes in the base rating plan of the order;
6. Expenses of administration; and
7. The issuance of a completely rewritten order.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions are based upon the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof:

1. Marketing area. The marketing area should be expanded to include the townships of Gypsum, Part, and Payne, all in Sedgwick County, Kansas, in addition to the territory presently defined. These townships are adjacent to the City of Wichita, and have substantial suburban population. This suburban population is a part of the rapid growth that Wichita has experienced in recent years. The area of these townships is now an integral part of the Wichita market, so that handling of milk in this area should be regulated on the same basis as that of other parts of the market. Wichita-Sedgwick County health authorities now exercise jurisdiction over the quality of milk distributed within an area extending 3 miles from the Wichita city limits and require it to be identical in quality with that sold in Wichita. While the entire area of these townships is not within the 3 mile limit the principal population is so situated. This situation is likewise true of the six other Sedgwick County townships presently included in the marketing area. No handlers not now regulated by the order will be brought under regulation at this time by the addition of these townships, as distribution is presently confined to the operations of regulated handlers. Since Wichita handlers distribute milk in the area to be included, interstate commerce in milk or its products is affected to the same extent as in the presently defined area. In addition the area to be added includes the Wichita Air Base, a Federal installation.

2. Pool plant and producer qualifications. The Wichita order presently provides that, an approved plant qualifies for participation in the market wide pool during the months of July through February if 15 percent or more of its receipts from approved dairy farmers are disposed of as Class I or Class II milk in the marketing area. For the months of March through June qualification is dependent upon Class I and II disposition of 50 percent of such receipts during the preceding months of August through November. The only plants qualified by the local health authorities are plants from which routes are operated in the marketing area. Under the present provisions one plant has failed to qualify during the months of March through June because distribution in the area during preceding fall months was less than the required 50 percent, even though total distribution in Class I may have exceeded that figure. Since in the case of route operating plants dispositions do not ordinarily vary seasonally to the extent that the dispositions of supply plants do, it is appropriate that there be less range in the performance requirements in order to establish identification with the Wichita market.

It is concluded that the requirements should be current for all months of the year and should specify a Class I disposition of 25 percent on routes in the marketing area and of 50 percent in total, for all months except March through June when such percentages should be 20 percent and 40 percent respectively. These are months of seasonally high production, so that the lesser percentages normally represent approximately the same volume of Class I disposition.

This requirement would mean that a plant having less than 25 percent (20 percent in the months of flush production) of its dispositions of graded receipts as Class I milk on routes in the marketing area would not be considered to be identified as an essential part of the supply of the market so that it might participate in the Wichita pool. The total reserve supply of route plants engaged to such a limited extent in distributing Class I milk in the Wichita market may not be attributed to the Class I operations of that market.

The additional requirement that at least half of a plant's receipts be disposed of as Class I milk in all except the flush months provides a reasonable basis for establishing the plant's obligation and interest in a fluid operation. Several plants regulated by the Wichita order have substantial distribution of Class I milk on routes outside the marketing area. The above standards are such that all plants presently regulated can qualify and impose no impediment to participation in the pool on the part of any plant developing supply in some proximate relation to its sales.

Changes should be made in the definition of "approved dairy farmer" and "approved plant" so that milk of a quality similar to that of the Wichita market will ge brought under regulation if disposed of to government institutions or bases located in the marketing area. Such facilities purchase milk on contract specifications for which approval of local health authorities is not required. Normally such specifications require milk of a quality similar to Grade A milk and Wichita handlers have so far been the only suppliers. Milk of such specifications should be brought under regulation on the same basis as locally approved milk if disposed of to such facilities in the marketing area.

A proposal to define as a handler any person who may not have an approved plant but disposes of Class I milk in the marketing area should not be adopted. The record provides no basis for the regulation to be effective for such a handler. The record and present order provide specifically for the regulation of handlers with approved plants whether or not such plants qualify as pool plants. The proponents of the proposal to redefine handler failed to indicate what regulation would be feasible for the handler with an unapproved plant. Such handlers conceivably could have minor distribution of Class I milk in those portions of the marketing area beyond the three-mile limit within which health authorities have jurisdiction. Such has been the case in the past without creating any problem in the market. Before Sedgwick County was authorized to establish regulations within the three-mile limit, unapproved milk could be sold in all parts of the present area that were outside the Wichita city limits.

3. The classification provisions of the order should be revised to classify milk in two classes and the quantity of milk to be priced in each class should be the sum of the quantities of skim milk and butterfat used in each class.

The present order provides for three classes of milk with Class I milk principally that disposed of for fluid consumption as milk, skim milk, buttermilk and flavored milk drinks, Class II milk that disposed of as cream and cream mixtures, cottage cheese, aerated cream and egg nog, and Class III milk that used for named manufactured dairy products. The volume of milk in Class I is determined principally on a volume basis, and the volume of milk in each of the other classes is determined on the basis of the 3.8 percent milk equivalent of the butterfat used in such class. The total classification thus determined for a handler is reconciled with receipts from producers by adjustment in the volume of Class III milk. Under the present system the handler is required to account for all butterfat received but not for all skim milk received. Reconciliation to receipts from producers is used in lieu of an accounting for the utilization of skim milk receipts.

It was proposed that milk be classified in two classes, with the cream and cream mixtures now Class II milk being Class I milk and with Class II milk to include what is now Class III milk and cottage cheese, aerated cream and egg nog presently classified as Class II milk. It was further proposed that the volume of milk in each class be determined by adding together the volumes of skim milk and butterfat in such class. Thus each handler would account for the utilization of both the skim milk and butterfat received and no reconciliation to receipts would be required.

The proposal to include in Class I those cream products formerly classified as Class II is closely associated with the proposed change in accounting procedure. Under the proposed system only the actual amounts of skim milk and butterfat disposed of in these products are to be priced at this class. The present system classifies as Class II milk the 3.8 percent equivalent of the butterfat disposed of in these products regardless of the use of the skim milk and provides a lower priced class to compensate for the fact that not all the whole milk now priced as Class II milk is used in such products. These products are required by health authorities to be from locally approved Grade A milk.

With respect to cottage cheese there is some dispute with respect to the requirements of the local health ordinances. In practice, however, at least one handler uses cottage cheese curd made from ungraded milk received at the unapproved plant of an affiliate. All cottage cheese disposed of as creamed cottage cheese however is creamed in handler's plants with cream from approved sources. It is concluded that the cream used to cream cottage cheese disposed of as creamed cottage cheese should be classified as Class I milk but that skim milk used to produce cottage cheese curd should be classified as Class II milk.

Aerated cream and eggnog should be classified as Class II milk. Both of these products are distributed in the Wichita market from sources other than locally approved milk.

Provision should be made for classifying as Class II milk plant loss or shrinkage up to 2 percent of the receipts of skim milk and butterfat from producers. All shrinkage of other source milk may be Class II, since receipts of other source milk are first allocated to Class II milk. Total shrinkage should be allocated to producer milk and other source milk prorata receipts from each source.

Specific provision should be made for the classification and allocation of inventories of milk, skim milk, cream (except that frozen and stored) and of products specifically mentioned as Class I milk. Class I products are classified on the basis of the form in which disposition is made. It is therefore necessary to account for skim milk and butterfat in the form of Class I products which are on hand and not disposed of at the end of the month. Class II products are accounted for primarily on the basis of the milk used to produce specified products. It is therefore unnecessary to include Class II products on hand at the end of the month in the handler's monthly report of receipts and utilization. The handler will be required to keep records of holdings of such products to facilitate the auditing of current receipts and utilization.

Closing inventory should be classified as Class II milk. Provision should be made to give the handler credit for opening inventory by subtracting such inventories from his current utilization in series beginning with Class II milk after first subtracting current receipts of other source milk and allowable shrinkage of producer milk. Any inventory allocated to Class I represents a current use in Class I for milk which was classified temporarily as Class II in the previous month. Such inventory milk should be subject to a reclassification charge if it was derived from producer milk. This may be determined by the amount of producer milk classified as Class II in the preceding month. Thus the quantity of inventory milk on which a reclassification charge is to be made because it is allocated to Class I milk in the current month should be limited to the amount of producer milk classified as Class II milk in excess of allowable shrinkage in the preceding month. This procedure conforms to the principle of assigning receipts from producers to the highest priced available utilization and eliminates the possibility of reclassification charge on inventory derived from other source milk. Any reclassification charge should be based on the difference between Class I and Class II values in the month of utilization.

In addition to changes required to conform to two classes of milk instead of three the provisions for classification of milk transferred to other milk plants should be amended to extend from 100 miles to 250 miles the area within which milk and skim milk may be transferred to unapproved plants at Class II classification. Such change is necessary to include an area within which ample manufacturing facilities are available to assure that milk not needed for the market can be processed. Some Wichita producers are so located that their milk may economically be diverted directly from the farm to plants more than 150 miles from Wichita. While the provisions for classification of milk moved, within this area permit classification as Class II milk without audit of books and records on movements to plants which do not distribute fluid milk or cream, authority for audit is required if the unapproved plant is operated by a person who is a handler or an affiliate of a handler. Handlers objected to authorizing audits in all cases, claiming that such a requirement interferred with opportunity for disposition of surplus milk to strictly manufacturing plants. In the case of plants under common or affiliated ownership such objection is not valid, and some additional safeguards are necessary to insure proper classification. The provisions for transfer of milk between approved plants and the allocation provisions of the order should be revised so that producer milk is assured of maintaining its priority over other source milk when such transfers occur.

It was proposed that classification be so worded that products not specifically named or described be Class II milk rather than Class I milk as presently provided. An extensive list of products and uses is presently named as Class III milk. By expanding this list to include those items presently in Class II milk which are not to be included as Class I milk it appears that Class II milk will include all the products commonly considered as manufactured milk products. Should new products be developed their classification can be considered at a future hearing.

It was proposed that other source milk received from an unapproved plant to which an equivalent volume of Class I milk was moved should be allocated to Class I milk in preference to producer milk if such movements represented exchange of bulk milk for packaged milk or vice versa. It was contended that regulated plants should have the opportunity to perform custom bottling for unregulated plants without Wichita producers receiving benefit of Class I sales. The record fails to indicate that Wichita health authorities will permit milk from other areas to be handled in Wichita plants except for emergency supplies needed for the Wichita market. The provision would provide a means whereby multiple plant operators could enjoy the economies of large scale bottling operations in their Wichita regulated plants while expanding their out-of-market sales with unpriced milk, whereas single plant operators would be paying order prices for their Class I sales out of the area. Custom bottling has not been a practice in the Wichita market. There are sufficient facilities in the market so that any regulated handler who might require such services could have them performed in a regulated plant. The proposal should not be adopted on the basis of this record.

It was also proposed that if the market administrator determine that producer milk was not available at the Class I price other source milk imported with health authority approval should have priority over producer milk in assignment to Class I milk in an amount up to 5 percent of Class I sales. The record indicates that it was intended by the proponents that the actual quantity within this limit to have such priority should be related more closely to the quantity actually needed, but fails to indicate a precise method for such determination. The order presently provides that a handler may use other source milk for Class I needs in excess of receipts of producer milk without charge if he can prove that producer milk for such needs was not available at the Class I price. If producer milk is available the handler must pay the difference between the surplus price and the Class I price if he uses other source milk for Class I uses. Adoption of the proposal would make more critical the determination of the market administrator regarding availability of producer milk, inasmuch as it would affect the volume of Class I milk for which the handler would account to the pool in addition to determining whether a compensation payment was due. Proponents admit that the provision proposed would have no present effect. It should not be adopted on the basis of this record.

4. Class prices. (a) The Class I price should be determined by adding $1.65 to a basic formula price which is the higher of the paying prices of mid-west condenseries or a butter-powder formula price, both for the preceding month.

The basic formula price is essentially the same as that now in the order. The mid-west condenseries are those now named less three plants for which a price is no longer reported. The butter-powder formula price incorporates different yield factors and make allowances from that now contained in the order but results in practically the same prices.

The $1.65 Class I differential is that now contained in the order. Handlers proposed that the Class I differential be $1.55 in the months of August through March, and $1.15 in other months. Producers proposed that the differential be $1.90 which they represented as the amount necessary to provide the same returns to producers under skim milk-butterfat accounting as the present $1.65 when applied to the volumes in each class under the present method of accounting.

The present $1.65 differential first became effective April 1, 1952, following a period (September 1951 through March 1952) for which the differential was temporarily established at $1.80 due to emergency conditions in the Wichita market. Prior to this emergency period the Class I differential had for some years been $1.45 in all months except April, May and June, when it was $1.00.

Substantial premiums in excess of minimum order prices were paid by Wichita handlers from August 1952 through March 1953, ranging from 30 to 64 cents per hundredweight of Class I and Class II milk. Premiums in excess of the temporarily increased Class I and Class II prices were also paid from November 1951 through March 1952. No premiums have been reported paid since March 1953.

In common with experience in other areas and a national trend there has been a substantial increase in milk production in the Wichita market within the past year. For October 1952 which is normally a month of seasonally low production, total receipts of producer milk were the highest recorded since the order has been effective. Official notice is hereby taken of the statistical summary released by the market administrator with respect to November 1953, which shows that in that month both total deliveries and average daily production per producer set new high records. While fluid sales have also increased the increase in production has been at a much more rapid rate. As a result the percentage of producer milk in the surplus (presently Class III) Class has increased from 6.58 percent in October 1952 to 15.26 percent in October 1953 and from 12.29 percent in November 1952 to 28.02 percent in November 1953.

The changes in classification and accounting methods herein adopted will reduce the volume of milk accounted for as Class I milk below the total of those volumes now accounted for as Class I and Class II milk. This reduction will not be completely compensated for by the increase from Class II to Class I price for a portion of what is presently Class II milk, and the class butterfat differentials to be used. To bring the same returns to producers as the present system for the milk which is now Class I and Class II would require an increase of approximately 18 cents in the Class I price differential. The difference in returns under the two systems of accounting results almost wholly from changes in charges for items now classified as Class II milk. The charges computed for items now classified as Class I milk would be virtually unchanged, but over 80 percent of the volume now classified as Class II milk would be priced at the new Class II surplus class while less than 20 percent would be priced as Class I milk. A much higher proportion of the difference between Class I and Class II prices is allocated to skim milk values than to butterfat values by the butterfat differentials adopted, so that the increased value from the Class I differential and butterfat differentials applicable to the volume of cream classified as Class I is much less than the reduced value applicable to the larger volumes of skim milk to be classified as Class II milk.

The Wichita order contains no provision for automatic adjustment of the Class I price with changes in the relationship of producer milk supplies to Class I sales, nor was any proopsal for such adjustment made at this hearing. At present producer milk supplies are increasing faster than are Class I sales, whereas recently substantial premiums were required to attract supplies barely adequate for the needs of the market. Without any automatic provision to reflect these changing conditions in the level of the Class I price, the present Class I differential of $1.65 appears appropriate for the revised classification and accounting system.

(b) Class II milk. The price for Class II milk should be the higher of the average of prices paid for ungraded milk at four Kansas milk manufacturing plants or the average price paid at all manufacturing plants in the United States, except for the months of March through June, when the price should be the average price of the four Kansas plants.

The Wichita order prices what is now Class III milk at the higher of a butter-powder formula price, less 15 cents in the months of April through July, or the paying prices of two local manufacturing plants. A third plant named in the order is no longer in operation. Under a suspension action presently effective pending amendment resulting from this hearing the provisions normally effective only for the months of April through July are currently effective for all months, and the Class III price is currently the butter-powder formula price less 15 cents.

Handlers proposed that the price for Class II milk under the revised classification and accounting system be the average of the paying prices of four Kansas manufacturing milk plants. A cooperative association of producers which is currently accounting to the pool for a substantial volume of Class III milk diverted for its account to manufacturing plants proposed that the price be the revised butter-powder price less 20 cents.

The prices paid by the plants proposed by handlers are available on the record only for the period from January 1952 through October 1953. For this period these prices were somewhat higher than those of the two plants now used as an alternative basis for the Class III price. In 1952 the prices paid by these four plants averaged 14.9 cents less than the butter formula powder price. For the first 10 months of 1953 the four-plant price averaged 37.5 cents less than the butter-powder formula price. Thus the handler proposal would have produced a price in 1952 of 5.1 cents higher than the producer proposal but in 1953 would have resulted in a price 17.5 cents less. The gross margin between market values of butter and nonfat dry milk solids and the paying prices of these plants had increased 22.6 cents per hundred pounds of milk.

Increases in gross margins between market values of products and prices paid for milk during this period are not confined to these four plants. The record shows that the prices paid farmers for milk used in the production of various products and in different areas of the country have declined in relation to these market values from 1952 to 1953. The price series representing the broadest coverage, from the standpoint of both area and use, is that for milk for manufacturing purposes in the United States. This price averaged 3 cents less than the butter-powder formula price in 1952 and 19 cents less in 1953, representing thereby an increase of 16 cents in gross margin. The average level of this price for the past seven years ($3.56) has been very close to that of the butter-powder formula price ($3.60). The principal periods in which the U. S. average price for manufacturing milk has been significantly less than the butter-powder formula price were in portions of 1949 and 1950 and 1953. These were periods in which market values of butter and nonfat dry milk solids were maintained at fixed support price levels by substantial governmental purchases. While gross margins widened in 1949 and 1950 they returned to a normal relationship when conditions changed.

The producer proposal to establish the Class II price at 20 cents below the butter-powder price appears to be based upon the ability of the association to market milk at this level under current conditions. To adopt this proposal in a revised order for an indefinite period of time would presume that the present wider gross margins between product values and manufacturing milk prices will continue indefinitely. The butter-powder formula price was included as an alternative in determining the present price because local plant prices previously used did not represent the prices generally paid for manufacturing milk. There is nothing in this record to indicate that prices generally paid for manufacturing milk are not an appropriate basis for pricing Class II milk in the Wichita market. The additional volumes of milk to be priced as Class II milk under the revised classification and accounting systems are roughly equivalent to the volumes of skim milk handlers use in producing cottage cheese, a high value product. It appears that over the long period the butter-powder formula price represents the national average price paid for manufacturing milk but currently is higher than that price by an amount approximately equal to the 20-cent adjustment proposed by producers. A preliminary estimate of the national average price for manufacturing milk is published monthly by the Department by the end of the month for which it applies. The price per hundredweight and the average test of milk are given. While this preliminary estimate is subject to later revision, comparisons of preliminary and final figures indicate that these seldom show a revised price that is not related to a corresponding revision in the butterfat test reported. It appears that when converted to a standard butterfat test by direct ratio the price reported currently is appropriate for use in determining the Class II price under the Wichita order.

It is concluded that the Class II price for all months except March through July should be the higher of the U. S. average manufacturing milk price, converted to a 3.8 percent basis by direct ratio, or the average of the paying prices of the four Kansas manufacturing plants. For the flush production months of March through June the Class II price should be the average of the paying prices of the four Kansas plants. These are months in which greater difficulty may be experienced in the handling of Class II milk, and the use of the local paying prices provides greater assurance that all milk will be handled. Volumes of Class III milk have been higher in March than July in most recent years, so that March through June appear to be the months for which it appears most appropriate to provide that paying prices of local plants determine the Class II price.

(c) Butterfat differentials for each class of milk should be established in order to determine the value of milk used in each class on the basis of the butterfat test of milk used in such class. Under the present system of accounting the use of butterfat in each class affects the volume of milk in Classes II and III and the amount of reconciliation to producer receipts required. Under the proposed system of accounting volume of milk or products determines the volume in each class and a means of varying the value of such volumes as the butterfat content varies is required. It was suggested that the butterfat differential be 1.20 times the price of butter in both classes. It appears more appropriate that the differential for Class I be 1.20 times the price of butter and that the differential for Class II milk be 1.15 times the price of butter. It is appropriate that there be some difference in the price of butterfat used in the two classes. The lower differential for Class II milk will provide a better relation between values of skim milk and butterfat in this class. In order that the Class I butterfat differential may be announced early in the month to which it applies the butter price used in its computation should be that for the preceding month. The current month butter price should be used in computing the Class II differential, since milk prices for the current month determine the Class II price.

5. Determination of bases for producers. Producers proposed a modification in the method by which producer bases are determined under the order. Presently a producer may make a base operative for the following calendar year only by regular deliveries for the period from August 31 through November 30 of each year. Daily average delivery in the months of August through November constitute such a producer's base. A producer without a regular base may however still receive the base price for that percentage of his current deliveries that total base milk deliveries are to total deliveries of all producers.

It was proposed that, effective January 1, 1955, each producer base be established by dividing total deliveries during the preceding months of August through November by 122, that such bases be operative, as are the present bases, for the following calendar year, and that producers without a base be paid the excess price for all their milk until a base so established shall be operative. In support of this proposal it was testified that some producers avoid making a base because they can secure increased returns through the provisions for producers without a base, also that these and other new producers entering the market after the base forming period have an advantage over producers with fixed bases in that they may by increasing the volume of their deliveries receive base price for an increasing volume of milk. The return to producers without a fixed base under the present system is roughly equivalent to that which would result if a blend or uniform price were computed for all milk.

The Wichita market has operated a base-excess plan continuously for many years and has achieved considerable success in leveling the seasonal pattern of production. Until 1953, deliveries of base milk have seldom been sufficient to supply Class I and Class II needs so that some excess milk was used for Class II, and sometimes Class I, needs in all but six months of the three year period from January 1950 through December 1952. In 1953 some base milk has been classified as Class III milk each month and all excess milk has been classified as Class III milk. The volume of bases established August-November 1953 indicates the probability that in 1954 more base milk will be classified in the surplus class.

Under these circumstances the opportunity for producers without bases to realize returns equal to or in excess of those with established bases has more significance in the minds of producers. The proposal made would go much further, however, than to remove any disadvantage to producers who establish bases. It would require producers without established bases to receive the excess price until the beginning of the calendar year following the period within which they would have opportunity to establish bases, and would require that such a producer establish a base by deliveries for which he received the excess price. In a market in which bases are operative throughout the year as in the Wichita market, such a provision would make the base provisions more influential than the Class I price in determining whether or not producers entered the market.

It is concluded that the base plan should be modified by providing that during the months of January through July the producer without an established base should be paid base price for half the volume of milk presently computed, but that for the months of August through December, which is the base forming period plus the following month of December needed for computation of bases, the present provisions should apply. Bases should be computed for those producers who deliver milk 60 or more days during the base-forming period, but the minimum number of days by which deliveries during the period should be divided to determine a daily average base should be 90. Producers will thus be able to enter the market by approximately the present August 31 date and establish a base at their full daily average deliveries. Producers who enter the market after that date but by October 1 will establish a base somewhat less than their average daily deliveries but one which should provide returns in the following calendar year in excess of those applicable for producers without a base. No base is established for producers who deliver less than 60 days because it is desirable to influence producers to enter the market early in the base forming period, and the bases established for such producers under the 90 day provision might easily provide returns less than they could expect under the provisions for producers without established bases.

Such a plan should make it more attractive for producers to enter the market at the time of year at which their milk is most likely to be needed without requiring them to deliver all their milk at the excess price for substantial periods of time.

As proposed, such provisions should be effective as a basis for payment to producers January 1, 1955. This will provide opportunity for all producers to become fully acquainted with the plan and to make their plans accordingly.

6. Expenses of administration. It was proposed that the volume of milk for which handlers should be assessed to defray expense of administration of the order should be limited to Class I milk rather than all milk received from approved dairy farmers, as presently provided. The proposal was made by a cooperative association presently acting as a handler in diverting producer milk for its account to unapproved plants for manufacturing purposes. Handlers objected to the proposal because it would affect the proportions of their contributions as related to each other, but did not object to other means which might exempt a cooperative association from administrative assessments if its only function as a handler was in diverting milk for surplus disposal. To make such provision would raise complex questions concerning the treatment of both cooperative associations and handlers under varying conditions. It is believed that with the provisions adopted herein for pricing Class II milk there is no need for changing the assessment provisions other than for clarification of language and to make the date for payment consistent with other payment dates of the order.

7. A complete amended order should be issued. The adoption of skim milk-butterfat classification and accounting required changes in the language of many provisions of the order. Such changes are so extensive as to require issuance of a complete amended order. All provisions of such an order were considered in detail at the hearing. Other than as required for conformity with the conclusions stated herein such changes are principally for clarification and make no substantial changes in the regulation.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs were filed on behalf of producers and handlers who would be subject to the proposed marketing agreement and order, as hereby proposed to be amended. The briefs contained suggested findings of fact, conclusions, and arguments with respect to the proposals discussed at the hearing. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully considered along with evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that the suggested findings and conclusions contained in the briefs are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the requests to make such findings or to reach such conclusions are denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the findings and conclusions in this decision.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order as hereby proposed to be amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which effect market supply of and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and in the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity, specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Recommended marketing agreement and order. The following order amending the order, as amended, is recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which the foregoing conclusions may be carried out. The recommended marketing agreement is not included in this decision because the regulatory provisions thereof would be identical with those contained in the order.

§ 968.30 Periodic reports. On or before the 7th day after the end of each month each handler, except a producer-handler, shall, with respect to milk or milk products which were received or produced by such handler during such month, report to the market administrator in the detail and form prescribed by the market administrator, as follows:

(a) The quantities of butterfat and skim milk contained in milk received from each producer or approved dairy farmer, and the number of days on which milk was received from each producer;

(b) The quantities of skim milk and butterfat contained in receipts of milk, and milk products from other handlers;

(c) The quantities of skim milk and butterfat contained in receipts of other source milk (except Class II products disposed of in the form in which received without further processing or packaging by the handler);

(d) The utilization of all skim milk and butterfat the receipt of which is required to be reported pursuant to this section;

(e) The pounds of skim milk and butterfat contained in all milk, skim milk, and cream and other Class I products on hand at the beginning and at the end of the delivery period;

(f) Such other information with respect to the use of milk as the market administrator may request, including a separate statement of skim milk and butterfat disposed of as Class I milk on routes within the marketing area.

§ 968.31 Payroll reports. On or before the 20th day after the end of each month each handler shall submit to the market administrator his producer payroll for such month which shall show for each producer and each approved dairy farmer:

(a) His total deliveries of base milk and total deliveries of milk in excess of base milk;

(b) The average butterfat content of his milk; and

(c) The net amount of such handler's payments to such producer or approved dairy farmer with the prices, deductions, and charges involved.

§ 968.32 Reports of producer-handlers. Each producer-handler shall make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator shall require.

§ 968.33 Records and facilities. Each handler shall maintain and make available to the market administrator or to his representative during the usual hours of business such accounts and records of his operations and such facilities as are necessary for the market administrator to verify or establish the correct data with respect to:

(a) The receipts of producer milk and other source milk and the utilization of such receipts;

(b) The weights and tests for butterfat and other content of all milk, skim milk, cream and milk products handled;

(c) Payments to producers and cooperative associations; and

(d) The pounds of skim milk and butterfat contained in or represented by all milk, skim milk, cream and each milk product on hand at the beginning and at the end of each month.

§ 968.34 Retention of records. All books and records required under this part to be made available to the market administrator shall be retained by the handler for a period of three years to begin at the end of the calendar month to which such books and records pertain: Provided, That if, within such three-year periods, the market administrator notified the handler in writing that the retention of such books and records, or specified books and records, is necessary in connection with a proceeding under section 8c (15) (A) of the act or a court action specified in such notice, the handler shall retain such books and records, or specified books and records, until further written notification from the market administrator. In either case the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly, upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION

§ 968.40 Skim milk and butterfat to be classified. All skim and butterfat received within the month by a handler which is required to be reported pursuant to § 968.30 shall be classified by the market administrator pursuant to the provisions contained in § 968.41 through § 968.46.

§ 968.41 Classes of utilization. Subject to conditions set forth in §§ 968.43 and 968.44, classes of utilization shall be:

(a) Class I milk shall be all skim milk (including reconstituted skim milk) and butterfat (1) disposed of in the form of milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, yogurt, cream, cultured sour cream, any mixture (except bulk ice cream mix) of cream and milk or skim milk, (2) used to produce concentrated (including frozen) milk, flavored milk or flavored milk drinks disposed of for fluid consumption neither sterilized nor in hermetically sealed cans, (3) skim milk and butterfat used in creaming cottage cheese disposed of as creamed cottage cheese, and (4) all other skim milk and butterfat not specifically accounted for as Class II milk.

(b) Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat: (1) used to produce butter, cheese (including skim milk used to produce cottage cheese curd, but not including skim milk or butterfat used in creaming cottage cheese) plain or sweetened condensed or evaporated milk, spray or roller process nonfat dry milk solids, powdered whole milk, ice cream, ice cream mix, frozen desserts, casein, margarin; (2) in cream frozen and stored; (3) used for starter churning, wholesale baking and candy making; (4) disposed of as livestock feed; (5) in skim milk dumped after prior notification to and opportunity for verification by the market administrator; (6) in shrinkage up to 2 percent of receipts from producers; (7) in shrinkage of other source milk; and (8) in inventory at the end of the month as milk, skim milk, cream (except frozen) or any product specified in paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 968.42 Shrinkage. The market administrator shall prorate shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat classified in Class II milk between the receipts of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in milk from producers and from other sources. For the purpose of prorating shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat, skim milk and butterfat in milk diverted directly from producers' farms to another handler shall be included as a receipt of the handler to whom such milk and butterfat was diverted, and excluded from receipts of the diverting handler.

§ 968.43 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) All skim milk and butterfat shall be Class I milk unless the handler who first receives such skim milk or butterfat can prove to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should be classified otherwise.

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat classified as Class II milk shall be reclassified if such skim milk or butterfat is later disposed of by such handler or another handler (whether in original or other form) as Class I milk. Any skim milk or butterfat which was classified as Class II in the previous month pursuant to § 968.41 (b) (8) shall be reclassified as Class I milk if it is subtracted in the current month from Class I pursuant to § 968.46 (a) (4).

§ 968.44 Transfers. Skim milk and butterfat transferred or diverted from an approved plant shall be classified:

(a) At the class mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both handlers on or before the 7th day after the end of the month which such transaction occurred, otherwise as Class I milk, if transferred or diverted in the form of milk, skim milk or cream to the approved plant of another handler, subject in either event to the following conditions:

(1) The receiving handler has utilization in such class of an equivalent amount of skim milk and butterfat, respectively; and

(2) Such skim milk or butterfat shall be classified so as to allocate to producer milk the greatest possible total Class I utilization in the two plants.

(b) As Class I milk if transferred in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream to a producer-handler.

(c) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted in the form of milk, skim milk or cream to a nonpool plant located more than 250 miles from the pool plant by the shortest highway distance as determined by the market administrator, except that (1) cream so transferred may be classified as Class II milk if its utilization as Class II milk is established through the operation of another Federal order for another milk marketing area; or (2) cream so transferred with prior notice to the market administrator, and with each container labeled or tagged with a certificate of the transferor that such cream is sold as "Grade C cream for manufacturing only", may be classified as Class II milk, subject to such verification of alternative utilization as the market administrator may make.

(d) As Class I milk, if transferred or diverted in the form of milk, skim milk or cream to a nonpool plant distributing fluid milk or cream and located less than 250 miles from the pool plant from which transferred, unless the market administrator is permitted to audit the records of receipts and utilization at such nonpool plant, in which case the classification of all skim milk and butterfat received at such nonpool plant shall be determined and the skim milk and butterfat transferred from the pool plant shall be allocated to the highest use remaining after subtracting, in series beginning with Class I milk, receipts of skim milk and butterfat at such nonpool plant direct from dairy farmers who the market administrator determines constitute the regular source of supply for fluid usage of such nonpool plant in markets supplied by such plant.

(e) As Class II milk, if transferred or diverted in the form of milk, skim milk or cream to an unapproved plant, located not more than 250 miles from the approved plant, and which does not distribute fluid milk or cream, except that where such unapproved plant is operated by a person who is also a handler or an affiliate of a handler, (1) the market administrator shall be permitted to audit the records of receipts and utilization at such unapproved plant, and (2) to the extent that skim milk or butterfat is disposed of from such unapproved plant to any other milk plant in the form of milk, skim milk or cream, skim milk or butterfat so transferred or diverted to such unapproved plant shall be classified as if moved directly from the approved plant to such other milk plant.

(f) Skim milk or butterfat transferred to a nonpool plant from which fluid milk, skim milk or cream is transferred to a pool plant shall be subject to reclassification to the extent of the amount so transferred from such nonpool plant.

§ 968.45 Computation of the skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each month, the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for other obvious errors the report of receipts and utilization submitted by each handler and shall compute the pounds of skim milk and butterfat in Class II milk for such handler.

§ 968.46 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified. After making the computation pursuant to § 968.45 the market administrator shall determine the classification of milk received from producers as follows:

(a) Skim milk shall be allocated in the following manner:

(1) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class II the pounds of skim milk determined pursuant to § 968.41 (b) (6);

(2) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class the pounds of skim milk received from other pool plants in a form other than milk, skim milk or cream according to its classification pursuant to § 968.41;

(3) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk, in series beginning with Class III, the pounds of skim milk in receipts of other source milk;

(4) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in series beginning with Class II, the pounds of skim milk in inventory at the beginning of the month in the form of milk, skim milk, cream (except frozen) or any product specified in § 968.41 (a);

(5) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class the skim milk received from other handlers in the form of milk, skim milk or cream according to its classification as determined pursuant to § 968.44 (a);

(6) Add to the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph; and

(7) If the remaining pounds of skim milk in both classes exceed the pounds of skim milk received from producers, subtract such excess from the remaining pounds of skim milk in series beginning with Class II milk. Any amount so subtracted shall be called "overage."

(b) Butterfat shall be allocated in accordance with the same procedure outlined for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Determine the weighted average butterfat content of the Class I and Class II milk computed pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

§ 968.50 Basic formula price to be used in determing Class I prices. The basic formula price to be used in determining the price per hundredweight of Class I milk shall be the higher of the prices computed pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

(a) The average of the basic or field prices per hundredweight reported to have been paid or to be paid for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the month at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department divided by 3.5 and multiplied by 3.8:

(b) The price per hundredweight computed by adding together the plus values pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph:

(1) From the simple average as computed by the market administrator, of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter per pound at Chicago as reported by the Department during the month, subtract 3 cents, add 20 percent thereof and multiply by 3.8.

(2) From the simple average, as computed by the market administrator, of the weighted averages of carlot price per pound for nonfat dry milk solids, spray, and roller process, respectively, for human consumption, f. o. b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area, as published for the period from the 26th day of the immediately preceding month through the 25th day of the current month by the Department, deduct 5.5 cents, multiply by 8.5, and then multiply by 0.962.

§ 968.51 Class prices. Subject to the provisions of § 968.52, the minimum prices per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for milk received at his plant from producers during the month shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk. The basic formula price for the preceding month plus $1.65.

(b) Class II milk. The price per hundredweight shall be:

(1) For the months of March, April, May and June, the average of the prices reported to have been paid or to be paid for ungraded milk of 3.8 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the month at the following plants for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or the Department:

§ 968.52 Handler butterfat differential. If the average butterfat test of Class I milk or Class II milk as calculated pursuant to § 968.46 is more or less than 3.8 percent, there shall be added to, or subtracted from, as the case may be, the price for such class of utilization for each one-tenth of one percent that such average butterfat test is above or below 3.8 percent, a butterfat differential computed by multiplying the simple average, as computed by the market administrator, of the daily wholesale selling price per pound (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter at Chicago as reported by the Department during the month specified below by the applicable factor listed, and rounding to the nearest one-tenth cent:

(a) Class I milk. Multiply such price for the preceding month by .120;

(b) Class II milk. Multiply such price for the current month by .115.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 968.60 Producer-Handlers. Sections 968.40 through 968.46, 968.50 through 968.52, 968.61, 968.62, 968.70, 968.71 and 968.80 through 968.88 shall not apply to a producer-handler.

§ 968.61 Handlers subject to other orders. In the case of any handler who the Secretary determines disposes of a greater portion of his milk as Class I milk in another marketing area regulated by another milk marketing agreement or order issued pursuant to the act, the provisions of this order shall not apply except as follows:

(a) The handler shall, with respect to his total receipts of skim milk and butterfat, make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may require and allow verification of such reports by the market administrator.

(b) If the price which such handler is required to pay under the other Federal order to which he is subject, for skim milk and butterfat which would be classified as Class I milk under this order is less than the price provided by this order, such handler shall pay to the market administrator for deposit into the producer-settlement fund with respect to all skim milk and butterfat disposed of (except to other handlers) as Class I milk within the marketing area, an amount equal to the difference between the value of such skim milk or butterfat as computed pursuant to this order and its value as determined pursuant to the other order to which he is subject. Such payments shall be made on or before the 12th day after the end of each delivery period.

§ 968.62 Handler operating an approved plant which is not a pool plant. Each handler who operates an approved plant which is not a pool plant during a delivery period, shall in lieu of the payments required pursuant to §§ 968.80 through 968.85, pay to the market administrator, for the producer-settlement fund, on or before the 25th day after the end of such delivery period, the amount resulting from the computations of either paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of this section, whichever is less.

(a) The product of the quantity of milk received by such handler which was disposed of in the marketing area on routes as Class I milk during the delivery period multiplied by the difference between the price for Class I milk pursuant to § 968.51 and the price for Class II milk pursuant to § 968.52.

(b) Any plus amount resulting from the following computation: From an amount equal to the net pool obligation which would be computed pursuant to § 968.70 for such handler for such month if such handler operated a pool plant deduct the gross payments made by such handler to approved dairy farmers for milk received during such delivery period.

§ 968.70 Computation of the value of milk received from producers by each handler at pool plants. The value of milk received during each delivery period by each handler from producers at pool plants shall be a sum of money computed as follows:

(a) Multiply the pounds of milk in each class computed pursuant to § 968.46 (c) by the applicable respective class prices (adjusted pursuant to § 968.52) and add together the resulting amounts;

(b) Add an amount computed by multiplying the pounds of overage deducted from each class pursuant to § 968.46 (a)

(7) by the applicable respective class prices;

(c) Add a reclassification charge computed at a rate equal to the difference between the Class I and Class II prices for the current month for skim milk and butterfat in inventory which is subtracted from Class I pursuant to § 968.46 (a) (4) and the corresponding step of § 968.46 (b) which is not in excess of the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, remaining in Class II milk in the previous month pursuant to § 968.46 (a) (5) and the corresponding step of § 968.46 (b).

(d) For any other source skim milk or butterfat subtracted from Class I milk pursuant to § 968.46 (a) (3) and (b), add an amount equal to the difference between the values of such skim milk and butterfat at the Class I price and at the Class II price, unless the handler can prove to the satisfaction of the market administrator that such other source skim milk and butterfat was used only to the extent that producer milk was not available either directly from producers or at the plant of another handler at the Class I price.

§ 968.71 Computation of uniform prices for base milk and excess milk. For each month, the market administrator shall compute the uniform prices per hundredweight for base milk and excess milk as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the values computed pursuant to § 968.70 for all handlers who made the reports prescribed in § 968.30 and who made the payments pursuant to § 968.80 and § 968.83 for the preceding month;

(b) Add an amount equal to not less than one-half of the unobligated cash balance in the producer-settlement fund;

(c) Subtract if the average butterfat content of the milk included in these computations is greater than 3.8 percent; or add if such average butterfat content is less than 3.8 percent an amount computed by multiplying the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 3.8 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 968.82 and multiplying the resulting figure by the total hundredweight of such milk;

(d) Compute the total value on a 3.8 percent butterfat basis of the excess milk included in these computations by multiplying the hundredweight of such milk not in excess of the total quantity of Class II milk included in these computations by the price of Class II milk of 3.8 percent butterfat content, multiplying the hundredweight of such milk in excess of the total hundredweight of such Class II milk by the price of Class I milk of 3.8 percent butterfat content and adding together the resulting amounts;

(e) Divide the total value of excess milk obtained in paragraph (d) of this section by the total hundredweight of such milk and adjust to the nearest cent. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for excess milk of 3.8 percent butterfat content received from producers;

(f) Subtract the value of excess milk obtained in paragraph (d) of this section from the value of all milk obtained in paragraph (c) of this section and adjust by any amount involved in adjusting the uniform price of excess milk to the nearest cent;

(g) Divide the amount obtained in paragraph (f) of this section by the total hundredweight of base milk included in these computations;

(h) Subtract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents from the amount computed pursuant to paragraph (g) of this section. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for base milk of 3.8 percent butterfat content received from producers.

PAYMENTS

§ 968.80 Time and method of payment. Each handler operating a pool plant shall make payment as follows:

(a) On or before the 12th day after the end of the month during which the milk was received, to each producer for whom payment is not made pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section, at not less than the applicable uniform prices computed pursuant to § 968.71 (h) and (e) for such producers deliveries of base milk and excess milk, respectively, adjusted by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 968.81, and less the amount of the payment made pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section. If by such date, such handler has not received full payment pursuant to § 968.84 he may reduce his total payments uniformly to all producers by not more than the amount of the reduction in payment by the market administrator. He shall, however, complete such payments pursuant to this paragraph not later than the date for making such payments next following receipt of the balance from the market administrator.

(b) On or before the 27th day of each month, to each producer for whom payment is made pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section, for milk received from him during the first 15 days of such month, at the approximate value of such milk.

(c) On or before the 11th day after the end of each month and on or before the 24th day of each month, in lieu of payments pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b), respectively, of this section, to a cooperative association which so requests, for milk which it caused to be delivered to such handler from producers, an amount equal to the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers. Such payments due on or before the 11th day after the end of the month shall be accompanied by a statement showing for each producer the items required to be reported pursuant to § 968.31, and payments due on or before the 24th day of the month shall be accompanied by a statement of the amount of money for each producer.

§ 968.81 Producer butterfat differential. In making payments pursuant to § 968.80 (a) there shall be added to or subtracted from the uniform prices per hundredweight for each one-tenth of one percent that the average butterfat content is above or below 3.8 percent an amount computed by multiplying by .12 the simple average, as computed by the market administrator, of the daily wholesale selling prices per pound (using the mid-point of any range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter at Chicago as reported by the Department during the month and rounding to the nearest one-tenth cent.

§ 968.82 Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as the "producer-settlement fund" into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers pursuant to §§ 968.83, 968.84, 968.61 and 968.62: Provided, That the market administrator shall offset any such payment due to any handler against payments due from such handler. Immediately after computing the uniform price for each delivery period, the market administrator shall compute the amount by which each handler's net pool obligation is greater or less than the sum obtained by multiplying the hundredweight of milk of producers by the appropriate prices required to be paid producers by handlers pursuant to § 968.80 and adding together the resulting amounts, and shall enter such amount on each handler's account as such handler's pool debit or credit, as the case may be, and render such handler a transcript of his account.

§ 968.83 Payments to the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 12th day after the end of each month, each handler shall pay to the market administrator for payment to producers through the producer-settlement fund, the amount by which the net pool obligation of such handler is greater than the sum required to be paid producers by such handler pursuant to § 968.80.

§ 968.84 Payments out of the producer-settlement fund. (a) On or before the 12th day after the end of each month, the market administrator shall pay to each handler for payment to producers the amount by which the sum required to be paid producers by such handler pursuant to § 968.80 is greater than the net pool obligation of such handler.

(b) If the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make all payments pursuant to this paragraph, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly such payments and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds are available.

§ 968.85 Adjustment of errors in payments. (a) Whenever verification by the market administrator of reports or payments of any handler discloses error in payments to the producer-settlement fund made pursuant to § 968.83, the market administrator shall promptly bill such handler for any unpaid amount and such handler shall, within 5 days of such billing, make payment to the market administrator of the amount so billed. Whenever verification discloses that payment is due from the market administrator to any handler pursuant to § 968.84, the market administrator shall within 5 days make payment to such handler. Whenever verification by the market administrator of the payment by a handler to any producer discloses payment to such producer of an amount which is less than is required by this part, the handler shall make up such payment to the producer not later than the time of making payment to producers next following the disclosure.

(b) Whenever verification by the market administrator of the payment by a handler to any producer discloses that solely through error in computation payment to such producer was in an amount more than was required to be paid pursuant to § 968.80, no handler shall be deemed to be in violation of § 968.80 if he reduces his payment to such producer next following discovery of such error by not more than such overpayment.

§ 968.86 Marketing services. (a) Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, each handler shall deduct 4 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary may prescribe, from the payments made to each producer other than himself pursuant to § 968.80 (a) with respect to all milk of such producer received by such handler during the month and shall pay such deductions to the market administrator on or before the 12th day after the end of such month. Such moneys shall be used by the market administrator to verify weights, samples and tests of milk received from, and to provide market information to such producers. The market administrator may contract with a cooperative association or cooperative associations for the furnishing of the whole or any part of such services.

(b) In the case of producers for whom a cooperative association is actually performing, as determined by the Secretary, the services set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, each handler shall make such deductions from the payments to be made directly to producers pursuant to § 968.80 (a) as are authorized by such producers, and, on or before the 12th day after the end of each month, pay over such deductions to the association of which such producers are members. Such payment shall be accompanied by a statement showing for each producer for which such deduction is made the amount of such deduction, the total delivery of milk, and the butterfat test.

§ 968.87 Expense of administration. As his pro rata share of the expense of the administration of this part, each handler with respect to all milk received from approved dairy farmers during the month, shall pay to the market administrator, on or before the 12th day after the end of such delivery period, an amount not exceeding 4 cents per hundredweight, which amount shall be determined by the administrator subject to review by the Secretary.

§ 968.88 Termination of obligation. The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this part for the payment of money.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this part shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall contain but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to an association of producers, the name of such producer(s) or association of producers, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this part, to make available to the market administrator or his representative all books and records required by this part to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this part to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

BASE RATING

§ 968.90 Determination of daily base. (a) Through December 31, 1954, the daily average base of each producer who regularly delivered milk to a handler during the months of August through November 1953 shall be that effective for January 1954. Effective January 1, 1955, the daily average base of each producer who regularly delivered milk to a handler for 60 days or more during August through November of the next preceding calendar year shall be computed by the market administrator by dividing the total pounds of milk received by a handler from such producer during such months by the number of days within the period during which such producer made regular deliveries of milk in such months, or 90, whichever is greater.

(b) The daily average base of each producer for whom no daily base may be established pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section shall be computed by the market administrator as follows:

(1) Multiply such producer's daily average deliveries of milk during the current month by the percentage that total deliveries of base milk in the current month by producers for whom daily bases are computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section are to total deliveries of milk in the current month by all producers; and

(2) Effective January 1, 1955, for the months of January through July only, divide the result obtained in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph by 2.

§ 968.91 Base rules. (a) Any producer who ceases to deliver milk to a handler for a period of more than 30 consecutive days shall forfeit his base. In the event such producer thereafter commences to deliver milk to a handler he shall be allotted a daily base computed in the manner provided in § 968.90 (b).

(b) A landlord who rents on a share basis shall be entitled to the entire daily base to the exclusion of the tenant if the landlord owns the entire herd. A tenant who rents on a share basis shall be entitled to the entire daily base to the exclusion of the landlord, if the tenant owns the entire herd. If the cattle are jointly owned by the tenant and landlord, the daily base shall be divided between the joint owners according to ownership of the cattle when such share basis is terminated.

EFFECTIVE TIME, SUSPENSION, OR TERMINATION

§ 968.100 Effective time. The provisions of this part, or any amendment to this part, shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended, or terminated, pursuant to § 968.101.

§ 968.101 Suspension or termination. Any or all of the provisions of this part, or any amendment to this part, may be suspended or terminated as to any or all handlers after such reasonable notice as the Secretary shall give and shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act cease to be in effect.

§ 968.102 Continuing power and duty of the market administrator. (a) If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part there are any obligations arising under this part the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any handler, by the market administrator, or by any other person, the power and duty to perform such further acts shall continue notwithstanding such suspension or termination: Provided, That any such market administrator shall, if the Secretary so directs, be performed by such other person, persons, or agency as the Secertary may designate.

(b) The market administrator, or such other person as the Secretary may designate, shall (1) continue in such capacity until removed, (2) from time to time account for all receipts and disbursements and when so directed by the Secretary deliver all funds on hand, together with the books and records of the market administrator, or such person, to such person as the Secretary shall direct, and (3) if so directed by the Secretary execute assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title to all funds, property, and claims vested in the market administrator or such person pursuant thereto.

§ 968.103 Liquidation after suspension or termination. Upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part the market administrator, or such person as the Secretary may designate, shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office and dispose of all funds and property then in his possession or under his control, together with claims for any funds which are unpaid or owing at the time of such suspension or termination. Any funds collected pursuant to the provisions of this part, over and above the amounts necessary to meet outstanding obligations and the expenses necessarily incurred by the market administrator or such person in liquidating such funds, shall be distributed to the contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

[Docket No. AO-176-A10]

HANDLING OF MILK IN THE COLUMBUS, OHIO MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Columbus, Ohio, on June 8, 9 and 15, 1953, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on May 28, 1953 (18 F. R. 3174).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof the Acting Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on January 12, 1954, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision which included notice of opportunity to file written exceptions thereto. This desision was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on January 16, 1954 (19 F. R. 302).

Each of the exceptions to the recommended decision filed on behalf of interested parties was fully considered in arriving at the findings and conclusions and the marketing agreement and order of this decision. To the extent that the findings and conclusions or the marketing agreement and order of this decision are at variance with any of the exceptions pertaining thereto, such exceptions are denied for the reasons set forth in the findings and conclusions relating to the issue to which the exceptions refer.

The material issues of record relate to:

1. The classification and pricing of milk used in the manufacture of ice cream and related products;

2. The classification of other source milk received under a written permit issued by the appropriate health authorities in the marketing area;

3. The classification of milk disposed of in the form of cream;

4. The supply-demand adjustment to the Class I price;

5. Seasonal variation in returns to producers.

Findings and conclusions and general findings. The findings and conclusions and the general findings of the recommended decision in this proceeding which was issued by the Acting Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on January 12, 1954, and was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on January 16, 1954 (19 F. R. 302) shall be the findings and conclusions and the general findings of this decision as if set forth in full herein, subject to the following revision:

1. Add the following paragraph immediately after the last paragraph beginning in column 1, 19 F. R. 305 (F. R. Doc. 54-299):

It is contended in the exceptions that in view of the decrease adopted relative to milk used for ice cream manufacture the resulting uniform price might be reduced unduly in relation to the prices paid during the April-July period to dairy farmers shipping to the Cincinnati, Cleveland, and Dayton-Springfield markets which draw milk supplies from areas which overlap the Columbus milkshed, and thus disrupt the market supply at Columbus.

It appears that the effect on the uniform price in the April-July period as the result of the change in the pricing of milk for ice cream use will approximate 8 cents per hundredweight. Comparison of price data indicates that if such price change had been effective during such months of 1953 together with the revised "take out" provisions the uniform price of the Columbus market would not have been reduced unduly in relationship to uniform prices for the other markets referred to above. There is no present indication that a different relationship disadvantageous to the Columbus market will occur during the coming flush production months. It is concluded that the amendment proposed in the recommended decision should be adopted.

Determination of representative period. The month of December 1953 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of an order amending the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Columbus, Ohio, marketing area in the manner set forth in the amending order below is approved or favored by producers who during such period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in such marketing order, as amended.

Marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Columbus, Ohio, Marketing Area," and "Order Amending the Order, as amended Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Columbus, Ohio, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 15th day of February 1954.

[SEAL] JOHN H. DAVIS,
Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Columbus, Ohio, Marketing Area

§ 974.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of each of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Columbus, Ohio, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk produced for sale in the said marketing area as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Columbus, Ohio, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and the aforesaid order, as amended, is hereby further amended as follows:

1. Amend § 974.22 (i) (1) by changing the reference "§§ 974.51, 974.52 and 974.53" appearing therein to read "§§ 974.51 through 974.54".

ORDER FIXING DATE OF ORAL ARGUMENT AND FOR THE FILING OF WRITTEN COMMENTS

In the matter of amendment to Part 11 of Subchapter B of the rules relating to Annual Charges Prescribed for Licensees Under the Provisions of the Federal Power Act; Docket No. R-129.

By notice of proposed rule making dated November 25, 1953, published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of December 4, 1953 (18 F. R. 7826), the Commission proposed to amend its rules by the addition of § 11.28 granting a reduction in annual charges for project licenses issued to States and municipalities.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[17 CFR Parts 250, 259]

REVISION OF FORM FOR ANNUAL REPORTS; FILING OF REPORTS TO STOCKHOLDERS AND STATE COMMISSIONS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the Securities and Exchange Commission has under consideration a proposal to revise Form U5S[1] (§ 259.5s), which is the system annual reporting form for registered holding companies under the Public Utility Holding Company of 1935 and may be used by such companies in lieu of an annual report on Form 10-K (§ 249.310) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. The Commission is also considering a proposal to adopt Rule U-29 requiring the filing of stockholder and State Commission reports in certain instances.

The Commission is engaged in a comprehensive review of the rules, regulations, forms and procedures adopted under the various statutes administered by it. It is attempting to eliminate duplication and to simplify its requirements wherever practicable without prejudice to the public interest or the protection of investors. The present proposals which are made pursuant to the provisions of sections 14, 15 and 20 (a) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 and sections 13, 15 (d) and 23 (a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, are a part of this program.

Form U5S is the system annual reporting form for registered holding companies and can now also be used by registered holding companies to satisfy annual reporting requirements under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. The proposed revision is designed to modify items of the form which, in the Commission's experience, now serve little useful regulatory or disclosure purpose and impose a substantial reporting burden. In addition, if the proposal is adopted, the form could be used to satisfy annual reporting requirements of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 not only for registered holding companies but also for their subsidiaries. If a subsidiary desires to use this option, the only additional information or documents required in the report would be the exhibits necessary to keep current its filings under that act and the few separate financial schedules not duplicated in the consolidated system schedules, or elsewhere in the report. This should eliminate substantial duplicate reporting.

While retaining the requirement for consolidating financial statements, which appear material to an appraisal of system and intra-system operations, the revised form would no longer require the filing of Federal Power Commission and State Commission reports or stockholder reports as exhibits. Federal Power Commission reports are readily available to the public at the Federal Power Commission's offices. Stockholder reports are usually furnished to the Commission by holding companies and their subsidiaries when available and the proposed Rule U-29 (which is similar to the Commission's Rule N-30B2-1 (§ 270.30b2-1) under the Investment Company Act of 1940) would formalize the practice. Rule U-29 would also require the filing of State Commission reports covering operations not reported to the Federal Power Commission, since this information would otherwise be not readily available to the Commission.

The revised Form U5S requires aggregate remuneration information but does not require individual reporting of remuneration. Individual remuneration data for parent companies will, of course, continue to be available in proxy statements filed pursuant to Rule U-61 (§ 250.61) and Regulation X-14 and similar data for substantially all utility subsidiaries is available in the public Federal Power Commission reports, and in many cases, in State Commission reports.

The form has been drafted with particular reference to the reporting requirements of continuing holding company systems. It is recognized that, in the case of the few remaining complex systems still in process of reorganization under Section 11 of the Act, modifications of certain requirements of the form may be necessary. The Commission proposes to continue to consider requests for such modifications in appropriate cases.

A copy of the proposed revised Form U5S[1] may be obtained by any interested person on request. The text of the proposed § 250.29 (Rule U-29) is as follows:

§ 250.29 Filing of reports to stockholders and State Commission. (a) Two copies of each report submitted by any registered holding company or any subsidiary thereof to its stockholders generally shall be filed with the Commission not later than ten days after such submission.

(b) A copy of each annual report submitted by any registered holding company or any subsidiary thereof to a State Commission covering operations not reported to the Federal Power Commission shall be filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission not later than ten days after such submission.

All interested persons are invited to submit data, views and comments on these proposals in writing to the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, at its principal office, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C., on or before March 10, 1954.

By the Commission.

OFFICE OF DEFENSE MOBILIZATION

[ODM (DPA) Request No. 26—DPAV-34 (b)]

REQUEST TO PARTICIPATE IN ACTIVITIES OF AN ARMY ORDNANCE INTEGRATION COMMITTEE ON CONVENTIONAL ARTILLERY AND MORTAR SHELL

Pursuant to section 708 of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended, the request set forth below to participate in the activities of an Army Ordnance Integration Committee on Conventional Artillery and Mortar Shell in accordance with the voluntary plan entitled "Plan and Regulations of Ordnance Corps Governing the Integration Committee on Conventional Artillery and Mortar Shell," dated September 28, 1951, as amended, was approved by the Attorney General after consultations with respect thereto between the Attorney General, the Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, and the Director of the Office of Defense Mobilization. The companies listed below have accepted the request to participate in the voluntary plan as amended. The original request to participate in the activities of the Committee and the list of companies accepting it were published on May 8, 1952, in 17 F. R. 4246.

The modifications to the plan have extended the operations of the Conventional Artillery and Mortar Shell Integration Committee to include shell machined directly from bar and have authorized the use of subcommittees to achieve Committee objectives. This revised plan has been approved by the Director of the Office of Defense Mobilization and found to be in the public interest as contributing to the national defense.

CONTENTS OF REQUEST

Reference is made to the letter heretofore sent to you requesting your participation in the activities of the Conventional Artillery and Mortar Shell Integration Committee, in accordance with the Voluntary Plan which was inclosed therein.

The Assistant Judge Advocate General, Department of the Army, informs me that at the time this Committee was being formed, it was contemplated that 57 mm rifle shell would be produced in quantity by the forging method. Accordingly, it was deemed unnecessary to include producers of this item machined directly from bar. For this reason, the definition set forth in Paragraph 1a of the Plan was considered sufficient. It reads as follows:

"For the purposes of this committee, conventional artillery and mortar shell are defined as all artillery and mortar shell except Fin Stabilized Artillery Shell, 4.2" Mortar Shell, and shell machined directly from bar."

Subsequently, it was determined that the production of 57 mm rifle shell by the forging method was impractical.

It is, therefore, now requested that the Plan be amended by striking out the words "and shell machined directly from bar" from Paragraph 1a and inserting the word "and" before the word "4.2" Mortar Shell." This paragraph will then read:

"For the purposes of this Committee, conventional artillery and mortar shell are defined as all artillery and mortar shell except Fin Stabilized Artillery Shell, and 4.2" Mortar Shell."

This Plan does not provide for the establishment of subcommittees. The Assistant Judge Advocate General also informs me that such a provision is desirable to obtain the maximum benefits possible from the Committee's operations and, accordingly, has requested that a further amendment be made by adding thereto the following new section:

"8. Subcommittees. Subcommittees may be formed as deemed necessary by the chairman of the committee. Such subcommittees shall be subject to the same requirements, limitations, and procedures as the committee."

You are requested to participate in the activities of the Conventional Artillery and Mortar Shell Integration Committee, in accordance with the Voluntary Plan, as amended. A copy of this amended Plan may be obtained from the Chairman of the Committee.

The Attorney General has approved this request, as further modified, after consultations with respect thereto between his representatives, representatives of the Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, and my representatives, pursuant to section 708 of the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended.

I approve the Voluntary Plan, as amended, and find it to be in the public interest as contributing to the national defense. You will become a participant therein, upon notifying me in writing of your acceptance of this modified request. Will you kindly send two copies thereof to the Procurement Division, Production Branch, Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4, United States Army, Pentagon Building, Washington 25, D. C.

Immunity from prosecution under the Federal antitrust laws and the Federal Trade Commission Act will be given upon such acceptance, provided that the activities of the Conventional Artillery and Mortar Shell Integration Committee and your participation therein are within the limits set forth in the Voluntary Plan, as amended.

Your cooperation in this matter will be appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

ARTHUR S. FLEMMING,
Director.

be made later than 15 days after the final date of availability of loans set forth in the applicable commodity supplement to this subpart, unless authorized by the President, CCC. Payment in cash, credit to the producer's account, or the drawing of a check or draft shall constitute disbursement. The producer shall not present the loan documents for disbursement unless the commodity is in existence and in good condition. If the commodity was not in existence and in good condition at the time of disbursement, the total amount disbursed under the loan shall be promptly refunded by the producer. In the event the amount disbursed exceeds the amount authorized under the applicable supplement to this subpart, the producer shall be personally liable for repayment of the amount of such excess.

§ 421.405 Approved lending agencies. An approved lending agency shall be any bank, cooperative marketing association, corporation, partnership, individual, or other legal entity, with which CCC has entered into a lending agency agreement.

§ 421.406 Approved storage. Loans will be made only on commodities in approved storage. Purchase agreements may be executed without regard to whether the commodity is in approved storage. However, warehouse receipts representing commodities tendered to CCC under purchase agreements will be accepted in lieu of physical delivery only if the commodity is in approved warehouse storage, is in existence, and is in good condition at the time the warehouse receipt is tendered.

(a) Farm-storage. Approved farm storage shall consist of storage structures located on or off the farm (excluding public warehouses), which are determined by the county committee to be so located and of such substantial and permanent construction as to afford safe storage of the commodity.

(b) Warehouse storage. Approved warehouse storage shall consist of (1) public warehouses for which a CCC uniform storage agreement for the commodity is in effect, or (2) warehouses operated by Eastern common carriers under tariffs approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission for which custodian agreements are in effect. The names of approved warehouses may be obtained from CSS commodity offices or State and county committees.

§ 421.407 Applicable forms. The approved forms consist of the loan and purchase agreement forms and such other forms and documents as may be specified in the commodity supplements to this subpart, which together with the provisions of this subpart and the applicable commodity supplements, govern the rights and responsibilities of the producer. Producer's Note and Supplemental Loan Agreements, Commodity Chattel Mortgages, Producer's Note and Loan Agreements, and Purchase Agreements must be dated, signed by the producer and delivered to the county committee as specified in the applicable commodity supplement. Producer's Note and Supplemental Loan Agreements, Commodity Chattel Mortgages, and Producer's Note and Loan Agreements, must have State and documentary revenue stamps affixed thereto where required by law. Loan and purchase agreement documents executed by an administrator, executor, or trustee, will be acceptable only where legally valid.

(a) Farm-storage loans. Approved forms shall consist of Producer's Note and Supplemental Loan Agreement (Commodity Loan Form A), secured by Commodity Chattel Mortgage (Commodity Loan Form AA) and such other forms and documents as may be required by CCC.

(b) Warehouse-storage loans. Approved forms shall consist of the Producer's Note and Loan Agreement, Commodity Loan Form B (CCC Rice Form B in the case of rice), secured by warehouse receipts and such other forms and documents as may be required by CCC. All of the commodity pledged as security for a loan evidenced by a single Producer's Note and Loan Agreement must be stored in the same warehouse.

(c) Purchase agreement documents. The purchase agreement forms shall consist of the Purchase Agreement (Commodity Purchase Form 1) and Purchase Agreement Settlement (Commodity Purchase Form 4) signed by the producer and approved by the county committee, the Delivery Instructions (Commodity Purchase Form 3) issued by the county committee, and such other forms and documents as may be required by CCC.

(d) Warehouse receipts. The form in which warehouse receipts shall be submitted will be stated in the commodity supplement to this subpart.

§ 421.408 Liens. If there are any liens or encumbrances on the commodity, waivers acceptable to the county committee must be obtained.

§ 421.409 Service charges. (a) Producers shall pay the following service charges on the quantity of the commodity placed under loan or specified in the purchase agreement. Such service charges shall be computed at the rates shown in column (2) of the following table for commodities the quantity of which is determined on the basis of bushels, and at the rates shown in column (3) for commodities the quantity of which is determined on the basis of pounds or 100 pounds. An additional service charge shall be paid on any additional quantity delivered to and accepted by CCC under a farm-storage loan or an identity-preserved warehouse storage loan.

Method of price support	Service charges
	Per bushel	Per 100 pounds	Minimum charges
(1)	(2)	(3)	(4)
	(Cents)	(Cents)
Farm storage loans	1	2	[1] $3.00
Warehouse-storage loans	½	[2] 1	[2] 1.50
Purchase agreements	½	1	1.50

[1] Except rice for which State committees are authorized to require prepayment of $5 for each lot sampled.
[2] Except rice for which the service charge for warehouse-storage loans shall be 2 cents per 100 pounds with a minimum charge of $3.

(b) In the case of farm-storage loans and identity-preserved warehouse-storage loans, State committees are authorized to require prepayment of $3.00 of the service charge, except that State committees are authorized to require prepayment of $5.00 of the service charge for each lot of rice sampled.

(c) No refund of service charges will be made.

§ 421.410 Set-offs. Any storage payment due the producer for storage of the commodity in farm-storage structures shall be applied to any storage facility loan or mobile drying equipment loan made to the producer until fully repaid. Any amount of such storage payments not so applied, together with all payments for related services due the producer, shall be subject to set-off in the same manner as provided in this section for loan or purchase proceeds. If the producer is indebted to CCC on any accrued obligation, or if any installment or installments on any loan made available by CCC on farm-storage facilities or mobile drying equipment are past due, or are payable or prepayable under the provisions of the note evidencing such loan out of the proceeds of the price support loan or purchase, he must designate CCC or the lending agency holding such note as the payee of the proceeds of the price support loan or purchase to the extent of such indebtedness or installments, but not to exceed that portion of the proceeds remaining after deduction of loan service charges and amounts due prior lienholders. If the producer is indebted to any other agency of the United States and such indebtedness is listed on the county debt register, he must designate such agency as the payee of the proceeds as provided in this section. Indebtedness owing to CCC or to a lending agency as provided in this section shall be given first consideration after claims of prior lienholders. Compliance with the provisions of this section shall not constitute a waiver of any right of the producer to contest the justness of the indebtedness involved either by administrative appeal or by legal action.

§ 421.411 Interest rate. Loans shall bear interest at the rate of __ percent per annum from the date of disbursement of the loan, except that where there is a default in satisfaction of a farm-storage loan the deficiency shall bear interest at the rate of 6 percent per annum from the date of default.

§ 421.412 Transfer of producer's interest.—(a) Warehouse-storage loans. The producer shall not transfer either his remaining interest in or his right to redeem a commodity pledged as security for a warehouse storage loan. Warehouse receipts will be released only to the producer or his authorized agent as provided in § 421.417.

(b) Farm-storage loans. The producer shall not transfer either his remaining interest in or his right to redeem a commodity mortgaged as security for a farm storage loan. A producer who wishes to liquidate all or part of his loan by contracting for the sale of the commodity must obtain written prior approval of the county committee on Commodity Loan Form 12 to remove the commodity from storage when the proceeds of the sale are needed to repay all or any part of the loan. Any such approval shall be subject to the terms and conditions set out in Commodity Loan Form 12, copies of which may be obtained by producers or prospective purchasers at the office of the county committee.

(c) Purchase agreements. The producer may not assign his interest in a purchase agreement.

§ 421.413 Safeguarding the commodity. The producer obtaining a farm-storage loan is obligated to maintain the storage structure in good repair and to keep all the mortgaged commodity in storage and in good condition until the loan is liquidated.

§ 421.414 Insurance on farm-storage loans. CCC will not require the producer to insure the commodity placed under a farm-storage loan; however, if the producer insures such commodity and an indemnity is paid thereon, such indemnity shall inure to the benefit of CCC to the extent of its interest, after first satisfying the producer's equity in the commodity involved in the loss.

§ 421.415 Loss or damage to the commodity. The producer is responsible for any loss in quantity or quality of the commodity placed under farm-storage or indentity-preserved warehouse-storage loans, except that, subject to the provisions of § 421.414, physical loss or damage occurring after disbursement of the loan funds without fault, negligence, or conversion on the part of the producer or any other person having control of the storage structure and resulting solely from an external cause other than insect infestation, rodents or vermin, will be assumed by CCC to the extent of the settlement value at the time of destruction of the quantity of the commodity destroyed or in an amount equivalent to the extent of the damage as determined by CCC, provided the producer has given the county committee immediate notice, confirmed in writing, of such loss or damage, and provided there has been no fraudulent representation made by the producer in the loan documents or in obtaining the loan. No physical loss or damage occurring prior to disbursement of the loan funds to the producer will be assumed by CCC. Where disbursement of funds is made by sight drafts or check, the date of the draft or check shall constitute the date of disbursement of the funds.

§ 421.416 Personal liability of the producer. The making of any fraudulent representation by the producer in the loan documents, or in obtaining the loan or the conversion or unlawful disposition of any portion of the commodity by him may render the producer subject to criminal prosecution under the Federal Law and personally liable for the amount of the loan (including interest) and for any resulting expense incurred by any holder of the note.

§ 421.417 Release of the commodity under loan. A producer may at any time obtain release of the commodity remaining under loan by paying to the holder of the note or note and loan agreement the principal amount thereof, plus charges and accrued interest. All charges in connection with the collection of the note shall be paid by the producer. Upon presentation of the paid note, the county committee shall arrange for the release of the chattel mortgage. Partial release of the commodity prior to maturity may be arranged with the county committee after making payment to the holder of the note for the quantity of the commodity released, plus charges and accrued interest; however, in the event the quantity of the commodity contained in the bin or crib and covered by the chattel mortgage is greater than the quantity with respect to which the amount of the loan was computed, all or part of such excess may be removed without payment on the loan but only upon prior approval by the county committee. In the case of warehouse-storage loans, such partial release must cover all of the commodity represented by one warehouse receipt. Warehouse receipts redeemed by repayment shall be released only to the producer-borrower or to another whom the producer has authorized in writing to receive the warehouse receipts in his behalf. Such written authorization must be made within 10 days prior to repayment of the loan.

§ 421.418 Liquidation of loans and delivery under purchase agreements.—(a) Farm-storage loans. (1) The producer is required to pay off his loan on or before maturity or to deliver the commodity in accordance with instructions issued by the county committee. If the producer desires to deliver the commodity he should, prior to maturity, give the county committee notice in writing of his intention to do so. The producer may, however, pay off his loan and redeem his commodity at any time prior to the delivery of the commodity to CCC or removal of the commodity by CCC. If the commodity is going out of condition or is in danger of going out of condition, the producer shall notify the county committee, and such committee shall determine whether prompt removal of the commodity is necessary. If CCC is unable to take delivery within a reasonable length of time of a commodity which the county committee determines should be removed, the producer may request and obtain through the county committee an inspection and grade and quality determination. When delivery is completed settlement shall be made on the basis of such grade and quality determination or on the basis of the grade and quality determination made at the time of delivery, whichever is higher. In the event the farm is sold, there is a change of tenancy, or the producer dies, the commodity may be delivered before the maturity date of the loan, upon prior approval by the county committee, or may be delivered before the maturity date of the loan for other reasons upon authorization of the President, CCC. Settlement will be made at the applicable support rate, subject to the provisions of the Producer's Note and Supplemental Loan Agreement and the applicable commodity supplement according to grade and quality. Delivery of commodities in bulk will be accepted only from the bin(s) in which the commodity under loan is stored. In the case of commodities stored in bags, only the quantity contained in the bags included in the lot placed under loan may be delivered. Settlement will be made on the quantity delivered by the producer as determined by the county committee in accordance with the applicable commodity supplement.

(2) If the settlement value of the commodity delivered exceeds the amount due on the loan (excluding interest), such excess amount will be paid to the producer. Deliveries of commodities to CCC under farm-storage loans will be handled by the ASC county committee which initially approved the loan. Any payment due to the producer will be made by sight draft drawn on CCC by the ASC county office.

(3) If the settlement value of the commodity is less than the amount due on the loan (excluding interest), the amount of the deficiency plus interest thereon, shall be paid to CCC and may be set off against any payment which would otherwise be due to the producer under any agricultural program administered by the Secretary of Agriculture or any other payments which are due or may become due the producer from CCC or any other agency of the United States.

(b) Warehouse-storage loans. (1) If the producer does not repay his loan by maturity, CCC shall have the right to sell or pool the commodity in satisfaction of the loan in accordance with the provisions of the note and loan agreement and § 421.419. Any payment due the producer because of an overplus realized from the sale or pooling of the commodity or any refunds of unearned or prepaid storage on loans called prior to maturity will be made by the appropriate CSS Commodity Office.

(2) In the case of commodities stored identity-preserved where the warehouseman does not guarantee quality and quantity, if the producer does not repay his loan by maturity, the county committee shall specify a period within which the producer shall either furnish official weight and grade certificates (as required by the applicable commodity supplement) or repay his loan. If the producer does not repay his loan during such specified period, settlement for difference in quantity or quality shall be made, prior to sale or pooling, in accordance with the applicable commodity supplement to this subpart. Any amount determined to be due CCC or the producer shall be paid as provided in subparagraphs (2) and (3) of paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Payments and collections; amounts not exceeding $3.00. To avoid administrative costs of making small payments and handling small accounts, amounts due the producer of $3.00 or less will be paid only upon his request and a deficiency of $3.00 or less, including interest, may be disregarded by a producer unless demand for payment is made by CCC.

(d) Purchase agreements. (1) The producer who signs a purchase agreement (Commodity Purchase Form 1) will not be obligated to sell any quantity of the commodity to CCC. However, he may sell to CCC any quantity of the eligible commodity not in excess of the quantity stated in the purchase agreement. If the producer who signs a purchase agreement wishes to sell the commodity to CCC, he will have a 30-day period during which he must notify the county committee of his intentions to sell. Such period shall end on the loan maturity date specified in the applicable commodity supplement to this subpart, or such earlier date as may be prescribed by the President, CCC.

(2) In the case of eligible commodities stored commingled in an approved warehouse, the producer must, not later than the day following the final date of such 30-day period, or during such period of time thereafter as may be specified by the county committee, submit to the county committee warehouse receipts under which the warehouseman guarantees quality and quantity, for the quantity of commodity he elects to sell to CCC. In the case of eligible commodities stored in other than approved warehouse storage, or stored identity-preserved in approved warehouse storage, the county committee will, on or after the final date of such 30-day period, issue delivery instructions to the producer. The producer must then complete delivery within a 15-day period immediately following the date the county committee issues delivery instructions, unless the county committee determines that more time is needed for delivery.

(3) The producer may be required to retain a commodity stored in other than approved warehouse storage for a period of 60 days after the loan maturity date, without any cost to CCC.

(4) Eligible commodities delivered under a purchase agreement will be purchased at the applicable support rate. When delivery is completed, payment will be made by sight draft drawn on CCC by the county office. The producer shall direct on Commodity Purchase Form 4 to whom payment of the proceeds shall be made. Commodities stored commingled in approved warehouses will be purchased, on the basis of the weight, grade, and other quality factors shown on the warehouse receipts and/or accompanying documents. Commodities stored identity-preserved in an approved warehouse and commodities delivered from other than approved warehouse storage will be purchased on the basis of the weight, grade, and other quality factors, determined by the county committee at the time of delivery (in accordance with requirements for the determination of such factors under the loan program), and agreed to by the producer on Commodity Purchase Form 4.

(e) Applicable support rate for settlement. The provisions of this paragraph apply only to barley, corn, flaxseed, grain sorghums, oats, rye, soybeans, and wheat.

(1) In the case of commodities stored in an approved warehouse, settlement shall be made at the applicable support rate for the county in which the warehouse is located, except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph.

(2) In the case of commodities delivered from other than approved warehouse storage, settlement shall be made at the applicable support rate for the county in which the producer's customary shipping point (as determined by the county committee) is located, except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph. If the producer is directed by the county committee to deliver his commodity to a point other than his customary shipping point, the producer shall be allowed compensation (as determined by CCC) for the additional cost of hauling the commodity any distance greater than the distance from the point where the grain is stored by the producer to the customary shipping point.

(3) If two or more approved warehouses are located at the same or adjoining towns, villages, or cities having the same domestic interstate freight rate, such towns, villages, or cities shall be deemed to constitute one shipping point, and the same settlement rate shall apply even though such warehouses are not all located in the same county. Such settlement rate shall be the highest support rate of the counties involved.

§ 421.419 Foreclosure. If the loan is not satisfied upon maturity, the holder of the note may remove the commodity from storage, and may sell it (the commodity may be processed before sale), either by separate contract or after pooling it with other lots of the commodity similarly held. If the commodity is pooled, the producer has no right of redemption after the date the pool is established, but shall share ratably in any overplus remaining upon liquidation of the pool. CCC shall have the right to treat the pooled commodity as a reserve supply to be marketed under such sales policies as CCC determines will promote orderly marketing, protect the interests of producers and consumers, and not unduly impair the market for the current crop of the commodity even though part or all of such pooled commodity is disposed of under such policies at prices less than the current domestic price for such commodity. Any sum due the producer as a result of the sale of the commodity or of insurance proceeds thereon, or any ratable share resulting from the liquidation of a pool, shall be payable only to the producer without right of assignment by him.

§ 421.420 Purchase of notes. Notes evidencing loans will be purchased from approved lending agencies in accordance with the terms of the lending agency agreement. The purchase price to be paid by CCC will be the principal sums remaining due on such notes plus an amount computed according to the lending agency agreement to cover interest. At maturity, or earlier upon request, lending agencies shall submit notes and reports to the ASC county office where the loan documents were approved.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter I—Agricultural Marketing Service (Standards, Inspections, Marketing Practices), Department of Agriculture

PART 26—GRAIN STANDARDS

FEES AND CHARGES

On November 24, 1953, there was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (18 F. R. 7495) a notice of a proposal to amend § 26.74 of the regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture under the United States Grain Standards Act (7 CFR 26.74; 7 U. S. C. 71-87). Interested parties were given 30 days in which to submit written data, views, or arguments concerning the proposed amendment. During this period grain trade organizations requested an opportunity to present their views in person. Accordingly on December 31, 1953, a notice of the proposal was again published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (18 F. R. 8904) together with an invitation to interested parties to present their views concerning the proposal at a public hearing in Washington, D. C., on January 18, 1954. Such notice also extended the time for filing written comments through January 29, 1954.

After due consideration of all relevant material presented at the hearing and received in writing, the said § 26.74 is hereby amended pursuant to the provisions of section 8 of the United States Grain Standards Act (7 U. S. C. 84) to read:

§ 26.74 Fees and charges. The fee in an appeal or a dispute shall be fixed as follows:

(a) For bulk or sacked grain in carload lots, $5.00 per car;

(b) For bulk or sacked grain in trucks and trailers, $3.00 per truck or trailer lot;

(c) For bulk or sacked grain in boats, barges, or other vessels, $1.50 per thousand bushels or fraction thereof, with a minimum of $3.00 per lot;

(d) For a submited sample or package of grain, $2.00 per sample or package;

(e) For all lots of grain other than those referred to in paragraphs (a), (b), (c), and (d) of this section, $1.50 per thousand bushels or fraction thereof, with a minimum fee of $3.00 per lot.

Charges may be made for telegrams, express, parcel post, registry fees, travel expenses, and other items paid or incurred by the Department on account of an appeal or a dispute and for oral hearings, as will reimburse the Department, all such additional items to be determined by the Administrator. Unless otherwise stated in the findings in any appeal, the fee as prescribed by this section, and no further charges, shall be deemed to be fixed and assessed.

The purpose of the amendment is to bring the current fees and charges, which have been in effect since August 1, 1949, more nearly into line with the increased costs of rendering the service.

The foregoing amendment shall become effective on the first day of June 1954.

Chapter VII—Commodity Stabilization Service (Farm Marketing Quotas), Department of Agriculture

PART 728—WHEAT

SUBPART—REGULATIONS PERTAINING TO FARM ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS FOR THE 1954 CROP OF WHEAT

DEFINITIONS

The amendments herein are issued under the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, because many producers in counties outside of the counties now approved for "green manure, cover crop, or hay practice" have followed such practice in the past and it is found that in fairness and justice to all producers, all counties in the United States shall be approved as "green manure, cover crop, or hay counties." In order that producers may proceed with plans for the marketing of their crop as expeditiously as possible, it is hereby found that compliance with the public notice, procedure, and 30-day effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act is impracticable and contrary to the public interest. Therefore, the amendments herein shall become effective upon filing of this document with the Director, Division of the Federal Register.

Section 728.411 is amended by changing subparagraphs (1) and (5) of paragraph (k) to read as follows:

(k) (1) "Wheat acreage" means (i) any acreage seeded to wheat, excluding any acreage (a) seeded to a wheat mixture in wheat mixture counties approved by the Director, or (b) which does not reach maturity because it is, while still green, turned under, pastured off, or cut for hay or silage, and (ii) any acreage of volunteer (self-seeded) wheat which reaches maturity.

* * * * *

(5) "Green manure, cover crop, and hay counties" means all counties in the United States wherein the practice of using wheat for green manure, cover crop, or hay is followed.

PART 1101—NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION

SUBPART—1954

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture under sections 7-17 of the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, as amended, and the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1954, the 1954 National Agricultural Conservation Program, issued August 3, 1953 (18 F. R. 4643), as amended August 3, 1953 (18 F. R. 4761), November 4, 1953 (18 F. R. 7024), and January 6, 1954 (19 F. R. 160), is further amended as follows:

1. Section 1101.517 is amended by adding the following as the last sentence preceding "Maximum Federal cost-share":

§ 1101.517 Practice A-2: Initial establishment of a permanent cover of perennial legumes or perennial grasses, or mixtures of legumes and perennial grasses, on severely eroded land or land so subject to erosion or with soils so shallow, alkaline, stony, or incapable of drainage, or so sandy or of such low inherent productive capacity, or where the average rainfall is so low, that for soil protection its use should be in permanent vegetative cover. * * * Notwithstanding the limitations on the applicability of this practice, Federal cost-sharing may be authorized under this practice on cropland which as a part of a needed land-use adjustment is being shifted to enduring protective vegetative cover other than as a part of a regular crop rotation.

2. Section 1101.518 is amended by adding the following as the last sentence preceding "Maximum Federal cost-share":

§ 1101.518 Practice A-3: Initial establishment on cropland of perennial or biennial legumes or perennial grasses, or mixtures of legumes and perennial grasses, to retard erosion and to improve soil structure, permeability, or water-holding capacity, as a part of a crop rotation. * * * Notwithstanding any limitations in this practice as to counties where the practice may be used or as to the total acreage on a farm on which Federal cost-sharing may be authorized, Federal cost-sharing may be authorized for an acreage increase equal to the net reduction in 1954 in allotment crops from the acreage of these crops in 1953.

TITLE 18—CONSERVATION OF POWER

Chapter I—Federal Power Commission

[Docket No. R-134; Order No. 169]

PART 1—RULES OF PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

The Commission has under consideration in this proceeding the amendment of § 1.26 of Part 1 of its general rules and regulations (18 CFR Chapter I, Subchapter A, Part 1) by adding a new subparagraph relating to the receipt of public documents in evidence.

Paragraph (c) (2) of the above-designated section, which permits the receipt in evidence of certain documentary material by reference, provides the only exception to the requirement that all documentary evidence in a hearing must be produced and marked for identification. The exception relates only to such reports or other documents as may be "on file with the Commission", i. e., only such reports or other documents that are a part of the material in the Commission's files.

The subparagraph in question does not except published reports, documents or other official governmental publications regularly consulted as sources of basic facts but which are not part of the Commission's official files, such as United States Geological Survey Water Supply Papers, Weather Bureau Statistics, and United States Army Engineers' "308 Reports."

It appears that enlargement of the scope of the exception set forth in Paragraph (c) (2) would be of considerable benefit to hearings in progress if a suitable amendment of § 1.26 is made effective at once.

In the circumstances herein recited, it is in the public interest to amend § 1.26 of the rules of practice and procedure to permit the incorporation of such reports and documents or parts thereof into the record as "public document items" without the usual requirement of copies when it has been established that the document in question is accessible to the public generally.

It appears also that the proposed amendment represents a matter of procedure which does not require notice or hearing under section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act.

The Commission finds: The following proposed amendment is necessary and appropriate for the purposes of the Federal Power Act and Natural Gas Act.

The Commission, acting pursuant to authority granted by the Federal Power Act, particularly sections 308 and 309 (49 Stat. 858, 16 U. S. C. 825g, 825h), and the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 15 and 16 (52 Stat. 833) 15 U. S. C. 717*o*, orders:

(A) Section 1.26 (c) (2) of the rules of practice and procedure be redesignated as § 1.26 (c) (2) (i), and a new subparagraph added as follows:

(ii) Public document items. Whenever there is offered in evidence (in whole or in part) a public document, such as an official report, decision, opinion, or published scientific or economic statistical data issued by any of the executive Departments (or their subdivisions), legislative agencies or committees, or administrative agencies of the Federal Government (including Government-owned corporations), or a similar document issued by a State or its agencies, and such document (or part thereof) has been shown by the offerer to be reasonably available to the public, such document need not be produced or marked for identification, but may be offered in evidence as a public document item by specifying the document or relevant part thereof without regard to the requirements of subparagraph (5) of this paragraph.

(B) The added subparagraph (2) (ii) of § 1.26 (c) herein prescribed be and it is hereby made effective from and after its date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 309, 49 Stat. 858, sec. 16, 52 Stat. 830; 16 U. S. C. 825h, 15 U. S. C. 717o)

Adopted: February 10, 1954.

Issued: February 15, 1954.

By the Commission.

[SEAL] LEON M. FUQUAY,
Secretary.

TITLE 21—FOOD AND DRUGS

Chapter I—Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

PART 146—CERTIFICATION OF BATCHES OF ANTIBIOTIC AND ANTIBIOTIC-CONTAINING DRUGS

EXEMPTION FROM CERTIFICATION OF ANIMAL FEED CONTAINING ANTIBIOTICS UNDER CERTAIN CONDITIONS

Under authority provided in the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (secs. 502 (l), 507 (c), 59 Stat. 463, as amended by 61 Stat. 11, 63 Stat. 409; 21 U. S. C. 352 (l), 357 (c); 67 Stat. 18), I find that the requirements of sections 502 (l) and 507 of the act with respect to animal feed containing chlortetracycline and certain other designated drugs, when used for the prevention or treatment of certain specified diseases of poultry, swine, and calves, are no longer necessary to insure safety and efficacy of such drugs when used for the purposes indicated, and hereby promulgate the following amendments exempting such drugs from the requirements:

Section 146.62 Animal feed containing penicillin * * * is amended in the following respects:

1. Paragraph (g) is amended to read as follows:

(g) It is intended for use solely in the prevention of chronic respiratory disease (air-sac infection) and hexamitiasis in poultry, infectious swine enteritis, and/or calf scours; its labeling bears adequate directions and warnings for such use, and it contains not less than 50 grams of chlortetracycline per ton of feed. When intended for such uses it may also contain oxytetracycline in a quantity not less than 50 grams per ton of feed.

2. Paragraph (h) is amended to read as follows:

(h) It is intended for use solely as a treatment for chronic respiratory disease (air-sac infection), sinusitis, nonspecific infectious enteritis, blue comb, mud fever, and hexamitiasis in poultry, and/or infectious swine enteritis; its labeling bears adequate directions and warnings for such use, and it contains not less than 100 grams of chlortetracycline per ton of feed. When intended for such uses it may also contain oxytetracycline in a quantity not less than 100 grams per ton of feed. If it is intended for use solely in poultry it may contain 0.1 percent of para-aminobenzoic acid or the sodium or potassium salt of para-aminobenzoic acid, or if it is intended for continuation of coccidiosis prevention based on nitrofurazone medication, it shall contain 0.0056 percent of nitrofurazone.

3. The following new paragraph is added:

(m) It is intended for use solely in the prevention of coccidiosis, chronic respiratory disease (air-sac infection) and hexamitiasis in poultry; its labeling bears adequate directions and warnings for such use, and it contains 0.0056 percent nitrofurazone and not less than 50 grams of chlortetracycline per ton of feed. When intended for such uses it may also contain oxytetracycline in a quantity not less than 50 grams per ton of feed.

(Sec. 701, 52 Stat. 1055; 21 U. S. C. 371)

Notice and public procedure are not necessary prerequisites to the promulgation of this order, and I so find, since it was drawn in collaboration with interested members of the affected industry, since it would be against public interest to delay providing for the aforesaid amendments, and since it conditionally relaxes existing requirements.

This order shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, since both the public and the affected industry will benefit by the earliest effective date, and I so find.

Dated: February 15, 1954.

Secretary.

(b) Congressional authorization. Except for such foreign awards as previously may have been specifically authorized by the Congress to be accepted, each tender of an award by a foreign government to a member of the Army will be forwarded through The Adjutant General to the Department of State, where it will be held in escrow pending approval by the Congress for the proposed recipient to accept. No foreign decorations or ribbons therefore will be worn prior to such approval by the Congress.

(c) Participation in ceremonies. In the event an individual is advised that a friendly foreign nation has made an award to him and that his presence is desired at a formal presentation ceremony, the individual may participate in the ceremony and receive the award notwithstanding the absence of the consent of Congress to accept it. In such cases and where the presentation was made without previous notification, the appropriate representative of the foreign nation concerned will be advised of the provisions of the constitution as indicated above.

(2) Reserve components of the Armed Forces of the United States. Individuals while not on active duty and while not holding an office of profit or trust under the Government may, without specific consent of the Congress, accept a foreign decoration and may, when authorized to do so by service regulations, wear such decoration on his uniform, provided the award is not in recognition of services performed while the recipient was on active duty with the Armed Forces of the United States.

(3) Posthumous. The approval of the Congress, as prescribed in this section is not required to accept any foreign decoration tendered or awarded posthumously to a former member of the Armed Services.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Internal Revenue Service

[26 CFR Part 39]

INCOME TAX; TAXABLE YEARS BEGINNING AFTER DECEMBER 31, 1951

EXEMPTIONS GRANTED TO INCOME OF FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS, INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS AND THEIR EMPLOYEES

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, that the regulations set forth in tentative form below are proposed to be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. Prior to the final adoption of such regulations, consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing in duplicate to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington 25, D. C., within the period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in sections 62 and 3791 of the Internal Revenue Code (53 Stat. 32, 467; 26 U. S. C. 62, 3791).

[SEAL] T. COLEMAN ANDREWS,
Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

In order to conform Regulations 118 (26 CFR Part 39) to the provisions of section 247 of the Immigration and Nationality Act, enacted June 27, 1952, such regulations are amended as follows:

PARAGRAPH 1. Section 39.116–2 is amended as follows:

(A) By striking "All" at the beginning of paragraph (a) (2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Except to the extent that the exemption is limited by the execution and filing of the waiver provided for in section 247 (b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, all"

(B) By adding at the end of paragraph (a) (2) the following: "Section 247 (b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act provides as follows:

(b) The adjustment of status required by subsection (a) [of the Immigration and Nationality Act] shall not be applicable in the case of any alien who requests that he be permitted to retain his status as an immigrant and who, in such form as the Attorney General may require, executes and files with the Attorney General a written waiver of all rights, privileges, exemptions, and immunities under any law or any executive order which would otherwise accrue to him because of the acquisition of an occupational status entitling him to a nonimmigrant status under paragraph (15) (A), (15) (E), or (15) (G) of section 101 (a).

An employee of a foreign government who executes and files with the Attorney General the waiver provided for in section 247 (b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act thereby waives the exemption conferred by section 116 (h) of the Code. As a consequence, such exemption does not apply to income received by such alien after the date of filing of the waiver."

(C) By striking "Subject to" at the beginning of paragraph (b) (2) and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Except to the extent that the exemption is limited by the execution and filing of the waiver provided for in section 247 (b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, and subject to"

(D) By adding a subparagraph (4) to paragraph (b) and a new paragraph (c) (following the text of section 9 of the International Organizations Immunities Act) as follows:

(4) An officer or employee of an international organization who executes and files with the Attorney General the waiver provided for in section 247 (b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act thereby waives the exemption conferred by section 116 (h) of the Code. As a consequence, such exemption does not apply to income received after the date of filing of the waiver.

(c) Tax conventions, consular conventions, and international agreements. A tax convention or consular convention between the United States and a foreign country, which provides that the United States may include in the tax base of its residents all income taxable under the internal revenue laws, and which makes no specific exception for the income of the employees of that foreign government, does not provide any exemption (with respect to residents of the United States) beyond that which is provided by the internal revenue laws. Accordingly, the effect of the execution and filing of a waiver under section 247 (b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act by an employee of a foreign government which is a party to such a convention is to subject the employee to tax to the same extent as provided in paragraph (a) of this section with respect to the waiver of exemption under section 116 (h). On the other hand, if a tax convention, consular convention, or international agreement provides that compensation paid by the foreign government or international organization to its employees is exempt from Federal income tax, and the application of this exemption is not dependent upon the provisions of the internal revenue laws, the exemption so conferred is not affected by the execution and filing of a waiver under section 247 (b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act. For examples of exemptions which are not affected by the Immigration and Nationality Act, see Article X of the British Tax Convention, Article IX, section 9 (b) of the Articles of Agreement of the International Monetary Fund (60 Stat. 1401), and Article VII, section 9 (b) of the Articles of Agreement of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (60 Stat. 1440).

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO AMENDED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Pursuant to the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900); a public hearing was held on December 17, 1953, at Macon, Georgia, after notice thereof published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (18 F. R. 7895), on a proposed amendment to Marketing Agreement No. 99, as amended, and Order No. 62, as amended (7 CFR Part 962; 18 F. R. 3013), hereinafter referred to as the "marketing agreement" and "order," respectively, regulating the handling of fresh peaches grown in Georgia, to be made effective pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.)

On the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing, and the record thereof, the Acting Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on January 22, 1954, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision in this proceeding. The notice of the filing of such recommended decision, affording opportunity to file written exceptions thereto, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (F. R. Doc. 54–578; 19 F. R. 490). No exception to said recommended decision was filed.

The material issue, findings and conclusions, and the general findings of the recommended decision set forth in the FEDERAL REGISTER (F. R. Doc. 54–578; 19 F. R. 490) are hereby approved and adopted as the material issue, findings and conclusions, and general findings of this decision as if set forth in full herein.

Amendment to the marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled, respectively, "Agreement Amending the Marketing Agreement, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Fresh Peaches Grown in Georgia" and "Order Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Fresh Peaches Grown in Georgia" which have been decided upon as the appropriate and detailed means of effecting the foregoing conclusions. The aforesaid amendment shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the aforesaid rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached agreement amending the marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of the said agreement amending the marketing agreement, as amended, are identical with those contained in the attached order which will be published with this decision.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 16th day of February 1954.

[SEAL] JOHN H. DAVIS,
Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Fresh Peaches Grown in Georgia

§ 962.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations made in connection with the issuance of this order and each of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure effective thereunder (7 CFR Part

[1] This order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders have been met.

900), a public hearing was held on December 17, 1953, at Macon, Georgia, upon a proposed amendment to Marketing Agreement No. 99, as amended, and Order No. 62, as amended (7 CFR 962), regulating the handling of fresh peaches grown in Georgia. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of fresh peaches grown in Georgia in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity, specified in the marketing agreement upon which hearings have been held;

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, is limited in its application to the smallest regional production area that is practicable, consistently with carrying out the declared policy of the act; and the issuance of several orders applicable to subdivisions of such production area would not effectively carry out the declared policy of the act; and

(4) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, prescribes such different terms applicable to different marketing areas, as are necessary to give due recognition to such differences in the marketing of such peaches.

It is therefore ordered, That, on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of fresh peaches grown in Georgia shall be in conformity to, and in compliance with, the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended as follows:

1. Delete the proviso in the first sentence of § 962.41 and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Provided, That no assessment shall be levied against peaches that are exempt from regulation pursuant to § 962.71 or against peaches that are exempt from inspection pursuant to § 962.64."

ORDER DIRECTING THAT REFERENDUM BE CONDUCTED; DESIGNATION OF AGENTS TO CONDUCT REFERENDUM; AND DETERMINATION OF REPRESENTATIVE PERIOD

Pursuant to the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), it is hereby directed that a referendum be conducted among the producers who, during the calendar year 1953 (which period is hereby determined to be a representative period for the purpose of such referendum), were engaged, in the State of Georgia, in the production of peaches for market, to ascertain whether such producers favor the issuance of an order amending Order No. 62, as amended, effective April 27, 1942, regulating the handling of fresh peaches grown in the State of Georgia; and said amendatory order is annexed to the decision of the Secretary of Agriculture filed simultaneously herewith. Minard F. Miller and G. A. Nahstoll of the Fruit and Vegetable Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, are hereby designated agents of the Secretary of Agriculture to conduct said referendum severally or jointly.

The procedure applicable to this referendum shall be the "Procedure for the Conduct of Referenda Among Producers in Connection with Marketing Orders (Except Those Applicable to Milk and its Products) to Become Effective Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as Amended" (15 F. R. 5176).

Copies of the aforesaid annexed order, of Order No. 62 as amended, of the aforesaid procedure (15 F. R. 5176), and of this order may be examined in the Office of the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Room 1353, South Building, Washington, D. C., at the office of the Field Representative, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, Citrus Mutual Building, Lakeland, Florida, or at the office of the Industry Committee, Georgia Peach Marketing Agreement and Order, Grand Building, Macon, Georgia. Ballots to be cast in the referendum, and other necessary forms and instructions, may be obtained at said office of the Field Representative or from any referendum agent or appointee.

§ 987.40 Skim milk and butterfat to be classified. All skim milk and butterfat received within the delivery period by a handler and which is required to be reported pursuant to § 987.30 shall be classified by the market administrator pursuant to the provisions of §§ 987.41 through 987.46.

§ 987.41 Classes of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in §§ 987.42 through 987.44, the classes of utilization shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk shall be all skim milk (including "reconstituted skim milk") and butterfat (1) disposed of in the form of milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks (including eggnog), yogurt, cream (other than frozen storage cream), cultured sour cream, and any mixture of cream and milk or skim milk (other than ice cream and ice cream mixes); (2) used to produce concentrated (including frozen) milk; (3) in inventory variations; and (4) not specifically accounted for as Class II milk.

(b) Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat (1) contained in frozen storage cream; (2) used to produce ice cream and ice cream mixes and any product other than those classified as Class I milk pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section; (3) disposed of for livestock feed or dumped skim milk; and (4) in shrinkage not to exceed 2 percent of receipts of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in producer and other source milk.

§ 987.42 Shrinkage. The market administrator shall allocate shrinkage over a handler's receipts as follows:

(a) Compute the total shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat for such handler;

(b) Prorate the resulting amounts between such handler's receipts of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk and in other source milk.

§ 987.43 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) All skim milk and butterfat shall be Class I milk unless the handler who first receives such skim milk or butterfat can prove to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should be classified as Class II milk.

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat classified in one class shall be reclassified if later disposed of (whether in original or other form) by such handler or another handler in another class.

§ 987.44 Transfers. Skim milk or butterfat disposed of in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream by a handler either by transfer or diversion from a fluid milk plant shall be classified:

(a) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted to a fluid milk plant of another handler, except a producer-handler, unless utilization in Class II is claimed by the transferor-handler in writing to the market administrator on or before the 5th day after the end of the month within which such transaction occurred: Provided, That the skim milk or butterfat so assigned to Class II shall be limited to the amount thereof remaining in Class II in the plant of the transferee-handler after the subtraction of other source milk pursuant to § 987.46 and any additional amounts of such skim milk or butterfat shall be assigned to Class I milk: Provided further, That if either or both handlers have received other source milk, the skim milk or butterfat so transferred shall be classified at both plants so as to allocate the greatest possible Class I utilization to producer milk.

(b) As Class I milk if transferred to a producer-handler.

(c) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted to a nonfluid milk plant, unless the following conditions are met:

(1) The handler claims classification in Class II milk;

(2) The market administrator is permitted to audit the books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat received at such nonfluid milk plant for the purpose of verification; and

(3) An amount of skim milk and butterfat not less than that so transferred or diverted was used in Class II milk: Provided, That the skim milk and butterfat so assigned to Class II milk shall be limited to the amount thereof in Class II milk in such nonfluid milk plant, and any additional amounts of skim milk and butterfat so transferred or diverted shall be assigned to Class I milk.

§ 987.45 Computation of the skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each delivery period, the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for other obvious errors the report of receipts and utilization submitted by each handler and shall compute the pounds of skim milk and butterfat in Class I milk and Class II milk for such handler.

§ 987.46 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified. After making the computations pursuant to § 987.45, the market administrator shall determine the classification of milk received from producers as follows:

(a) Skim milk shall be allocated in the following manner:

(1) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class II the pounds of skim milk shrinkage in producer milk determined pursuant to § 987.41 (b) (4);

(2) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II the pounds of skim milk in other source milk: Provided, That if the receipts of skim milk in other source milk are greater than the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II, an amount equal to the difference shall be subtracted from the pounds of skim milk in Class I milk;

(3) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class the skim milk received from other handlers according to its classification as determined pursuant to § 987.44 (a);

(4) Add to the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II milk the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph; and

(5) If the remaining pounds of skim milk in both classes exceed the pounds of skim milk received from producers, subtract such excess from the remaining pounds of skim milk in series beginning with Class II milk. Any amount so subtracted shall be called "overage."

(b) Butterfat shall be allocated in accordance with the same procedure outlined for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Determine the weighted average butterfat content of the Class I and Class II milk computed pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 987.50 Minimum prices. Subject to the appropriate butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 987.54, each handler shall pay in the manner set forth in § 987.90 for producer milk received at his fluid milk plant(s) during each delivery period not less than the Class I and Class II prices per hundredweight set forth in §§ 987.51 and 987.53, respectively.

§ 987.51 Class I milk. The Class I price shall be an amount calculated by multiplying $6.30 by the formula index computed pursuant to § 987.52 and dividing by 100: Provided, That such price shall not be higher than the average price per hundredweight paid or reported to be paid for milk at the plants or places in § 987.51 (a) during the preceding month plus $3.00 nor lower than such paying price plus $2.00: And provided further, That in no event from the effective date of this subpart, through February 1954, shall such price be less than the Class I price pursuant to Order No. 42, regulating the handling of milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, marketing area, at the 61–70 milk zone less 35 cents per hundredweight.

(a) Divide by 3.5 and multiply by 4.0 the average of the basic or field prices per hundredweight reported to have been paid or to be paid for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the preceding month at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department of Agriculture:

§ 987.52 Formula index. Based on data available on the 28th day of each month, or the first business day thereafter if the 28th is not a business day, the market administrator shall calculate a formula index for the following delivery period as follows:

(a) Divide the latest available monthly wholesale Price Index for All Commodities (1947–49=100) as announced by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U. S. Department of Labor, by 1.122.

(b) Divide by 3, the sum of the three latest monthly Indexes of Business Activity for the Jackson, Vicksburg, Laurel, and Hattiesburg Districts (1952=100) as announced by the Business Research Station, Mississippi State College, State College, Mississippi.

(c) Compute a labor-feed index as follows:

(2) Divide by 0.0458 the average price paid per hundredweight for all mixed dairy feed, for the latest available month as reported by the Department of Agriculture for the State of Mississippi and multiply by 0.7;

(3) Add together the amounts determined pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

(d) Add the results determined pursuant to paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) of this section, and divide by 3. The resulting number shall be known as the formula index and shall be rounded to the nearest one-tenth unit.

§ 987.53 Class II milk. The Class II price shall be the average of the basic or field prices reported to have been paid or to be paid for ungraded milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the delivery period at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department of Agriculture on or before the 5th day after the end of the delivery period by the companies indicated below:

§ 987.54 Butterfat differential to handlers. If the average butterfat content of producer milk allocated to any class pursuant to § 987.46 is more or less than 4.0 percent, there shall be added to the respective class price computed pursuant to § 987.50 for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is above 4.0 percent, or subtracted for each one-tenth of 1 percent that such average butterfat content is below 4.0 percent, an amount equal to the butterfat differential computed by multiplying the simple average, as computed by the market administrator, of the daily wholesale selling prices per pound (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter at Chicago, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the period listed below by the applicable factor so listed and dividing the result by 10:

(a) Class I milk. Multiply such price reported for the preceding month by 1.25 and round to the nearest one-tenth cent.

(b) Class II milk. Multiply such price reported for the current month by 1.15 and round to the nearest one-tenth cent.

§ 987.55 Use of equivalent factors. If for any reason a price, index, or wage rate specified by this subpart, for use in computing class prices and for other purposes is not reported or published in the manner described in this subpart, the market administrator shall use a price, index, or wage rate determined by the Secretary to be equivalent to or comparable with the factor which is specified.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 987.60 Producer-handlers. Sections 987.40 through 987.46, 987.50 through 987.55, 987.70 through 987.72, 987.80 through 987.83, and 987.90 through 987.95 shall not apply to a producer-handler.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICES

§ 987.70 Net obligation of each handler. The net obligation of each handler for milk received during each month from producers shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator as follows: (a) Multiply the pounds of such milk in each class by the applicable class price, (b) add together the resulting amounts, (c) add the amounts computed by multiplying the pounds of overage deducted from each class by the applicable class price, and (d) add or subtract, as the case may be, an amount, except those subject to the provisions of § 987.92, necessary to correct errors discovered by the market administrator in the verification of reports of such handler of his receipts and utilization of skim milk and butterfat for previous months.

§ 987.71 Computation of the uniform price for each handler. For each of the months of August through February the market administrator shall compute for each handler the uniform price for milk received from producers as follows:

(a) To the amount computed pursuant to § 987.70 add, if the average butterfat content of milk received from producers by such handler is less than 4.0 percent, or subtract if such average butterfat content is more than 4.0 percent, an amount computed as follows: Multiply the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 4.0 percent by the butterfat differential to producers computed pursuant to § 987.91, and multiply the result by the total hundredweight of such milk;

(b) Add the amount represented by any deductions made pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section for fractions of a cent in computing the uniform price for the preceding month;

(c) Divide the resulting amount by the total hundredweight of milk received from producers by such handler. The result, less any fraction of a cent per hundredweight, shall be known as the uniform price for such handler for milk of 4.0 percent butterfat, f. o. b. fluid milk plant.

§ 987.72 Computation of the uniform price for base milk and for excess milk for each handler. For each of the months of March through July, the market administrator shall compute for each handler the uniform price for base milk and for excess milk received from producers as follows:

(a) To the amount computed pursuant to § 987.70 add, if the average butterfat content of milk received from producers by such handler is less than 4.0 percent, or subtract if such average butterfat content is more than 4.0 percent, an amount computed as follows: Multiply the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 4.0 percent by the butterfat differential to producers computed pursuant to § 987.91 and multiply the result by the total hundredweight of such milk;

(b) Add the amount represented by any deductions made pursuant to § 987.71 (c) or (e) and (f) of this section for fractions of a cent in computing such uniform prices for the preceding month;

(c) Subject to the condition set forth in paragraph (d) of this section, compute the value of excess milk by multiplying the quantity of such milk by the Class II price;

(d) Compute the value of base milk received by such handler from producers by subtracting the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section from the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section: Provided, That, if such resulting value is greater than an amount computed by multiplying the pounds of base milk delivered by producers by the Class I price computed pursuant to § 987.51; such value in excess thereof shall be added to the value computed pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section to the extent that the excess price shall not exceed the base price as calculated in this order. Any additional value remaining shall be prorated on a volume basis between excess and base milk;

(e) Divide the result obtained in paragraph (d) of this section by the quantity of base milk received by such handler from producers. This result, less any fraction of a cent per hundredweight, shall be known as the uniform price per hundredweight for such handler for "base milk" of 4.0 percent butterfat content; and

(f) Divide the result obtained in paragraph (e) of this section by the quantity of excess milk received by such handler from producers. This result, less any fraction of a cent per hundredweight, shall be known as the uniform price per hundredweight for such handler for "excess milk" of 4.0 percent butterfat content.

BASE RATING

§ 987.80 Base operating period. The base operating period shall be the months of March through July.

§ 987.81 Base forming period. The base forming period for each year shall be the months of September through January immediately preceding the base operating period.

§ 987.82 Determination of daily base. The daily base of each producer shall be calculated by the market administrator, as follows: Divide the total pounds of milk received by a handler(s) from such producer during the base forming period by the number of days from the first day of delivery by such producer during such period to the last day of January, inclusive, but not less than 120 days.

§ 987.83 Computation of base. The base of each producer to be applied during the base operating period shall be a quantity of milk calculated by the market administrator in the following manner: Multiply the daily base of such producer by the number of days for which such producer's milk was delivered to such handler during the delivery period.

§ 987.84 Base rules. The following rules shall apply in connection with the establishment of bases:

(a) A base shall apply to deliveries of milk by the producer for whose account that milk was delivered during the base forming period;

(b) Bases may be transferred by notifying the market administrator in writing before the last day of any month for which such base is to be transferred to the person named in such notice only as follows:

(1) In the event of the death, retirement, or entry into military service of a producer, the entire base may be transferred to a member(s) of such producers' immediate family who carried on the dairy operations.

(2) If a base is held jointly and such joint holding is terminated the entire base may be transferred to one of the joint holders.

(3) The entire daily base of a producer may be moved from one handler to another handler.

§ 987.85 Announcement of established bases. On or before March 1, of each year, the market administrator shall notify each producer and the handler receiving milk from such producers the daily base established by such producer.

PAYMENTS

§ 987.90 Payments to producers. Each handler shall make payment to each producer for milk received from such producer as follows:

(a) On or before the last day of each delivery period for milk received during the first 15 days of the delivery period at not less than the price per hundredweight for Class II milk for the preceding delivery period.

(b) On or before the 15th day after the end of each of the delivery periods of August through February for milk received during such delivery period at not less than the uniform price per hundredweight computed for such handler pursuant to § 987.71, subject to the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 987.91, less proper deductions authorized in writing by such producer and less payment made pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) On or before the 15th day after the end of each of the delivery periods of March through July, after deducting the amount of payment made pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, and proper deductions authorized in writing by such producer, for milk received during the delivery period as follows:

(1) At not less than the uniform price per hundredweight for base milk computed pursuant to § 987.72 for the quantity of base milk received from such producer, subject to the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 987.91.

(2) At not less than the uniform price per hundredweight for excess milk computed pursuant to § 987.72 for the quantity of excess milk received from such producer, subject to the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 987.91.

(d) In making the payments to producers pursuant to paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, each handler shall furnish each producer with a supporting statement in such form that it may be retained by the producer, which shall show:

(1) The delivery period and the identity of the handler and of the producer;

(2) The total pounds and average butterfat test of milk received from such producer;

(3) The minimum rate or rates at which payment to such producer is required;

(4) The rate which is used in making the payment, if such rate is other than the applicable minimum rate;

(5) The amount or the rate per hundredweight of such deduction claimed by the handler, together with a description of the respective deductions; and

(6) The net amount of payment to such producer.

§ 987.91 Producer butterfat differential. In making payments to each producer there shall be added to the uniform price(s) for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk delivered by such producer is above 4.0 percent not less than, or there may be deducted from the uniform price for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is below 4.0 percent not more than, an amount computed as follows: Multiply the simple average computed by the market administrator of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter per pound at Chicago as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the month by .115 and round to the nearest one-tenth of a cent.

§ 987.92 Adjustments of accounts. Whenever verification by the market administrator of the payment by a handler to any producer discloses payment to such producer of an amount which is less than is required by this section, the handler shall make up such payment to the producer not later than the time of making payment to producers next following such disclosure.

§ 987.93 Marketing service. (a) Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, each handler, in making payments to producers for milk (other than milk of his own production) pursuant to § 987.90, shall deduct 7 cents per hundredweight or such amount not exceeding 7 cents per hundredweight, as may be prescribed by the Secretary and shall pay such deductions to the market administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of each month. Such moneys shall be used by the market administrator to verify samples, tests, and weights of milk received from such producers and to provide producers with market information.

(b) In the case of producers for whom a cooperative association which the Secretary has determined is actually performing the services set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, each handler shall make, in lieu of the deduction specified in paragraph (a) of this section, such deductions from the payments to be made to such producers as may be authorized by the membership agreement or marketing contract between such cooperative association and such producers on or before the 15th day after the end of each month and pay such deduction to the cooperative association of which such producers are members, furnishing a statement showing the amount of any such deductions and the amount and average butterfat test of milk for which such deduction was computed for each producer. In lieu of such statement a handler may authorize the market administrator to furnish such cooperative association the information with respect to such producers reported pursuant to § 987.50 (d).

§ 987.94 Expenses of administration. As his pro rata share of the expense of administration of this subpart, each handler except a producer-handler, shall pay to the market administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of the month, 5 cents per hundredweight, or such amount not exceeding 5 cents per hundredweight as the Secretary may prescribe, with respect to all receipts within the month of (a) other source milk which is classified as Class I milk, and (b) milk from producers including such handler's own production.

§ 987.95 Termination of obligations. The provision of this section shall apply to any obligation under this subpart for the payment of money.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this subpart shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain, but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to an association of producers, the name of such producer(s) or association of producers or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this order, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books and records required by this order to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this subpart to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or wilful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this subpart shall terminate two years after the end of the calendar month during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the calendar month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler with the applicable period of time, files, pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

EFFECTIVE TIME, SUSPENSION, OR TERMINATION

§ 987.100 Effective time. The provisions of this subpart or any amendment to this subpart shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated pursuant to § 987.101.

§ 987.101 Suspension or termination. The Secretary may suspend or terminate this subpart or any provision of this subpart whenever he finds this subpart or any provision of this subpart obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. This order shall terminate in any event whenever the provisions of the act authorizing it cease to be in effect.

§ 987.102 Continuing obligations. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this subpart, there are any obligations thereunder, the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any person (including the market administrator), such further acts shall be performed notwithstanding such suspension or termination.

§ 987.103 Liquidation. Upon the suspension or termination of the provisions of this subpart, except this section, the market administrator, or such liquidating agent as the Secretary may designate, shall if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, dispose of all property in his possession or control, including accounts receivable, and execute and deliver all assignment or other instruments necessary or appropriate to effectuate any such disposition. If a liquidating agent is so designated, all assets, books, and records of the market administrator shall be transferred promptly to such liquidating agent. If, upon such liquidation, the funds on hand exceed the amounts required to pay outstanding obligations of the office of the market administrator and to pay necessary expenses of liquidation and distribution, such excess shall be distributed to contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 987.110 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States to act as his Agent or Representative in connection with any of the provisions of this subpart.

§ 987.111 Separability of provisions. If any provision of this subpart, or its application to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the application of such provision and of the remaining provisions of this subpart, to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

Hattiesburg Creamery:

1. The Central Mississippi Marketing Area be designated to comprise the counties of Warren, Hinds, Madison, Rankin, Simpson, Lawrence, Jefferson Davis, Covington, Jones, Wayne, Walthall, Marion, Lamar, Forrest, Perry, Greene, Stone and George, all within the State of Mississippi.

Blue Ribbon Creamery:

2. Include the counties of Adams, Claiborne, Lincoln, Copiah, Scott, Newton, Washington, Humphries, Sharkey, Yazoo, Jefferson, Simpson, Leake, Neshoba in any Marketing Area that may be considered by the Department.

Blue Ribbon Creamery and Hattiesburg Creamery:

3. Insert a provision in the proposed order to provide that milk on hand in the possession of any handler on the day any order should become effective be priced at that time so that it will not at a later time reflect a higher price to the handler.

4. Define Class II milk as follows: "Class II shall be all skim milk and butterfat (1) used to produce any product other than those specified in Classes I and III, and (2) milk diverted and delivered in producers' cans to nonfluid plants."

5. Define Class III milk as follows: "Class III milk shall be (1) all milk the butterfat from which is sold to a butter plant or an ice cream plant for the manufacture of butter or ice cream; (2) whole milk transferred to a nonfluid milk plant; and (3) shrinkage up to two percent of receipts from producers."

6. Classify milk transferred or diverted to a nonfluid milk plant as Class II or III when the handler claims classification in Class II or III and the market administrator is furnished, upon his request, with certification by the nonfluid milk plant as to utilization of such skim milk or butterfat received at such nonfluid milk plant outside the marketing area.

7. Permit each handler, in making prescribed payments, to deduct ten cents per hundredweight from the uniform price of base and excess milk during the delivery periods of March through July and for all milk during the delivery periods of August through February for each producer with respect to all such milk received from such producer at a fluid milk plant other than a bottling plant, located more than forty miles from the fluid milk plant at which the milk is bottled.

8. Whenever verification of a handler's records discloses payment to any producer of an amount which is more than the uniform price being paid by the handler to producers, occasioned by clerical or other such error, the amount of such overpayment shall be deducted and retained by the handler at the time of making payment to producers next following such disclosure. Any such erroneous payment, if discovered by handler, shall be reported promptly to the market administrator.

9. Provide that no producer shall be required to pay the market administrator for marketing services any amount in excess of the amount charged by a cooperative association which is actually performing the services of verifying samples, tests and weights of milk received, pursuant to the laws of Mississippi and the regulations of the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce promulgated thereunder and providing producers with market information.

10. Minimum prices: Subject to the appropriate butterfat differential each handler shall pay for milk received at his plant from producers at not less than the prices per hundredweight set forth in 1 and 2 below:

(1) Class I milk. The basic formula price to be used in determining the price per hundredweight of Class I milk shall be the highest of the prices computed pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, and the price computed pursuant to (2) (b), plus 20 cents, all for the second preceding month.

(a) Divide the average of the basic or field prices per hundredweight reported to have been paid for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during said month at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department of Agriculture, by 3.5 and multiply by 4:

(b) The price per hundredweight computed by adding together the plus values pursuant to subparagraphs (i) and (ii) of this paragraph:

(i) To the simple average as computed by the market administrator of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) per pound of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter at Chicago, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the month, add 20 percent thereof, and multiply by 4.0.

[Docket No. E-6544]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, BUREAU OF RECLAMATION, EKLUTNA PROJECT, ALASKA

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

FEBRUARY 15, 1954.

Take notice that on February 9, 1954, the Secretary of the Interior through the Assistant Commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation submitted a proposed schedule of rates, designated Schedule A-F1, covering wholesale firm power service, Eklutna Project, Alaska, for the confirmation and approval of the Federal Power Commission in accordance with the requirements of the Eklutna Project Act (act), 64 Stat. 382.

The proposed rate schedule as set forth in the application is, basically, comprised of a two-part rate with monthly charges for both capacity and energy on the following basis: A capacity charge of $2.25 per kw. of billing demand which is stated to be the highest 30-minute integrated demand measured during the month; an energy charge of 6 mills per kwh. It is proposed to be made applicable to power sales to public bodies, cooperatives and others as set forth in the act from the initial date of commercial service by the Project.

The application indicates that the proposed rate will apply at all points on the project's transmission system with adjustment for deliveries at transmission voltage.

The application states that anticipated revenues under the proposed rate schedule will be sufficient to amortize, over a 50-year period, the project investment with interest at 2½ percent and create an estimated surplus in excess of $11,000,000 in addition to meeting annual operating expenses.

The application further states that the proposed rate schedule was patterned after other Bureau of Reclamation project rates and is similar in design to the Fort Peck Project firm power rate schedule confirmed and approved by Commission order issued January 15, 1954, in Docket Nos. IT-5891, IT-5932, E-6199.

The application is on file with the Commission and available for public inspection.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest or petition in regard to said application should on or before the 5th day of March 1954, file with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D. C., a petition or protest in accordance with the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

PART 341—APPROVAL AUTHORITY

LIMITATIONS ON LOAN MAKING

Pursuant to authority delegated in the Acting Secretary's Order of December 24, 1953 (19 F. R. 74), the following revisions are made:

1. Paragraphs (d) and (g) of § 341.2, Title 6, Code of Federal Regulations (17 F. R. 7801), are revised to clarify the period during which a borrower can be continuously indebted on operating loans and still be eligible for Production and Subsistence loans, and to read as follows:

§ 341.2 Authority to State Directors.

(d) No Production and Subsistence loan may be made to an applicant who has been indebted continuously for Production and Subsistence loans for seven consecutive years until all his indebtedness under such loans has been paid in full. The seven-year period in which the borrower may have been continuously indebted will begin to run from the date of the check representing the oldest such loan received by the applicant even though that loan may have been settled or paid in full. Settlement for less than the amount owed does not meet the requirement for payment in full. Therefore, if at any time a borrower has been continuously indebted on one or more Production and Subsistence loans for seven or more years and thereafter settles any such indebtedness for less than the full amount owed, he will not be eligible for a further Production and Subsistence loan until he has paid the remaining indebtedness on his loans which have not been settled and has also paid the difference between the settlement figure and the amount owed at the time of settlement with interest on the unpaid principal to the date of actual payment.

* * * * *

(g) No Production and Subsistence loan may be made to an applicant who was indebted on November 1, 1953, for Rural Rehabilitation, Flood and Windstorm Restoration, Wartime Civilian Control Administration, Emergency Crop and Feed, 1934–35 Drought Feed, or Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation loans for production type purposes, until all his indebtedness on such loans and on any Production and Subsistence loans has been paid in full. Settlement of such loans for production type purposes after November 1, 1953, for less than the full amount owed does not meet the requirement for payment in full. Therefore, if a borrower was indebted on November 1, 1953, for any such loan for production type purposes and either (1) settles such a loan for less than the full amount owed or (2) has settled a Production and Subsistence loan at any time for less than the full amount owed, he cannot thereafter obtain a Production and Subsistence loan until he has paid the remaining indebt-

PART 319—FOREIGN QUARANTINE NOTICES

SUBPART—FLAG SMUT

AMENDMENT OF FLAG SMUT QUARANTINE

Pursuant to sections 5 and 7 of the Plant Quarantine Act of 1912, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1952 ed. 159, 160), notice of quarantine No. 59 relating to the flag smut (§ 319.59; 18 F. R. 2683), is hereby amended by deleting Germany from the foreign countries and localities designated therein, from which wheat grain and certain other wheat products may not be imported except as permitted by regulations supplemental to the notice of quarantine.

At the time Flag Smut Quarantine No. 59 was revised, effective June 8, 1953, available European scientific literature indicated that the Flag smut of wheat, Urocystis tritici Koern., existed in Germany. Through a confusion in identity Urocystis tritici Koern. was considered by certain European scientists as synonymous with U. occulta (Wallr.) Rab., the latter a similar smut attacking rye in Germany. Germany therefore was listed as one of the flag smut infected countries. Most mycologists and plant pathologists now believe these two fungi to be different organisms. Accordingly, this amendment is adopted to conform the quarantine to recent scientific findings.

The purpose of this amendment is to relieve restrictions heretofore imposed. In order to be of maximum benefit to importers of wheat grain and other regulated products, the amendment should be made effective as soon as possible. Accordingly under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1952 ed. 1003), it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure with respect to this amendment are impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and since it relieves restrictions it may be made effective less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 3, 33 Stat. 1270, sec. 9, 37 Stat. 318; 7 U. S. C. 143, 162. Interprets or applies secs. 5, 7, 37 Stat. 316, 317; 7 U. S. C. 159, 160)

This amendment shall be effective February 23, 1954.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 17th day of February 1954.

Administrator,
Agricultural Research Service.

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Navel Orange Reg. 19]

PART 914—NAVEL ORANGES GROWN IN ARIZONA AND DESIGNATED PART OF CALIFORNIA

LIMITATION OF HANDLING

§ 914.319 Navel Orange Regulation 19—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement and Order No. 14 (18 F. R. 5638), regulating the handling of navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California, effective September 22, 1953, under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Navel Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such navel oranges, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions of this section effective as hereinafter set forth. The Navel Orange Administrative Committee held an open meeting on February 18, 1954, after giving due notice thereof, to consider supply and market conditions for navel oranges and the need for regulation; interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit information and views at this meeting; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein was promptly submitted to the Department after such meeting was held; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such navel oranges; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period herein specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed on or before the effective date of this section.

PART 927—MILK IN THE NEW YORK METROPOLITAN MARKETING AREA

SUBPART—COOPERATIVE PAYMENTS RULES AND REGULATIONS

APPROVAL OF REGULATIONS

Pursuant to the provisions of § 927.76 of the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the New York metropolitan milk marketing area (7 CFR Part 927; 18 F. R. 7224, 7581, 19 F. R. 556), the regulations issued on February 10, 1954 by the market administrator of said order relating to applications for cooperative payments under § 927.76 of said order, are hereby approved and made effective when published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

There is found to be good cause for making these regulations effective promptly in that (1) proposed regulations in this matter were the subject of a public meeting held on January 21-22, 1954 pursuant to notice issued on January 11, 1954 (19 F. R. 265), (2) delay in making the regulations effective would preclude the timely filing of applications by cooperative associations of producers and federations of such associations to receive payments for which provision is made in the order, and (3) no obligation, restriction, or requirement is imposed by these regulations which necessitates extensive or substantial preparation by any person prior to their effective date

NOTE: For regulations issued on February 10, 1954 see F. R. Doc. 54-1227, supra.

(b) Order. (1) The quantity of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona which may be handled during the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., February 21, 1954, and ending at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., February 28, 1954, is hereby fixed as follows:

(2) The prorate base of each handler who has made application therefor, as provided in the said amended marketing agreement and order, is hereby fixed in accordance with the prorate base schedule which is set forth below and made a part hereof by this reference.

(3) As used in this section, "handled," "handler," "carloads," "prorate base," "District 1," "District 2," and "District 3," shall have the same meaning as when used in the said amended marketing agreement and order.

The amendment to § 116.01-138 revises delivery terms to be inserted in supply contracts to parallel those prescribed in General Services Administration Regulation 1-II-209.03.

The deletion of § 116.01-143 is incident to the cancellation of National Production Authority Order M-14 on the use of nickel and nickel bearing alloys.

A new section designated § 116.01-165 prescribes procurement instructions for envelopes and articles bearing penalty indicia.

A new section designated § 116.01-166 prescribes instructions for the procurement of advertising for recruiting purposes.

The amendment of § 116.03-56 (c) adds a new subparagraph designated (5) which prescribes procedure for the establishment and use of an "Imprest Fund."

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Commandant, United States Coast Guard, by Treasury Department Order No. 120, dated July 31, 1950 (15 F. R. 6521), the following amendments are prescribed:

1. Section 116.01-8 is amended to read as follows:

§ 116.01-8 Referral to Headquarters. All questions relative to contract procedure and requests to depart from standard contract provisions shall be referred to the Commandant (FS-1) via the District Commander (f) or the Commanding Officer of the Headquarters unit concerned.

2. Section 116.01-9 Commercial procurement by vessels and stations is hereby revoked.

3. Section 116.01-10 is amended to read as follows:

§ 166.01-10 Performance and default under Coast Guard contracts. When a contractor fails, or it becomes apparent that he will fail, to perform the terms and conditions of a contract, a complete report of all circumstances, including the contract number and the recommendations of the contracting officer, shall be forwarded to the Commandant (FS-1) for determination of the action to be taken. If the Commandant determines that the contract should be terminated for default, any supplies or services still required after such termination may be purchased against the contractor's account, in the open market or otherwise.

4. Part 116 is amended by adding a new § 116.01-12 reading as follows:

§ 116.01-12 Performance and default under Federal Supply Schedule contracts—(a) Responsibilities. While the General Services Administration (hereinafter referred to in this subchapter as "Administration") awards Federal Supply Schedule contracts and exercises general supervision over such contracts, it is the responsibility of Coast Guard units using such contracts to place orders with the contractors, make payment, and, in the first instance, determine whether performance meets the contract terms. Subject to the provisions of the contracts and the conditions stated in this section, ordering offices should deal directly with contractors concerning their performance of the contract terms, and should accept or reject the supplies or services, make price adjustments for defective supplies or services, or seek replacements, and, in case of default, terminate purchase orders, purchase from other sources, and charge contractors with resulting excess costs.

(b) Inspection, defective supplies or services. Arranging for inspection of supplies delivered or services performed by a contractor shall be the responsibility of the ordering office. Adequate inspection of items is necessary to maintain established standards and require compliance with terms and conditions, specifications and samples, and to obviate contractor delinquencies. Should inspection assistance be desired by an ordering office, the nearest Administration regional office should be contacted. The Administration regional office executing the contract shall be notified of all significant instances where defective articles and services are received by an ordering office. Ordering offices may accept defective articles and services, and pay therefor at a proper reduction in price in accordance with paragraph 17 (b) of General Provisions for Federal Supply Schedule Contracts, March 1951, GSA Form 281c, or may terminate the right of the contractor to proceed further under the purchase order, declare the contractor in default, and purchase the supplies elsewhere against the contractor's account.

(c) Delinquent performance. Where the contractor fails to perform in accordance with the provisions of the contract, ordering offices may afford a further opportunity to perform or terminate the right of the contractor to proceed further under the purchase order, declare the contractor in default on the order, and purchase elsewhere against his account. Should the contractor allege that the failure in performance was due to an excusable cause precluding assessment of excess costs under the provisions of the contract, the Deputy Regional Director, Federal Supply Service, at the Administration regional office executing the schedule contract shall be notified promptly. In the absence of a decision by the contracting officer executing the contract, or by the Administrator, or his duly authorized representative, on appeal, pursuant to such notice that the failure is excusable, the ordering office is free to charge against the contractor any excess cost resulting from the default. When the ordering office is aware that the defaulting contractor has alleged the failure to be excusable, it may elect to postpone the assessment of excess costs until a decision is made in order to avoid unnecessary accounting actions. (See paragraph 21 of the General Provisions for Federal Supply Schedule Contracts, March 1951, GSA Form 281c.)

(d) Disputes. All disputes concerning questions of fact arising under the contract which cannot be settled satisfactorily between the ordering office and the contractor shall be decided by the Administration contracting officer executing the contract or by the Administrator, or his duly authorized representative, on appeal. (See paragraph 22 of the General Provisions for Federal Supply Schedule Contracts, March 1951, GSA Form 281c.)

(e) Default; ordering office. Any ordering office may, in respect to any one or more purchase orders placed by it under a contract, declare the contractor in default in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 21 (g) of the General Provisions for Federal Supply Schedule Contracts, March 1951, GSA Form 281c. However, before declaring a contractor in default, an ordering office should ordinarily notify the contractor in writing that unless satisfactory performance occurs within a specified time, which should allow a reasonable time for performance, the ordering office will terminate his right to proceed further under the purchase order and he will be held liable for any excess costs resulting from purchasing the supplies or services elsewhere. However, such notice shall not be given when the default involves an attempted fraud on the United States, or when it would be obviously futile as, for example, when the contractor has already declined to perform. Where excess costs are anticipated, the ordering office may likewise withhold sufficient funds otherwise due the contractor as offset security. Ordering offices shall endeavor to minimize excess costs to be charged against the contractor and to collect by check or set off any excess costs owed. The funds recovered from the contractor shall be deposited to the credit of "Miscellaneous Receipts" (20X5331, Recoveries, excess cost over contract price). The Administration regional office executing the contract shall be notified of all cases where an ordering office has declared a Federal Supply Schedule contractor in default.

(f) Default; General Services Administration. The Administration may declare a contractor in default on an overall basis for any or all items covered by the contract, in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 21 of the General Provisions for Federal Supply Schedule Contracts, March 1951, GSA Form 281c, as distinguished from ordering office action on individual orders. When notified of such action by the Administration, ordering offices shall thereafter refuse to accept further performance by the contractor, shall not place further purchase orders with him, and shall purchase against the account of the contractor from replacing contractors designated by the Administration, or in such other manner as directed by the Administration.

(g) Failure to collect excess costs. Ordering offices shall report to the Deputy Regional Director, Federal Supply Service, at the Administration regional office executing the Federal Supply Schedule contract involved, those instances where they have been unsuccessful in collecting excess costs which have accrued against a defaulting contractor. Reports shall be made within 60 days from date of final payment to the new contractor from whom the replacement purchase was made and may be in letter form. Such reports shall provide complete information so as to identify properly the transaction and furnish necessary data, such as the name of the defaulting contractor, contract number, item number and description, schedule price, and the amount of excess costs to be collected. In addition, complete information shall be reported concerning the supplier from whom substitute purchase was made, such as the name of the supplier, purchase price, order number or numbers on which payment was made, and contract number, if any. The Administration regional office will consolidate such data as reported and, in the absence of an available offset in the regional office, will submit such data through channels to the General Accounting Office for collection.

5. Section 116.01-45 is amended to read as follows:

§ 116.01-45 Post Office Department. Envelopes shall be purchased only under contracts executed by the Post Office Department. Orders will be placed in accordance with § 116.01-165.

6. Section 116.01-138 is amended to read as follows:

§ 116.01-138 Place of delivery—(a) General. Delivery terms that are most appropriate and advantageous to the Government shall be incorporated in all supply contracts, taking into account established trade practice and the presence of special circumstances. In addition to the insertion of the term itself, the particular point or points at which delivery is to take place, within the meaning of the delivery term, shall be fully identified in the contract either (1) by the issuing office in its invitation for bids (or request for quotations), or (2) by the contractor in his bid (or quotation) in the case of other than destination deliveries. In those cases where the information required for insertion in the contract to identify the point at which delivery is to be made can be furnished only by the contractor, appropriate instructions to bidders shall be inserted in the invitation for bids (or request for quotations) providing for inclusion of such information in the bids (or quotations).

(b) Determination of delivery terms—(1) Domestic shipments. Unless there are valid reasons to the contrary (such as, but not restricted to, industry practice or applicability of state taxes), all invitations for bids (or requests for quotations) for supplies from sources and for delivery within the continental United States shall provide for method of delivery as follows:

(i) Less than minimum carload or truckload lot. When it is estimated that any shipment to a single destination will not equal a minimum carload or truckload lot (a minimum lot shall be deemed to weigh approximately 20,000 pounds), delivery will be made on the basis of all transportation charges paid to destination.

(ii) Minimum carload or truckload lot. When it is estimated that any single contract will require a shipment of a minimum carload or truckload lot, delivery may be either on the basis of (a) f. o. b. carrier's equipment, wharf, or freight station (at the Government's option), at a specified city or shipping point, or (b) all transportation charges paid to destination, whichever is the most advantageous to the Government. The invitation for bids (or request for quotations) shall provide that bidders may bid (or quote) on either or both bases set forth in this paragraph. Bids (or quotations) shall be evaluated on the basis of overall cost to the Government.

(2) Shipments outside the continental U. S. In the case of supplies purchased within the continental United States for ultimate delivery to destinations outside the continental United States, wherever possible, regardless of the quantity of the shipment, delivery will be made on the basis of f. o. b. carrier's equipment, wharf, or freight station (at the Government's option), at or near contractor's plant, at a specified city or shipping point. Shipments included in this policy are those in which supplies are shipped directly to a port area for export or to storage areas for subsequent reshipment to a port area for export.

(c) Standard contract delivery terms—(1) The standard delivery terms normally used in Coast Guard supply contracts are:

(i) F. o. b. point of origin;

(ii) F. o. b. destination;

(iii) F. o. b. destination, within consignee's premises.

(2) Definitions of the standard delivery terms are contained in Coast Guard Form CG–2557A–1 (Additional General Provisions—Supply Contract), which is incorporated into supply contracts.

7. Section 116.01–140 is amended by changing the headnote for the section and by revising paragraph (b) and paragraph (c) (3) to read as follows:

§ 116.01–140 Liquidated damages.

(b) Supply contracts. (1) Where time of delivery or performance is to be made a controlling element in the acceptance or rejection of proposals, the fact shall be stated in the invitation in order that all bidders may have an equal opportunity to offer the items or services within the time so specified. Where it is not so stated, this element cannot be considered in the making of awards. The following clause may be used: "Time required for delivery (completion) is important and will be considered when making award. Delivery (completion) is required not later than (insert required date). A liquidated damage clause assessing (insert rate per day and unit of assessment) for each calendar day of delay in delivery (completion) will be included in the contract."

(2) The scale in paragraph (c) (2) of this section is used in determining the daily rate of liquidated damages for supply contracts.

* * * * *

(c) Construction contracts (SF–23).

(3) Extension of time. Clause 5 (c) of Standard Form 23a, General Provisions (Construction Contracts), applicable to both construction and repair contracts, prescribes the acceptable causes for delay in contract completion. Any such delay beyond the contractor's performance time must be incorporated in a Change Order (Form CG–3473) immediately after the incident occurs in accordance with the provisions of Clause 5 (c), Standard Form 23a. Change orders granting an extension of time must be fully justified and the extenuating circumstances described in detail. In interpreting the word "unforeseeable" as used in the above clause, the Comptroller General of the United States, in his decision (B–73902), 27 Comp. Gen. 621 ruled:

> It is to be understood at the outset that the application of excusable causes enumerated in the contract provision in question is dependent upon the factual situation present in a given case. That is to say, it is well established that the mere happening of an event or cause enumerated in the contract may not be regarded, ipso facto, as excusing the contractor, but there is first for consideration whether such event or cause was so abnormal, extraordinary or unusual, as to render it unforeseeable.

8. Section 116.01–143, Use of nickel and nickel bearing alloys is hereby revoked.

9. Part 116 is amended by adding a new § 116.01–165 reading as follows:

§ 116.01–165 Procurement of envelopes and articles bearing penalty indicia—(a) Envelopes. Envelopes will be procured only under contracts made by the Post Office Department. The publication "Award of Contracts for Envelopes" lists all available types of envelopes and contains the necessary information required for placement of orders. Orders placed for envelopes will be forwarded directly to the contractor. Copies of those orders covering envelopes with penalty indicia will be forwarded to the Commandant (FS).

(b) Other articles bearing penalty indicia. Articles (other than envelopes) bearing penalty indicia such as labels, cards and tags will be procured exclusively by the Commandant (CHS). The Commandant (CHS) will procure such articles directly from contracts made by the Post Office Department or from or through the Government Printing Office.

10. Part 116 is amended by adding a new § 116.01–166 reading as follows:

§ 116.01–166 Procurement of advertising for recruiting purposes—(a) General. It shall be the policy of the Coast Guard to refrain from the use of paid advertising for recruiting purposes unless approved in advance by the Commandant (PTP) in the case of recruits for the regular Coast Guard, or the Commandant (PR) in the case of recruits for the Coast Guard Reserve. However, advertising space donated to public service announcements by newspapers and/or radio or television stations may be utilized if made available to the Coast Guard without cost.

(b) Authority for paid advertising. Supplement No. 3, dated June 10, 1949, to Treasury Department Order No. 77 of December 17, 1946, and its supplements of June 30, 1947, and November 13, 1947, provides that the Commandant may continue until further notice to authorize the publication of advertisements for the recruitment of enlisted personnel in newspapers, periodicals, through radio stations, and other media of commercial publicity.

(c) Procurement of paid advertising—(1) General. Each publisher or broadcaster with whom an agreement to advertise has been negotiated shall furnish current copies of his advertising rates in sufficient number to provide a copy for the Commandant (FP) and for each field office concerned.

(2) Newspaper and periodical advertising. The publisher's authority to print the advertisement shall be prepared on Standard Form No. 1143 (Advertising Order), and Standard Form No. 1143a (memorandum copy), which will be numbered serially on a fiscal year basis by each ordering unit.

(3) Radio and television advertising. The radio or television station's authority to broadcast spot announcements shall be prepared on Form CG–2557 (Purchase Order).

(d) Payment—(1) Newspaper and periodical advertising. After the advertisement has been printed, the publisher shall submit request for payment on Standard Form No. 1144 (Public Voucher for Advertising), and Standard Form No. 1144a (memorandum copy), to the ordering office in quintuplicate. The original and three copies of the advertising voucher shall be supported by (i) one copy of the printed page ("tear sheet") containing the advertisement for each date of publication, or in lieu thereof the payee's affidavit of publication showing placement of advertisement on the dates ordered, and (ii) the publisher's advertising rate card, unless previously obtained and filed with the Commandant (FP) and each field office concerned.

(2) Radio and television advertising. After the announcement series have been completed, the radio or television station shall submit request for payment in the form of a certified invoice in quintuplicate, detailing the time occupied, dates, etc., and supported by a copy of the spot announcement rate schedule, unless previously obtained and filed with the Commandant (FP) and each field office concerned.

(3) Claims to be forwarded to Commandant (FP) for settlement. Advertising vouchers (Standard Form No. 1144 and 1144a), certified invoices for radio-television advertising, and pertinent supporting papers shall be forwarded to the Commandant (FP) for settlement.

11. Section 116.03–56 is amended by adding a new paragraph (c) (5) and by revising paragraph (d) (2) to read as follows:

§ 116.03–56 Small purchases by district offices. * * *

(c) Use of cash purchase. * * *

(5) When considered desirable and more efficient to advance funds for cash purchases to a designated member of the supply organization at a Coast Guard unit, an Imprest Fund may be established. Such a fund is defined as one established, without appropriation charge, by the advance of cash from an assistant disbursing officer or agent cashier to a designated Imprest Fund cashier for the purpose of making cash payments for small purchases, to be replenished on a revolving basis. The Imprest Fund cashier must be bonded. Establishment and use of Imprest Funds will be accomplished in the following manner:

(i) Authority. District Commanders and Commanding Officers of those Headquarters units covered by § 116.03–57 may request the Commandant (F) to establish an Imprest Fund at any unit with an assistant disbursing officer attached. Authority for establishment remains with the Secretary of the Treasury. Only one Imprest Fund will be authorized at any unit.

(ii) Limitation and usage of funds. The amount of each Imprest Fund will be kept at a minimum consistent with the volume of purchases under this procedure, but in no case will exceed $500.00. Cash payment to a vendor is limited to one purchase at one time not to exceed $50.00 each. Cash payments under this procedure may be used for the procurement, payment, or reimbursement of: Bus and street car tokens and passes, postage stamps (including postage due), rubber stamps, books, hardware, minor technical and special supplies, general stores, taxicab fares, parcel post, drayage, repairs to equipment, fees, refunds, utility bills, etc. Imprest Funds may not be used for payment of salaries or wages, transportation charges on bills of commercial carriers, or for cashing of checks or other negotiable instruments.

(iii) Imprest fund cashiers. Approval by the Secretary will include designation of one commissioned or warrant officer or civilian employee as Imprest Fund Cashier. The Imprest Fund Cashier may, at his own risk, delegate the handling of funds and vouchers to a subordinate and may advance funds on a receipt to personnel designated to pick up or pay for material or services purchased or delivered c. o. d. Such personnel must be designated by the Comptroller for Headquarters or by the District Commander (f) or the Commanding Officer of a Headquarters unit. Funds will not be deposited in a bank or intermingled with other funds, but will be kept in secure storage provided by the Coast Guard and accessible only to the cashier.

(iv) Action. Purchases will be accomplished under this procedure in the same manner as those covered by instructions in subparagraphs (1) to (4) of this paragraph, except that advances will be obtained from and accounted for to the Imprest Fund Cashier in lieu of the assistant disbursing officer or agent cashier.

* * * * *

(d) Use of charge account. * * *

(2) At time of pick-up or delivery, or performance of service, one copy of supplier's sales slip, priced delivery ticket, or invoice, is receipted by Coast Guard and retained by supplier. A second copy, receipted by Coast Guard representative, is retained by the supply office. A third receipted copy is transmitted to the Pay and Voucher Section.

12. Section 116.03–58 Purchases by units without ADO's or agent cashiers attached is amended by revoking paragraph (b).

13. Section 118.01–12 is amended to read as follows:

§ 118.01–12 Contract bulletins—(a) General. Information bulletins covering term contracts executed by Coast Guard contracting officers shall be promptly furnished to all units which may make use of such contracts. The bulletins shall be in sufficient detail to permit settlement of contractors' invoices and shall cite contract numbers, date of the contract, name and address of the contractor, delivery points and delivery conditions, items and prices, applicable discounts, and code symbols relating to sources of procurement and circumstances governing procurement. District commanders shall also furnish information covering contracts executed by other Government agencies which are available for Coast Guard use to all district units and transient vessels which may utilize such contracts.

(b) Copies to be furnished Commandant (FS–1). One copy of each term contract bulletin prepared by units with contracting officers shall be forwarded to the Commandant (FS–1).

The public lands in the areas described aggregate approximately 68,000 acres.

The lands released from withdrawal by this order vary from rough to rolling and are broken in places by escarpments. The soils are sedimentary in origin and consist of consolidated and unconsolidated sand, clay and limestone combinations, predominantly limestone. They have no value for agricultural use other than low value woodland grazing.

No application for the lands released from withdrawal by this order may be allowed under the homestead, small tract, or any other non-mineral public land law unless the lands have been classified as valuable or suitable for the type of use contemplated by such application, or shall be so classified upon consideration of an application.

This order shall not otherwise become effective to change the status of such lands until 10:00 a. m. on the 35th day after the date of this order. At that time the said lands shall, subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, become subject to application, petition, location, and selection as follows:

(a) Ninety-one day period for preference-right filings. For a period of 91 days, commencing at the hour and on the day specified above, the public lands affected by this order shall be subject only to (1) application under the homestead laws or the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 609 (43 U. S. C. 682a), as amended, by qualified veterans of World War II and other qualified persons entitled to preference under the act of September 27, 1944, 58 Stat. 747 (43 U. S. All applications filed under this paragraph either at or before 10:00 a. m. on the 35th day after the date of this order shall be treated as though filed simultaneously at that time. All applications filed under this paragraph after 10:00 a. m. on the said 35th day shall be considered in the order of filing.

(b) Date for non-preference-right filings. Commencing at 10:00 a. m. on the 126th day after the date of this order, any lands remaining unappropriated shall become subject to such application, petition, location, selection, or other appropriation by the public generally as may be authorized by the public-land laws. All such applications filed either at or before 10:00 a. m. on the 126th day after the date of this order, shall be treated as though filed simultaneously at the hour specified on such 126th day. All applications filed thereafter shall be considered in the order of filing.

A veteran shall accompany his application with a complete photostatic, or other copy (both sides), of his certificate of honorable discharge, or of an official document of his branch of the service which shows clearly his honorable discharge as defined in § 181.36 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations, or constitutes evidence of other facts upon which the claim for preference is based and which shows clearly the period of service. Other persons claiming credit for service of veterans must furnish like proof in support of their claims. TITLE 49—TRANSPORTATION

Chapter I—Interstate Commerce Commission

PART 1—GENERAL RULES OF PRACTICE

NOTICE OF FILING OF APPLICATIONS BY MOTOR CARRIERS OF PROPERTY

At a general session of the Interstate Commerce Commission, held at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 1st day of February A. D. 1954.

The matter of special rules governing notice of filing of applications by motor carriers of property and certain other procedural matters with respect thereto being under consideration:

It is ordered, That the following special rules be, and they are hereby, prescribed:

§ 1.240 Special rules governing notice of filing of applications by motor carriers of property, under sections 5 (2), 206, 209, 210a (b), and 211 of the Interstate Commerce Act and certain other procedural matters with respect thereto—(a) Scope of special rules. These special rules govern the filing and handling of (1) applications under section 5 (2) of the Interstate Commerce Act respecting control, lease, and unification of operating rights and properties of motor carriers of property, (2) applications for certificates, permits, and licenses respecting the transportation of property under sections 206, 209, and 211 of the act, and (3) applications for temporary authority respecting the transportation of property under section 210a (b) of the act. Amendments to applications which broaden the scope of proposed operations are deemed to be "applications" for the purpose of these rules. Such amendments will not be allowed if tendered after an application has been assigned for oral hearing.

(b) Notice to interested persons. Notice of the filing of such applications to interested persons shall be given by the publication of a summary of the authority sought in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Such summaries will be prepared by the Commission. No other notice by applicants to interested persons is required, except that applicants are not relieved from the obligations to file copies of applications with Governors, State Boards, and District Directors of the Commission's Bureau of Motor Carriers as required by the instructions which are a part of the prescribed form of application.

(c) Protests and requests for hearing. (1) Protests to the granting of an application shall be filed with the Commission within 30 days after the date notice of the filing of the application is published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(2) Failure seasonably to file a protest will be construed as a waiver of opposition and participation in the proceeding unless an oral hearing is held.

(3) In addition to other requirements of § 1.40 of the general rules of practice, protests shall include a request for a public hearing, if one is desired, and shall specify with particularity the facts, matters, and things relied upon, but shall not include issues or allegations phrased generally. Protests containing general allegations may be rejected.

(4) Any request for an oral hearing shall be supported by an explanation as to why the evidence to be presented cannot reasonably be submitted in the form of affidavits. The Commission will determine whether or not assignment of the application for hearing is necessary or desirable.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Agricultural Marketing Service

[7 CFR Part 942]

HANDLING OF MILK IN NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO TENTATIVE MARKETING AGREEMENT AND TO ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at New Orleans, Louisiana, on May 7, 1953, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on April 23, 1953 (18 F. R. 2505), and reopened at the same location on January 14, 1954, pursuant to notice thereof issued on December 31, 1953 (19 F. R. 70), upon proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, marketing area.

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on February 9, 1954, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision. Said decision, including notice of opportunity to file written exceptions thereto, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on February 12, 1954 (19 F. R. 823).

No proposed findings or conclusions or exceptions to the findings and conclusions and actions recommended by the Deputy Administrator were filed within the periods reserved therefor.

The material issues, findings and conclusions, and general findings of the recommended decision (19 F. R. 823, Doc. 54-1026) are hereby approved and adopted as the issues, findings and conclusions, and general findings of this decision as if set forth in full herein.

Order of the Secretary directing that a referendum be conducted, determination of a representative period, and designation of an agent to conduct such referendum. Pursuant to section 8c (19) of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 608c (19)), it is hereby directed that a referendum be conducted among the producers (as defined in the proposed order as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, marketing area) who, during the month of December 1953, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in the aforesaid order as amended, to determine whether such producers favor the issuance of the order amending the order, as amended, which is filed herewith.

The month of December 1953 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the conduct of such referendum.

M. M. Truxillo is hereby designated agent of the Secretary to conduct such referendum in accordance with the procedure for the conduct of referenda to determine producer approval of milk marketing orders as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 10, 1950 (15 F. R. 5177), such referendum to be completed on or before the 10th day from the date this decision is filed.

Marketing agreement and order, as amended. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled respectively "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, Marketing Area," and "Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered that all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 18th day of February 1954.

[SEAL] JOHN H. DAVIS
Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

Order[1] Amending the Order, As Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, Marketing Area

§ 942.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the acts;

(2) The parity prices of milk produced for sale in the said marketing area as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supplies of and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling the milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered than on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, as follows:

1. Delete the proviso in § 942.9 and substitute therefor the following: "Provided, That any such transferring plant shall not be included in this definition during any month in which there is shipped from such plant only Class II milk as defined in § 942.41 (b), or during any of the months of September, October, November, and December, in which shipments of fluid whole milk or fluid skim milk from such plant are made to a plant described in paragraph (a) of this section on less than 20 days or during any other month in which such shipments are made on less than 5 days."

2. Delete § 942.22 (l) (1) and substitute therefor the following:

(1) On or before the 6th day after the end of each delivery period the Class II price of skim milk and butterfat for such delivery period;

3. In the proviso of that portion of § 942.41 which precedes paragraph (a), delete the words "or Class III milk."

4. Delete § 942.41 (a) (3) and substitute therefor the following:

(3) Not specifically accounted for as Class II milk.

5. Delete § 942.41 (b), (c) and (d) and substitute therefor a new paragraph (b) as follows:

(b) Class II milk shall be (1) all skim milk and butterfat used to produce any item other than those classified as Class I milk; (2) skim milk and butterfat disposed of for livestock feed; (3) skim milk dumped; and (4) skim milk and butterfat accounted for as shrinkage but not in excess of 2 percent of receipts of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, from producers.

6. In § 942.42 (a) delete the words "or Class III milk."

7. Delete § 942.43 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.43 Transfers. Skim milk or butterfat disposed of by a handler during any delivery period in fluid form as milk, skim milk or cream by transfer to another plant shall be classified as follows:

(a) As Class I milk if transferred to the fluid milk plant of another handler (except a producer-handler), unless assignment to a product specified in § 942.41 (b) is mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both handlers on or before the 5th day after the end of the delivery period in which such transfer occurred: Provided, That the amount of skim milk or butterfat so assigned shall not exceed the total skim milk or butterfat, respectively, actually used during the delivery period in such product by the transferee-handler: And provided further, That if either or both handlers have received other source milk, skim milk and butterfat so transferred shall be classified at both plants so as to return the highest available utilization to milk received from producers;

(b) As Class I milk if transferred to a producer-handler;

(c) As Class I milk if transferred to any plant other than a fluid milk plant unless:

(1) The handler claims utilization in a product specified in § 942.41 (b);

(2) The operator of such nonfluid milk plant maintains books and records showing the receipts and utilization of all skim milk and butterfat at such plant which are available if requested by the market administrator for the purpose of verification; and

(3) The utilization of skim milk and butterfat at such nonfluid milk plant in Class I milk, as defined in § 942.41 (a), is less than the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from the transferor-handler(s) and from dairy farmers whom the market administrator determines constitute the regular source of supply for fluid usage in such plant, in which case the skim milk and butterfat transferred shall be assigned to the remaining uses of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, during such delivery period, for which class prices are highest after the similar assignment of the receipts of skim milk and butterfat from such dairy farmers.

8. In § 942.44 delete the words "Class II milk, and Class III." Substitute therefor the following: "and Class II."

9. Delete § 942.45 (a) (1) and substitute therefor the following:

(1) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class II milk the pounds of shrinkage in producer milk classified as Class II pursuant to § 942.41 (b);

10. In § 942.45 (a) (4) change the term "Class III" wherever it appears to "Class II."

11. Delete §§ 942.51, 942.52 and 942.53 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.51 Class II prices. Each handler shall pay producers, in the manner set forth in § 942.80, for skim milk and butterfat in milk received from them during each delivery period and classified as Class II skim milk and Class II butterfat, not less than the following prices per hundredweight:

(a) The price per hundredweight of butterfat shall be computed by multiplying by 105 from the effective date hereof through August 1954, and thereafter by 110, the simple average as computed by the market administrator of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of 92-score bulk creamery butter per pound at Chicago as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the delivery period;

(b) The price per hundredweight of skim milk shall be any plus amount resulting from the following calculation:

(1) Multiply the price computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section by 0.04;

(2) Subtract the amount computed pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph from the average of the basic or field prices reported to the market administrator to have been paid or to be paid for ungraded milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the delivery period at plants at the following locations:

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[14 CFR Parts 40, 41]

AUTHORITY OF ADMINISTRATOR TO WAIVE CERTAIN PROVING TEST REQUIREMENTS FOR AIR CARRIERS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Pursuant to authority delegated by the Civil Aeronautics Board to the Bureau of Safety Regulation, notice is hereby given that the Bureau will propose to the Board amendments to revised Part 40 and Part 41 of the Civil Air Regulations which will permit the Administrator to waive the 50-hour and 25-hour proving test requirements in special cases.

Interested persons may participate in the making of the proposed rules by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in duplicate to the Civil Aeronautics Board, attention Bureau of Safety Regulation, Washington 25, D. C. In order to insure their consideration by the Board before taking further action on the proposed rules, communications must be received by March 25, 1954. Copies of such communications will be available after March 29, 1954, for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section of the Board, Room 5412, Department of Commerce Building, Washington, D. C.

Section 40.63 (b) of revised Part 40 states that an air carrier using a type of aircraft not previously used by it, but previously proved in other operations shall test the aircraft for at least 50 hours of which 25 hours shall be over authorized routes. Section 41.129 (b) has a similar proving requirement for aircraft previously proved on which major changes have been made or on the use of such aircraft on a substantially different operation. The purpose of these requirements was to insure that an air carrier using a type of aircraft not previously used by it or a type which had been greatly modified would acquire experience in the handling of the aircraft prior to its use in passenger operation. It was also intended that by requiring a certain number of hours of proving tests to be conducted over authorized routes, personnel along the routes would become accustomed to the handling and servicing of the aircraft on the ground.

Prior to using new type aircraft in scheduled passenger operation, air carriers generally conduct a fairly extensive training and familiarization program in the aircraft. While the program may accomplish the purpose of familiarizing all personnel involved in the operation and handling of the new aircraft, it may not comply with the proving test requirements set forth above. For example, while a new type aircraft may have been proved for more than 50 hours and all personnel involved in its operation received adequate training in its handling, these proving tests may not have been conducted over authorized routes. In the past there have been several instances in which an air carrier has conducted rather extensive proving tests prior to using a new type aircraft in scheduled passenger operation but has not conducted 25 hours of these tests over authorized routes. In such cases it is not felt that the specific hourly requirements of §§ 40.63 (b) and 41.129 (b) need be enforced since the purpose of the requirements would have been fulfilled. Since proving tests of aircraft not previously used are conducted under the surveillance of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, it is felt that the Administrator should be permitted to waive the provisions of §§ 40.63 (b) and 41.129 (b) in those cases where purposes of these provisions have been accomplished by the training and indoctrination program conducted by the air carrier.

Accordingly, notice is hereby given that it is proposed to amend revised Part 40 and Part 41 of the Civil Air Regulations to read as follows:

1. By amending the first sentence of § 40.63 (b) of revised Part 40 to read "A type of airplane which has been previously proved shall be tested for at least 50 hours, of which at least 25 hours shall be flown over authorized routes, unless deviations are specifically authorized by the Administrator on the ground that the special circumstances of a particular case make a literal observance of the requirements unnecessary for safety, when the airplane:"

2. By amending § 41.129 (b) of Part 41 to read as follows:

§ 41.129 Aircraft proving tests. • • •

(b) In a case of major changes on aircraft previously proved, or the use of the same aircraft on a substantially different operation, 50 hours of tests similar to those outlined in the preceding paragraph shall be required, of which at least 25 hours shall be flown over authorized routes, unless deviations are specifically authorized by the Administrator on the ground that the special circumstances of a particular case make a literal observance of the requirements unnecessary for safety.

These amendments are proposed under the authority of Title VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended. These proposals may be changed in the light of comment received in response to this notice of proposed rule making.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

[12 CFR Parts 302, 326, 327]

AMENDMENT OF ASSESSMENTS AND OTHER PROVISIONS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that adoption of the following rules and regulations is contemplated. Prior to their final adoption, however, consideration will be given to any data, views, or comments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing to the Secretary, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Washington 25, D. C., by any interested person within 30 days from the publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed regulations are as follows:

1. Part 327 is amended to read as follows:

PART 327—ASSESSMENTS

Sec.
327.1 Definitions and periods of deduction for uncollected items.
327.2 Payment of assessments by banks whose insured status has terminated.
327.3 Time of payment.

AUTHORITY: §§ 327.1 to 327.3 issued under sec. 9, 64 Stat. 882; 12 U. S. C. 1819. Interpret or apply secs. 7, 8, 64 Stat. 876-881; 12 U. S. C. 1817, 1818.

§ 327.1 Definitions and periods of deduction for uncollected items. As used in section 7 (a) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act and in this part:

(a) Base day; definition. The term "base day" shall be the period of time beginning with the time of the closing of the books of the bank on the last business day immediately preceding the base day to the time of the closing of the books of the bank on the base day according to the normal and day-by-day practice of the bank. Holidays and other nonbusiness days intervening between the preceding business day and the base day are a part of the base day.

(b) Cash item; definition. The term "cash item" means any instrument providing for the payment of money which the reporting bank has received in the regular course of business pursuant to an agreement under which the bank has given credit to a deposit account or paid in the regular course of business: Provided, That the instrument is in the process of collection and is payable on presentation: Provided further, That the payer or drawee of the instrument is not the reporting bank or a branch or office thereof. The term reporting bank as used in this part means the bank filing the certified statement for assessment purposes. For the purpose of this paragraph a cash item shall be deemed paid by the reporting bank if the bank has given cash therefor or credit as a payment on a debt due to the bank: Provided, however, That an instrument received by a bank in payment of, or arising from, the sale or other disposition of any of its assets is not a cash item.

(c) Maintenance of assessment records. Each insured bank, as a condition to the right to make any deduction or exclusion in determining its assessment base, shall maintain such records as will readily permit verification of the correctness thereof.

(d) Cash items eligible for deduction. (1) In computing the assessment base only cash items, as defined in this section, may be deducted under either of the two alternative methods described in this part. Such cash items may be deducted without regard to whether withdrawal has been made against the credit given to deposit accounts therefor: Provided, That such cash items are credited and withdrawals are made in the normal course of business.

(2) No cash item shall be deducted after the bank has had advice that the item has been paid or dishonored and no deduction may be claimed for instruments received in payment for cash items previously paid or credited to deposit accounts and forwarded for collection nor for instruments received in payment of clearings.

(3) No deduction may be claimed for drafts transferring funds from one correspondent bank to another nor for drafts drawn and delivered or exchanged for the purpose of reducing the assessment base. No deduction may be made for a cash item drawn by an officer, director, stockholder, or affiliate of the reporting bank, or at their suggestion or direction, for the purpose of abnormally increasing the deposits on the base day, or for the purpose of obtaining abnormal deductions. The length of time such funds remain on deposit will be a factor in determining their purpose.

(4) No two reporting banks may deduct the same cash item under the (aa) method [1] for computing deductible cash items unless one of the banks normally, and in the regular course of business, is a collecting and check clearing agent for the other bank. Cash items reaching another bank or banks by special handling on the base day may not be deducted under the (aa) method by such other bank or banks but such other bank or banks may claim deduction therefor in the actual amount if included in the reported deposit liabilities.

(e) Process of collection. (1) A cash item is deemed to be in the process of collection from the time it is either credited to a deposit account or paid by the reporting bank and until the reporting bank has received payment in the form of cash, an acceptable credit, or a draft or officer's check, or notice of dishonor, but such draft or officer's check is not a cash item for the purpose of claiming deductions: Provided, That an item shall not be considered as uncollected at the close of business on the base day if such item has been outstanding for a period in excess of the time necessary to send the item in due course to the Federal Reserve Bank of the Federal Reserve district or a branch thereof in which the reporting bank is located, plus the time allowed for collection from the place where the item is payable, as shown on the current Time Schedule of such Federal Reserve Bank or branch thereof: Provided further, In the case of an insured bank or branch located outside of any Federal Reserve district, an item shall not be considered as uncollected at the close of business on the base day if such item has been outstanding for a period in excess of the time from the date the cash item is paid or credited to a deposit account and the date of receipt (in the usual course of business) by the correspondent bank to which the item is forwarded for collection plus the collection time allowed by the Federal Reserve Time Schedule for the district in which the correspondent bank is located.

(2) A cash item drawn on a place not included in the Federal Reserve Time Schedule may be considered to be in the process of collection for the actual time required to collect it.

(3) This section is not to be construed as requiring any bank to clear items through any Federal Reserve Bank or branch thereof.

(f) Forwarded for collection. Cash items shall be deemed to have been forwarded for collection on the base day if they have been received and forwarded by the bank on the base day (that is, after the closing of the books on the preceding business day and prior to the closing of the books on the base day) and shall have been paid or credited to deposit accounts on that day including such items which in accordance with the normal procedures of the bank are still in its possession at the time of the closing of the books on the base day. When holidays and other nonbusiness days intervene between the previous business day and the base day the cash items transmitted for collection on any such intervening nonbusiness day may not be treated as cash items forwarded for collection on the base day if collected or if the maximum period for deductions prescribed in paragraph (e) of this section shall have expired at the time of the closing of the books on the base day.

(g) Held for clearings. A cash item is considered to be held for clearings at the close of business on the assessment base day if the payer or drawee of the instrument is a bank or person, other than the reporting bank, located in the same city or is a member or associate member of the same clearing house as the reporting bank and the cash item has been received in the usual course of business on the base day and before the closing of the books on that day but after the normal time for effecting clearings with the other local banks or at the clearing house on the base day or, when the payer or drawee is a person other than a bank, after the time it is normally presented for collection in the usual course of business.

(h) Payable on presentation. The term "payable on presentation" means any instrument which the payer or drawee is required to forthwith and unconditionally pay when presented. The term includes such items as warrants directed to a public official to pay on demand the amount thereof, matured bonds, matured coupons, sight drafts, and "payable through" items. The term does not include such items payable on demand as promissory notes, or drafts payable on the arrival or inspection of certain goods, or other items which are not customarily cleared or collected by banks as cash items.

(i) Choice of method in computing deductible cash items. An insured bank may, at its option compute its deductible cash items by either of the two following methods, designated (aa) and (bb), namely:

(aa) Under this method a bank may deduct, multiplied by two, the total of the cash items forwarded for collection on the base day and cash items held for clearings at the close of business on said day, which are in the process of collection and which were received and recorded on the books of the bank on the base day, all in accordance with the normal and day-by-day procedure of the bank.

(bb) Under this method a bank may deduct the total of the cash items forwarded for collection on the base day and cash items held for clearings at the close of business on said day, which are in the process of collection and which were received and recorded on the books of the bank on the base day, plus the amount of the cash items paid or credited on the preceding days which remain uncollected on the assessment base day, all in accordance with the normal and day-by-day procedure of the bank. If the (bb) method is used, no cash item may be considered uncollected for any period in excess of that prescribed in paragraph (e) of this section.

(j) Option to claim deductions for uncollected items; change of method. The reporting bank may select either of the two alternate methods, (aa) or (bb), for claiming deductions for exchanges, provided this same method is used for both base days in the semiannual assessment period. After this selection is made and a certified statement filed, the bank may not thereafter file amendments for such period for the purpose of changing to the other alternate method. When a bank has elected not to claim any deductions for exchanges in its certified statement for any period, it may not thereafter file an amended certified statement claiming such deduction for said period.

(k) Direct sendings of uncollected items. For the purposes of this part a cash item received on a base day by a correspondent bank or a Federal Reserve Bank or branch thereof is considered as being received by the reporting bank on the base day if, in the normal course of the bank's business, the cash item has been forwarded direct to such correspondent by a depositor of the reporting bank for credit to the depositor's account in the reporting bank and the reporting bank enters such credit to the account of the depositor on the base day. Deductions may be claimed by the reporting bank for only the cash items in such direct sendings which remain uncollected at the time of the closing of the books on the base day. No deduction may be taken for any such cash item which would have been collected if the item had been forwarded directly to the reporting bank instead of to the correspondent, and all deductions claimed must be supported by proper records maintained by the reporting bank.

(l) Interbranch items. An item which is drawn against a deposit account maintained in the main office or a branch office of the reporting bank and which is received by an office other than the office where the deposit account is carried and which has been paid or credited to a deposit account but has not been charged against the deposit account on which it is drawn may not be claimed as a deduction for exchanges but only the actual amount thereof may be deducted from the deposit liabilities.

(m) Reciprocal bank balances. A reciprocal bank balance for the purpose of this part is where the reporting bank has a deposit balance due to another insured bank and such reporting bank has a deposit balance "due from" the same insured bank, disregarding for this purpose balances representing deposits of trust funds. The reporting bank must include in the total of its deposit liabilities for assessment purposes the total of its deposit liability to the said insured bank as shown on the books of the reporting bank at the time of the closing of its books on the base day. It may deduct from such total deposit liabilities the amount of the deposit balance "due from" such insured bank but not in an amount in excess of the balance due to such insured bank. For the purpose of computing the reciprocal bank balance deduction the balances used must be subject to immediate withdrawal. This means that both the "due to" and "due from" balances in the reporting bank must be reduced to collected balances. Any outstanding unpaid draft credited to the "due from" account should be added to the balance to show the actual collected balance due from the other insured bank in computing this deduction.

(n) Trust funds deposited in other insured banks; deduction. The term "trust funds" means funds held by an insured bank in a fiduciary capacity and includes, without being limited to, funds held as trustee, executor, administrator, guardian, or agent. The reporting bank shall include in its total deposit liabilities for assessment purposes all trust funds held by it in a fiduciary capacity. It may deduct from such total deposit liabilities the portion of such trust funds which it has deposited in another insured bank only where (1) with respect to trust funds received by the fiduciary bank in its trust department, the fiduciary bank has deposited such funds directly from its trust department to the depositee bank; (2) with respect to trust funds received by other departments of the bank from sources other than the trust department, the fiduciary bank has deposited such funds directly from such department or from its trust department to the depositee bank; (3) the account is maintained in the depositee bank by the reporting bank as fiduciary and the account is appropriately entitled to show that the funds therein are trust funds; (4) the funds in such account are used exclusively for their trust purposes by the fiduciary reporting bank; and (5) records are maintained which clearly show that the trust funds have been deposited in the manner stated above.

§ 327.2[1] Payment of assessments by banks whose insured status has terminated—(a) Assumed deposits of terminating bank become deposits of assuming bank. The deposit liabilities of an insured bank, if assumed by another insured bank, will, except to the extent that depositors of the first bank by affirmative action signify their express intention to hold the first bank liable as a debtor, be presumed for assessment purposes to cease being deposit liabilities of the first bank on the date the assumption becomes effective: Provided, That the requisite notice of assumption be given to the depositors of the terminating bank.[2] The assumed deposits, for assessment purposes, are deposit liabilities of the assuming bank from the date of assumption, whether or not the requisite notice of assumption has been given to the depositors.

(b) Payment of assessments by assuming bank on assumed deposits of terminating bank. Where the deposit liabilities of an insured bank are assumed by another insured bank and the assuming bank agrees to file the certified statement which the terminating bank is required to file, the filing of such certified statement and the payment of the assessment thereon by the assuming bank shall be deemed the acts of the terminating bank: Provided, That the requisite notice of assumption[2] be given to the depositors of the terminating bank and, Provided further, That such certified statement shall be filed separately from that required to be filed by the assuming bank.

(c) Resumption of insured status before insurance of deposits ceases. If a bank whose insured status has been terminated under section 8 (a) or (b) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, makes application to the Corporation, before the insurance of its deposits shall have ceased, to be permitted to continue or to resume its status as an insured bank and if the Board of Directors grant the application, the bank will be deemed, for assessment purposes, to continue as an insured bank and must thereafter furnish certified statements and pay assessments as though its insured status had not been terminated. For the procedure to be followed in making such application, see § 303.7 of this chapter.

§ 327.3[4] Time of payment. Each insured bank shall pay to the Corporation the amount of the semiannual assessment due to the Corporation, as shown on its certified statement,[3] at the time such statement is required to be filed under Section 7 (b) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act.

GENERAL PUBLIC UTILITIES CORP. AND METROPOLITAN EDISON CO.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER AUTHORIZING ISSUANCE AND SALE TO BANKS OF NOTES

FEBRUARY 15, 1954.

General Public Utilities Corporation ("GPU"), a registered holding company, and Metropolitan Edison Company ("Meted"), a public-utility subsidiary of GPU, having filed a joint application, and amendments thereto, pursuant to the provisions of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), regarding the proposal of Meted, inter alia, to issue and sell to three banks, pursuant to the terms of a credit agreement between Meted and the said banks, unsecured notes in an amount not to exceed $7,500,000 outstanding at any one time;

The Commission by Order dated May 8, 1953 (Holding Company Act Release No. 11901), having granted said amended application, subject, however, to a condition, among others, to the effect that Meted shall not issue and sell any notes under the credit agreement if, after such issuance and sale, there would be more than $4,200,000 of such notes outstanding at any one time, unless and until an amendment shall have been filed by Meted and a further order shall have been issued, which order may contain such further conditions as may then be deemed appropriate; and that jurisdiction be reserved with respect to the issuance and sale by Meted of any notes under the credit agreement as a result of which the aggregate principal amount of notes outstanding thereunder at any time would exceed $4,200,000;

GPU and Meted having filed a further amendment to their joint application stating that Meted has borrowed $1,200,000 under the credit agreement and that Meted contemplates that, in addition to the $1,200,000 of loans now outstanding under the credit agreement, it will, during 1954, borrow an additional $6,300,000 under such credit agreement prior to the time of the financings which will supply it with the common stock and bond components of its 1954 financing program;

GPU and Meted having, in said amendment, requested that the Commission amend its order of May 8, 1953, so as to remove the condition therein which limits the amount Meted may borrow under its credit agreement and have outstanding at any one time;

GPU and Meted having estimated that the expenses to be incurred in connection with each closing involving the sale of additional notes by Meted will not exceed $550 for legal fees and $500 for miscellaneous out-of-pocket expenses, which if they do not exceed those amounts do not appear unreasonable; and

The Commission finding with respect to said application, as further amended, that the applicable standards of the act and the rules thereunder are satisfied and that it is not necessary to impose any terms and conditions other than those contained in Rule U-24, and deeming it appropriate that said application, as further amended, be granted:

It is hereby ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23, that said application, as further amended, be, and the same hereby is, granted forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24 and the jurisdiction reserved in the Commission's order of May 8, 1953, be, and the same hereby is, released.

By the Commission.

SCRIPPS-HOWARD INVESTMENT CO.

NOTICE OF FILING REQUESTING ORDER EXEMPTING TRANSACTION BETWEEN AFFILIATES

FEBRUARY 16, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that the Scripps-Howard Investment Company ("Scripps-Howard"), Cincinnati, Ohio, a registered closed-end non-diversified investment company, has filed an application pursuant to section 17 (b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("act") for an order exempting from the prohibitions contained in section 17 (a) of the act the transaction described below whereby Scripps-Howard proposes to sell to NEA Service, Inc. ("NEA"), a Delaware corporation, 300 shares of Class A Common stock of NEA at a price of $150 per share in cash.

NEA, the oldest newspaper feature service in the country, is engaged in furnishing to newspapers a complete feature budget comprising news feature stories, special articles, illustrations, comics, cartoons, editorials, magazine pages for Sunday newspapers, women's pages and other departmental newspaper material. NEA's capitalization consists of 9,000 shares of Common Voting stock, all of which is owned by the E. W. Scripps Company ("EWS"), and 31,000 shares of Class A Common stock, of which 4,470 shares are owned by EWS, 8,850 shares are owned by Scripps-Howard and 7,680 shares are owned by eight officers and directors of NEA and members of their families. Applicant represents that the holders of Common Voting stock and Class A Common stock have identical rights and privileges except that the holders of Class A Common stock do not have voting rights. Of the 8,850 shares of Class A Common owned by Scripps-Howard, 1,087½ shares are subject to an option for repurchase by NEA, pursuant to an option agreement dated May 5, 1938 between NEA and a predecessor company of Scripps-Howard. The 300 shares proposed to be sold at this time are among those subject to such option agreement.

The application states that Scripps-Howard is advised that NEA has exercised its option for the repurchase of the 300 shares of Class A Common in order that NEA may resell such shares promptly in early 1954 to certain key officers and employees of NEA subject to similar options for repurchase by NEA.

The application further states that the repurchase option provides that the price to be received by Scripps-Howard upon the exercise of the option shall be the fair value at the time of exercise as determined by appraisers, but not less than the cost of $145.93 per share, plus interest, less dividends paid and interest on the dividends. Scripps-Howard and NEA have determined that the fair value under the option agreement is $150 per share. The applicant represents that the price of $150 per share is in excess of the alternate price specified in the option agreement.

There is no established market for the Class A Common; on January 31, 1952, NEA sold an aggregate of 230 shares to three of its officers and/or directors at a price of $150 per share; on April 14, 1949, Fred S. Ferguson, president and director of NEA, bought 150 shares at a price of $150 per share; and on December 31, 1948, NEA sold an aggregate of 300 shares at $150 per share to three officers and/or directors. Earnings for the years 1943 through 1953 (including an estimate for the year 1953 of $9.77 per share) have averaged $10.86 per share of Voting Common and Class A Common, and during the same period dividends paid per annum have averaged $7.82 per share; dividends paid in 1952 and 1953 amounted to $7.50 per share.

The application states that EWS is the owner and holder of record of 92,772 shares (approximately 15.8%) of Scripps-Howard's outstanding 587,668 shares of common stock. Thus EWS is an "affiliated person" of Scripps-Howard under the act. As indicated above, EWS owns 100 percent of the voting securities of NEA, and therefore the latter is an "affiliated person" of EWS.

Section 17 (a) of the act prohibits, among other things, an affiliated person of a registered investment company, including an affiliate of such a person, from purchasing any security or property from such registered company, subject to one exception, unless the Commission upon application pursuant to section 17 (b) of the act, grants an exemption from the provisions of section 17 (a) of the act upon the basis that the evidence establishes that the terms of the proposed transaction, including the consideration, are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of anyone concerned, that the proposed transaction is consistent with the policy of each registered investment company concerned as recited in its registration statement and reports filed under the act and is consistent with the general purposes of the act.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than February 26, 1954, at 5:30 p. m., submit to the Commission in writing any facts bearing upon the desirability of a hearing on the matter and may request that a hearing be held, such request stating the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date, the application may be granted as provided in Rule N-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act.

By the Commission.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter III—Agricultural Research Service, Department of Agriculture

[P. Q. 607]

PART 319—FOREIGN QUARANTINE NOTICES

SUBPART—FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

ADMINISTRATIVE INSTRUCTIONS PRESCRIBING METHOD OF TREATMENT OF GARLIC FROM ALGERIA, HUNGARY, ITALY, MOROCCO, SPAIN, AND YUGOSLAVIA

Pursuant to the authority conferred on him by § 319.56–2 of the regulations supplemental to the Fruit and Vegetable Quarantine (Notice of Quarantine No. 56, 7 CFR and Supp. 319.56) under section 5 of the Plant Quarantine Act of 1912 (7 U. S. C. 159), the Chief of the Plant Quarantine Branch hereby issues administrative instructions to appear as § 319.56–2h in Title 7, Code of Federal Regulations, as follows:

§ 319.56–2h Administrative instructions prescribing method of treatment of garlic from Algeria, Hungary, Italy, Morocco, Spain, and Yugoslavia. (a) Fumigation with methyl bromide in vacuum fumigation chambers approved by the Chief of the Plant Quarantine Branch is a condition of entry under permit for all shipments of garlic (Allium sativum) from Algeria, Hungary, Italy, Morocco, Spain, and Yugoslavia. Fumigation is to be carried out under the supervision of a plant quarantine inspector and at the expense of the importer. While it is believed that the garlic will be unaffected by the fumigation, the treatment will be at the importer's risk. Such entry will be limited to the ports of Baltimore, Md., Boston, Mass., Los Angeles, Calif., New Orleans, La., New York, N. Y., Norfolk, Va., San Juan, P. R., San Francisco, Calif., and Seattle, Wash., where approved facilities for vacuum fumigation with methyl bromide are available, and to such other ports as may be named in the permits if approved vacuum fumigation facilities are later made available at those other ports.

(b) Such vacuum fumigation shall be in accordance with the following fumigation schedule or such other method as may be selected by the inspector in accordance with administratively authorized procedures known to be effective under the conditions under which the treatment is applied:

Temperature (° F.)	Dosage—Pounds of methyl bromide per 1,000 cu. ft.	Exposure [period] (hours)	Vacuum (inches)
70	2	2	15
60	3	2	15
40	3	4	15

The purpose of these instructions is to require the fumigation with methyl bromide of garlic imported under permit from Algeria, Hungary, Italy, Morocco, Spain, and Yugoslavia. Upon arrival in the United States, garlic from these countries has frequently been found infested with injurious insects, including Dyspessa ulula (Bkh.) and weevils of the genus Brachycerus, not known to occur in this country. It is apparent from observations at ports of entry that ordinary inspection methods are inadequate to insure that such importations are free of infestation. Since fumigation with methyl bromide provides an effective means of destroying insects infesting garlic, it is deemed necessary to require such treatment as a condition of entry. In order to be of maximum protection to the United States and to acquaint foreign shippers with the requirements prior to the 1954 shipping season for garlic, these instructions should be made effective as soon as possible. Therefore, pursuant to section 4 (a) and (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003 (a), (c)), it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure with respect to these administrative instructions are impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and good cause is found for the issuance hereof effective less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 8, 33 Stat. 1270, sec. 937 Stat. 318; 7 U. S. C. 143, 162. Interprets or applies sec. 5, 37 Stat. 316; 7 U. S. C. 159)

These administrative instructions shall be effective February 23, 1954.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 8th day of February 1954.

Chief,
Plant Quarantine Branch.

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Lemon Reg. 524, Amdt. 1]

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

Findings. 1. Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953; 18 F. R. 6767), regulating the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of the quantity of such lemons which may be handled, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

2. It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice and engage in public rule making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, is insufficient, and this amendment relieves restrictions on the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona.

Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b) (1) (ii) of § 953.631 (Lemon Regulation 524, 19 F. R. 854) are amended to read as follows:

(ii) District 2, 200 carloads.

PART 968—MILK IN THE WICHITA, KANSAS, MARKETING AREA

ORDER SUSPENDING CERTAIN PROVISIONS

Pursuant to the applicable provisions of Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress, as amended and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1940 ed. 601 et seq.), hereinafter referred to as the "act", and of the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Wichita, Kansas, marketing area, hereinafter referred to as the "order" it is hereby found and determined that certain provisions of § 968.8 of the order, hereinafter ordered suspended, do not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act with respect to all milk subject to the provisions of the order from the effective date hereof.

It is hereby found and determined that notice of proposed rule making and public procedure thereon in connection with the issuance hereof is impracticable, unnecessary and contrary to the public interest, in that (1) the information upon which this action is based did not become available in sufficient time for such compliance; (2) the issuance of this suspension order effective as set forth below is necessary to reflect current marketing conditions and to facilitate, promote and maintain the orderly marketing of milk produced for the said marketing area; and (3) this action will immediately relieve certain restrictions imposed upon certain milk by the order. The changes caused by this suspension order do not require of persons affected substantial or extensive preparation prior to its effective date.

It is therefore ordered, That the following provisions of the order are hereby suspended effective March 1, 1954:

In § 968.8 the words "of January, February, July, August, September, October, November or December" first appearing therein and the following provision ", and (b) during each of the delivery periods of March, April, May, and June, if during the preceding delivery periods of August, September, October, and November such plant (1) was a pool plant during each such delivery period, and (2) disposed of as Class I and Class II milk in the marketing area a total amount of milk equal to 50 percent or more of such plant's total receipts of milk from approved dairy farmers during such delivery periods: Provided, That an approved plant which was not an approved plant during each of the preceding delivery periods of August, September, October, and November shall be a pool plant during any of the delivery periods of March, April, May, and June within which such plant disposes of as Class I and Class II milk in the marketing area an amount of milk equal to 40 percent or more of such plant's receipts of milk from approved dairy farmers."

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 608c)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 18th day of February 1954, to be effective March 1, 1954.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

TITLE 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 10444]

PART 7—STATIONS ON LAND IN THE MARITIME SERVICE

PART 8—STATIONS ON SHIPBOARD IN THE MARITIME SERVICE

MARITIME MOBILE RADIOTELEPHONE SERVICE IN THE BAND 2000–2850 KC.

1. The Commission instituted the above-captioned proceeding by the adoption of a Notice of Proposed Rule Making on March 25, 1953. The notice provided a period, until May 1, 1953, for the submission of written comments. In response to the request of interested persons, this period was extended to May 15, 1953.

2. As stated in the Notice of Proposed Rule Making, the proposed rules were directed primarily to accomplishment of necessary rule changes involved in (a) bringing into use the frequency 2182 kc as the distress and general calling frequency for the maritime mobile service of telephony and in (b) providing the maximum possible increase in circuit facilities for intership and ship-shore radiotelephone communications conducted in the 2 Mc band. An enabling, as well as limiting, matter associated therewith was the implementation of the Geneva (1951) Agreement and its lists for 2 Mc United States maritime radiotelephone non-government assignments for ship-shore and intership usage.

3. In view of the conditions created by the Geneva lists, it is important to note their origin. The Radio Technical Commission for Marine Services (RTCM), composed of representatives from both industry and government, completed a thorough study and released a report, including recommendations, dated December 14, 1949, covering non-government maritime mobile radiotelephone service in the 2 Mc band. Using this report as a basis, the Commission released a proposed frequency assignment plan for the band 2000–3000 kc as a public notice for comments in Docket 9775 (Commission Mimeograph No. 53477) on August 23, 1950. This proposal, with minor modifications, was subsequently adopted at the Extraordinary Administrative Radio Conference (EARC), Geneva (1951).

4. While there were a large number of comments submitted on the Commission's current proposal in Docket 10444, they may be considered as falling into several major groups.

5. Radiomarine Corporation of America (RMCA) advocated a change in the principle of assignment of frequencies to public coast stations serving the high seas and the Gulf of Mexico. The Commission's proposal was based upon the assignment of frequencies to various port areas on a geographically exclusive basis. Although RMCA recommended the continuance of this system for certain ports where service demands are heavy from ships "seldom beyond the range of one or two coast stations", it also recommended that six working frequencies and one pair of calling frequencies be made available for the common use of all existing and future public coast stations on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Coasts. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company in reply comment stated its belief that the assignment system advocated by RMCA would "restrain the development of marine telephone service, impair the efficiency of the radio channels and produce chaotic operating conditions". There were no comments from the shipping industry, as such, either for or against the RMCA recommendation. The American Merchant Marine Institute (formerly the National Federation of American Shipping), however, requested an opportunity to be heard if the matter were set for hearing.

6. According to RMCA, the assignment system it recommends would have several advantages such as encouragement of the growth of new stations, maximum use of common frequencies, elimination of the necessity for periodic shifting of frequencies as a ship travels from one area to another, improved service to foreign ships, etc. The RMCA statement does not, however, deal with the fact that sharing of frequencies as suggested probably would result in some impairment of the factor of circuit efficiency. Nor does it take into account the supplemental and important fact that the most recent figures available show that most of the coast stations are being utilized from 100 to 214 percent of capacity on the basis that 100 percent capacity represents the maximum traffic volume commensurate with reasonable promptness in completing calls. It is significant to note in this regard that the RTCM report referred to in Paragraph 3 above considered the question whether "sharing [of frequencies] on the seaboard by stations with light traffic loads" (emphasis supplied) could conserve radio channels and concluded in the negative. Further, as pointed out in Paragraph 3 above, the Commission's proposed assignment plan is based on the Geneva frequency list and the Commission's Public Notice in Docket No. 9775. RMCA and other interested persons were afforded at that time an opportunity to comment on that Public Notice and to then recommend a plan of the type now proposed by RMCA. The Commission's files, however, fail to indicate any such recommendation. The plan adopted at Geneva (1951) is based on specific assignments. The RMCA recommendation would be almost entirely at variance with that plan. In the light of these circumstances it is considered to be neither appropriate nor desirable to adopt such recommendation at this time.

7. Pending possible Commission action on its recommendations discussed above, RMCA petitioned the Commission to provide a pair of frequencies in the 2 Mc band for use in the vicinity of Savannah, Georgia, for public coast and ship telephone operations. The petition suggested that 2450 kc or 2490 kc be designated for coast station transmission and 2031.5 kc for ship station transmission in the vicinity of Savannah. In conjunction with its petition, RMCA submitted an alternate assignment plan that would accommodate 2450 kc for coast station transmission at Savannah but which would necessitate a major change in the Commission's proposed plan and would utilize thirteen frequencies whose assignments would be at variance with the new International Frequency List appended to the Geneva Agreement (1951). While fourteen interested parties in or near Savannah submitted comments in support of the RMCA petition, the American Telephone & Telegraph Company and the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company took the position that such authorization would result in unnecessary duplication of facilities at that location. The American Telephone & Telegraph Company pointed out that (public) coast stations making coordinated use of the same pair of frequencies (2174 kc and 2566 kc) are now in operation at Charleston, South Carolina, and Jacksonville, Florida, with one of several receiver associated stations in operation located at Savannah, Georgia; that "the coverage of these stations [as established by recent field strength measurements] in the Savannah area is entirely adequate"; that "the traffic demand on these stations is not sufficient to warrant the establishment of an additional public coast station". Specific facts have not been alleged by RMCA or other interested persons to show that the coverage of the Savannah area provided by the Charleston-Jacksonville stations is inadequate. The most recent statistics available to the Commission show that the Charleston-Jacksonville shipshore circuit is now utilized to only 59 per cent of capacity. The assignment of additional frequencies to the area served by these stations would, therefore, seem to be not warranted. This is particularly important in view of the fact that making such frequencies available would inevitably reduce the relief which could be afforded to circuits in other areas which are now seriously overloaded.

8. Comments received from two interested parties in the vicinity of Baltimore, Maryland, requested that a pair of frequencies for telephony be made available for an additional public coast station at Annapolis or Baltimore, Maryland, inasmuch as they consider the ship-shore service rendered by existing public service facilities to be inadequate in the north Chesapeake Bay area. Although available information indicates that present public service facilities in this area are being utilized in excess of 100 percent of capacity, the Commission is unable at this time to assign an additional pair of frequencies for this area without simultaneously impairing facilities at the New York area which are even more overloaded than those serving the north Chesapeake Bay area.

9. Comments received from various police organizations and licensees have been considered and appear to be based largely on existing use of certain 2 Mc frequencies by police systems, the licensees of which feel that adequate service could not be obtained in the VHF portion of the spectrum. In finalizing the rules as proposed in this regard and showing these frequencies as being available for marine service, the Commission is implementing international agreements which provide for the share use of the involved channels by the two services. It is thought that in some instances existing police operations and the proposed maritime uses may operate without harmful interference to either service. In other instances such operations will be impossible and frequency shifts to some degree will be necessary. In such cases every effort will be made to shift the existing police operation to another frequency in this band now allocated for police service and not involved in interference from or to the maritime service. The extent to which such changes will be necessary and the actual dates on which such changes may be effectuated cannot be accurately determined at this time. It is anticipated, however, that such dates as are proposed in the future will allow reasonable time for any police radio system which is affected to accomplish the change.

10. The comments of the Association of Police Communications Officers have been considered from the standpoint of a more feasible sharing of the frequencies involved. However, the changes proposed by the Association cannot be accomplished in view of frequency coordination problems, including international agreement as to the specific geographic area of marine radiotelephone service on each of the proposed frequencies. The original international coordination of these frequencies was based in part on the volume of existing police communications on the involved channels and the feasibility of sharing these frequencies with minimum disturbance to the police service.

11. With respect to the comments from the State of Missouri which objected to the proposal essentially on the grounds that the frequencies proposed to be shared with the marine service should be retained for point to point use by the Police services, it should be noted that in any event, these frequencies are not now available for the latter use and this comment is not considered to be germane to the proposal in this docket.

12. The American Tunaboat Association supported, in general, the proposed rules but requested that certain steps be taken to afford relief to problems engendered by the need for long distance intership communication over distances up to 1,500 miles. Existing congestion in the band 2000–3500 kc is such, however, that an exclusive frequency in that band (as suggested by the Association) for use in the Pacific Ocean area, particularly in Mexican waters and southward, would be difficult to clear internationally. Further, use of high power to obtain communications over distances not intended to be served by intership frequencies of the order of 2 Mc is not considered to be an efficient use of the frequency spectrum. It is believed that the more feasible solution to the problem would lie in the direction of utilizing frequencies between 4 and 8 Mc for intership communication. The Commission intends, as a separate matter, to propose any action available to it in order to provide such frequencies.

13. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company (AT&T) requested that the frequency 2009 kc not be assigned for use at Charleston and Jacksonville because of possible interference from United States Government stations in the immediate geographic vicinity using pulse type emission which is centered on adjacent frequencies. AT&T further requested that 2166 kc, designated for ship station transmission at New Orleans during the hours from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. CST, be assigned on a non-interference basis to protect the use of the same frequency in the Wilmington, Delaware-New York area. AT&T also requested the retention of 2110 kc for ship station transmission to Boston and San Francisco because of the large number of vessels using that frequency, and that the frequency change-over at Miami and Seattle be given an early effective date so as to facilitate current construction work at coast stations in those areas.

14. To minimize the possibility of interference to reception from ship stations on 2009 kc, 2390 kc is assigned for ship station transmission to Charleston and Jacksonville and 2009 kc is assigned for ship station transmission to Tampa in lieu of 2031.5 kc as proposed. The frequency 2031.5 kc then replaces 2390 kc at Miami. With respect to the ship station frequency 2166 kc, it appears that the co-channel interference to use in the New York and Wilmington areas to which AT&T referred can occur only under a coincidence of certain nocturnal and seasonal circumstances. The rules as finalized herein provide, therefore, for "day only" use of this frequency for transmission to New Orleans. By virtue of the definition of the word "day" (one hour after local sunrise and one hour before local sunset) now contained in the rules, it is believed that the possibility of interference will be virtually eliminated. The retention of 2110 kc for ship station transmission to Boston and San Francisco, as requested, would be at variance with the new International Frequency List and would result in mutual interference to and from co-channel and adjacent channel operations upon implementation of that list. Coast and ship stations attempting to receive ship stations using telegraphy on 2107 kc and coast stations attempting to receive ship stations using telephony on 2110 kc would be subjected to mutual interference. The matter of the dates of availability of the new frequencies at Miami and Seattle is dependent upon the date of termination or reduction of use of these frequencies by other radio services so that mutual harmful interference will be avoided. It is not possible at this time to specify such dates. However, rule making proceedings in this regard, as well as in regard to other frequencies whose dates of availability are not specified, will be instituted as soon as feasible.

15. Various comments were received regarding the proposal to substitute the frequency 2830 kc for the frequency 2738 kc for intership use in the Mississippi River, Gulf and Caribbean areas. Users of 2738 kc in the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard areas supported the proposal on the ground that "elimination of Gulf Area traffic * * * will furnish some relief from nighttime interference * * * between the Gulf and the Atlantic and Pacific Areas * * *". Mississippi River users of 2738 kc, however, objected to sharing the new frequency 2830 kc with users in the Gulf areas. It appears that the most serious problem involved is mutual interference between the Gulf and each of the other areas. Therefore, it is believed that the best solution to the problem is to make the frequency 2830 kc available for the Gulf. By taking this step, interference between the Gulf and the other areas will be reduced, and although the Atlantic, Pacific and Mississippi River areas will continue to share the frequency 2738 kc, interference between these areas does not seem to represent as serious a problem as that engendered by sharing between the Gulf and any of the other areas. Finalization of the rules in this manner will also obviate the objection filed by the Hundley Boat Company, Lake Dallas, Texas, to shifting from its present frequency 2738 kc to 2830 kc.

16. Lake Carriers' Association comments objected to § 8.358 (e) (2) as written. The Association interpreted the section to mean that operation on 2638 kc was mandatory under certain conditions. The intent of the proposal is that the use of 2638 kc is not compulsory but merely permissive for the convenience of ships entering the Great Lakes from other areas for temporary navigation thereon and not equipped for operation on 2003 kc. This section is modified to more clearly reflect its objective.

17. The Lorain County Radio Corporation expressed concern regarding the proposed sharing of the ship station frequency 2003 kc between the Great Lakes and the San Francisco area. The geographical separation is such, however, that co-channel sharing by ship stations appears to be practicable. In the absence of actual operational data, the Commission does not desire to make 2003 kc available on the West Coast on a non-interference basis. If, upon activation, harmful interference occurs, remedial steps will be taken.

18. Several comments received directed themselves to frequencies other than those in the 2 Mc band. Such comments were apparently engendered because, for editorial completeness, the text of the proposed rules reproduced certain existing rules provisions which, although editorially related, were substantively unrelated to the proposal. Since the proposed rule making was not intended to encompass such matters, these comments are not dealt with herein.

19. In view of the foregoing and pursuant to sections 303 (b), (c), (f), (h), and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Final Acts of the International Telecommunication and Radio Conference, Atlantic City, and the Agreement concluded at the Extraordinary Administrative Radio Conference (Geneva) 1951: It is ordered, That, effective March 15, 1954:

1. Parts 7 and 8 of the Commission's Rules are amended as set forth below.

2. The proceedings in Docket No. 10444 are terminated.

(Sec. 303, 48 Stat. 1082, as amended; 47 U. S. C. 303)

Adopted: February 10, 1954.

Released: February 11, 1954.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,*

[SEAL] MARY JANE MORRIS, Secretary.

1. Section 7.7 (d), (f) and (g) is amended as follows: In subparagraph (1) of each of the above-designated paragraphs, insert the word "international" after the fifth word "the" and before the sixth word "radiotelegraph" of the existing text.

2. Section 7.131 (d) is amended as follows: In item (1) under "Frequency range", change "2100 to 2210 kc:" to read "2000 to 2450 kc:"

4. Section 7.134 (f) is amended as follows: Under the heading "Frequency-Band in Which Operation Occurs" change "2100 to 2210 kc" to read "2000 to 2450 kc".

5. Section 7.304 (a) is amended by adding to the frequencies listed therein the following frequencies in kc:

b. Subparagraph (1) is revised to read as follows:

(1) The frequency 2182 kc is authorized for use on a shared basis primarily by ship stations and secondarily by coast stations. Except when transmitting distress, urgency, or safety signals, or messages preceded by one of these signals, the use of this frequency by coast stations prior to August 1, 1954, shall not cause harmful interference to reception from any mobile stations transmitting on a radio-channel of which 2174 kc is the authorized carrier frequency.

c. Subparagraph (2) is deleted.

d. Subparagraph (3) is revised to read as follows:

(3) The frequencies 2514, 2550 and 2582 kc are authorized for use in the Great Lakes area on a shared basis with coast stations of Canada upon the express condition that, except in case of distress, the frequency 2550 kc shall not be used for transmission to ship stations of Canada and the frequency 2582 kc shall not be used for transmission to ship stations of the United States.

e. Subparagraph (4) is deleted.

f. Footnotes designated as 3 and 4 are deleted.

g. A new subparagraph (11) is added to read as follows:

(11) Each carrier frequency which is not to be used prior to a specified beginning date, may be used under appropriate station authorization for test transmission during a period commencing not more than two months in advance of such specified beginning date; solely to determine whether an existing coast station is capable of proper technical operation on that particular radio-channel preparatory to rendering regular service thereon: Provided, That harmful interference is not caused by such test transmission to the service of any other station.

7. Section 7.305 (a) is amended by deleting footnote 5 thereto and by amending paragraph (a) to read as follows:

(a) The frequency 2182 kc is the international radiotelephone distress and general calling frequency for the maritime mobile service. It may be used by public coast stations solely for transmission of:

(1) Distress signals and traffic as provided in Subpart G of this part.

(2) The international urgency signal, and very urgent messages (preceded by this signal) concerning the safety of a ship, aircraft or other vehicle, or the safety of some person on board or within sight of such ship, aircraft, or vehicle.

(3) The international safety signal, and occasional messages (preceded by this signal) concerning the safety of navigation or giving important meteorological warnings which messages in the interest of safety must be transmitted on this radio-channel instead of on a different radio-channel in accordance with the procedure authorized in subparagraph (5) of this paragraph.

(4) Normal calls, replies, and brief radio operating signals but only when the use of a different carrier frequency for this function appears to be impracticable by reason of operating or equipment limitations of a mobile station.

(5) Brief announcements specifying the nature of a particular communication to be transmitted soon thereafter on other radio-channel(s) by the same coast station to a plurality of mobile stations, when such communication will be of general interest to mobile stations of the maritime mobile service, including ordinary weather and hydrographic information, or will consist of lists of mobile stations with which the coast station desires to communicate.

(6) Brief test signals in accordance with the provisions of § 7.311, as may be necessary to determine whether the radio transmitting equipment of the station is in good working condition on this frequency.

8. Amend paragraph (b) of § 7.305 to read:

(b) The frequency 156.8 Mc is the international radiotelephone frequency for calling, safety, intership, and harbor control purposes for the maritime mobile service using frequencies within the band 156.25 Mc to 162.05 Mc. This carrier frequency may be used by public coast stations as prescribed in § 7.309.

(5) Brief test signals in accordance with the provisions of § 7.311, as may be necessary to determine whether the radio transmitting equipment of the station is in good working conditions on this frequency.

(b) When using this frequency for other than distress traffic and urgency and safety signals and messages, the mean [1] antenna power of the unmodulated carrier wave shall not exceed 100 watts.

[4] This carrier frequency is to be withdrawn by the Commission from availability for this use by the Maritime Mobile Service for ship-shore communication in respect to the particular coast station area designated herein for this frequency, on a specific date to be designated in future rule-making as soon as practicable after the associated replacement frequency designated herein is made available by the Commission for use in the service.

[5b] For use of 2572 kc at Mobile, Ala., after a different frequency becomes available for ship stations, see subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

[5c] This carrier frequency is to be made available by the Commission for use in the maritime mobile service at the locations designated herein on a specific beginning date to be designated in future rule-making as soon as practicable after its use by other radio services is terminated or is reduced to the extent necessary to avoid harmful interference to or from the maritime mobile service.

27. Section 8.354 (c) is deleted.

28. Section 8.358 is amended to read as follows:

§ 8.358 Frequencies below 3000 kc for safety purposes. (a) Carrier frequencies below 3000 kc authorized for working between ship stations employing telephony for transmission and reception on the same radio-channel by means of amplitude modulation, primarily for safety communication,[7] are designated herewith. The transmission of other than safety communication on these radio-channels is authorized upon condition that interference is not caused to safety communication. However, the use of these carrier frequencies for public correspondence between ship stations is prohibited. Their use is also prohibited when the use of a licensed frequency above 30 Mc in lieu thereof would provide effective communication. Their use shall be in accordance with respective geographic areas as follows:

Frequency (kc):	Geographic area in which use is authorized
2003	Great Lakes only.
2738	All areas except the Great Lakes and, beginning Jan. 1, 1955, except area where 2830 kc is authorized.
2830	The Gulf of Mexico.
2638	All areas.

(b) Insofar as practicable, the use of the frequency 2638 kc shall be confined to safety communication. Use of the frequency for other communications is restricted to that necessary for the safe, expeditious or economical operation of ships.

(c) The geographic limitations relating to the frequencies 2738 kc and 2830 kc shall not apply in event of distress or emergency nor shall they prohibit ship-to-ship communication over any distance less than 200 statute miles when only one of the ship stations is within a geographic area in which use of the respective frequency is permissible.

[7] The term "safety communication" is defined in § 8.6 (a).

29. Amend § 8.362 as follows:

a. Modify the title of this section to read: "Frequencies below 3000 kc for business, operational and safety purposes."

b. Modify the first part of paragraph (a) to read: "In addition to availability of the carrier frequencies 2738 kc and 2830 kc, primarily for intership communication as prescribed in § 8.358, either of these frequencies may, in response to proper application therefor, be specifically authorized in the license of a ship station or be specifically authorized by order of the Commission in behalf of a particular group of ship stations for use (in areas where their use is authorized for ship stations using telephony as prescribed in § 8.358) to a limited extent in communicating by telephony (amplitude modulation) with such limited coast stations or such United States Government coast stations as are designated in the respective ship station license or in any applicable order of the Commission; Provided:"

c. Modify paragraph (a) (1) as follows: Delete that part of the text beginning with the 16th word which reads "this carrier frequency" and substitute therefor the following: "either of these carrier frequencies"; delete the words "this frequency" appearing near the end of the text and substitute therefor the following: "the particular frequency".

d. Modify paragraph (a) (2) as follows: Insert the word "either" immediately before "2738 kc". Insert "or 2830 kc" immediately following "2738 kc".

e. Modify paragraphs (a) (3) and (a) (4) as follows: Delete the words "this radio channel" where they first appear in each subparagraph and substitute therefor the following words: "the radio-channel to be used".

f. Modify paragraph (a) (5) to read:

(5) The use of either of these carrier frequencies in accordance with any station authorization granted pursuant to this section shall be on a shared basis with any other station using the same frequency in accordance with a similar station authorization.

g. Modify paragraph (c) as follows: Substitute, in place of that part of the text which reads "2738 kc and 2214 kc", the following: "2738 kc, 2830 kc, and 2214 kc".

h. Modify paragraph (d) to read:

(d) (1) In addition to availability of the carrier frequencies 2738 kc, and 2830 kc, primarily for intership communication as prescribed in § 8.358, either of these carrier frequencies may, in response to proper application therefor, be specifically authorized in private aircraft station licenses for communication (in areas where their use is authorized for ship stations using telephony as prescribed in § 8.358) by means of telephony (amplitude modulation) with a ship station or stations: Provided,

(i) The applicant makes a showing satisfactory to the Commission that such communication is necessary to serve an important business or operational need of each particular ship while such ship is engaged in commercial fishing activities in the open sea or on any bay, sound, strait, or comparable waters adjacent to the open sea; and

(ii) Harmful interference is not caused to ship-to-ship communications; and

(iii) The maximum plate input power used for such communication shall not exceed 50 watts; and

(iv) The aircraft-to-ship and ship-to-aircraft communication which takes place on the radio-channel of which either 2738 kc or 2830 kc is the authorized carrier frequency shall be limited exclusively to that which is necessary to serve an important business or operational need of the vessel on which the ship station is located while such vessel is engaged in commercial fishing activities in the open sea or on any bay, sound, strait, or comparable waters adjacent to the open sea; and

(v) Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, all of the provisions of this part in respect to authorization and use of the carrier frequencies 2738 kc and 2830 kc for ship-to-ship communication shall apply to all aircraft stations when operating under the provisions of this paragraph.

(2) As an alternative to one of the specific carrier frequencies designated in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, the carrier frequency 2638 kc may be authorized in accordance with all other provisions of this paragraph only in behalf of those private aircraft stations which were licensed prior to July 23, 1951, to transmit on this carrier frequency for communication by telephony with ship stations for the purpose expressed in this paragraph.

30. Section 8.366 (b) (2) is amended to read as follows:

(2) Except when other operating procedure is used to expedite safety communication or is established in advance by and between the stations concerned, ship stations, before transmitting on the intership radio-channel of which 2638, 2738, or 2830 kc is the authorized carrier frequency, shall first establish communication with each other by initially calling and answering on the calling channel of which 2182 kc is the authorized carrier frequency; provided that this requirement shall be effective on and after August 1, 1954, with respect to ship stations on board vessels when within 300 nautical miles of Charleston, South Carolina; Jacksonville, Florida; or Wilmington, California.

31. Amend paragraph (d) of § 8.366 as follows:

a. Change the title of this paragraph to read: "Time limitations on calling frequencies and adjacent working frequencies."

b. Designate the existing text as subparagraph (1) and add a new subparagraph (2) to read:

(2) Transmission by ship stations, when in Region I, is prohibited on any frequency (including 2182 kc) in the band 2167–2197 kc during the two three-minute periods in each hour which commence at xh00 and xh30, Greenwich mean time (G. m. t.); Provided, That this requirement is not applicable to the transmission of distress signals, distress traffic, urgency and safety signals, and messages preceded by the urgency or safety signal.

32. Amend paragraph (f) of § 8.366 as follows:

a. Modify subparagraph (1) to read:

(1) In regions of heavy radio traffic, any one exchange of communications between any two mobile stations on the radio-channel of which 2003, 2638, 2738, or 2830 kc is the authorized carrier frequency, or between a ship station and a limited coast station on the 2638, 2738, or 2830 kc channel, shall not exceed 5 minutes in duration after the two stations have established contact by calling and answering. Subsequent to such exchange of communications, the 2003, 2638, 2738, or 2830 kc channel shall not be used again for communication between the same two stations until 5 minutes have elapsed: Provided, That this requirement shall in no way limit or delay the transmission of distress or emergency communications.

b. Modify subparagraph (2) as follows: Delete that portion of the text which reads "of which 2638 kc and 2738 kc are the" and substitute therefor the following: "of which 2003, 2638, 2738, and 2830 kc are the".

33. Amend paragraph (g) of section 8.366 to read:

(g) Authorized use of 2003, 2638, 2738, and 2830 kc. The radio channel of which 2003, 2638, 2738, and 2830 kc are the authorized carrier frequencies, shall be used by mobile stations particularly in accordance with the provisions of §§ 8.176, 8.177 (b), and 8.358. Communications which appear to be for a solely personal or social purpose, not relating in any way to safety or to a maritime purpose, may be construed by the Commission, with respect to the authorized use of these radio channels, to be superfluous communication as defined in § 8.6 (b) and as prohibited under the provisions of § 8.178.

TITLE 17—COMMODITY AND SECURITIES EXCHANGES

Chapter II—Securities and Exchange Commission

PART 240—GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS UNDER THE SECURITIES EXCHANGE ACT OF 1934

REGISTRATION OF BROKERS AND DEALERS

On December 22, 1953, the Securities and Exchange Commission announced that it had under consideration a proposal to adopt Form BD (§ 249.501) as the form of application for registration as a broker or dealer, as the form to amend such an application, and as a form of supplemental report to be filed by brokers and dealers already registered. The proposal also involved the rescission of Forms 3–M, 4–M, 5–M and 6–M and the revision of applicable rules. The Commission has considered all of the comments and suggestions received, has adopted Form BD, has revised the applicable rules in the form stated below, and has rescinded Forms 3–M, 4–M, 5–M and 6–M (§§ 249.503, 249.504, 249.505 and 249.506).

This action was taken by the Commission in connection with its comprehensive review of its rules, regulations, forms and procedures in order to eliminate duplication and to simplify its requirements wherever practicable without prejudice to the public interest or the protection of investors.

Before the above action was taken the principal form of application for registration as a broker or dealer was Form 3–M. This was a 12-page application containing 27 items and requesting a considerable amount of information in addition to that required to determine whether the registrant was eligible for registration under the provisions of section 15 (b) of the act.

Form BD, a 4-page form, contains only 9 items limited to the information necessary to determine whether or not the registrant, or any person controlling or controlled by the registrant, is subject to a disqualification within the meaning of section 15 (b) of the act.

The ways in which Form BD is to be used. Form BD (§ 249.501) is to be used for the following purposes:

1. As an application for registration of a broker-dealer. Where the application is filed by the broker-dealer on it own behalf category A on page 1 of the form should be checked. The instructions under category A provide that if (1) the broker-dealer filing an application on its own behalf is a partnership succeeding to and continuing the business of another broker-dealer partnership registered when the application is filed and (2) the predecessor partnership has filed its application (or supplement) on Form BD—then the registrant need furnish only such information as is necessary to bring the information previously filed by the predecessor up to date. Form 4–M, a short form of registration, has been available in these situations, and these provisions in the instructions to Form BD make an even shorter form available in such situations.

Where the application is filed by the predecessor on behalf of a broker-dealer successor to be formed or organized category B on page 1 of the form should be checked. (Section 15 (b) of the act provides that an application for registration of a broker-dealer to be formed or organized may be filed by the predecessor, but that such registration shall terminate on the 45th day after the effective date unless prior thereto the successor adopts the application as its own in accordance with such rules and regulations as the Commission may prescribe. Rule X–15B–3, the applicable rule, is set out below.)

2. To amend an application for registration. When the form is used for this purpose category C should be checked. The instructions specifically state that when the form is used for this purpose only the corrected information should be furnished.

3. As a supplement to an application for registration filed on any other form. There are approximately 4,000 registered broker-dealers, most of whom have furnished the information required by Form 3–M. Under applicable rules this information had to be kept current by amendment. In order that a broker or dealer registered, or having an application pending, on March 1, 1954, will be subject to the same simplified requirements with respect to amendments as a broker or dealer who files his application on the new Form BD, the revised Rule X–15B–3 provides that each broker or dealer whose application has been filed on any form other than Form BD shall file, as a "supplement" to such application, the information required by Form BD, so that thereafter amendments need be filed to keep current only the information in Form BD. This supplement may be filed any time on or before September 1, 1954, except that if any information in the old application becomes inaccurate before the expiration of this period the supplement should be filed at that time. This last provision is to make certain that important information is not withheld for six months. Once a broker-dealer has filed such a supplement, he will be relieved of the burden of amending many items of information in his old application; thereafter he need keep current only the limited information in Form BD.

As mentioned above, Forms 3–M, 4–M, 5–M and 6–M have been rescinded. Form 5–M was the form to be used by a broker-dealer in adopting as its own an application for registration previously filed on its behalf by a predecessor. Under the revised rules the required "adoption" will not have to be filed on any specific form; a letter submitted by the successor firm adopting the application filed by a predecessor will be adequate. In this connection, it should be noted that Rule X–15B–3 provides that any statement adopting such an application shall constitute a representation to the Commission that the information contained in the application and in any supplement and amendments thereto, is true and correct.

The amendments to Rule X–15B–1, X–15B–2, and X–15B–3 will be understood from the preceding discussion.

The amendment to Rule X–15B–4 has expanded the scope of the rule. The old rule provided temporary registration for a successor partnership continuing the business of a predecessor partnership. This rule was found to be inadequate in some situations. Under paragraph (a) of the amended rule any broker or dealer which becomes the successor to and continues the business of another registered broker-dealer has temporary registration for 60 days after such succession if an application for registration on Form BD is filed within 30 days after such succession. Paragraph (b) of this rule is intended to take care of the following situations: Sometimes it is difficult to determine under applicable local law whether the death, withdrawal or admission of a partner, or a change in the terms of the partnership agreement, effects a dissolution of the old partnership; or sometimes a change of partners effects a dissolution but the firm inadvertently files an amendment to report the change when it should file a new application. Under paragraph (b) of Rule X–15B–4 if Form BD is filed to reflect the change in the partnership and to furnish the information required concerning any new partners the firm will have the same protection whether the form is designated as an amendment or as an application.

Rule X–15B–5 has been amended only to reflect the adoption of Form BD. Rules X–15B–6 and X–15B–7 have not been amended. Paragraph (a) of Rule X–15B–8, which required the filing of a financial statement by a broker-dealer filing an application for registration on Form 3–M, has been amended to conform its requirements to the adoption of the new Form BD, and to provide that where a statement of financial condition is required it should be filed in duplicate. Paragraph (c) of the old rule, which was intended to cover applications pending at the time the old rule was adopted, has been deleted because it is no longer necessary. The statement of financial condition provided for in Rule X–15B–8 is not required to be filed when Form BD is used as an "amendment" or "supplement".

Statutory basis. Rules X–15B–1, X–15B–2, X–15B–3, X–15B–4, X–15B–5, and X–15B–8 are amended as stated below, Form BD is adopted, and Forms 3–M, 4–M, 5–M and 6–M are rescinded pursuant to the provisions of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, particularly sections 15 (b), 17 (a) and 23 (a) thereof, the Commission deeming such action necessary and appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors, and necessary for the execution of the functions vested in it under the act. In accordance with the provisions of section 4 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act the Commission finds that the above action has the effect of granting exemption and removing restrictions and that therefore said action may be made effective before the expiration of 30 days after its publication.

§ 240.15b–1 Application for registration of broker or dealer. An application for registration of a broker or dealer filed pursuant to section 15 (b) shall be filed on Form BD (§ 249.501 of this chapter) in accordance with the instructions contained therein.

§ 240.15b–2 Supplements and amendments to applications. (a) Every broker or dealer whose application for registration is effective on March 1, 1954, or is pending on that date, shall file a supplement to such application on Form BD not later than September 1, 1954: Provided, however, That if any information in such application is or becomes inaccurate for any reason prior to September 1, 1954, such supplement shall be filed when such information is or becomes inaccurate.

(b) If the information contained in any application for registration of a broker or dealer, or in any supplement or amendment thereto, is or becomes inaccurate for any reason, such broker or dealer shall promptly file an amendment on Form BD correcting such information: Provided, however, That if the application for registration was filed on any form other than Form BD and the supplement required by paragraph (a) of this section has been filed, amendments need be filed only to keep current the information in the supplement.

(c) Every supplement and amendment filed pursuant to this section shall constitute, within the meaning of section 15 (b) of the act, a "document supplemental" to the application which it supplements or amends.

§ 240.15b–3 Adoption of application filed by predecessor. Registration of a broker or dealer pursuant to an application filed on behalf of such broker or dealer by a predecessor shall terminate on the 45th day after the effective date thereof unless the successor shall adopt the application as its own by filing a statement adopting such application on or before such date. Any statement adopting such an application shall constitute a representation to the Commission that the information contained in such application, and in the supplements and amendments thereto, is true and correct.

§ 240.15b–4 Registration of successor to registered broker or dealer. (a) In the event that a broker or dealer succeeds to and continues the business of another registered broker or dealer, the registration of the predecessor shall be deemed to remain effective as the registration of the successor for a period of 60 days after such succession, provided that an application for registration on Form BD is filed by such successor within 30 days after such succession.

(b) A Form BD, filed by a broker or dealer partnership which is not registered when such form is filed and which succeeds to and continues the business of a predecessor partnership registered as a broker or dealer, shall be deemed to be an application for registration, even though designated as an amendment, if it is filed to reflect the changes in the partnership and to furnish required information concerning any new partners.

§ 240.15b–5 Registration of fiduciaries. The registration of a broker or dealer shall be deemed to be the registration of any executor, administrator, guardian, conservator, assignee for the benefit of creditors, receiver, trustee in insolvency or bankruptcy, or other fiduciary, appointed or qualified by order, judgment, or decree of a court of competent jurisdiction to continue the business of such registered broker or dealer: Provided, That such fiduciary files with the Commission, within 30 days after entering upon the performance of his duties, a statement setting forth as to such fiduciary substantially the information required by Form BD.

§ 240.15b–8 Statement of financial condition to be filed with application for registration as a broker or dealer. (a) Every broker or dealer who files an application for registration on Form BD shall file with such application, in duplicate original, a statement of financial condition in such detail as will disclose the nature and amount of assets and liabilities and the net worth of such broker or dealer (securities of such broker or dealer or in which such broker or dealer has an interest shall be listed in a separate schedule and valued at the market) as of a date within 30 days of the date on which such statement is filed: Provided, however, That this requirement shall not apply to a partnership succeeding to and continuing the business of another partnership registered as a broker or dealer at the time of such succession. Attached to such statement shall be an oath or affirmation that such statement is true and correct to the best knowledge and belief of the person making such oath or affirmation. The oath or affirmation shall be made before a person duly authorized to administer such oath or affirmation. If the broker or dealer is a sole proprietorship, the oath or affirmation shall be made by the proprietor; if a partnership, by a general partner; if a corporation, by a duly authorized officer.

(b) The schedule of securities furnished as a part of such statement of financial condition shall be deemed confidential if bound separately from the balance of such statement, except that it shall be available for official use by any official or employee of the United States or any state, by national securities exchanges and national securities associations of which the person filing such statement is a member, and by any other person to whom the Commission authorizes disclosure of such information as being in the public interest. Nothing contained in this paragraph shall be deemed to be in derogation of the rules of any national securities association or national securities exchange which give to customers of a member, broker or dealer the right, upon request to such member, broker or dealer, to obtain information relative to his financial condition.

(c) The statement of financial condition required by this section shall constitute a "document supplemental" to such application for registration within the meaning of section 15 (b) of the act.

The foregoing action shall be effective March 1, 1954: Provided, however, That any application for registration as a broker or dealer filed between February 15 and March 1, 1954 may, at the option of the registrant, be filed on Form BD.

TITLE 19—CUSTOMS DUTIES

Chapter I—Bureau of Customs, Department of the Treasury

[T. D. 53435]

PART 3—DOCUMENTATION OF VESSELS

DESIGNATION OF CERTAIN PERSONS FOR PURPOSE OF ISSUING PROVISIONAL CERTIFICATES OF REGISTRY

In view of the fact that on May 15, 1952, the President of the United States in Executive Order No. 10351 (17 F. R. 4517) designated certain persons for the purpose of issuing provisional certificates of registry to certain vessels abroad and at the same time revoked Executive Order No. 2164 of April 7, 1915, the previous designation of the Governor of Guam to perform the function has been terminated.

Accordingly, footnote 4, § 3.3 (a), Customs Regulations, as amended (19 CFR 3.3 (a)), is further amended to read as follows:

"The captains of the ports of Cristobal and Balboa, Canal Zone, were designated by Executive Order No. 10351, dated May 15, 1952 (17 F. R. 4517).

(R. S. 161, secs. 2, 3, 23 Stat. 118, as amended, 119, as amended, sec. 1, 38 Stat. 1193, as amended; 5 U. S. C. 22, 46 U. S. C. 2, 3, 12.)

It is noted that the footnote before amendment erroneously cited the date of the previous Executive Order as April 17, 1915, instead of April 7, 1915.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Agricultural Marketing Service

[7 CFR Part 907]

[Docket No. AO-212-A6]

HANDLING OF MILK IN MILWAUKEE, WISCONSIN, MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND PROPOSED ORDER AMENDING ORDER NOW IN EFFECT REGULATING HANDLING

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, on February 9, 1954, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on February 1, 1954 (19 F. R. 652).

The material issues of record related to:

(1) Whether the automatic supply-demand price adjustment should be limited to not exceed a certain amount.

(2) The need for immediate change in the order provisions with respect to issue No. 1.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the material issues are based upon evidence contained in the record of the hearing.

(1) Downward supply-demand adjustments should be limited to 24 cents per hundredweight for the period March through August, 1954.

A proposal to limit to 24 cents per hundredweight the amount the supply-demand adjustment may add to or subtract from the Class I price differential, was made by producer organizations in the market. Under the terms of the order, the Class II differential is adjusted by the same amount as the Class I differential.

Producer representatives testified that such a limitation of the supply-demand adjustment is necessary to prevent reduction of the class price differentials to a level which does not compensate producers for the extra investment and expense necessary to produce Grade A milk. It was also pointed out that the inter-relationship between this market and the Chicago market has been recognized under the order through the use of similar price formulas.

Adjustments of the Class I and Class II price differentials are made on the basis of a "supply-demand ratio" which is identical with the corresponding calculation under the Chicago order. These price adjustments are based on the percentage relationship of utilization of Grade A milk in Class I and Class II (excluding frozen and plastic cream moving into storage) under the Chicago order, to total receipts of Grade A milk from producers under such order, both during the most recent 12-month period.

The Milwaukee marketing area is located within the Chicago milkshed, and Milwaukee producers are interspersed with producers for the Chicago market. Price formulas in the Milwaukee order are constructed to maintain an alignment with prices under the Chicago order. The record indicates that such a relationship should be continued insofar as it is affected by the supply-demand adjustment, for the period of the amendment herein proposed.

In this procedure, which omits the recommended decision and opportunity to file exceptions thereto, the proposed amendment is limited to the period of March through August, 1954. It is unlikely that there would be any need for the proposed upper limit on the supply-demand adjustment during the effective period of the amendment.

(2) The due and timely execution of the function of the Secretary under the act imperatively and unavoidably requires the omission of a recommended decision by the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, and the opportunity for exceptions thereto.

The conditions complained of are such that it is urgent that remedial action be taken not later than March 1, 1954. In accordance with the findings and conclusions under issue No. 1, it is necessary to make the proposed amendment effective at the same time as a similar amendment to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Chicago, Illinois, marketing area. Delay beyond the minimum time required to make the attached order effective would defeat the purpose of such amendment. The time necessarily involved in the preparation, filing, and publication of a recommended decision, and exceptions thereto, would reduce the effectiveness of such relief and would tend to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act. The omission of the recommended decision and filing of exceptions thereto was requested by producers on the record and no objection was entered.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest;

(c) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and are applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in the said marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Determination of representative period. The month of December 1953 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of the order amending the order, now in effect, regulating the handling of milk in the Milwaukee, Wisconsin, marketing area, in the manner set forth in the attached amending order is approved or favored by producers who, during such period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in such marketing order.

Marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Marketing Area," and "Order Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 18th day of February 1954.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Marketing Area

§ 907.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Milwaukee, Wisconsin, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity, specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Milwaukee, Wisconsin, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, as follows:

1. In § 907.51 (a) change the period at the end of the sentence to a comma and add the following: "but such decrease based on the supply-demand ratio shall not exceed 24 cents for the months of March through August, 1954."

[1] This order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

[Docket No. AO 245-A1]

NAVEL ORANGES GROWN IN ARIZONA AND DESIGNATED PART OF CALIFORNIA

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER REGULATING HANDLING

Pursuant to the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900; 19 F. R. 57), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of the recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to proposed amendments to Marketing Agreement No. 117, and Order No. 14 (7 CFR Part 914; 18 F. R. 5638), hereinafter referred to as "marketing agreement" and "order," respectively, regulating the handling of navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California, to be made effective pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), hereinafter referred to as the "act." Interested parties may file written exceptions to this recommended decision with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Room 1353, South Building, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business on the fifteenth day after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The public hearing, on the record of which the proposed amendments to the marketing agreement and order are formulated, was initiated by the Production and Marketing Administration as a result of proposals received from the Navel Orange Administrative Committee, established pursuant to the marketing agreement and order as the agency to administer the terms and provisions thereof. In accordance with the applicable provisions of the aforesaid rules of practice and procedure, a notice that a public hearing would be held in Los Angeles, California, beginning on December 9, 1953, to consider the proposed amendments was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (18 F. R. 7539) on November 26, 1953.

Material issues. The material issues presented on the record of the hearing were concerned with amending the marketing agreement and order to:

(1) Change the representation on the Navel Orange Administrative Committee to reflect recent organizational changes within the industry; and to provide a method for changing the representation on the committee to reflect future organizational changes;

(2) Provide that, in the nomination of members and alternate members to serve on the Navel Orange Administrative Committee, only one nominee shall be required to be submitted for each such position to be filled, and that the Secretary be authorized to select such members and alternate members from among such nominees or other qualified persons; and

(3) Revise the requirements relating to the establishment of the prorate bases of handlers so as to provide for such establishment by the Navel Orange Administrative Committee.

Findings and conclusions. The findings and conclusions on the material issues, all of which are based upon the evidence adduced at the hearing and the record thereof, are as follows:

(1) Under the current provisions of the marketing agreement and order, three grower and two handler members of the Navel Orange Administrative Committee represent a cooperative marketing organization handling in excess of 50 percent of the total volume of navel oranges; one grower member and one handler member represent all other cooperative marketing organizations handling navel oranges; and two grower members and one handler member represent the growers of navel oranges who are not affiliated with cooperative marketing organizations. Such representation was designed to reflect the organizational structure of the industry at the time the marketing agreement and order were made effective. Recently, the largest individual handler not a cooperative marketing organization was purchased by such a cooperative; and an increased proportion of the navel orange crop thus is now being handled by cooperative marketing organizations. The marketing agreement and order should be amended, therefore, as hereinafter set forth, so as to provide representation on the committee which will reflect the current marketing affiliations of the growers and handlers of navel oranges. Moreover, as it may be necessary, from time to time, to reapportion the membership of the committee to reflect further changes in the relative magnitude of the marketing organizations handling navel oranges, the committee should be authorized to reapportion, with the approval of the Secretary, the number of producer and handler members to represent each marketing group. Such reapportionment should be based, insofar as practicable, upon the proportionate amount of navel oranges handled by the respective marketing organizations. However, any reapportionment of the committee membership should not be such that any marketing group would be deprived of representation on the committee by at least one grower and one handler member.

(2) The current provisions of the marketing agreement and order require that, in the nomination of grower and handler members of the committee and their alternates, two nominees shall be elected for each position to be filled. The intent of such provisions was to provide the Secretary with a choice in selecting the membership of the committee. Experience in operating the program has shown, however, that this provision has not always been understood and, notwithstanding the program provisions, grower groups in some instances have elected only one nominee for each position. The evidence of record indicates it would eliminate confusion if the marketing agreement and order provisions required only one nominee for each member or alternate member position on the committee and authorized the Secretary to select members and alternates from such nominees or other qualified persons; and it is concluded that the marketing agreement and order should be amended accordingly.

(3) The provisions of the marketing agreement and order relating to the establishment of the prorate bases of handlers should be amended, as hereinafter set forth, so as to provide for such establishment by the committee. At the present time, the prorate base of each handler is fixed by the Secretary, when volume regulation is made effective, in accordance with information compiled, and furnished, by the committee showing the quantity of oranges such handler has available for current shipment as of Thursday of the immediately preceding week. The relationship between such quantity and the total oranges available for current shipment determines such handler's proportionate share of the limited quantity of oranges which may be shipped during the week beginning nine days following such Thursday. Adjustments subsequently are made in the prorate base of each handler to offset any change in such handler's oranges available for current shipment between the time such prorate base is computed and the time when it is applicable so that the total allotment of each handler is not affected by such changes. It would be desirable, however, and would contribute to the efficient administration of the program, if the prorate bases could be computed at a time nearer that when it is used by the committee to calculate the allotments of handlers for a particular week. This could be accomplished by authorizing the committee to fix the prorate base of handlers since about one-half of the period, between the time when the information on which the prorate base schedule is based is assembled and the time when the allotments of handlers are computed, is used in the transmission of the information to the Secretary. The fixing of the prorate bases of handlers by the committee rather than the Secretary will not affect the total allotment of each handler as such prorate bases are derived from a mathematical calculation which is prescribed in the provisions of the marketing agreement and order.

General findings. (1) The marketing agreement as hereby proposed to be amended, and the order as hereby proposed to be amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The marketing agreement as hereby proposed to be amended, and the order as hereby proposed to be amended, regulate the handling of Navel oranges grown in the production area in the same manner as, and are applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, the marketing agreement upon which hearings have been held;

(3) The marketing agreement as hereby proposed to be amended, and the order as hereby proposed to be amended, are limited in their application to the smallest regional production area that is practicable, consistently with carrying out the declared policy of the act; and the issuance of several orders applicable to subdivisions of such regional production area would not effectively carry out the declared policy of the act;

(4) The marketing agreement as hereby proposed to be amended, and the order as hereby proposed to be amended, prescribe such different terms, applicable to different parts of the production area, as are necessary to give due recognition to differences in the production and marketing of the oranges covered thereby; and

(5) All handling of Navel oranges grown in the production area is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, or directly burdens, obstructs, or affects such commerce.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. December 17, 1953, was fixed as the latest date for the filing of briefs with respect to the facts presented in evidence at the hearing and the conclusions which should be drawn therefrom. No such documents were filed within the prescribed time.

Recommended amendments to the marketing agreement and order. The following amendments to the marketing agreement and order are recommended as the detailed means by which the aforesaid conclusions may be carried out:

1. Delete the first sentence in § 914.20 Establishment and memberships and insert, in lieu thereof, the following: "There is hereby established a Navel Orange Administrative Committee consisting of eleven members; for each of whom there shall be an alternate member who shall have the same qualifications as the member for whom each is an alternate."

2. Revise the provisions of § 914.22 Nominations so that such section shall read as follows:

§ 914.22 Nominations. (a) The time and manner of nominating members and alternate members of the committee shall be prescribed by the Secretary.

(b) Any cooperative marketing organization, or the growers affiliated therewith, which handled more than 50 percent of the total volume of oranges during the fiscal year in which nominations for members and alternate members of the committee are submitted shall nominate three grower members, three alternate grower members, two handler members, and two alternate handler members of the committee.

(c) All cooperative marketing organizations which market oranges and which are not qualified under paragraph (b) of this section, or the growers affiliated therewith, shall nominate two grower members, two alternate grower members, one handler member, and one alternate handler member.

(d) All growers who are not affiliated with a cooperative marketing organization which markets oranges shall nominate one grower member, one alternate grower member, one handler member, and one alternate handler member.

(e) When voting for nominees, each grower shall be entitled to cast one vote which shall be cast on behalf of himself, his agents, subsidiaries, affiliates, and representatives. The votes of cooperative marketing organizations voting pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section shall be weighted in accordance with the volume of oranges handled during the fiscal year in which such nominations are made.

(f) The members of the committee selected by the Secretary pursuant to § 914.23 shall meet on a date designated by the Secretary and, by a concurring vote of at least six members, shall nominate a member and an alternate member of the committee, which persons shall not be growers or handlers, or employees, agents, or representatives of a grower or handler (other than a charitable or educational institution which is a grower or handler), or of a central marketing organization.

3. Revise the provisions of § 914.23 Selection so that such section shall read as follows:

§ 914.23 Selection. From the nominations made pursuant to § 914.22 (b) or from other qualified growers and handlers, the Secretary shall select three grower members of the committee and an alternate to each of such grower members; also two handler members of the committee and an alternate to each of such handler members. From the nominations made pursuant to § 914.22 (c) or from other qualified growers and handlers, the Secretary shall select two grower members of the committee and an alternate to each of such grower members; also one handler member of the committee and an alternate to such handler member. From the nominations made pursuant to § 914.22 (d) or from other qualified growers and handlers, the Secretary shall select one grower member of the committee and an alternate to such grower member; also one handler member of the committee and an alternate to such handler member. From the nominations made pursuant to § 914.22 (f) or from other qualified persons, the Secretary shall select one member of the committee and an alternate to such member.

4. Immediately preceding the period at the end of the first sentence in § 914.26 Vacancies insert the following: "or from other qualified persons".

5. Delete the word "and" appearing at the end of paragraph (l) of § 914.29 Duties and insert the word "and" at the end of paragraph (m) of such section.

6. Add after paragraph (m) of § 914.29 a new paragraph (n) as follows:

(n) with the approval of the Secretary, to reapportion the number of grower members or handler members on the Navel Orange Administrative Committee who are nominated pursuant to paragraphs (c) and (d) of § 914.22. Any such reapportionment shall be based, insofar as practicable, upon the proportionate amount of Navel oranges handled by the respective types of marketing organizations: Provided, That each of the grower groups described in paragraphs (c) and (d) of § 914.22 shall be entitled to nominate at least one grower member and one handler member together with their respective alternates.

7. Delete paragraph (g) in § 914.53 Prorate bases and insert, in lieu thereof, the following:

(g) Each week during the marketing season when volume regulation is likely to be recommended, the committee shall compute, with respect to each prorate district, the total quantity of oranges available for current shipment by each person who has applied for a prorate base and for allotments. On the basis of such computation, the committee shall fix a prorate base for each person who is entitled thereto. Such prorate base shall represent the ratio between the total quantity of oranges available for current shipment in the particular prorate district by each applicant and the total quantity of oranges available for current shipment in such district by all such applicants. The committee shall notify the Secretary of the prorate base fixed for each person and shall notify each such person of the prorate base fixed for him.

8. Delete paragraph (h) in § 914.53.

9. Delete § 914.54 Allotments and insert, in lieu thereof, the following:

§ 914.54 Allotments. Whenever the Secretary has fixed the quantity of oranges which may be handled during any week in a prorate district, the committee shall calculate the quantity of oranges which may be handled by each such person during such week. The said quantity shall be the allotment of such person and shall be in an amount equivalent to the product of the prorate base of such person and the total quantity of oranges grown in such prorate district and fixed by the Secretary as the total quantity of oranges which may be handled during such week. The committee shall give reasonable notice to each person of the allotment computed for him pursuant to this part.

MILK IN CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, AND SOUTH BEND-LA PORTE, INDIANA, MARKETING AREAS

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENTS AND PROPOSED ORDERS AMENDING ORDERS IN EFFECT REGULATING HANDLING

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Chicago, Illinois, on February 8, 1954, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on February 1, 1954 (19 F. R. 653). This was a joint hearing on proposals to amend the orders regulating the handling of milk in the Chicago, Illinois, and the South Bend-La Porte, Indiana, marketing areas.

The material issues of record related to:

(1) Whether the automatic supply-demand price adjustments should be limited to not exceed a certain amount.

(2) The need for immediate change in the order provisions with respect to Issue No. 1.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the material issues are based upon evidence contained in the record of the hearing.

(1) Downward supply-demand price adjustments should be limited to 24 cents per hundredweight under the two orders for the period March through August 1954.

Producer and handler organizations in the Chicago market supported the use of some specific figure as the maximum amount the supply-demand adjustment could add to or subtract from the Class I and Class II price differentials. Currently the amount of adjustment is a deduction of 24 cents per hundredweight (effective in January and February 1954).

This method of adjusting the Class I and Class II prices in the Chicago order is based on the relationship of utilization of Grade A milk in Class I and Class II (excluding frozen and plastic cream moving into storage) to total receipts of Grade A milk from producers, both during the most recent 12-month period. As receipts have increased in the past two years, the percentage utilized in Class I and Class II has declined, although there has been some increase in the total of Class I and Class II sales. As a result, the supply-demand adjustment has changed from a 15-cent addition to the price differentials to a 24-cent subtraction therefrom.

Some further change of the supply-demand adjustment, in the downward direction, may be expected this year if milk production follows the usual seasonal pattern. For February, the supply-demand ratio would have resulted in a downward adjustment of 27 cents, but a suspension order dated January 29, 1954, prevented this change from the previous month.

If the adjustment is prevented from exceeding a deduction of 24 cents, the March Class I and Class II differentials will be 56 cents and 26 cents, respectively, and for both May and June, 36 cents and 16 cents, respectively. The price differentials, which are added to the basic formula price to arrive at the Class I and Class II prices, represent a compensation to producers for the additional facilities, equipment, and care needed to qualify for the fluid market as compared to requirements for producing milk for manufacturing purposes. The effect upon the uniform price of these reduced differentials, and the relatively large percentage of utilization in the lower classes, has been to eliminate, in the more distant parts of the milkshed, any substantial price advantage for delivering milk to a pool plant rather than to a manufacturing plant.

In December 1953, when the effective supply-demand adjustment was a minus 21 cents, the uniform price at the most distant plant from the market was less than the Class IV price. The condition will be more extensive as class price differentials are further reduced, either by the supply-demand adjustment, or by the regular seasonal change. Such a condition follows the pattern of prices which may occur in a market at times of over-supply. As production increases throughout a milkshed, it becomes more economical for the market to obtain its fluid supply from a smaller area, and the more distant producers tend to be increasingly at a disadvantage in getting their milk to market for fluid use.

It appears, however, that further reductions of the price differentials by the supply-demand adjustment would be at this time not conducive to orderly marketing conditions. If the action of the supply-demand adjustment were not limited, it appears likely that the annual average return to some producers whose milk is needed for the market, would be reduced to the extent that there would be little incentive to deliver to a fluid milk plant rather than a manufacturing plant.

In this procedure, which omits the recommended decision and opportunity to file exceptions thereto, the proposed amendment is limited to the period of March through August 1954. It is expected that a further hearing will provide opportunity for consideration of this matter with respect to subsequent periods. It is unlikely there would be any need for the proposed upper limit on the supply-demand adjustment during the effective period of the amendment.

It was proposed that the order for the South Bend-La Porte marketing area be amended in the same manner so as to maintain the present price relationship between the two markets. The South Bend-La Porte order contains a supply-demand price adjustment identical with the adjustment under the Chicago order. It is calculated from the data on receipts and utilization under the Chicago order. The record indicates that this relationship between the two markets should be continued, and accordingly a similar limitation should apply to the supply-demand adjustment under the South Bend-La Porte order.

(2) The due and timely execution of the function of the Secretary under the act imperatively and unavoidably requires the omission of a recommended decision by the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, and the opportunity for exceptions thereto.

The conditions complained of are such that it is urgent that remedial action be taken not later than March 1, 1954. Delay beyond the minimum time required to make the attached amending order effective would defeat the purpose of such amendment. The time necessarily involved in the preparation, filing, and publication of a recommended decision, and exceptions thereto, would reduce the effectiveness of such relief and would tend to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act. The omission of the recommended decision and filing of exceptions thereto was requested by producers on the record, and no objection was entered.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreements and the orders as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the marketing areas, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreements and in the orders, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed marketing agreements and the orders, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity, specified in the marketing agreements upon which a hearing has been held.

Determination of representative period. The month of December 1953 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of the orders amending the orders, now in effect, regulating the handling of milk in the Chicago, Illinois, and the South Bend-La Porte, Indiana, marketing areas, in the manner set forth in the attached amending orders are approved or favored by producers who, during such period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing areas specified in such marketing orders.

Marketing agreements and orders. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Chicago, Illinois, Marketing Area," "Order Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Chicago, Illinois, Marketing Area," "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the South Bend-La Porte, Indiana, Marketing Area," and "Order Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the South Bend-La Porte, Indiana, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision except the attached marketing agreements, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreements are identical with those contained in the respective orders, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended by the attached orders which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 18th day of February 1954.

[SEAL] JOHN H. DAVIS,
Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Chicago, Illinois, Marketing Area

§ 941.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendment thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Chicago, Illinois marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Chicago, Illinois, marketing area shall be in conformity to and compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and the aforesaid order, as amended, is hereby further amended as follows:

1. In § 941.52 (a) (1) change the period at the end of the sentence to a comma and add the following: "but such decrease based on the supply-demand ratio shall not be more than 24 cents for the months of March through August 1954."

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. [49 CFR Part 1]

SPECIAL RULES GOVERNING NOTICE OF FILING OF APPLICATIONS BY MOTOR CARRIERS OF PASSENGERS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

FEBRUARY 1, 1954.

Pursuant to section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237, 5 U. S. C. 1003) notice is hereby given of the proposed establishment under sections 17 (3), 205 (e), 206, 209, 210a (b), and 211 of the following special rules, supplementing and amending the Commission's general rules of practice governing notice of the filing by motor carriers of passengers of applications under sections 5 (2), 206, 209, 210a (b), and 211 of the Interstate Commerce Act and certain other procedural matters with respect thereto. The proposed special rules are as follows:

RULE 1. Scope of special rules. These special rules govern the filing and handling of (a) applications under Section 5 (2) of the Interstate Commerce Act respecting control, lease, and unification of operating rights and properties of motor carriers of passengers, (b) applications for certificates, permits, and licenses respecting the transportation of passengers under sections 206, 209, and 211 of the act, and (c) applications for temporary authority respecting the transportation of passengers, under section 210a (b) of the act. Amendments to applications which broaden the scope of proposed operations are deemed to be "applications" for the purpose of these rules. Such amendments will not be allowed if tendered after an application has been assigned for oral hearing.

RULE 2. Notice to interested persons. Notice of the filing of such applications to interested persons shall be given by the publication of a summary of the authority sought in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Such summaries will be prepared by the Commission. No other notice by applicants to interested persons is required, except that applicants are not relieved from the obligation to file copies of applications with Governors, State Boards, and District Directors of the Commission's Bureau of Motor Carriers as required by the instructions which are a part of the prescribed form of application.

RULE 3. Protests and requests for hearing. (a) Protests to the granting of an application shall be filed with the Commission within 30 days after the date notice of the filing of the application is published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(b) Failure seasonably to file a protest will be construed as a waiver of opposition and participation in the proceeding unless an oral hearing is held.

(c) In addition to other requirements of Rule 40 of the general rules of practice, protests shall include a request for a public hearing, if one is desired, and shall specify with particularity the facts, matters, and things relied upon, but shall not include issues or allegations phrased generally. Protests containing general allegations may be rejected.

(d) Any request for an oral hearing shall be supported by an explanation as to why the evidence to be presented cannot reasonably be submitted in the form of affidavits. The Commission will determine whether or not assignment of the application for oral hearing is necessary or desirable.

(e) Any interested person, not a protestant, desiring to receive notice of the time and place of any hearing, prehearing conference, taking of depositions, or other proceedings shall notify the Commission by letter or telegram within 30 days from the date of publication of the notice of the filing of the application.

(f) Except when circumstances require immediate action, an application for approval under section 210a (b) of the act of the temporary operation of motor carrier properties sought to be acquired in an application under section 5 (2) will not be disposed of sooner than 10 days from the date of publication of the notice of the filing of the application. If a protest is received prior to action being taken, it will be considered.

No oral hearing on the proposed rules is contemplated, but anyone wishing to make representations in favor of or against the proposed rules may do so by the submission of written data, views, or arguments. An original and fourteen copies of such data, views, or arguments shall be filed with the Commission at its office in Washington, D. C., on or before March 27, 1954.

Notice to the general public shall be given by depositing a copy hereof in the Office of the Secretary of the Commission for public inspection and by filing a copy with the Director, Division of the Federal Register.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

No applications for these lands may be allowed under the homestead, small tract, desert-land or any other non-mineral public-land laws unless the lands have already been classified as valuable or suitable for such type of application, or shall be so classified upon consideration of an application. Most of the lands are rough and mountainous and not suitable for cultivation. However, the lands in T. 1 N., Rs. 7, 8, 9 W.; T. 2 N., R. 14 W.; T. 3 N., Rs. 6, 7 W.; T. 4 N., R. 4 W.; T. 5 N., Rs., 2, 5 W.; T. 2 S., R. 7 W.; T. 4 S., Rs. 1, 12 W; T. 6 S., R. 7 W.; and T. 7 S., R. 1 E., are in areas where interest has been shown in development of lands for agricultural purposes. Each application filed on lands described in this order will be considered on its merits.

This order shall not otherwise become effective to change the status of such lands until 10:00 a. m. on the 35th day after the date of this order. At that time the said lands shall, subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, become subject to application, petition, location, and selection as follows:

(a) Ninety-one day period for preference-right filings. For a period of 91 days, commencing at the hour and on the day specified above, the public lands affected by this order shall be subject only to (1) application under the homestead or the desert-land laws or the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938, 52 Stat. 609 (43 U. S. C. 682a), as amended, by qualified veterans of World War II and other qualified persons entitled to preference under the act of September 27, 1944, 58 Stat. 747 (43 U. S. C. 279–284), as amended, subject to the requirements of applicable law, and (2) application under any applicable public-land law, based on prior existing valid settlement rights and preference rights conferred by existing laws or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation. Applications under subdivision (1) of this paragraph shall be subject to applications and claims of the classes described in subdivision (2) of this paragraph. All applications filed under this paragraph either at or before 10:00 a. m. on the 35th day after the date of this order shall be treated as though filed simultaneously at that time. All applications filed under this paragraph after 10:00 a. m. on the said 35th day shall be considered in the order of filing.

(b) Date for non-preference-right filings. Commencing at 10:00 a. m. on the 126th day after the date of this order, any lands remaining unappropriated shall become subject to such application, petition, location, selection, or other appropriation by the public generally as may be authorized by the public-land laws. All such applications filed either at or before 10:00 a. m. on the 126th day after the date of this order, shall be treated as though filed simultaneously at the hour specified on such 126th day. All applications filed thereafter shall be considered in the order of filing.

A veteran shall accompany his application with a complete photostatic, or other copy (both sides), of his certificate of honorable discharge, or of an official document of his branch of the service which shows clearly his honorable discharge as defined in § 181.36 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations, or constitutes evidence of other facts upon which the claim for preference is based and which shows clearly the period of service. Other persons claiming credit for service of veterans must furnish like proof in support of their claims. Persons asserting preference rights, through settlement or otherwise, and those having equitable claims, shall accompany their applications by duly corroborated statements in support thereof, setting forth in detail all facts relevant to their claims.

Applications for these lands, which shall be filed in the Land and Survey Office, Phoenix, Arizona, shall be acted upon in accordance with the regulations contained in § 295.8 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations and Part 296 of that title, to the extent that such regulations are applicable. CENTRAL PUBLIC UTILITY CORP.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER APPROVING POST EFFECTIVE AMENDMENT TO PLAN AND RELEASING JURISDICTION OVER PROCEDURE FOR SELECTION OF FORMER SUBSIDIARY'S BOARD OF DIRECTORS AND COMPOSITION THEREOF

FEBRUARY 17, 1954.

The Commission, by order dated December 4, 1953 (Holding Company Act Release No. 12236), having approved a plan, as amended, of Central Public Utility Corporation ("Cenpuc"), a registered holding company, filed pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"); said plan having proposed, among other things, that Cenpuc distribute to its stockholders, on a pro rata basis, the reclassified stock of its then only remaining domestic public-utility subsidiary company, Central Indiana Gas Company ("Central Indiana"), and that as soon as practicable and in any event within thirty days after the date of transfer of the Central Indiana stock to the distribution agent (December 28, 1953), Central Indiana's Board of Directors would be reconstituted in such manner as may be, and would be composed only of such persons who are, satisfactory to the Commission;

The Commission in its order dated December 4, 1953, having reserved jurisdiction over, among other things, all aspects of the procedure with respect to the selection of Central Indiana's reconstituted Board of Directors and the composition thereof;

In connection with the proceedings on said plan, Central Indiana having agreed that, without prior approval by this Commission, it will not have as an officer or director any person who is at the same time an officer or director of Cenpuc or any other company which is or has been in the Cenpuc holding company system;

Cenpuc having advised the Commission that the management, after conferring with a number of that company's largest stockholders, has proposed that the reconstituted Central Indiana Board be composed of the following individuals:

Christopher H. Coughlin, Jamaica, N. Y.
C. M. Cullison, Muncie, Ind.
J. Wilson Barber, Anderson, Ind.
Walter E. Burt, Muncie, Ind.
Kenneth P. Valentine, Indianapolis, Ind.
Harry L. Wells, Evanston, Ill.
Percival E. Jackson, Sea Cliff, N. Y.

Cenpuc having filed an application requesting (a) that Chistopher H. Coughlin, an officer and director of Cenpuc and certain of its subsidiaries, be approved as a member of the Central Indiana reconstituted Board, (b) that the jurisdiction heretofore reserved by the Commission with respect to the Central Indiana Board be released, and (c) that, if necessary, the Commission permit and approve the amendment of the plan so as to extend the time by which the reconstituted Board of Central Indiana is to take office to such date as shall be practicable after the Commission has released jurisdiction with respect to such Board;

Due notice having been given to the public and to Central Indiana's stockholders of the filing of said application, and the Commission having received only one request for a hearing, namely, from a Central Indiana stockholder, and the Commission having granted such request to the extent of affording such stockholder an opportunity to appear in person or by counsel before the Commission, which opportunity was not availed of by said stockholder;

It appearing to the Commission after considering the entire record including the written objections filed by said stockholder that it is appropriate to approve the proposed amendment to the plan extending the time period in which the reconstituted Board of Central Indiana shall take office, and to approve the plan, as thus further amended, and it further appearing to the Commission that it is appropriate to approve the selection of Christopher H. Coughlin as a member of the reconstituted Central Indiana Board and that no adverse findings are required in connection with the manner of selection or the composition of such Board and that the jurisdiction heretofore reserved with respect thereto should be released:

It is ordered, Pursuant to the applicable provisions of the act, that said plan, as further amended, and the selection of Christopher H. Coughlin as a director of the reconstituted Board of Central Indiana be, and the same hereby are, approved forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24 promulgated under the act.

It is further ordered, That the jurisdiction heretofore reserved with respect to the manner of selection and the composition of the reconstituted Board of Central Indiana be, and the same hereby is, released.

By the Commission.

NOTICE OF FILING REGARDING ISSUE AND SALE OF PROMISSORY NOTES TO BANKS

FEBRUARY 17, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that Berkshire Gas Company ("Berkshire"), a gas utility subsidiary of New England Electric System ("NEES"), a registered holding company, has filed a declaration pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), designating section 7 of the act and Rule U-42 (b) (2) promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions, which are summarized as follows:

Berkshire proposes to issue to banks, from time to time but not later than April 26, 1954, unsecured promissory notes in the aggregate principal amount of $680,000. Each of said notes will mature six months after its date of issuance, and will bear interest at the prime rate of interest at the time of issuance plus ¼ of 1 percent. It is stated that said prime interest rate at the present time is 3¼ percent per annum. The purpose of said borrowing is to repay notes payable to banks aggregating $680,000, bearing interest at 3½ percent per annum, the last of which is due April 26, 1954.

Berkshire's expenses in connection with the issuance of said notes are estimated at $500. It is stated that no State commission or Federal commission, other than this Commission, has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions.

It is requested that the Commission's order be made effective upon issuance.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than March 1, 1954, at 12:30 p. m., e. s. t., request in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law, if any, raised by said declaration which he desires to controvert; or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date said declaration, as filed or as amended, may be permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transaction as provided in Rule U-20 (a) and Rule U-100 thereof.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

PART 155—CERTIFIED PRODUCTS FOR DOGS, CATS, AND OTHER CARNIVORA; INSPECTION, CERTIFICATION, AND IDENTIFICATION AS TO CLASS, QUALITY, QUANTITY, AND CONDITION

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

On January 20, 1954, notice was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (18 F. R. 355) concerning the proposed amendment of the regulations governing the inspection, certification, and identification as to class, quality, quantity, and condition of foods for dogs, cats, and other carnivora (9 CFR Part 155, as amended) under sections 203 and 205 of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (7 U. S. C. 1622, 1624) and the item for Marketing Services in the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, 1954 (67 Stat. 205, 7 U. S. C. Supp. 414). After due consideration of all relevant matters presented pursuant to the notice and under the authorities cited above, said regulations are hereby amended as follows:

1. Section 155.2 (m) is amended to read as follows:

2. Section 155.2 is amended by adding thereto new paragraphs (n) and (o) to read, respectively, as follows:

(n) "Mule meat by-product" means the clean, sound, healthful, wholesome part, other than mule meat, derived from mules as determined by antemortem and postmortem inspection by an inspector in accordance with § 155.41.

4. Section 155.28 is amended by changing the first sentence therein to read as follows: "Subject to § 155.41, any certified products, or ingredients intended for use therein, which are decomposed or adulterated or otherwise unsound or unfit for use shall be condemned and destroyed, except that if the adulteration is such as will not preclude their legitimate use for some purpose other than the preparation of the certified products, they may be released by authorized inspectors for such other purpose for disposition under the supervision of the proper local, State, or Federal official."

5. Section 155.29 (b) is amended to read as follows:

TITLE 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 10830]

PART 1—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

RESCISSION OF CERTAIN ANNUAL REPORT REQUIREMENTS

In the matter of rescission of Statistical Circular No. 2, Annual Statistical Report for Small Communication Carriers (by Wire or Radio), and Statistical Circular No. 3 for Class C Telephone Carriers; corresponding revision of Part 1 of the Commission's rules; Docket No. 10830.

On December 30, 1953, the Commission adopted a notice of proposed rule making proposing to rescind Statistical Circular No. 2, prescribed as an annual report for miscellaneous classes of small communication carriers (telephone, telegraph, and radiotelegraph carriers having annual operating revenues not exceeding $50,000), and Statistical Circular No. 3, prescribed as an annual report for Class C telephone carriers (those having annual operating revenues exceeding $50,000 but not more than $100,000). That notice was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (19 F. R. 98) in accordance with section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act. The time for filing comments with the Commission has expired.

The Commission received comments from the Communications Workers of America, affiliated with the C. I. O. (hereinafter referred to as CWA-CIO), and from the United States Independent Telephone Association. The comments of the latter favor the rescission of Statistical Circular No. 2 and Statistical Circular No. 3 as proposed. The comments of CWA-CIO oppose the rescission of the aforementioned circulars. These comments are dealt with in detail in the following paragraphs.

CWA-CIO contend, if the proposed rule is adopted, that there will be no detailed financial data and no employee information available to the general public and to government regulatory agencies, the absence of which, it is alleged, will handicap CWA-CIO in collective bargaining, and that the Commission will have no reports to serve as a basis for regulating "interstate commerce and communications by wire."

The Commission does not subscribe to the belief that annual reports are essential in all cases to discharge its regulatory responsibilities, particularly when there are other and more satisfactory means of obtaining information from individual carriers when and if needed. This is recognized in the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which does not make the filing of annual reports mandatory. The statistical circulars under consideration provide very general financial data which have proved to be of only limited regulatory value. Furthermore, the net investment of over $2.5 million of the small respondent telephone companies referred to by CWA-CIO is insignificant in comparison with the total net investment of the entire non-Bell part of the industry of over one billion dollars, spread over several thousand companies of which less than 100 come under the accounting and reporting jurisdiction of this Commission.

CWA-CIO state that they are objecting on behalf of more than 300,000 telephone workers. It should be noted, however, that the total number of employees, including part-time employees, reported by respondent companies as of December 31, 1952, was 369, or an average of 10 persons per respondent. The Commission finds no need for a continuance of the reporting of employee data.

CWA-CIO also requested hearings on the proposed rescission of the circulars, as a means of presenting oral argument. In view of the conclusions reached in the foregoing paragraphs it is not believed that the holding of oral argument is warranted.

It is ordered, therefore, That Statistical Circular No. 2 and Statistical Circular No. 3 are rescinded effective with the 1953 reporting year.

It is further ordered, That § 1.544 (a) of the Commission's rules and regulations is amended as follows, effective immediately: Delete subparagraphs (6) and (7) and change the number designation of present subparagraph (8) to (6).

(Sec. 4, 48 Stat. 1066 as amended; 47 U. S. C. 154)

Adopted: February 17, 1954.

Released: February 19, 1954.
